DEATH LIST MAY BE LESS THAN SEVENTY

Relief Expedition in Burned Area Finds Roll of Casualties Dwindling--Several Reported Dead are Alive.

Porcupine, July 18.—The death list goes down this morning, not up, although it is feared that three missing men at the Powell mine are dead. Two prospectors in Shaw have not been located and they may have left the country by way of Night Hawk Lake. The names of Mike Johnson, who committed suicide at Night Hawk Lake Saturday, W. H. Wilson, and a foreigner called Diepo are reported dead from New Liskeard hospital. Wilson was burned at South Porcupine, and Diepo at the Dome. They had already been counted. The name of John Taylor of Toronto should be struck off the list.

The missing list dwindles as men return from the outside. No dead bodies have been found as far out as Flying Post. Prospectors returning from the south report fires, but no loss of life. Not a body has come to the surface of Porcupine Lake since Thursday, and as dead horses came up on Sunday, it is believed there are no more dead in the lake. The water is very warm and explosives have been used. The total drowned are: Porcupine Lake 7, Pearl Lake 1.

Stories from refugees who left the camp early, that the roads are strewn with bodies are mere exaggerations. The relief committee is composed of reliable men, and as no money has yet been received by them, nothing could have been misused as stated on the outside in another wild rumor. A carload of food, tents and clothing came Sunday night, and the committee have the homeless comfortably housed by this time. Help to get back on to their feet is needed by the poor.

Relief has been received all the way from Montana, Idaho and Minnesota.

The Weiss family were buried on Edward's Point on Sunday, while others from West Dome were shipped out. The situation clears rapidly and road building to the mines is under way. Work will start on some of the burned mines about the middle of the week. Hundreds here ask the reporters to say they are alive. Relatives should not worry because they have not heard from those in the camp.

The first bodies to be found during the last seventy hours were picked up at noon in the southeast corner of Tisdale, and are Marshall Morrison of Haileybury and Fred. Herbert of England (No detailed address known). This raises the list of dead to sixty-two, with sixty identified. The two unidentified men were visitors in the camp. One body was picked up at the United Porcupine Mines, and the other has not been found, although it is supposed to be in a shaft at the Dome. The man ran from the West Dome over to the Dome property when the wall of fire swept past, and has not been seen since. He may be alive and may have left camp with other refugees who did not report.

The relief committee issues a statement to the effect that the death list may not go above seventy and that it may be several days before more bodies are found, if any, in isolated portions of the camp. Returning search parties have found nothing whatever along the trails far out. Many put on the lost list are showing up every hour. Some of them were not out of the immediate camp. No. 2 detachment of 8 men from the Canadian Army Service Corps, arrived in charge of Major Hallock of Ottawa. All the sick have been sent to the outside.

Found Alive and at Work.

Porcupine, July 18.—Searching parties returned from Delora, Shaw, Eldorado and Langmuir Townships, and not a body was found. They report many men alive and at work. Graphic descriptions of the work of fire and wind through a belt six miles wide, beginning at the middle line of Delora and Shaw and north to the Dome, and thence east into Langmuir, are given. The country is all black, with no signs of animal or human life. South of this line the fire ran in belts, jumping around swamps, which gave men a chance to escape. Hundreds of bodies of dead moose were found, in some cases within 50 feet of lakes.

JACKPOT OF $100,000 RAISED

One Man Says He Contributed $10,000 To It.

Washington, D.C., July 18.—The $100,000 legislative "jackpot," about which revolves charges affecting the election of Senator Lorimer, figured in the testimony at the opening of yesterday's hearing before the Senate Lorimer committee.

William Burgess, manager and treasurer of an electrical company at Duluth, Minn., testified before the Helm investigating committee of the Illinois Senate that on a train running out of Duluth, about March, 1911, C. F. Wiehe, who is associated in business with Edward Hines, declared to him that "there was a jackpot raised to elect Mr. Lorimer; I know what I am talking about because I subscribed $10,000 to it myself."

Mr. Burgess testified yesterday about this conversation.

House Opens To-day.

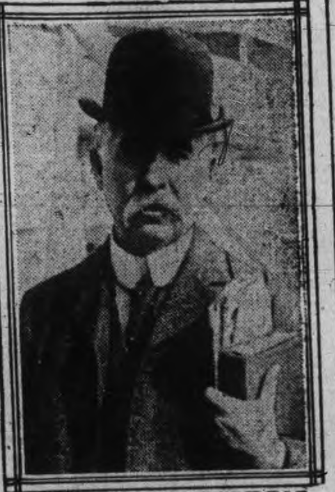
Ottawa, July 18.—The House of Commons reassembles this afternoon, with reciprocity as the first item on the order paper to be considered, and with the deadlock situation practically unchanged from what it was at the time of the coronation adjournment, two months ago. Both majority and minority come back to again lock horns on the issue, and with neither side prepared to beat one step in retreat.



SIR EDWARD MORRIS

Diaz Goes to Paris.

Bad-Nauheim, Germany, July 18.—General Porfirio Diaz, the former President of Mexico, is preparing to leave for Paris. Being visited by a consulting physician here he was advised not to take the waters on account of his age. His health, however, appears excellent. From Paris Diaz will go to Switzerland, where he will remain throughout the summer.

SIR EDWARD MORRIS TELLS OF PROGRESS IN IMPERIALISM

He Would Have an Imperial Parliament Sitting in London.

London, July 18.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Sir Edward Morris, interviewed on board the Pretorian at Liverpool Saturday, discussing the conference, said considerable advance had been made as regards the extensions of the relations of the dominions to the Mother Country. The colonies had been admitted, so to speak, to full partnership to the British Empire Co., Unlimited. What must happen in the future was that all the dominions and England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales would then have their own separate Parliaments, while there would probably be a separate Imperial Parliament sitting in London dealing only with Imperial questions. He expected great things of Newfoundland in the near future. Her industries were developing by leaps and bounds, although she badly wanted capital.

Blown a Hundred Feet.

Denver, Colo., July 18.—Fragments of human flesh found within a radius of 200 yards, give evidence that three men were killed early yesterday, when 5,000 pounds of nitro-glycerine exploded, destroying the neutralizing plant and storehouse of the Dupont Powder Co., fifteen miles south of Denver.

The force of the blast was almost entirely upward. Men in the vicinity saw the two buildings rise in a cloud of black smoke, with a circle of flame as its base. When the buildings had reached a height of 100 feet they collapsed and fell in a shower of fragments.

Died by Fall From Hay Load.

Listowel, July 18.—The death occurred on Sunday of John McKnight, a well-known and highly-respected resident of Howick. The deceased sustained a severe fall from a load of hay on Friday evening last, which injured his spine and hurt his head internally.

WEIRD CAMPAIGN AGAINST USE OF OPIUM BEGUN BY CHINA

A POPPY HEAD, FROM WHICH OPIUM IS PRODUCED.
A BALL OF OPIUM ENCASED IN FIBRE, FOR EXPORT.

Human heads in baskets and ears skewered on sticks testify in silent, eloquent voice that the Chinese government is bent upon extirpating opium, says a despatch from Shanghai. The unsheathed sword is being carried to the poppy fields of Central and Western China, and the blood of those who insist upon defying the imperial edict prohibiting the manufacture of opium is flowing as evidence that the government meant business when it entered into a compact with the British government in 1907 to suppress poppy cultivation.

THE LACK OF A COMMA

In the little back-scratching meeting held by the Liberals on Saturday night in reference to the candidature of J .R. Stratton. R. R. Hall made some remarks. After saying that this was a difficult riding, and needed a candidate of the highest ability (Mr. Hall is touted as the probable candidate) he went on to say, as reported by the Examiner;

"Mr Stratton had showed the ability to defeat the desperate efforts to down him in the form of the lavish purchase of perjured witnesses."

Help! Bring us some eau de cologne, (quick! But possibly there is a printer's error in this statement. We suggest that the statement be read with a comma placed after "down him"—which is what Mr. Hall probably intended to say.

KING AND QUEEN VISIT THE MARY QUEEN OF SCOTS PALACE

Their Majesties are Warmly Received in Glesgae—Keys of City Presented to Them—A Big Procession.

Edinburgh, Scotland, July 17.—King George and Queen Mary arrived in the Scottish capital yesterday and received a rousing welcome. The city was bright with color, the decorations being the most elaborate that the present generation of Scotchmen has seen. The way from the railway station to Holyrood Palace was lined profusely with obelisks columns and Venetian masts with magnificent triumphal arches at all vantage points.

On the station platform the Lord Provost presented the King with the keys of the city, made of silver in 1628 for presentation to Charles I. Subsequently the procession was formed and Their Majesties traversed streets hedged with cheering Scots to the eighth century old palace, which has been rejuvenated in the interior in anticipation of the royal visit. The old apartments of state, used by Mary Queen of Scots, have been redecorated, and the historic home of the Stuarts will see a revival of Imperial pomp during the five days' stay of King George and Queen Mary.

Holyrood Palace has been only occasionally used as a royal residence since the time of James I., who, as well as his predecessors, resided almost constantly there. Charles I., Charles II., James II., George IV., Queen Victoria and Edward VII. all paid short visits to the venerable edifice.

The royal apartments occupied to-day by the King are comparatively modern and without historical interest. That part of the palace where some of the most dramatic scenes and some of the strangest passages in the life of the unfortunate Mary Stuart, who suffered so many sorrows within its walls, were enacted, lies in the old wing, which is never used for residential purposes. Here every board in the flooring and every tapestry on the walls has its story. Plots and crimes which often changed the country's history occurred in this portion of the palace, and these are brought vividly to mind by the preservation of many of the rooms in their original condition.

Amid these surroundings the King's famous Scottish bodyguard, the Royal Company of Archers, commanded by the Duke of Buccleuch, have taken up their posts, and will remain on duty during his Maesty's stay. They are soon to receive new colors at the King's hands.

visit to the grim old castle, where the visit to the gri mold castle, where the Scottish crown jewels are kept, and to-morrow he will attend St. Giles' Cathedral for the dedication of the chapel of the Order of the Thistle.

Round World In Forty Days.

Paris, July 18.—Juger Schmidt, a reporter on the newspaper Excelsior, started at 1.45 o'clock yesterday afternoon in an attempt to break the record for a trip around the world.

He will go from Paris to Moscow, and thence via the Trans-Siberian railroad to Vladivostok. Thence he will proceed to Yokohama, and will return by way of Vancouver, B.C., Quebec, and Liverpool.

Theoretically he is due back in Paris in forty days. That is eight days under the record made by Willis Sayre of Seattle about eight years ago.

Again In Custody.

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 18.—After twice breaking jail at Woodstock within a month, Earl Webb, aged 15, is again in custody of the provincial police here, having been arrested in Stevensville. He is wanted at Watford for the alleged theft of $75.

Wife Murderer Took His Life With Dose of Strychnine

The sudden death of Jas. Pearson, at four o'clock yesterday afternoon at Toronto was reported to the authorities. It was said he was just entering 302 Robert street when he fell and expired. He formerly lived in Picton.

HALTON FARMERS FLEE TO WEST TO ESCAPE THE LAW

Farmers Bank Shareholders Have Discovered a Way to Outwit the Curator.

Toronto, July 18.—That several Farmers' Bank shareholders of Halton County have fled to the west with their goods and chattels and money, to escape the double liability, is a surprise which has been sprung on the curator. It has been found, too, that the fleeing farmers have been acting expert advice, knowing that if they invested their money in western homestead the law would protect them.

Fully a dozen are said to have departed for other regions, and it is probable that many more are planning the same exit. Not one has gone to the States, as the law would be able to recover the money from them there. Evasion of the law, according to legal advice, can only be made on Canadian territory.

TORONTO SHARE HOLDERS TO FIGHT

Against Double Liability for Farmers Bank Holders

Special to the Review.

Toronto, July 18—Dr. Wylie, R. E. Menzie and other Toronto holders of Farmers' Bank stock announce their intention of fighting the double liability claim. To Fight Cholera.

Washington, D.C., July 18.—The entire public health machinery of the Government has been put in motion to fight off the cholera invasion from Europe. All consular reports from Europe are being fully studied by officials here, and the public health officer at Naples has been instructed to cable a report every five days as to developments in the epidemic that is ravaging in Italy.

All ships are being watched here and abroad, and special instructions have been issued throughout the service to safeguard this country from the disease.

Beat World's Record.

Brussels, July 18—The Belgian aviator, Olieslagers, in a monoplane yesterday made a flight of 626 kilometers (388 miles) at the aerodrome without a stop. This beats the world's record for distance in an uninterrupted flight held by Tabuteau, 584 kilometers (362 miles.)

Broke the News.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., July 18.—Yesterday morning Uriah McFadden, counsel for Mrs. Napolitano, broke the news to her that the sentence of death pronounced on her had been commuted to life imprisonment. Despite the fact that the press had stated that the woman had heard the news on Saturday, this was not the case. It had been said that the woman preferred death to a life sentence, but Mr. McFadden states that she was greatly relieved when the news was broken to her yesterday morning. "Her face brightened up," said McFadden; "she seemed to have been relieved from a heavy burden when assured that the death penalty would not be inflicted. It is expected that her child will be born about July 20.

Every man I ever knew had ambition, but only a few had application with it.

TO REJECT THE VETO

Lords May Refuse The Measure.

Peers May Send It Back Again.

London, July 18.—An entirely unexpected contingency confronts the career of the veto bill to-day. It is a possibility that the House of Lords, instead of passing the third reading of the bill with their amendments on Thursday, thus sending it back to the House of Commons, for consideration, may reject it, even with amendments, lock, stock and barrel. In that event Premier Asquith is fully expected to announce, as he probably would, that he had advised the King to create a large block of new peers.

The Liberal party is no more anxious for an inflated peerage than the Lords themselves are, but will not balk at the creation of peers if the necessity is forced upon it. The Parliamentary program of the Liberals is, as the Rt. Hon. Walter Runciman, President of the Board of Education, said in a speech on Saturday, "the bill, the whole bill and nothing but the bill."

Two moves in the Lords game yesterday excited great speculation. One was a conference of the Conservative leaders, the Marquis of Lansdowne, the Earl of Selborne, Baron Middleton, the Marquis of Salisbury and others. The second was a strong appeal by Lord Morley of Blackburn to the Liberal followers in the House of Lords. Lord Morley in a circular letter said: "It is possible that a certain number of Opposition peers may force division on the third reading of the Parliamentary bill. The momentous results at stake both immediate and in the future make it in the highest degree desirable that no supporter of the bill should be absent from his place. I earnestly trust therefore that your lordship will not fail to give His Majesty's Government the advantage of your presence on what may prove so truly critical an occasion."

The rejection of the bill has never been part of the program of the Conservative leaders. The report went around yesterday, however, that they would assume the attitude that the bill, even with the amendments, was so dangerous and revolutionary that they would refuse to have any hand in its passage, but would compel the Liberal lords to take all the responsibility for voting its third reading.

That aroused the fear that sufficient insurgent peers might be found to carry a motion to kill the bill outright instead as Lord Lansdowne desires, of permitting the bill to go to its third reading as amended.

A group of extremist peers, estimated at from between 50 to 80, are sworn to fight to the last ditch and if it came to a fight between them and the Liberals the former would have a chance of winning. The best opinion late last night is that the Lords will return the amended bill to the House on Thursday and give Premier Asquith an opportunity to show his hand when the House takes it up on Monday, and that the Premier will announce that the Government refuses to accept the amendments and will, if necessary, call on the King to create new peers.

Then a final struggle will come between the two factions of the Conservative lords—the standpatters and those who believe that the lesser of the evils will be to swallow the bill with the expressed declaration that the Conservatives will repeal it when they return to power. By accepting the bill they can starve off home rule for two years; by rejecting it they put the Liberals in a position to adopt all the extremist schemes of legislation without delay.

In the meantime there is no doubt that the Government has made up its list of possible peers, the number of them according to the latest belief being 350.

After having made a special study of the treatment of the throat and lungs for twenty years, Prof. D. Jackson states that in his opinion no preparation for general family use is so efficient, so healing, so certain to cure as Catarrhozone.

As his reasons for making this claim for Catarrhozone, Dr. Jackson says:

"Catarrhozone is free from opium.

"Stops coughing instantly.

"Prevents bronchial irritations.

"Relieves clogged nostrils.

"Cures sniffles and nasal catarrh.

"Prevents La Grippe.

Catarrhozone is unquestionably the world's greatest breathable cold, cough, and catarrh medicine, and being free from all drowsy drugs, entirely safe for children and old folks; it makes an ideal family remedy. ## AUSTRALIA AND CANADA

We often hear f'rinstance, that Australia is a dead country. It has been greatly outstripped by Canada in population, and supposedly in progress. But hold a moment, prithee. Australia has a bigger foreign trade, with half the population, that Canada has. We aren't so almighty as we thought we were.

In 1909 the total foreign trade of Canada amounted to $56.,000,000; while the total foreign trade of Australia, with a population of 4,300,000 amounted to $583,060 000. The big island in the south seas is isolated from all the big markets of the world, but that doesn't prevent it doing a big business just the same.

In the production of meats, such as mutton, Australia is incomparably superior. It is so because of its climate and situation in the balmy south. In all dairy products it is superior, and will continue to be superior until Canadians leave off their grain growing and take more to dairy work and cattle raising.

But it must be explained that a big foreign trade does not make the most prosperous nation. Britain has the greatest foreign trade of any country on earth, but while it is commercially so great, the British masses are not any more comfortably living, or are they even rising superior to the conditions of their birth. Their welfare has to be looked after by a measure of state socialism. Yet their country has the most magnificent showing in foreign trade—in imports and exports—and its commerce radiates to every quarter of the globe.

Canada has a big export trade, but much more of its product is retained at home than in Australia. The ideal condition is to produce in your own country all that you require, both in natural products and in manufactures, exporting only the surplus in each line of product. That is seldom possible, however, as commerce is interdependent, and no country has all the goods it needs. The difference between Canada and Australia apparently is in the fact that Australia's production is concentrated along a few chief lines, in which it does a great export trade, and it therefore has to import much that a country with more diversified production would supply at home. This boosts both export and import figures, without making the country as prosperous, for it pays the expenses of the roundabout trade. Canada does a lot of exporting, but is much more prolific in variety of product, both in manufactures and in natural products; and being more self-sustaining, does not have to draw so heavily on a few staple industries for the completion of trade.

Under such conditions as these, is it not essential that Canada shall retain full control of her fiscal policy, that she shall not be tied with agreements to Washington, but shall develop her resources independently? To merge her identity with the United States, even in natural products, is but a step toward the complete effacement of Canadian individuality in the world's commercial affairs. Shall we be American or Canadian?

SIR WILFRID IN ENGLAND

The Quebec Chronicle has no doubt about Sir Wilfrid's mission and performance. It notes a few things as follows—

When Sir Wilfrid sailed for England as the official representative of the Dominion, Le Canada, one of his organs, by way of catering to the Nationalist sentiment of Quebec said that he was going to attend the Imperial Conference with the fixed intention of opposing and defeating every measure that would make for the better organization and consolidation of the British Empire.

Judged by the light of subsequent events it is very evident that this article of Le Canada was inspired.

But, as it made a bad impression on the English Canadians at the time, the Montreal Witness came to the rescue and intimated that it did not represent the attitude of the Liberal party.

However, Sir Wilfrid had hardly attended a session of the Conference before the French press was gloating over his obstructive triumphs.

When he repudiated all obligation on Canada's part to participate in Imperial warfare, La Presse, his organ in Montreal said; "Thanks to the attitude of the Prime Minister of Canada all the Imperialistic proposals have been abandoned and the autonomy of the colonies has been affirmed more explicitly than ever."

And Le Soleil went into ecstatic rapture because it considered that these concessions to the Nationalists would rob the latter of a war-cry in the next elections.

There were several Liberal papers however, that did not hesitate to say that Sir Wilfrid's refusal to take any part in the drafting of foreign treaties lest it should involve the necessity of Canada's participation in Imperial wars was nothing less than an insult to the spirit of loyalty to the British Crown and a rupture of the Imperial tie.

The chief Liberal organ of Winnipeg said that Sir Wilfrid was talking "nonsense" and the Montreal Witness which did not mince matters either, pointed out very plainly that under present conditions independence of England could not only mean DEPENDENCE IN ANOTHER DIRECTION.

As the Manitoba Free Press says—"When Great Britain is at war the whole Empire is at war. The British overseas Dominions not less than the Motherland, are, under these conditions open to attack. In actual practise the Dominions would be involved only in the event of war with a first class power; but technically they are engaged in hostilities in every little war that breaks out at any of the exposed points on the far-flung boundaries of the Empire. Sir Wilfrid knows this perfectly well."

EDITORIAL NOTES

Lightning paralysed the tongue of a horse near Beamsville. We would remind husbands with talkative wives however, that lightning seldom strikes twice in the same place.

Sir Frederick Borden will become Canadian high commissioner in London. Does he see the handwriting on the wall, and is he getting something worth while in time?

If Mr. Stratton's financial interests will not let him stay in the political game, the West Peterborough Grits intend to rush on a convention and give the nomination to R.R. Hall—for sure this time.

Canadian General Electric stock has gained nearly ten points in two days trading, the reason being given as great activity in all departments of the Institution. This is satisfactory to the holders of the stock, and also to the men in Peterborough who make the stock worth more.

The by-law voting on July 28 should not be overlooked. The park by-law is one that should appeal to every citizen who favors plenty of open breating space for us and for posterity. Land once bought is land well bought.

Mourned as Dead Five Years.

Woodstock, July 18—After an absence of over thirty years, and after having been mourned for as dead for five years past, Amos Carter, son of Amos Carter, of Innerkip, returned to his home a few days ago. He came in unexpectedly and was not recognized by his father for some time. When Mr. Amos finally became convinced that the stranger was his long lost son he broke down and nearly collapsed.

THE MARKETS

Latest Quotations in Grain, Dairy Products, Live Stock Etc.

CHICAGO, July 17.—Apparently well authenticated reports of frost in Manitoba helped the wheat market to-day to rally, notwithstanding a sharp break in prices for coarse grain. Wheat closed a shade to ⅜c net higher, but corn was off 1⅛c to 2¼c, and oats at a decline of 2¾c to 3⅛c. Latest trading left provisions less expensive by 2½c to 25c. During the session September wheat ranged from 87¼c to 88⅝c and closed at 88, a net gain of a shade.

The Liverpool market closed to-day ⅛d to ¼d higher than Saturday on wheat, and 1⅛d to 1¼d higher on corn. Berlin wheat closed ¼c lower.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, July 17.—At the Montreal Stock Yards west end market the receipts of live stock for the week ending July 15 were 3030 cattle, 1275 sheep and lambs, 1250 hogs and 450 calves, while the offerings on the market this morning for sale were 600 cattle, 550 sheep and lambs, 880 hogs and 250 calves.

There was no actual change in prices for cattle since this day week, but, considering the quality of the stock offered, which was inferior to that of a week ago, the undertone to the market was strong, in spite of the continued warm weather and the weaker cable advices received from Liverpool. These noted a further decline of ½c per pound on account of the extreme heat and the limited demand for beef.

The gathering of buyers was fairly large, and the demand from butchers was good for small lots, but owing to the inferior quality and high prices demanded for the same some of the large packing concerns were not disposed to operate, claiming that they could do better in the western market. However, trade, on the other hand, was fairly active, as, in addition to the demand for local consumption, there was some buying for Quebec account, which resulted in several carloads being taken for shipments to that point.

Choice steers sold at 6¼c; good at 5½c to 5¾c; fairly good at 5c to 5¼c; fair at 4¾c to 5c, and common at 4¼c to 4½c per pound. There were a number of cows among the offerings, which brought from 3½c to 5¼c, and bulls from 3½c to 5½c per pound, as to quality.

The strong feeling which has characterized the market for hogs for the last two weeks still continues to be the main feature of this branch of the trade, and prices to-day scored a further advance of 25c to 50c per 100 pounds. This strength is attributed to the limited supplies coming forward, on account of the extreme heat of late and the keen demand from packers for supplies, in consequence of an active trade done, and also selected lots were made at $7.75 to $8 per 100 lbs., weighed off cars.

A feature of the small-meat trade was the strength in the market for lambs, and prices advanced 50c to $1 per head, which was due to the keen demand from local buyers and the limited offerings, and sales were made at $4 to $6 each. The trade in sheep was quiet, and prices were unchanged, at from $3.50 to $4 each. The demand for calves was good at prices ranging from $2 to $6 each, as to size and quality.

Hogs—Receipts, 11,900; market active and firm; yorkers, $7.15; pigs, $6.85 to $6.90; mixed, $7.10 to $7.15; heavy, $7.10 to $7.15; roughs, $6 to $6.50; stags, $5 to $5.50.

He rose with mock dignity.

"You're on my ship, Mrs. Brooks. Please remember every captain is master of his ship, and if you don't listen and like it—mind you, I say like it—I'll clap you in double irons for mutiny."

"Captain Williams," she pleaded, "I am sure that you would not displease"—

"This little fore and after, Mrs. Brooks," he broke in, picking up the model of the ship on the mantel, "is a model of the Sally Moran, my first command out of Frisco. That's her wheel up there over the door. She laid the cornerstone of my fortune, but she taught me how to fight and have nerve. Took her up into the north Pacific sealing and then down on the Japanese coast. Had a crew who wouldn't adorn any high back rover Captain Kidd ever could wish for. If there was any good in that schooner God must 'a' saw it first and hit it."

To humor him she had advanced to the mantel.

"And is that where you got your awful reputation?" she inquired.

The bushy eyebrows came down until the lids were hidden, and his eyes, shining like live coals, were alone visible as he directed his gaze upon her.

"Just how bad is that 'awful reputation,' Mrs. Brooks?"

"They say," she returned, meeting his gaze steadily, "that you have no heart, no pity in you; that you'd kill a man in those days with as little feeling as I would kill a mosquito."

"Well, I guess the reason you'd kill a mosquito isn't because it's just a mosquito and that you'd like to kill it, but because you're afraid it will bite you. Ain't it?"

"Yes."

"I had men, Mrs. Brooks, who, if you let 'em go too far, they'd bite, and if you let 'em bite too deep they'd kill. Them were the early days of sealers. It was a hard life, and it made hard men. I ain't any better, but I guess I ain't no worse, than lots of others would be fixed just as I was at that time."

"I'm glad to hear you say that, captain," she declared, seizing the opportunity. "It opens the way for the business I came on."

"Business?"

"Yes, business."

"But it's after business hours, Mrs. Brooks, and I ain't half spun my yarn. Now, over here I want to show you a couple of spears I got from a lot of head hunters down in the Malay archipelago. You may not know where that is, but I've always had an idea it's where God battened down the devil after that first big row they had you read about in the Bible. I was going ashore, seeing what was doing, when this crew of niggers come down on us like a squall. We had an awful time getting back to the boats, I tell you. We were some cut up, and all I got out of the expedition was one of the big chief's wives."

He looked into Mrs. Brooks' eyes.

"Took her back to Frisco with me," he added. "Women were scarce in them times—good looking ones."

"You took her away from where she belonged?" questioned Emma slowly and incredulously.

"She was willing to go. No one ever beat her about the ship, and she lived pretty much as she wanted—three meals a day and no hard work."

"What became of her?"

"Died—I guess from overeating. You see them two little anchors that chair's made of?"

But she had recoiled from him, shuddering with horror and aversion.

"She died from overeating?" she interrogated. "Have there been many of those?"

"No; I learned a lesson. I put the rest on a diet."

He seemed to think that this was particularly clever and humorous, for he burst into a loud guffaw.

Emma did not laugh. She was more disgusted and apprehensive than ever.

The clock struck 11.

"Did you hear that?" she said. "I must insist that you let me talk over what I came here for."

"Eleven! It ain't late," he replied coaxingly. "Would you like a little something to drink? It's hot tonight."

"No, I thank you."

"You can have it just as well as not."

"I don't care for it."

"All right, only I thought I might get it for you. You see, when I heard you were coming here I sent my Jap away."

"Why?"

"What he don't know won't hurt him."

"Is there anything, captain, you're afraid he'll find out?" she demanded frigidly.

"Sit down—there, opposite me. I was only thinking of you."

"Joe has stolen some money from you."

"Too bad! Too bad!"

"How much is it?"

"What do you want to know for?"

"I am his wife. It is my business to know."

"There you go, talking business again!" he protested, trying to be gallant and throwing an ogling glance at her. "I so seldom have the pleasure of your company, Mrs. Brooks, that this 'business' thing knocks all the romance out of your visit."

"I didn't intend there should be any romance in it, Captain Williams," she retorted stiffly.

"Mrs. Brooks," he went on, ignoring the snub, "a sailorman always finds romance in an evening spent with a pretty woman. I can remember well when the Sally Moran put into Nagasaki for water and fresh provisions a little Japanese girl called on me, and I had a terrible time. I wanted to make things right nice and pleasant for her, but, Lord, she couldn't talk a word of English. There she sat all the evening, grinning and making signs, while I was talking my head off trying to tell her how much I loved her. All my pretty speeches were lost."

He laughed aloud as the scene rose before his mind's eye.

"Now," he continued meaningly, with an intonation intended to be tender, "when I have a girl like you, who can understand"—

"I beg your pardon, captain," she said, very coldly and sternly. "I must tell you that I did not come here to make a social call. I never came to a place like this, at a time like this, to talk to a man like you before in my life."

CHAPTER XV.

Captain Williams' lower jaw advanced, and his piggish eyes contracted. He threw off his too amiable demeanor. His voice became harsh and cruel as his natural brutality asserted itself.

"A man like me, eh?" he rasped. "That's pretty hard language, Mrs. Brooks."

"Please forgive me and let me talk."

"If you didn't come here to see me sort of socially, what did you come for?"

"About Joe—my husband."

"What about him?"

"I asked you the amount of the defalcation."

"You said it was your business. Well, it's more than $16,000."

Emma was astounded, and her heart sank. She had not imagined that it could be so large a sum.

"Is that the truth?" she asked.

"I ain't never been noted for lying."

"Captain Williams, I've come here to plead with you to save Joe, and me and my family from disgrace—to keep him out of jail. You knew my father. You were in business with him. You always liked him and knew he was an honest man."

"He was square in his business dealings with me, Mrs. Brooks, but that's not less than every man has got to be who deals with me."

"I know that," she said, her manner becoming supplicating; "I know that, but you must have some respect for his memory, you must have had some affection for him at the time—everybody had—and some pity for me in this trouble. I thought all these things might soften you, might open a way to some arrangement that would save us from the exposure that seems now bound to come tomorrow morning. Isn't there some way out of it?"

But he was all business now. He had satisfied himself that he had wasted his time with her.

"Have you got the money?" he snapped.

"No."

"Then what's your proposition?"

"I have none," she confessed hopelessly, hanging her head.

"I thought—I thought you might be a little more charitable and suggest some way," she murmured.

"Your husband sent you here, didn't he?"

"Yes."

"What did he say to you?"

"Told me I might have some influence with you."

"Put the blame on you for stealing the money, didn't he?"

"How did you know that?"

She raised her head and looked at him in surprise.

"I know the man. Didn't he?"

"Yes."

"Told you, didn't he, that you could fix it up with me to call everything off?"

"Yes, that's what he said," she admitted wonderingly.

"And I suppose he said that if you didn't come you'd have to take the blame for him going to the penitentiary?"

"It—it was something like that."

"Didn't happen to mention, did he, that he thought I liked you pretty well?"

"Y-yes," she stammered, now utterly bewildered. "I—I think that was part of what he said."

"Didn't forget that, eh? Well," he continued, looking once more straight into her eyes and putting the issue squarely to her, "I'm here and you're here. That part seems all right. What have you got to say?"

"Is there any honorable way in which I can help him?"

"What do you mean by 'honorable?'"

Emma lost all patience. Her nerves, that had been under such severe strain, were getting beyond control. She rose, flushing angrily.

"You know what I mean by 'honorable!' You know what any good woman means when she says 'honorable.' You're beating about the bush, Captain Williams. If you want to come to the point, come to it and come to it quickly. I am going home."

CURE SICK HEADACHE.

SUFFERED THREE YEARS

Till Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills cured his Kidney Trouble

There are few diseases that cause more acute suffering than Kidney Trouble, and Mr. F. A. Thomas, of Sudbury Ont., is one of those who know it. He writes: "For over three years I suffered from kidney disease. First I thought I had sprained my back, for suddenly the pain would catch the small of my back and it would be impossible for me to straighten myself up for several minutes. A dull ache across the kidneys was always present, my urine was thick and cloudy, and passing it caused a burning, scalding pain. Tried medicines, but they failed. I was advised to try Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills, as they had cured my wife years before. A few boxes affected a complete cure. I now enjoy the blessings of good health, which is due to this remedy."

Don't neglect kidney trouble—it's too dangerous as well as too painful. That old, reliable family remedy, Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills, has cured thousands and will cure you. It is equally effective in curing constipation and its attendant evils, biliousness, indigestion and sick headaches, and in purifing the blood. 25c a box at your druggist's. 10

PIERCING THE ROCKIES

Construction Work on the Grand Trunk Pacific is Proceeding Apace

An abundance of labor is available for railway work on the eastern side of the Rocky Mountains and prospects are good for a fair number of laborers being obtained for the summer operations on the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway on the Pacific side. It is expected that before operations are held up by the arrival of winter the two ends of the line will be driven far into the mountains from both ends and will be brought so closely together that the following summer the gap will be spanned and the two ends joined, thus completing the western through line from Winnipeg to Prince Rupert.

TO PRESERVE WOOD BISON

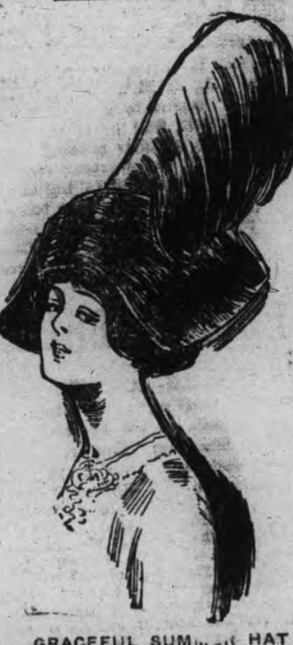
Government Employes Are to Spend Several Years in North

To preserve to Canada the last herd of wood bison in the world, two employes of the Forestry branch are being sent to the banks of the Great Slave River, over 500 miles north of Edmonton. They will remain there for some years to see that the herd multiplies without outside disturbance. The herd numbers from 150 to 300. They are heavier and darker than the plain bison, and are the last of their species. Their chief enemies are the wolves.



GRACEFUL SUMMER HAT

RAILWAY EXTENSION

Contract Let for 100 Miles by the Alberta Central

The contract for 100 miles of railway grading and ballasting on the Alberta Central railway, 64 miles west of Red Deer and 36 miles east, has been awarded to Janse, McDonald & Co., by President John T. Moore and Chief Engineer J. Grant McGregor. The price is $25,000 a mile, a total of $2,500,000. The work was first specified to be completed by the end of August, but an extension of fifteen days is in the contract. At first the company had decided to build only 84 miles of this dump, but the hundred will be finished this season ready for steel.

The papers were signed at Winnipeg. This line is reaching out toward the Brazeau coal fields and is generally considered as a subsidiary line to the C.P.R. system.

DOUKHOBORS BUY LAND

The Doukhobor colony at Nelson has further extended its territory by purchasing from Devine Brothers the well-known Manhart ranch on Kootenay River, opposite Tarry's. This property is about fifty acres in extent, of which some ten acres are cleared and about five acres are planted in bearing fruit trees. The price was $12,000.

During these dog days, and after each violent storm, which occur so frequently this year, we read almost daily of destruction, devastation and death from heat, fire and lightning. These calamities occur with startling suddenness; they give no warning; no person or property is immune from this sudden and devastating havoc. We cannot prevent them, but we may ameliorate their consequences.

Is it not the part of wisdom on your part to insure your buildings and stock from loss or damage by fire or lightning; to insure yourself against accident and sickness and to protect your family, as far as possible, from the dire consequences of your sudden death.

All these kinds of insurance can be procured in the strongest of companies, at the lowest rates consistent with safety, at W. H. Hill's General Insurance Agency, at 159 Hunter street.

How Pete Campbell and Party Were Saved

Porcupine, July 17.—Peter Campbell, of Toronto University Rugby team and Peterborough, was at Camp 51-2 on the T.N.O. construction, where he is employed by the government as fire ranger. He with 60 Russians, the French cook and the French cookee, and the French clerk, Le Pointe, took refuge in a sink-hole one hundred yards from the camp. No solid bottom has been found for the road there, and a loop in the line has been found necessary. It is a circular muskeg swamp of muck and water about 25 yards in radius, and will bear the weight of logs. Here Campbell and the construction gang covered themselves with wet blankets, availing themselves of the water in the muck. They were imprisoned from three in the afternoon until 11 at night, when the fire passed, and they proceeded to camp 5, seven miles down the line.

Mr. Robert Hope, of Villiers, to-day reached the high mark of ninety-nine years. In honor of the occasion his friends assembled at his home and presented him with a fine rocking chair.

Mr. Hope is undoubtedly the oldest resident of Otonabee. His long residence in the township makes him familiar with all the incidents connected with pioneer life. He is still in good health for a man of his remarkable years. He has seen Otonabee from its crude state to its present flourishing condition. He has seen six sovereigns on the British throne and best of all has in every respect been a true subject in every sense of the word. His friends, and they are many, wish him the best of health the remainder of his years.

LARGE CROWD ON BUGLERS' ANNUAL

Trip Down the River Was Much Enjoyed

The Bugle band moonlight excursion last evening was so liberally patronized that the commodious steamer Stoney Lake was unable to accomodate many who wished to take in the trip.

The Bugle band in uniform marched to the wharf down George street. The boat left about 8.30 and returned about 11 o'clock. Devey's orchestra supplied delightful music during the trip, to the music of which the lovers of dancing availed themselves of the opportunity of indulging in their favorite amusement.

Most Unfortunate Condition of William Eastman

Left Nicholls Hospital for His Home, Sightless

Despite the best treatment which he received at the Nicholls Hospital, and by specialists at Toronto, William Eastman left for his home in Ingoldsby near Minden, last Saturday, without hope that he would ever be able to see again, both eyes being afflicted.

Several months ago he was seriously injured, when in company with his brother, he was at work on his father's farm blasting large stones, in fact both young men only escaped death as by a miracle. Elmer, the brother, lost one eye entirely and is otherwise scarred for life, but William's case was different, for besides suffering severe cuts and bruises, the marks of which he will carry to the grave, the shock to his nerve system was very great and his eyesight did not return, although he was treated at home by the local physician till his strength returned sufficiently for him to be brought here for treatment.

Some time ago he was taken to Toronto and a specialist consulted, but he could not do more than had already been done, so after remaining at home for a time, he was brought to the Nicholls hospital.

Dr. McCullough, the local specialist, has been treating the case, but it is impossible to do more for the young man than relieve the pain. He will return here from time to time.

GEORGE HOPE TOOK HIS OWN LIFE WITH POCKET KNIFE IN POLICE COURT CELL

Inflicted Gash in Right Side of Neck and Bled to Death—Had Been Placed Under Arrest and Was Last Seen Alive About Eleven O'clock Last Night—No Blame Directed by Coroner's Jury.

Stiff and cold in death with a deep gash on the right side of his neck, and lying amid pools of blood, with considerable clotted on his face and forehead, the body of George Hope, 184 London street, 51 years of age, was found in the first cell of the local police station at 5.20 this morning by Sergt. Adams. From all appearance death had been self inflicted.

USED POCKET KNIFE.

A steel pocket-knife with an inch and quarter blade was found sticking in the door frame at the cell covered with blood. Splashes of blood and finger prints were plainly visible ion the plastered walls and several large pools of blood were in the vicinity of the corpse. The body was resting in a reclining position on the floor, with the back propped up against the west wall, and the head tilted over on the cell bench.

ARRESTED YESTERDAY.

The unfortunate man was arrested at 9.15 yesterday morning, by P.C. Middleton, in a badly intoxicated state, and was placed in the cell. Being in such a condition he was unfit to be tried at the usual 10 o'clock police court session and was left in the cell until he sobered sufficiently to allow him to appear at court this morning. The deceased was last seen alive in the cell about 11 o'clock last evening when he appeared to have sobered up. He pleaded to be allowed his liberty and also asked for a drink of water which was given him.

Immediately on the ghastly discovery this morning Dr. McPherson was summoned, before the body was toched, but life was found to have been extinct for some time.

At 9.30 the following jurymen were sworn in by coroner Dr. Greer and viewed the remains as they lay in their sordid surroundings; E. F. F. Mason, )foreman(, John White, William Lech, Ernest Payne, William Higgins, W. A. Howard, Ed. M. Elliott, Arthur Johnston, George Evans, W. Foster, John McClelland and Arthur Mitchell.

Mr. Arthur Wood conducted the examination of witnesses.

INQUEST EVIDENCE.

Detective Newhall was the first to be called. He stated that last night at 11 o'clock the deceased appeared to be sober and asked for a drink of water, which was given him. He then wanted to be allowed to depart. As regards his character the witness said the deceased was drunk nearly all the time. He had appeared in police court four times during the past three weeks. He was a laborer, but did not work regularly. As a general rule he was a very quiet man and withal good-natured.

Chief of Police Thompson when sworn, said he was in the police station yesterday morning when the prisoner had been brought in and lodged in the cell. P.C. Middleton had brought him in. He couldn't say whether the officer had searched him or not. The prisoner was not tried the same morning being too drunk, and he was to have appeared this morning. Witness saw him about 5.45 p.m., and he had apparently sobered up then and asked to be released. He had slept practically all of the afternoon. There were no marks of violence on him as far as witness knew when brought to the station. When questioned as to the searching of prisoner, the Chief stated that the rules and regulations are that every prisoner brought in be searched thoroughly. Last night the deceased, and another man were the only two in the cells.

FOUND BY SERGT. ADAMS.

Sergeant Adams said that he saw deceased about 8.40 in the evening, when he appeared to be all right. Neither did he hear any unusual sounds coming from the cells during the night. About 5.20 this morning he saw deceased sitting on the floor of the cell, leaning against the wall. Suspecting something he went out and called P. C. Middleton from his beat and together they entered the cell and found the inmate dead. They did not touch the body, but called, Coroner Dr Greer, Dr. McPherson, and the Chief of Police. About 11 p.m., the previous evening he spoke to the prisoner.

P. C Middleton was next sworn. He told of arresting the deceased at 9.15 on Monday morning at the corner of George and Charlotte streets, in a highly intoxicated plight. He brought him to the cells and saw him next at 8.50 last night, when he appeared to be sober. He searched him pretty thoroughly for anything in his pockets or clothing, but found nothing and inquired if he had a knife. The prisoner had replied "No, I don't carry a knife." Witness was in and out of police station during the night at regular intervals of duty and the last time about 5.20 this morning. Sergeant Adams called him in and said that he thought the prisoner had cut his throat. On previous occasions when he had arrested deceased, he had searched him and found nothing and the prisoner was always considered harmless.

Detective Newhall was recalled at this point, and was asked if it was possible that articles such as a knife might have lain unnoticed in the cells. He said that often stuff such as jewellery, had been found in the cells that must have lain there nearly a year. He thought it possible that a knife could have been in the cells beforehand.

P. C Meharry, who was called, gave evidence that was corroborative of the other witnesses statements.

Dr. McPherson said he was called to the station at 5.30 this morning and found the deceased in the position stated. He felt the body. It was quite cold.

He replied in the negative when asked if he could form any estimate of the time death occurred. To all appearances it was some time, possibly over one hour previous. He did not know cause of death. There was, besides the wound in the neck, a clot of blood over one eye, but whether it was a wound or not he did not examine. Circumstantial evidence indicated that deceased had died from the wound in the neck.

After considering all the evidence the jurors thought that a postmortem examination of the body was unnecessary as by it, it would be impossible to tell whether the deceased had come to his death by accident or purposely.

The jury retired shortly after 11 o'clock and brought in a verdict that George Hope came to his death by his own hand and that a post-mortem examination would not reveal any more than what had been seen and that no blame could be attached to any party or parties in the matter. The above verdict was returned at 11.50.

The late Mr. Hope was practically a life long resident of Peterborough, residing at 184 London street with his mother and one sister, Matilda, and was generally known.

Funeral arrangements had not been made at one o'clock to-day.

The body was taken to D. Belleghem's undertaking rooms from the police court cell.

WHEN BASES ARE FULL

That Is When Ty Cobb likes to Bat the Ball

Cobb, according to a Western critic, likes to step up to the plate when the sacks are filled. "I find it easier to hit the ball with the bases occupied," says Tyrus. "The pitcher is worried, the infielders are guessing, and when you do hit the ball the flying baserunners rattle and disconcert the men who are trying to handle it. With men on base I generally lay for the first ball the pitcher hands over. It's dollars to dimes that if he can put that first one straight over the pan he'll do it, and I hit quite a few of them. The majority of batsmen will pass up the first ball no matter if it cuts the plate in half, but you'll never get this boy overlooking one of that kind. Nine times out of ten I go to the plate prepared to tackle the first ball if the pitcher puts it over."

WHIPPET RACING

The fascinating sport of whippet racing, although but a year old in Canada, is fast gaining over the Dominion a measure of the great popularity enjoyed in England, the home of all good racing. Little time will elapse before this splendid game is a pastime feature of Canada's sport centres. Winnipeg, a year ago February last, saw the first importation of these little dogs from England. They have now some twenty odd, with more coming out, to the devotees who have popularized the sport in the big Western metropolis. Other places throughout the country have their kennels, but probably Toronto, as yet, is the only Eastern point where whippet speeding has attained any considerable prominence.—Athletic World.

Cyclone Destroyed Hamlet.

Port Deposit, Md., July 18.—A cyclone yesterday practically destroyed Richardsmen, a hamlet eight miles north of here, and swept everything from its path to Octoraro Valley. A flour mill built to make flour for Washington's army, which was still in operation was demolished. The total damage is estimated at $40,000.

CANADIANS WON

Secured the Championship of the Empire at the Coronation Sports

Canada's athletic team won the championship of the British Empire at the Festival of Empire sports in connection with the Coronation. The meet was open to teams from the United Kingdom, Australia, South Africa and Canada, but South Africa was not represented. Five events were on the programme, of which Canada won three and the United [illegible]

LACROSSE AT THE COAST

A Western Paper Says the Columbians Had Better Get Into Shape

The New Westminster team will not let the Minto Cup depart from the Fraser without a gigantic struggle. Should the champions repeat again this year, they will have emerged from the hardest struggle which has ever been recorded in the history of the game at the coast. New Westminster may be expected to appear better as the season progresses. Vancouver is too strong for the champions to juggle with, for even in their best form there is little to choose between the two twelves. No one witnessing the games of the past few weeks would credit the Westminster team with playing their very best game. The problem with the champions seems to be one of rounding into shape, and unless they solve this problem soon the Vancouver team will have a lead which will be insurmountable. — Saturday Sunset.

KILPATRICK, THE ATHLETE

John Kilpatrick is the greatest all around athlete Yale has been able to boast of for many years. He has great ability with the weights and is a good jumper and hurdler. He is also a fast sprinter and can run and walk a mile in fairly fast time. Kilpatrick is a big, powerfully built fellow, weighing nearly 200 pounds, but despite his weight is as agile as a panther.

VERDI AND THE BARREL-ORGANS

A story is told of Verdi, the famous composer, which shows that he was willing to pay a good price for what he considered comfort. A friend who went to call on him in a small watering-place found the composer in a little room, which, he informed his visitor, served him for dining-room, sitting-room and bedroom. "I have two other rooms, which are large," he said to his friend, "but I keep articles hired by me in them. I have there 95 barrel-organs." He paused to note his friend's surprise, and then continued: "When I came here my ears were tortured by hearing them play 'Trovatore,' 'Rigoletto,' and similar stuff. I hired them from their owners. I pay about 1,500 lire for them and enjoy my summer's rest undisturbed by the sound of my own compositions."

TOO GOOD TO LOSE

"The matter is urgent!" gabbled the manager to the detective who had called in. "I will be brief. Someone has been representing himself as a collector of ours. He has been raking in more money by his methods than any two of our own men, and I want him caught as soon as possible."

"Right, sir," replied the 'tec. "I'll have him in jail in a week's time."

"Great Scott, sir, I don't want him put in jail," cried the manager. "I want to engage him!"

IN THE BIG LEAGUES

National

Never in the history of baseball has fandom seen a closer race than that now going on between the Cubs and Giants. Which will crack first? And the beauty of it is that not only are Chance's and McGraw's men see-sawing, but right at their heels are the Quakers and Pirates, ready to jump into first place if given half a chance. "Be-lieve me," as the dyed-in-the-wool fan would say, "there is excitement a-plenty for those who attend the big show of baseball these days." As the season advances New York's chances seem to be fading. Many of McGraw's pitchers are cracking under the strain. Only the great Matthewson looks like the genuine article. The outlook must give the scrappy manager some worry. For the Cubs, Reulbach has been performing in a way to cause the faces of Windy City fans to crack with smiles. It begins to look like another flag for Charlie Murphy's men, but, for that matter, all four leading clubs are strictly in the running yet.

American

Grim Death never hung closer to a sick African than Detroit is hanging on to her lead in the American. One day in the past week the Mackmen were only ten points behind them. Then, fighting tooth and nail, the Tigers went away again and put a clear lead of 40 points between them and the Athletics. But critics, while they admire the gallant spirit of Hughey Jennings and his warriors, realize that the inevitable must come soon. The Fourth of July should see Philadelphia in the lead. If any club catches her after that it will be an accident, and accidents don't happen very often in well regulated baseball families like that managed by Connie Mack.

Eastern

Rochester against the field would be a good bet in the Eastern. Up to date, both at home and abroad, Ganzel's bunch have performed more like real ball players than any team in that league. Their pitchers seem to have the Indian sign on the much-touted sluggers of other teams, and all go down with the same bump when they face the heavers from Hustlerville. Toronto, so far, has proven the largest disappointment in the Eastern. Kelley's men are now a poor third, with Stallings' herd right after them. Unless the great and only Joe can begin to show something soon he will play to many empty seats at the Island when next his "also rans" appear there. Playing in their present form, the "Maple Leafs" will do well to finish in the first division.

GOOD ON BASE STEALING

Fast Work on the Bases Has Kept the Giants Up

To show that base stealing is the secret of success, the following figures may be interesting. The Giants have kept up around the lead since the beginning of the season by fast work on the bases, says the New York World. This has saved the pitchers when they were going bad. The Giants have stolen 109 bases, which is ahead of any other club in the country. The next is Detroit. They have stolen 102, and that is what has kept them in the lead. As base stealers the Highlanders began poorly, but since Chase has impressed upon them the necessity of fast work on the paths they have advanced so rapidly that their total is now 75. The only club between them and Detroit is the Athletics, who have stolen 91 bases. In the National League the nearest club to the Giants in base stealing is Boston, with a total of 65. Quite a difference between 65 and 1[illegible].

PUGILIST BURIED IN THE ABBEY

Broughton Was Once Champion Prize Fighter of Britain

In the west cloister of Westminster Abbey, in the oldest part of the building, set in the pavement is a slab of marble marking the grave of John Broughton, who was a verger in the Abbey for more than 30 years, and before he obtained the situation was the champion prize fighter of Great Britain, holding the belt for more than 12 years. The guides who show people around the Abbey say that when he was buried in the cloister some of his admirers wanted to immortalize him with an appropriate epitaph, and they indicate a blank space under his name which was left for the inscription, "For 12 years champion prize-fighter of England," but it was prohibited.

ASKING THE GROCER

"Mother wants two pounds of sugar," said the small child.

The grocer consulted a book.

"Tell your mother," he said, "that she'd better make one pound do; you've had two-thirds of your allowance already."

In certain districts of England it appears to be no uncommon thing for a woman with a family to cater for to take the following precaution against running into debt. Every Saturday she deposits with each tradesman sufficient cash to pay for the family's supplies during the ensuing week, and instructs him not to allow the account to be overdrawn.

Work of Incendiary.

Amherst, N.S., July 18.—A terrible forest fire has been raging in the western portion of this county for the last week. The fire originated on the lumber property owned by Messrs. Cochrane and Soley at Fox River. They claim that the fire was plainly the work of an incendiary, and that fires were set in three different places on their property and on portions of it not visited by either hunters or fishermen. So far the fire has run through valuable lumber lands for eighteen miles, and has turned a swath from six to eight miles wide.

From one hundred to two hundred men employed by the different lumbermen in this section of the country have been fighting the fire for the past six or eight days, but with little success. To-day the conflagration is raging as fiercely as ever, and clouds of smoke overhang all the valleys along the Bay of Fundy coast and through the River Herbert Valley.

LINDSAY'S NEW CHIEF OF POLICE SCORES FIRST DAY

Gets Confession From Prisoner Who Admits Shooting

Local Youth is Fined $6.60 for Trespassing

Chief of Police Chilton, who arrived in town Saturday evening, performed his first duty as head of the local police department in getting from a man named Fred. Slade, of Kincardine, a statement that he shot a man near Hastings on Saturday evening.

Slade, who is employed by a lightning rod concern, was in charge of a car containing a number of horses and vehicles. The car which was consigned to Orillia, was attached to a freight train which was in Hastings, about five o'clock in the evening. Slade, it is said, fired a shot from the car, and the ball lodged in the leg of a section man. The train pulled out at Hastings before an arrest was made, and later on in the evening Ald. John McCrae, of the Police and Light Committee, received a request to send an officer to the G.T.R. station to arrest the occupant of the car. Acting Chief John Short, Constable Nelson and Geo. Foster hurried to the station, and shortly before two o'clock, the freight steamed into the local yards. Officer Short and Mr. Foster immediately boarded the car, and Slade, who had been drinking, was in a stupor on a seat in one of the vehicles. As soon as he saw Mr. Foster, he jumped up and said, "What is the matter?" and when he noticed Officer Short, immediately fell over, bruising his face badly. In fact it was thought at the time that his neck was broken. In the meantime, Chief Short had worked his way around to the other side of the car and placed Slade under arrest. He expressed surprise at being placed under arrest, and disclaimed any knowledge of the shooting. He was searched, but no firearms were found on his person.

It appears that when the freight was in Peterboro yards a young boy, and a resident of the Electric City, was anxious to get to Lindsay, and was asked, so he states) by Slade to join him in the car. When the train reached Lindsay the youth was surprised to see Officer Short in the door of the car. He immediately jumped from the car and decamped, but was captured by a young man named Buchanan, employed by the G.T.R. The youth of course, knew nothing about the shooting, but was taken to the police station until such time as that fact was established. A number of his friends got busy, and his uncle, who resides in Lindsay was notified of the predicament in which he was placed. He called at the police station and gave satisfactory assurances that the boy would appear this morning in court. He was released about eleven o'clock.

After Slade had been placed in the cells officer Short went back to the car and searched it. He succeeded in finding a Smith and Wesson revolver, the five chambers being emptied. A visit was afterwards made to the cell by Chief Chilton, and Officer Short and Slade was closely questioned. Chief Chilton finally succeeded in getting a signed statement from him to the effect that he had done the shooting, with no intent to do bodily harm. He had, he stated a cartridge in his pocket, and discharged the revolver in a spirit of recklessness.

At the police court this morning, Slade faced the charge of having firearms in his possession. He pleaded guilty, and was fined $10 and costs $14.95. Detective Scott of the G.T.R. was present in the interests of the Company. Slade will be held here, pending the action of the authorities of Northumberland county regarding the shooting. Detective Scott left for Hastings to-day.

It is understood that the Hastings man was shot in the leg, and that the bullet was extracted Sunday.

The Peterboro youth, who was arrested with Slade, was charged with trespassing on the G.T.R. property. He was fined $2 and costs, $6.60.

INDIAN RIVER YOUNG LADIES TOOK TO WATER DURING STORM

Preferred the Inviting stream to the Shelter of Trees

Special Correspondence.

Indian River, July 18—Several of the more ambitious ladies of this vicinity have lately mastered the new art of floating, and quite recently made use of the accomplishment in a way that proved amusing in the extreme to those at least who heard of the episode though it may be that the participants have, even as yet, failed to see the funny side of it. On Monday of last week, a couple of the young ladies found themselves wandered miles from home just at the time that the violent wind and rain storm reached their small corner of the globe. They were evidently greatly engrossed in their immediate pursuits, as they apparently did not notice the approach of the storm until it was almost upon them. Owing to the many mischievous pranks played by the lightning in this locality during the last few months, the nerves of the majority of the gentler sex have become painfully acute, therefore the subjects of this article did not consider it safe to seek shelter under any of the numerous neighboring trees and for a time were in quite a dilemma as to the wisest course to pursue. However, before many minutes had elapsed they decided to trust to the friendly protection of the water, which was not far distant and there, in the swift current of the Indian River, with only their heads above water and protected only by straw hats, which fortunately were of rather prodigious dimensions, the girls calmly braved one of the very fiercest storms of the season, and no serious results have developed from the thrilling experience.

Mr. Gilbert Elmhirst, one of the Canadian coronation contingent, arrived at Indian River on the 8.04 train on the evening of July 10th. Although he was rather tired he enjoyed the trip and has many interesting experiences to relate.

Mr. M. McLeod of Toronto was the guest of Mr. and Mrs Hall last week.

Mr. McCutcheon relieving station agent here for the past month left on Wednesday, and Mr. Munn is back in his old place again.

Miss Janet Breckenridge was in Peterborough on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillips of Campbellford, were guests of Mrs. Walter Kidd for a few days last week.

Mrs. Day of Stratford, and Miss Bessie Munn of Berlin, are visiting the former's mother, Mrs. Munn.

The wild red raspberries are quite plentiful about here, but there is so much water lying on the low land that the picking of them is anything but a pleasant task.

Mr. John Elmhirst, who lives about a mile and a half south of the village had ten head of cattle— his entire stock of milch cows—killed by lightning during the storm of Monday 10th. The lightning struck a tree in the field in which they were feeding, and they becoming frightened rushed under another tree for shelter, but this tree was the next victim of the lightning and not one of the animals escaped. The stock was insured.

Mr. H. Clancy of Guerin had a valuable colt struck by lightning during Monday's storm.

A couple of weeks ago four head of cattle belonging to Mr. I. Christie were killed by the train, two miles east of the station.

Miss Ada Elmhirst was in Peterboro, on Saturday.

Miss Phyllis Borland spent Friday and Saturday in Peterborough.

Some History About Typewriters Modern and Ancient

CHAPTER TEN

IT is regrettable that during the past few years, not everybody who wanted an Underwood could get one just when he wanted it.

THERE are not enough to go round, not even with the largest typewriter factory in the world—turning out 400 machines a day.

THE Underwood output is twice as large as that of its nearest competitor, which has been on the market for 35 years.

IT is not by accident that the Underwood Company has in a few years built up this enormous business.

IT is the logical result of selling the best typewriter at a price consistent with its value, and giving customers the best service ever attempted in the typewriter business.

BAD ACCIDENT TO BRAKEMAN

Everett Taylor Likely to Lose Right Arm

Was on Freight Running Out of Lindsay

Lindsay Warder.—A shocking accident occurred this morning at Blackwater Jct., when Everett Taylor, a young man in the employ of the G.T.R. as brakeman, had his right arm almost completely severed. Mr. Taylor was brakeman on the wayfreight which leaves Lindsay shortly after 9 o'clock in the morning, in charge of Conductor Ringland, for Midland, and while shunting at Blackwater the accident occurred.

The train crew had been switching cars at this point for a short time, and the unfortunate young fellow, he being only 26 years of age, was hanging on to the ladder on the side of the car near the back, when in some way his hand slipped. He managed to throw his body clear of the track, but the car behind ran over his arm, badly crushing it from the shoulder to the wrist, and in all likelihood the victim will lose the arm.

A doctor was called at Blackwater and everything possible done for the poor fellow, and a special train of an engine and caboose was made up and the victim brought to the hospital here as quickly as possible, the 21 miles being made in 20 minutes. At the Sylvester crossing the ambulance and Dr. Jeffers, G.T.R. physician, were waiting and the injured man was hurried to the hospital.

Mr. Taylor's home is in Peterboro, but he has been working from this point for some time, being a boarder at Mr. Graham's.

In conversation with Everett Taylor's father this afternoon it was ascertained that the injured arm had been removed at the shoulder when the patient was taken to the Ross Memorial hosputal, Lindsay.

Mr. Taylor does not expect his son home for some time yet. He visited him at the hospital last nigth.

ASK THE COUNCIL TO STEP OUT

Individual and Collective Inability of Brockville City Dads

Brockville, July 17.—A petition is in circulation asking that the entire town Council to resign on account of their individual and collective incapacity. The trouble arises out of the passing of a recent compulsory garbage collecting by-law at the request of the Board of Health, and while the document has been signed by a number of citizens, it will likely be treasured among the archives of the town.

LOSS TO THE MINES SMALL

Reports of Porcupine Disaster Exaggerated, says Hurrigram

To those in the city who are holding Porcupine stocks, the following official information, which is given in the "Hurrigram" a Toronto evening journal, will be of greatest interest. The Hurrigram is a new addition to the number of mining and stock publications, and is being issued in Toronto, daily, by the Canadian News Bureau it has special representatives in all the northern mining camps and the most reliable information is thus obtained in the shortest possible time.

Many wild and exaggerated guesses of the value of property destroyed at several Porcupine mines have been published and given wide circulation. The following is a liberal estimate of property losses sustained, given the Hurrigram by the owners:

|---|---|
| North Dome | $ 18,000 |
| Preston East Dome | 25,000 |
| Vipond | 15,000 |
| Foley-O'Brien | 25,000 |
| United Porcupine | 5,000 |
| Standard Porcupine | 30,000 |
| Imperial | 17,000 |
| West Dome | 35,000 |
| Porcupine Success | 10,000 |

The loss of most of the small companies and claim owners will consist chiefly of bunk houses, and standing timber, and much of the machinery can be repaired.

The loss of life was also unfortunately, grossly exaggerated causing a great deal of worry and anxiety on the part of relatives and friends of people in the camp. It is estimated that the loss of life will not exceed by one half the number of deaths that were published. The greatest irreparable loss that the camp has sustained is the loss of the lives of many men whose service and work was considered indispensable to the camp.

YEAR'S WHEAT CROP LARGEST IN HISTORY

The wheat crop of 1911 is the largest ever known in the history of the country—a low estimate of the crop of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta, being at least two hundred million bushels, and the Government of the respective provinces state that fifty thousand men will be required for the harvest this year. These will have to be principally recruited from Ontario, and the prosperity of Canada depends on securing them promptly. The Canadian Pacific, on whom will practically fall the entire task of transporting the men to the West, is already making special arrangements for this year. Excursions from Ontario points to Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta will be run at the same rates and conditions as last year and special trains from Toronto and Ontario points through to Winnipeg and West, will be run, making the trip in practically thirty six hours, avoiding any change of cars or transfers—this will be a day shorter than any other route. Dates of the excursions will be announced as soon as possible, and all C.P.R. Agents can supply full information concerning this year's excursions.

INDIVIDUALITY

The lady or gentleman who thinks, accentuates their individuality of character and personal appearance.

When Eye Glasses are required there is individuality in the facial features, which requires special shapes, styles of lenses and mountings.

Eye Glasses which enhance the appearance of one face would be unbecoming to another. Eye Glasses, like artificial teeth, must be built to fit the features.

Patrons of the Optical Institute frequently remark that there is individuality in our Eye Glasses because they "grace the face," "fit the features," and "please the wearer."

CONSERVATIVE CANDIDATES SELECTED FOR THIS RIDING

MR. J. H. BURNHAM FOR THE HOUSE OF COMMONS, AND MR. E. A. PECK FOR THE LEGISLATURE, UNANIMOUSLY CHOSEN BY THE DELEGATES.

Only Two Names Considered There Being no Balloting Necessary.

Mr. T. E. Bradburn Announces His Retirement After The Present Term is Ended.

Selection of Officers of the Association — Mr. James Kendry is President Again —The Other Officers.

MR. J. H. BURNHAM, M.A.
Who will contest West Peterborough for the Dominion house in the Conservative interest.

Mr. J. H. Burnham, for Dominion House; Mr. E. A. Peck, for the Ontario Legislature. Such was the unanimous selection of standard bearers, to contest the riding of West Peterborough at the next general elections, which was made at a most enthusiastic meeting of the supporters of Mr. R. L. Borden and Premier Whitney, held in the Conservatory of Music Hall last night.

Only these two nominations were made, Mr. Burnham being nominated by Messrs. Jos. Batten and J. T. C. Lang, and Mr. Peck by T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P., and Mr. Frank Adams.

Few seats were vacant in the large hall, each of the five local wards and the townships in the riding being particularly largely represented and great interest was taken in the proceedings, which were those of an organization thoroughly alive to the business of the meeting.

Mr. James Kendry, ex-M.P., the president of the Liberal-Conservative Association, was the chairman of the evening and after calling the meeting to order, shortly after eight o'clock, noted the presence of Mr. Wm. Croft and Mr. Wm. Green, two of the old stalwarts of the Conservative party of West Peterborough.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

The minutes of the last meeting were taken as read and the election of officers of the association for the ensuing year, was next proceeded with and resulted as follows:

President—Mr. James Kendry, ex-M. P. (re-elected.)

1st Vice-President—Mr. Harry Phelan, (re-elected.)

2nd Vice-President—Ald. Wm. Buller.

3rd Vice-President — Mr. Millson Blewett.

Secretary—Mr. James Edgar, (re-elected.)

Executive—George Benjon, No. 1 Ward. Walter Fisher, No. 2 Ward. Joseph Mills, No. 3 Ward. Wm. Hill, No. 4 Ward. Robt. Hamilton, No. 5 Ward. Chas. Weeks, South Monaghan; W. G. Howden, North Monaghan T. P. Milburn, Smith; J. P. Scollard, Ennismore; Thos. Elliott, South Harvey; Peter Graham, North Harvey; Wm. Dublin, Galway; Alex. Simpson, Galway.

When Mr. Kendry was nominated for the office of president by Mr. L. M. Hayes, K.C., and Mr. Joseph Mills, he remarked that he felt new blood was needed in the Association and that the position should go to some one else. A reply from one in the audience was "Your blood is alright."

THE RESOLUTIONS

When Chairman Kendry called for the resolutions, J. J. Turner moved, seconded by Ald. Morgan, a resolution approving and endorsing the administration of Sir James Whitney. It was.

"That the members of the Liberal-Conservative association for West Peterborough, now in convention, desire to give expression to their unbounded confidence in the Honorable Sir James Whitney, Premier of Ontario, and his ministers. His clear-cut political platform and assurances made before attaining the high office he has honored and now held for the past seven years, have all been redeemed. Many public measures of greatest importance have been carried through and his general conduct of affairs has given Ontario an administration and government unexampled and wholly in the public interest. His continued patriotic action has brought Ontario into an advanced position it has never heretofore enjoyed, and he may rest assured that in West Peterborough, as no doubt in all other ridings, no effort will be spared to continue him leader of the Liberal-Conservative party and in office as the premier of the banner province of Canada."

OPPOSED TO RECIPROCITY

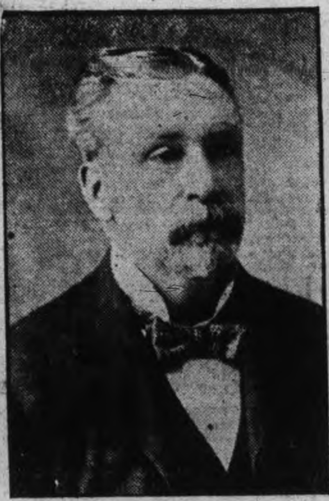
We the Liberal-Conservatives of West Peterborough, in convention assembled, hereby place on record our firm opposition to the proposed reciprocity agreement between Canada and the United States, on national, economic and imperial grounds, believing that Canada's best and permanent interests lie in furthering our relations with the motherland and the sister Dominions of the empire; and not with a continental free trade policy that must inevitably prevent such closer imperial trade relations, and tend to detach Canada from the empire.

We desire to express our hearty approbation of the policy of Mr. Borden and his colleagues in fighting to the last ditch the adoption of the reciprocity agreement in parliament, believing that the Canadianism of the country is behind him in opposing any trade arrangement that will, as President Taft has said, "lead to practical if not political union" of the United States with Canada.



MR. JAMES KENDRY.
Re-elected president of the Conservative Association—a fine old fighter.

MR. E. A. PECK.

MANY PLANS IN PORCUPINE

Future of Gold Camp Subject of Every Tongue

Refugees Returning, and Work Resumes

Porcupine Camp, July 19.—Waves of fire, flames riding in the stirrups of death, tornadoes driving hotter than the furnaces of hell, and other ghost-like expressions that have served to describe to the outside world something of the horrible holocaust in which, perhaps, 70 persons have perished, have all been relegated to the background in Porcupine, and now that proper and due respect has been given to the dead, brave men and women, for whom all Porcupine mourns, mining has again come to the front. Townsites are building with a rapidity that is marvelous, when it is understood that there is absolutely no building material on hand. In Porcupine City cabins are being built from the half-burned logs from which the fires were put out, while in South Porcupine men built over the fire. In one instance, while the ruins smoked on the spot where the cabin was being put up, builders continued to lay logs and drive nails.

"I heard tell of men building on the ruins of a fire," said D. C. Clark, "but I never before saw one building on top of the fire." It is this spirit that drives Porcupine along, with the proper support from those more fortunate on the outside, those who prosper on the work of poor men in the north.

The greatest gold mining camp on the North American continent will advance tenfold with the advantage that has been gained through a wholesale cleaning up of the timber muskeg. The mines plan for immediate work. Many of those who rushed temporarily from the camp till shelter and food was provided, will be coming back next week. Work will be plentiful and laborers now in the camp will find employment at good wages.

Estimates of the loss are made up as follows: South Porcupine, $350,000; Porcupine City, $250,000; Golden City, $30,000; twelve of the largest mines, $500,000; many small prospecting mines in four townships, $50,000; prospectors' cabins, tools, supplies and clothes in five townships, $10,000. No computation for losses sustained by the mines in work done, or loss of time that must be borne during the next three months, is made. Already the mines are starting work, clearing away the debris and getting material on hand for foundations. Roads are being chopped out through the tangled mass of fallen trees and haste is being made to wipe out all evidences of the terrible holocaust.

Relief funds as follows have been received by the committee: Dominion Government, tents and blankets, $17,500; from relief fund, gathered in Toronto, $5,000 cash; provisions (no definite word as to where they came from, except from towns along the T. & N.O.); half a carload of provisions and shelter from Cobalt, Lake Mucy Co., to the West Dome employes; one carload of provisions from North Bay, to be charged to relief fund; a carload of coffins, payment to be adjusted later; Western Miners' Union; money for hospital purposes from the National Red Cross Society of the United States.

"BRITAIN IS NOT DECADENT," SAYS ASQUITH IN PARTING

King Sends Message to the Luncheon Held in Honor of Colonial Representatives.

London, July 19.—King George sent a message to the farewell luncheon to the representatives of the dominions, given by the Parliamentary committee yesterday, conveying the hope that their wives had enjoyed their visit to the Mother Country. His Majesty expressed pleasure at having seen them at Buckingham Palace, and added wishes for a safe and pleasant journey home.

Mr. Asquith, in addressing the gathering, said he thought that as a result of the survey of the various parts of the United Kingdom which they had had, the visitors would carry away two abiding impressions; first, that whatever pessimistic cynics might have said to the contrary, this Mother Country, the home centre of the Empire, was not yet moribund. Cheers greeted this statement.

"Wherever you have been," Mr. Asquith continued, "you have seen abounding evidence of vitality and progress—I do not wish to speak of politics—in all the social, industrial and other walks of our common life. Next, but not least important, you will all go to your various dominions, and the colonies of the King, feeling that there is identity in the ideals and aims between the different parts of the Empire, quite independent of all political parties, which constitutes the abiding safeguard of the Empire."

REVOLUTION IN HAYTI AGAIN

Trouble in the Black Republic Threatening

Port au Prince, Hayti, July 19.—The revolution progresses. The Government troops were routed at Trou and have returned in disorder to Cape Haytien. The situation is calm here, but if the Government fails it is feared there will be disorders, as all the disciplined troops are in the north.

Another U. S. Cruiser.

Washington, July 19.—At the request of the U. S. Minister at Port au Prince, the United States will send another gunboat to Hayti waters to protect Americans and their interests, now seriously threatened by the revolution against President Simon. The gunboat Petrel is already at Port Liberte, on the north coast.

Germans Are Expelled.

Kingston, Jamaica, July 19.—Mail advices from Hayti state that several prominent Germans have been expelled from the country on the grounds of alleged support given by them to the revolution.

KNAPP,
Chairman of the Inter-state Commerce Commission, who is said to be about to retire.

Exiled Shah Returns.

Teheran, Persia, July 19.—Mohammed Ali Mirza, the exiled Shah of Persia, has returned to his own land for the purpose of making another bid for the throne. The ex-Shah is now at Gumesb Tepe, a small port in the Caspian Sea, in the northern part of Persia, near the Russian border, and it is stated that a Russian vessel conveyed him to that place.

Soon after Mohammed Ali Mirza was dethroned in July, 1909, he proceeded to Russia and arrived at Odessa in October of the same year. The Russian Government undertook by protocol to keep the ex-Shah under strict surveillance and prevent all intrigues with respect to his return to Persia, and possibly to the throne. Notwithstanding this, the deposed Shah has made progress through Russia quite rapidly and without molestation from Odessa to Gumesb, a distance of about 1,050 miles. What force Mohammed has with him is not known.

CANADIAN WINS BISLEY MATCH

Bisley, England, July 19.—Lance-Corpl. J. Trainor, R.C.R., of Toronto, scored a possible in the first stage of the King's prize competition, the leading match of the Bisley meet. Of the 1,150 competitors Trainor was the only one to make a possible.

The competition is for prizes aggregating about $8,000, and is open to territorials and retired territorials. Ranges 200, 500 and 600 are used, seven shots at each.

The second stage will be shot on Friday, and the third stage on Saturday. The first prize is $1,000 and a medal.

Trainor's victory was exceedingly popular in camp and on the range. He was photographed a dozen times, and also in front of the Canadian hut, mounted on the shoulders of his fellow members of the team. The following Canadians have qualified for the second stage of the King's prize: Bibby 97, Bayles 97, F. Morris 94, Clifford 94, Russell 93, Martin 93, Capt. Miller 92, Wayne 91, Clark 90, W. Morris 90, Col. Sergt. Hunter 90, MacLaren 89. Sixty-seven who scored 88 each will shoot off for the last 24 places.

GOVERNMENT HAS NOTHING FOR THE VETERANS OF 1866

W. S. Middlebro's Motion is Defeated—Reciprocity Debate is Resumed and Fight is on Again—The Census Returns.

Ottawa, July 19.—Before a specially filled House the debate on the reciprocity proposals was resumed yesterday. On the motion to go into committee of ways and means, W. S. Middlebro (N. Grey) moved an amendment expressing the desirability of the Government recognizing in some tangible way the services of the veterans of 1866-70. Sir Wilfrid Laurier replied briefly, and the remainder of the debate was carried on by members of the Opposition. On a straight party division the vote stood: For the amendment, 45; against, 61. The Government majority was only 16.

Mr. Arthurs (Parry Sound) continuing the reciprocity discussion analyzed the attempted defence of reciprocity by members of the Government, and pointed out how absurdly inaccurate were statistics furnished by the Government.

J. G. Taylor (New Westminster) said that geography had favored the north and south trade, but the fathers of Confederation had aimed to make it run east and west, Sir Wilfrid had done his best to promote this, but had permitted Mr. Fielding to override his good intentions.

On the motion to go into committee of ways and means, W. S. Middlebro (North Grey) introduced the question of the Government granting some recognition, either in land or money, to the veterans of the Fenian raids of 1866 and 1870. He showed that the attention of the Government had been called to the situation some fifteen or sixteen years ago, the veterans petitioned the Government in 1896, and repeatedly at intervals since delegations representing the Veterans' Associations had interviewed the Government.

Whether land or money, the member for North Grey thought that something should be done for those who had taken up arms at that time.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier replied that the matter had not been overlooked, but had been receiving the attention of the Minister of Militia. While Mr. Middlebro had invited the Government to follow the example of the Mackenzie administration, the Prime Minister pointed out that the Government had rewarded the men who fought in the rebellion of 1885, and in the South African war. A Conservative Government was in power at the time of the Fenian raid, and he asked "Why did not that Government take the position that it was desirable for the people of Canada to recognize the services of those who had taken part in that campaign." For his part he would be willing to grant some reward to those who had actively participated in the defence of the country at the time of the raid, but many volunteers had been called to their regiments, but only did garrison duty.

J. D. Taylor (New Westminster) pointed out that the House met under exceptional circumstances to carry out an understanding which two Ministers had given to President Taft. If the Government was so jealous of its honor in that regard, why not equally so with regard to the men to whom it promised to grant aid some years ago.

R. L. Borden made enquiries in reference to the progress which has been made with the census returns. He asked when the work would be completed and when the result would be known.

Mr. Fisher said that he would not like to say off-hand when it would be possible to give Mr. Borden the information.

Taking Bait Illegally.

St. John's, Nfld., July 19.—Surprised while in the act of taking bait illegally near Cape Race, at the south-eastern extremity of Newfoundland, sixteen fishermen from a Gloucester schooner hastily rowed to shore Monday and abandoned their dories and fled into the woods. Seven abandoned dories were confiscated by the colonial cruiser Fiona.

In order to capture the fishermen themselves a posse of police has been despatched to the scene, and a thorough search was being made for the fishermen.

LIVER LAZINESS

Those Who Lack Energy and are Unsuccessful Should Read This Closely.

"I am only thirty years old, yet for almost two years I have felt more like seventy-five. I have found it difficult to sleep at night and in the morning feel so depressed and heavy that effort was difficult. My hands were always clammy and perspiration on slight effort would break out all over me. It was not unnatural that I should begin to brood over the chance that I should soon be unfit to do my work, and this dread made my sleepless nights perfect misery. After repeated trials of medicine and mixtures Dr. Hamilton's Pills gave me the first gleam of hope. From the very first I could see they were different in action from other pills. They didn't gripe and acted as naturally as if nature and not the pills were cleansing my clogged up system. My spirits rose, I felt much better, the sluggish action of the system gave way to normal activity. Dizziness and headaches ceased, appetite, good color, and ambition to work returned and have remained. I am like a new man and I thank Dr. Hamilton's Pills for it all."

THE CONVENTION

The Conservative convention last night was a most happily conducted gathering, hearty and unanimous in all of its selections, and evincing a spirit of progressiveness and fight that augurs well indeed for the success of the Conservative candidates at the elections, whenever they are brought on.

The convention considered the name of only one man for each house, which was in itself an evidence of the singleness of mind exhibited by the delegates. That each of the candidates selected, Mr. J. H. Burnham and Mr. E. A. Peck, represents the thorough choice of the party—of the rank and file of the party—no one will gainsay, because Mr. Burnham's reception last night, and the reception given to the name of Mr. Peck, who at present is in the west, but who sent word through Mr. T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P., that he would accept if nominated, was most enthusiastic.

The attendance of delegates was splendid, the townships being particularly well represented, and the rural delegates took no small part in the proceedings of the evening. Considering that the convention was held in the evening, this great interest by the township organizations is specially commendable. It is a matter of congratulation on all sides that the convention was marked by great enthusiasm, a splendid purpose, and practical unanimity that spells success in the support of candidates.

Mr. Burnham's candidature was expected, for while he was not successful in the 1908 campaign, owing to special circumstances surrounding that election and the protest, on the principle generally recognized that a defeated candidate may have another opportunity, if willing, Mr. Burnham had the right to expect the nomination. But aside from this, the rousing reception given his name when proposed, by the delegates, was sufficient evidence that he was the hearty choice of the party; that the party wanted him, and him alone. Mr. Burnham will be able to put up a strong fight this time, and it may be confidently expected that he will be able to carry the Conservative standard to victory in this riding.

No stronger candidate could have been chosen for the Ontario contest than Mr. Peck, when Mr. Bradburn had announced his determination to retire. Mr. Peck has had plenty of experience, having been reeve of Ashburnham when it was a part of the county, and later Warden of the county. He has the thorough respect of all classes and creeds in the ridings, of men of all shades of political opinion. In his twenty-five years of law practice in Peterborough, he has won for himself a niche in the esteem of the people as a man and as a lawyer, and he is the man for the candidature by natural selection.

With two strong candidates, men who are the hearty and unanimous choice of the Conservatives, there does not seem to be any real reason why this, a Conservative constituency, normally, should not return them both. With every Conservative voter standing true, and with attention to a thorough and efficient organization, West Peterborough should on the night of the contests, be able to say "We have done our duty by Mr. Borden and Sir James Whitney."

EDITORIAL NOTES

The little place of Orillia is spending $80,000 to enlarge its civic lighting plant. If Orillia can have a civic power plant, why should not the same be feasible in Peterborough?

A Bostonian scientist has discovered that women nowadays have larger feet than they did some years ago. Huh! They have to have bigger feet in order to balance the increase in the size of their hats.

The St. Swithin's day superstition that if it rains on that day it will rain for forty days thereafter, is interesting as a relic of the credulous old days. Now that we have the higher critics we don't believe any of the good old "dope," religious or otherwise.

A British steamer docking at Montreal brought two hundred tons of loose grain from Britain to Canada, the home of the grain-growing country. If this will happen under the present circumstances, what will happen when we can import American grains free, under reciprocity?

Trouble in Mexico is reported again. Like Banquo's ghost, it will not down. This time Medero is angered because President De La Barra hasn't dismissed all the Diaz officials, and because he hasn't done sundry other things. De la Barra's job is like that of a man hired to sit on a keg of gunpowder while his allies around insist in throwing lighted matches at him.

A RICH HAUL

When the ice companies of New York found the recent hot spell was going to stay with the job for a while, they advanced the price of ice from $2.25 to $3 and even to $5. They made a rich haul out of the agony of thousands of poor people, who had to suffer the intense heat without any prospect of relief by trips out of the sweltering city.

That is the trouble with most of these greedy corporations. The people who invariably get "stung" are the people who can least afford it. The poor are ground down to still more abject poverty, while the rich make enough for another tour to Europe, or add another Rembrandt or Reubens to their galleries.

Canada, fortunately, knows little of the conditions of life in some of these great metropolitan centres. Canada doesn't want to know them, nor experience them. Better far is it for Canada that we should remain a country of eight million, happily living in comparative ease and comfort, without the appalling extremes of diamonds and dirt, of magnificence and squalor. Population is all very well, but it brings in its train evils that need concentrated and continuous attention lest they develop into great sores on the body politic.

We have a craze for development, but all development is not progress along right or sound lines, and much of it we can do without quite nicely. Let us go more slowly, and lay a sure foundation for all of our prosperity.

Oakville, July 18.—Goldwin Gregory, son of W. D. Gregory, barrister, while out sailing in a canoe yesterday was upset about three-quarters of a mile from shore. Some people on the wharf witnessed the accident and M. H. Williams, proprietor of the Murray House, ran out in his motor boat to the rescue.

Mr. Gregory had a very close call, as the water was extremely cold, and it is not likely he would have held on much longer.

During these dog days, and after each violent storm, which occur so frequently this year, we read almost daily of destruction, devastation and death from heat, fire and lightning. These calamities occur with startling suddenness; they give no warning; no person or property is immune from this sudden and devastating havoc. We cannot prevent them, but we may ameliorate their consequences.

Is it not the part of wisdom on your part to insure your buildings and stock from loss or damage by fire or lightning; to insure yourself against accident and sickness and to protect your family, as far as possible, from the dire consequences of your sudden death.

All these kinds of insurance can be procured in the strongest of companies, at the lowest rates consistent with safety, at W. H. Hill's General Insurance Agency, at 159 Hunter street.

"Now you're talking, my lass," he said grimly, getting up also, "and I'll talk right back to you. If I took your opinion of me and that of your thieving husband I wouldn't have to talk. I'd tell you in plain words that if you wanted to go to San Francisco with me I'd take a chance on the overeating and wouldn't put you on a diet like I put the rest. What would you do then? What if I did make the proposition that's in your mind and was in the mind of that sneaking husband of yours when he tried to put you on the bargain counter and send you over to me to see if I'd put the price up to sixteen thousand? What if I looked you over and was pleased and thought you cheap at that figure? You say I've killed men. Yes, I have—wrung their heads off with this hand like you'd sling a chicken in the air. You came here for a purpose. You ain't no child. What if I am the beast and the brute you say I am? What'll you do then? I said you was the first lady to come in here. Maybe I made a mistake, but if I did I'll find it out before you leave this room, you understand? I've talked; now you talk."

Her reply came with withering scorn:

"Now I know that you're everything people say you are."

"All right," he said, making a step toward her. "If I am what everybody says I am—what you think I am—you know what to expect, and I don't need to talk."

The peril of her situation roused her to desperation, and with it came the courage desperation sometimes imparts, the courage that impels a defenseless animal hunted into a corner from which there is no escape to turn and fight for its life.

"You think I'm afraid of you!" she cried, throwing up her head and clinching the hands at her sides. "I tell you I'm not. We've been too long at cross purposes. What you want me to do I know; what my husband sent me for I know. You can be the beast and the brute that you are; he can be the contemptible cur that he is. He can offer me for sale, and you can stand ready to buy me. But I've got something to say about it, and I desire you to know that if I wanted to place myself on the market, as you say, I couldn't! You disgust me, but I shan't shirk, and I am not afraid of you or of him or of any one. Here!"

"You came here for a purpose. You ain't no child."

She turned quickly, locked the door, threw the key at his feet and confronted him unflinchingly again.

"There's the key to your room. The door is locked, and I am alone with you. You kill men? You wring their necks? Well, Captain Williams, here's your first chance to kill a woman, for that's just exactly what you'll have to do!"

She saw the glare in the little savage optics under the beetling brows fade out, to be replaced by a gleam of admiration, not the covetous admiration of her shapely, panting form, of her handsome, resolute face, but honest admiration of the pure soul that shone in her eyes.

"I knew you were that kind of a woman," he said, thankfulness and real tenderness in his voice. "If you hadn't done just what you did I'd 'a' been the most disappointed man in the world."

"What do you mean?"

"I mean," he continued, almost reverently, "that I banked on you being good, and you are good. I know women. I've bought mine all over the world, from Hindoos to niggers. But I paid for 'em, and they was always willing to sell. There ain't but two kinds, the good and the bad, and there's no halfway. When they're bad they're bad through and through and can't be good, and when they're good they can't be bad, and they're next to heaven. I figured you good, and if you hadn't been it would have hit me, and hit me hard. You're safer here, young woman, than with your mother, because I'd fight for you, and don't forget I can wring men's necks like chickens."

Emma could not comprehend it.

"I don't understand you," she faltered.

"Maybe you mean you don't believe me," he said, going to the table and taking the paper he had written upon and then slipped between the pages of one of the magazines. "Here. I've had this waiting for you. Read it."

She made no motion to take it from his hand.

"Well, I'll read it for you," he said. "It's addressed to that husband of yours:

"'Your resignation is accepted. I wish to thank you for your services and to assure you that your accounts with the Latin-American Steamship company have been audited and found to be correct.'

"Now, Mrs. Brooks, if you'd acted in any way but what you did you would not have got this, but I knew you were good, and you are good."

He added with deep feeling, holding out the paper to her again:

"It's worth that much to me and a lot more to have a good woman for a sort of daughter. Take it."

This time she accepted it mechanically.

"Thank you, Captain Williams," she said.

The words came in a whisper, almost inaudibly.

She tried to read the writing, but tears in her eyes blurred her sight.

"You know, Mrs. Brooks," said Williams in a light tone and his usual voice, seating himself in his chair and looking away from her, "before we got to discussing this business I was telling you about the Sally Moran, my first ship. Now, that ship—hear me say ship?—she was only a schooner"—

She walked up to him and interrupted him, smiling gratefully through her tears.

"What can I do now, captain?" she asked.

The telephone bell rang as she spoke. "You might answer the phone," he told her. "I'm getting almighty lazy."

She did so.

"It's Jimsy—Mr. Smith," she announced.

"I kind o' thought that fellow 'd be nosing around instead of going to Boston," he soliloquized. "What's the trouble?"

"He's downstairs and wants to know if he can come up."

"Sure he can!"

"Yes, come up, Jimsy," she called.

The captain stroked his face thoughtfully.

"When you let him in you sort o' smile and look into his face," he said. "He's a kind of an old baby, Smith is, and it does him a lot of good."

"I always smile at Jimsy," she replied. "No one could help that, could they?"

"He is an amusing cuss," he conceded.

He reached for the tin of tobacco.

"You don't mind if I smoke, do you?"

"No, I don't think I'd mind if you committed arson."

"It's too hot to burn up everything," he laughed. "Besides, there's a lot of folks say I'll get enough fire after my will's read."

"They don't know you, that's the trouble," she said, the thankful tears welling to her eyes again as she looked at him.

"Smith ain't particular quick about getting here, is he?" he remarked, changing the subject. "After all he said you'd expect him to be a regular hero and drop in from the ceiling."

"What did he say?"

"That's telling," he added, puffing stolidly at his pipe. "You're going to have a hard time letting that man in if you don't find the key you threw around so careless like."

She picked up the key and unlocked the door. As she did so Smith knocked, and she let him in. He looked keenly at her as she smiled up into his face, and he took the hand she extended.

"We've been waiting for you, Jimsy," she said.

"Emma," he observed, "I think that's the prettiest smile I ever saw you smile."

"Hello, Smith, ain't going to Boston tonight, eh?" queried the captain.

"No; I guess them docks will be there tomorrow," he replied.

He drew his revolver, extracted the cartridges with even more than ordinary deliberation and threw them on the table.

"I just thought I'd take the pegs out of the heel of that shoe we were discussing some time since and hand 'em to you as souvenirs," he remarked.

"Thank you," was the dry rejoinder.

"I'd give you the whole darn shoe," added Jimsy with heartiness, "only a fellow never can tell when he's going to have another sore foot."

"The trouble with you is, Smith, your foot hurts you before you stub your toe," commented Williams.

"I guess that's right," he avowed. "Ready to go home, Emma?"

"You wait for me a moment, Jimsy. I want to speak to the captain," she said.

"All right," he responded, going outside to ring up the elevator.

"Captain, this paper—shall I give it to him?" she inquired.

"Who—Brooks?"

"Yes."

"I would. It clears you."

"And you? How can I thank you?"

"Don't mind me. Only some time when you get settled down and are living happy again invite me up to tea. Let me put on my slippers and smoke my pipe in the parlor."

"Indeed I will. Good night."

"And, Emma," he added ere she had reached the door, "I suppose I can call you Emma now, can't I?"

People's Railway Meeting.

Berlin, Ont., July 18.—When the People's Railway meeting was adjourned for lunch at one o'clock, it was announced that progress had been slow, and it was said it was likely no decision would be arrived at to-day. Mr. Roaf, K.C., of Toronto, representing the Lachman Construction Co., was present.

After a rather stormy session, however, the shareholders elected a new board of directors, and the new board will probably immediately open negotiations for the sale of the road to Mackenzie and Mann. A representative of the C.N.R. was here yesterday, but was not in a position to place any definite proposition before the directors.

Really a Triple Alliance.

Tokio, July 18.—The newspapers here continue to discuss the revised Anglo-Japanese treaty, and while the majority of the papers favor the new alliance, still there are a few which strongly condemn it.

The new situation, some of the papers state, practically amounts to a triple alliance between Great Britain, Japan and the United States.

The minority press, on the other hand, severely criticizes the agreement as being one-sided and thus weakening the position of Japan.

The isolation of Japan, say this section of the papers, is complete, and the United States has greatly secured its position in international politics.

Westinghouse Mix-Up.

New York, July 18.—An active campaign against the present conduct of the affairs of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co. has been commenced by Charles J. Canda, a large shareholder of the company, who yesterday had addressed letters to all the stockholders asking them to send their proxies to George Westinghouse of Pittsburg.

Mr. Canda assets that the company is earning sufficient sums to pay dividends and that they should not be withheld from the stockholders.

Four new directors to the board are to be chosen at an election on July 28.

Six Leaped Overboard.

Detroit, July 18.—Panic on board a launch on the Detroit River last night, following a trivial explosion, resulted in the death of one person and the narrow escape from drowning of five others. A small quantity of gasoline which had escaped from the engine became ignited and the sudden flash of fire so frightened the six occupants of the little craft that they all leaped overboard.

Miss Mabel Mason, aged 19, whose home is in Woodstock, Ont., sank before assistance could reach the struggling party. The others were rescued.

LOOKING FOR GERMAN.

Montreal Advised That "Wanted" Man In on Steamer.

Montreal, July 19.—According to information received at the local German consulate, Wilhelm Johann Gustav Schlottman of Wismar, Germany, wanted by the police of that city on a charge of having obtained cash to the amount of over $30,000 on forged checks, is supposed to be now on the water heading in the direction of Montreal.

Traveling with Schlottman, who was a prominent lawyer in his native city, is said to be Miss Karla Meschatt, the daughter of a Wismar merchant, who has been missing from her home since a day or two previous to Schlottman's disappearance.

While most of the money which Schlottman is said to have carried away from Germany with him was the result of cleverly forged checks in the name of some of his clients, it is understood that charges of embezzlement are also to be laid against the man.

The local police authorities, as well as those at Quebec, have been notified to be on the lookout for Schlottman, who is described as being 37 years of age, about five feet eight inches in height, with a strong thick set face, heavy moustache, slightly bald, blue eyes, florid complexion and always wearing a binocle.

Urge Conclusion of Treaty.

St. Petersburg, July 19.—The Novoe Vremya urges the conclusion of an Anglo-Russian treaty of arbitration.

The Moscow Russkoe Slovo styles the treaty signed by Japan and Great Britain as the end of Anglo-Japanese alliance.

The amendments in the new version, it says, are tantamount to annulment of the alliance, and will terminate Japanese hegemony in the Pacific. Since the Portsmouth conference, The Slovo says, Japan has neglected her navy and devoted her whole resources to the army and the establishments on the continent, preparatory to a further advance to the northwest. An end has now been put to Japan's continental policy. Henceforth she must watch the United States and spend money for a powerful fleet.

The Russkoe Slovo urges immediate negotiations for an Anglo-Russian treaty of arbitration, "to free Russia from wearisome Japanese tutelage in the Far East."

Wife Murderer Suicided.

St. Ignace, Mich., July 19.—Robert Inglis, on his way to the Marquette prison to serve a 40-year sentence, jumped overboard from a car ferry yesterday between Mackinac City and St. Ignace. He refused aid from a life-preserver thrown to him and drowned.

Anti-Reciprocity Meeting.

Chatham, July 19.—Preparations are being made for a big Liberal-Conservative meeting here on July 29, when prominent speakers will be present to address the farmers on reciprocity. SEVEN YEARS OF MISERY

All Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Sikeston, Mo.—"For seven years I suffered everything. I was in bed for four or five days at a time every month, and so weak I could hardly walk. I cramped and had backache and headache, and was so nervous and weak that I dreaded to see anyone or have anyone move in the room. The doctors gave me medicine to ease me at those times, and said that I ought to have an operation. I would not listen to that, and when a friend of my husband told him about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it had done for his wife, I was willing to take it. Now I look the picture of health and feel like it, too. I can do my own housework, hoe my garden, and milk a cow. I can entertain company and enjoy them. I can visit when I choose, and walk as far as any ordinary woman, any day in the month. I wish I could talk to every suffering woman and girl."—Mrs. DEMA BETHUNE, Sikeston, Mo.

The most successful remedy in this country for the cure of all forms of female complaints is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

It is more widely and successfully used than any other remedy. It has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing down feeling, indigestion, and nervous prostration, after all other means had failed. Why don't you try it?

THREE IMPORTANT BY-LAWS TO BE VOTED ON FRIDAY JULY 28

Fixed Assessment For Ten Years for Two Concerns—Money for Parks.

Freeholders will be asked to vote on three important by-laws on Friday, July 28, one is to fix the assessment of the B. F Ackerman, Son & Company, who recently made improvements to their factory at the corner of George and Dalhousie Streets to the extent of $2000 on the understanding at the time that the council would give them a fixed assessment. The factory has been enlarged so that the output of the company is increased and also the number of employees. Under the provisions of the by-law, the company must continue to substantially carry on their business to its full capacity at least ten months of a term of ten years

LOCK COMPANY

The situation with the Peterboro Lock Manufacturing Company, is along the same lines. The Company have asked that their assessment be fixed at $25,000 for a term of ten years Many improvements have been made to the premises in the way of enlargements to the plant, installation of new machinery; which of course means more employment. Neglect to continue with the business will mean the annullment of the agreement.

PARK BY-LAW.

Another by-law which needs serious consideration is one, which if passed, will give the city, power to issue debentures for the borrowing of $21,000 the same to be expended in the purchase of property in the south east, and west parts of the city, for parks purposes. Property is steadily increasing in value and it is felt that now is a most opportune time to purchase property, if such is the wish of the people.

The polls will be open from nine o'clock in the morning till five o'clock at night and the polling subdivisions are the same as prevailed when the vote was taken on the independent Tire Company by-law.

An address was read testifying to the love and esteem in which Mrs. Wright has been so long held.

Cedron Seed Plant.

In Central America many natives are gathering the seeds of this plant, Cedron Seed, a rare medicine that has valuable curative powers. But few drug stores carry this seed, owing to the high cost of the article.

This country is a large consumer of this costly seed because it enters into the famous catarrh remedy, Peruna, sold the world over.

FACTS ABOUT LOCOMOTIVES

The selling price of a modern up-to-date locomotive is in the neighborhood of $20,000. Audits of the Canadian Locomotive Company's books show that they have earned at the rate of a little over $300,000 per year. With their capacity doubled they should make at least $600,000 per year.

The manufacturer of locomotives is a profitable enterprise in that amongst other considerations there are no book debts. The railroads pay for their locomotives in instalments every thirty days on progress certificates, so that a locomotive manufacturing concern receives cash for its output as the manufacturing proceeds and obviates the necessity of keeping large stocks of raw material on hand. They order simply as requirements arise. The elimination of book debts enables the locomotive companies to obtain a much larger profit than if they were compelled to wait many months for their money.

SHIRTS BURNED OFF THEIR BACKS

Harry Tomkinson Tells of Recent Porcupine Fire

How He and His Brother Arthur Escaped

Mr. Harry Tompkinson, a survivor of the Porcupine fire, has arrived home in Galt and tells the following story of the escape he and his brother Arthur, who is well known in town had. He had been engaged with Mr. Richmond at his studio on Hunter street;

"On the day of the fire," said Harry Tomkinson, in relating his experience, "I was at the Philadelphia mine, talking to the bookkeeper. I had gone there for the purpose of taking some photographs, and seeing a dense smoke in the distance I said, "it is pretty dark to take pictures."

"We both recognized the smoke as that of a forest fire and the bookkeeper asked me to remain and help them fight it but I had to get back to town and left. If I had stayed I should not likely have escaped. My friend was suffocated with others at the mine.

"A great wall of smoke heralded the approach of the fire and it was easily seen that the conflagration was one of large proportions. When the seriousness of the situation was realized, the first thought was for the safety of the women. In launches and canoes they were taken to North Porcupine. By this time the fire had almost reached the town and the lake offered the only place of safety. Men rushed into the water until it reached their arm pits and stood there while the town was licked up like matchwood.

"Enveloped in a dense smoke we could not see each other as we stood in the water and the heat was so great from the flames which shot over the lake that some of the men had their shirts burned off their backs. Many of us ducked underneath the water from time to time in an effort to keep our bodies cool. Within ten minutes after the first shack had caught fire, all the buildings in the town had been razed to the ground. We had to stay in the water for two or three hours before it was safe to venture among the smoking ruins."

Telling of his losses, Mr. Tomkinson said that the house in which he and his brother lived was gone completely and his brother had decided to stay in Porcupine for a couple of days to fix up the insurance. "We buried a trunkful of goods and three valuable cameras and after the fire when we dug them up, found they were intact."

"One sight I shall not forget," he said. "A man who had run through the flames came out of the bush in a pitiable condition. Both of his hands were burned off and the flesh on his arms and face was badly scorched.

"The dry weather has been responsible for a large number of fires in Northern Ontario and we had been fighting them for the past three weeks."

Mr. Tomkinson did not appear to be anxious to go back to the scenes of his terrible experiences.

He stated that the town will be rebuilt within a very short time. The day after the fire some of the prospectors had commenced to erect new buildings.

Oil at Cobourg

The use of oil on King street is not popular at least with some of our merchants. They claim that the dust which accumulates on the counters and goods is of a sticky nature, and hard to clean off. One of our butchers stated that the disagreeable odor had invaded his refrigerator and it was feared the contents would become tainted. As the oil is only an experiment, the council may discontinue its use at any time.—Cobourg Post.

RAN ON AN UNSEEN PIER

Launch Party Met With Mishap Down the River

Mr. H. B. Rye, of the Otonabee boat house, was awakened from his peaceful slumbers about twelve o'clock last night by two young ladies who were pounding on his front door with the energy of a punching bag artist. They had, it appears, rushed in where their escorts feared to tread, for the male portion of a belated pleasure party kept behind the scenes. Most people know Mr. Rye has a telephone and the young ladies had the inside information. They wished to phone to a livery barn for a hack to convey them and theirs to the city. The party had been down the river in a launch and the navigator failed to dodge an unseen pier. The result was a long delay, which accounted for the late arrival at the boat house.

EX-POLICEMAN WANTS FARM WORK

Recent Applicants for Work from Across the Pond

The office of the immigration agent is not now quite so busy as during the earlier part of the season, but still is active enough to keep the officer busy arranging terms between farmers and prospective employees, the latter mostly new arrivals from the Old Land.

At present Mr. Howson has several advice notes on fyle informing him of parties who have sailed from the Old Country and who are expected to reach Canada in the course of a few days.

One is a young man named Herbert Lofts, whose enclosed photo showed him to be a bright, intelligent appearing man, aged 35 years. He is married and has been employed in his home city as a policeman. He says he is used to farm work however, and understands horses, cattle, etc, and desires a position with a good farmer.

Another one, a 21 year old lad named Arthur Freebarough wrote, desiring to take up farm work in Canada. A still younger lad, aged 19 wrote describing himself as young, strong and giving references as to his character.

Next comes a Scotch laddie named F. McKeegan, 18 years of age, who has had two years experience in farm work.

Bertie Jones, 22 years old, has written, saying he can plough, milk, and that he understands horses, having been engaged in farming since he was thirteen.

Mr. Howson keeps on record what might be called his black list. It is the collection of advice notes recommending immigrants who come to this country, with the intention of taking up either farm or domestic work, but who have on their arrival here, been recognized and shown by experience, to be utterly unfitted for such work, and for whom some other more adaptable employment had to be secured.

DIAMOND DUST

News About Players and Ex-Players of the Big Leagues

Ham Hyatt, the former Pirate, is doing the heavy work with the stick for Kansas City. Ham made three home runs in three days.

In Pitcher Benn, the Dubuque, Ia., club claims to have the original "Wild man of Borneo." In three games that Benn started he pitched a game of nine innings, in which he issued 24 passes to first base, hit two batsmen, forced in two runs, made a balk and an error and was nicked for nine safe hits.

Clyde Engle has played seven positions on the Boston Red Sox team this year. Clyde started in the big leagues as an outfielder. Last season Manager Donovan switched him to third. This year Clyde was switched to every position except the box and in back of the plate. The seven other jobs were covered by him at various times.

Larry Hesterfer, the former Eastern League pitcher, is pitching the semi-professional institute team of Newark to the championship of New Jersey. Last week Larry pitched two shut-out games.

We make a little prediction right now about Larry Schafly. From our observations of his business and baseball methods, Larry Schafly, we think, will be a big man in baseball before many years roll along. Larry is shrewd and a good baseball general. Newark's present position can be attributed to some extent to Larry's absence from these parts.—Newark Star.

The baseball scouts would do well to take a look at William Clancy, who has been doing some wonderful pitching in Massachusetts. So far this season he has fanned 184, an average of 13 to a game.

Oscar Stanage is back in the game with the Tigers, and the Detroiters are going better. Umpire Evans, as wise an autocrat as the diamond can show, says the ex-Newarker is the best catcher in the major leagues and the best backstop in baseball.

Scouts say early reports indicate that there will be a dearth of second basemen capable to go higher up this season. They say there are a number of good third basemen available in the minor leagues, but no keystone sack guardians.

Richmond, Va., thinks it is going to land in the Eastern League by getting Baltimore's berth when Baltimore climbs into the majors again.

With a record of 45 games won as against 21 lost, the Columbus, Ga., team won the pennant in the South Atlantic League for the first season.

Joe Bean, former manager of the Jerseys, is instructor at the Atlanta A. C., the swell organization of that city. Joe coached the basketball and baseball teams of Marist College, Atlanta, and both teams won the collegiate championships this year.

FORTY-NINE FANNED

In the act of discussing strike-out records, here is one worth looking over. In a battle at Shippan, Conn., a few days ago, King's school played Stamford. The contest ran to 12 innings, during which time Earl Sarcka, of King's school, fanned 29 men, while Daniels, the rival slabman, totalled 20 strike-outs—thereby running the total up to 49 strike-outs for the game. While Sarcka whiffed 29 of his rivals, holding them to six hits, he was beaten 3 to 2. When an athlete can strike out 29 of the 36 batsmen who face him in a 12-round game he must be somewhere close along. Forty-nine for the game is a record that has never even been approached.—New York Mail.

INSIDE BASEBALL

"Inside baseball," says Frank Chance, manager of the Chicago Cubs, "is doing the right thing at the right time. This is the real inside of a much mooted question. Most of the drivel about inside ball is pure bunk."

Not every woman thinks she is know any more after having had experience than before.

Masonic Grand Lodge.

St. Catharines, July 19.—Last evening the city was well filled with Masonic delegates to the grand lodge, which opens to-day, many arriving on last evening's trains. Yesterday morning was spent in committee meetings, and in the afternoon the grand lodge officers and members of committees were taken for an automobile tour through the fruit district into Vineland and the experimental fruit farm, members of the local lodges furnishing the autos. Last evening the visitors attended a special concert given by the 19th Regiment band in their honor.

The office of senior warden, which, [illegible] man, will likely be given to J. A. Grobb. John W. Coy will probably be local district deputy. Mayor McBride, upon the opening of the grand lodge, will deliver the civic address of welcome, after which Grand Master McWatt will deliver his report.

Honey Goes Up.

Toronto, July 19.—Up goes the price of honey.

When the honey exchange committee of the Ontario Beekeepers' Association held their annual meeting yesterday at the secretary's office in the Parliament buildings, several reasons were given for an advance in prices. The practical failure of the small fruit crops, the high price of cherries, only a fair crop of apples, and the reduction in the supply of white honey, both in Canada and the United States, were some of the more important arguments for a higher rate of prices.

Suicide In Cell.

Peterboro, July 19.—George Hop, aged 51, unmarried, suicided in a police cell yesterday morning by cutting his throat with a pocket-knife.

Having been arrested for the fourth time on a charge of being drunk, he had been in the cells all the previous day and late Monday night had sobered up.

Killed at Telephone.

Brockville, Conn., July 19.—A. H. Ramagge of Hartford, 25 years old, was killed by an electric shock as he stood at a telephone early yesterday in the local sub-station of the Connecticut Co., through which high power wires run. Wires became crossed, so that when the young man answered the bell, he received the heavy current.

Parkhill Girl Drowned.

Windsor, July 19.—The Detroit River claimed another victim Monday night, when Miss Mabel Mason of Parkhill, Ont., met a watery grave off the foot of Campeau avenue. In her death struggles she nearly dragged to his death Samuel Parr, 22 years old, who lives in this city and who was endeavoring to save her.

Furniture Store Gutted.

Chatham, July 19.—The McDonald furniture store was partially gutted by fire yesterday at noon. The blaze only raged for about half an hour before the firemen had it stopped, but in that time almost the entire stock of the store, which comprises three storeys on King street, was destroyed. Damage by fire, water and smoke will run into thousands of dollars. Gray's China Hall, next door, was drenched with water, and much of the stock ruined. The origin of the fire is unknown, and how it got such a start before it was noticed is rather a mystery.

Opposed the Merger.

Montreal, July 19.—Lieut.-Col. F. S. Meighen was yesterday elected president of the Lake of the Woods Milling Co., succeeding his late father in that position. The new president had been a director of the company for several years and had also occupied the treasurership. No director to fill the place left vacant on the board by the election of the new president has as yet been named.

Lieut.-Col. Meighen's appointment to the presidency means that the anti-merger policy of the company, inaugurated by his late father, will be steadfastly adhered to.

Hindered the Firemen.

Cardiff, Wales, July 19.—Serious rioting occurred on the docks yesterday, arising from the strike troubles, in which a dozen policemen and a score of civilians were badly injured. During the riots a large dock warehouse caught fire. It is suspected that an incendiary applied the match. The rioters interfered with the efforts of the firemen to extinguish the flames, and looted the warehouse of hogsheads of liquor, which they consumed. The police have been ordered here from Newport, and there is great fear of renewed rioting of a more serious nature.

Missing Since the Fire.

Kingston, July 19.—Kingston relatives have received word from Porcupine that T. N. Campbell, who left here seven years ago, is safe, but that two of his brothers, Wesley and Ernest, also the latter's wife and two children, who took refuge in the lake, are missing. T. N. Campbell was one of the first men on the ground at Porcupine and conducted a brokerage office. Wesley Campbell's house was burned.

Watered the Milk.

Brockville, July 19.—John and Michael Featherstone, farmers, residing at Taylor Postoffice, were yesterday fined $50 and costs each for watering milk furnished a cheese factory.

Asked For Explanation.

Madrid, July 19.—According to a semi-official statement last night the Foreign Office has requested the Spanish legation at Tangier for information regarding the reported arrest of M. Boisset, the French consular agent at Alcazar. In view of the fact that instructions have already been given to the Spanish Minister at Tangier and the fact also that he has not reported the incident, is taken as indicating either that it was unimportant in itself, or that the legation's explanations offered M. Boisset were satisfactory.

SUBSTANTIAL GAINS

Are Noted in Building Permits of the Chief Canadian Cities—Vancouver is Leading

Fewer losses than were noted in the previous month, and a substantial improvement as compared with the corresponding period of last year, is the summary of Construction's report in brief for building operations carried out in twenty-three representative Canadian cities during the month of February. Permits issued in the twenty-three centres amounted to $4,051,958, as against $3,000,127 in the same month of last year, which represents an average of gain of 34 per cent.

Ottawa dropped behind to the extent of 33 per cent., and Fort William and London registered respective decreases of 21 and 35 per ecnt. On the other hand, Toronto has a total of $969,590, which is 18 per cent. better than her corresponding amount; Hamilton doubled her previous figures by undertaking work aggregating in cost $75,450; and Windsor and Brantford succeeded in surpassing their former mark to the extent of 614 per cent., and 180 per cent. in order named. In the West a marked onward movement was in evidence on practically all sides. Vancouver not only surpassed the million mark, but again has the highest total for the month registered in the Dominion. While less pronounced from an investment standpoint, Victoria's total of $182,940, representing a gain of 20 per cent., shows excellent progress, and as much can be said regarding the total of Calgary ($333,660), and the amount of Winnipeg ($432,500), both of which reflect a most satisfactory and wholesome condition. Edmonton, also, with a gain of 187 per cent., notes a substantial upturn; Regina is ahead by 104 per cent.; and Moose Jaw tacks on a gain of 27 per cent.

Without the figures of Montreal, the Eastern section would be rather slimly represented. Montreal, however, issued permits amounting to $642,428, as compared with $274,030 in February of last year, and has the third largest total in the list.

Failed to Cure Rheumatism

Miss Flora Chapman Vividly Describes Her Sufferings and Ultimate Cure With "Nerviline."

"After being an enthusiastic user of Nerviline for years, I feel it my duty to tell you personally what your wonderful preparation has done for me.

"I suffered torture from rheumatism and heart trouble, tried scores of so-called remedies, consulted for weeks and months with Toronto's most eminent physicians, but derived only slight benefit.

"A friend insisted on my using Nerviline, and to my surprise a vigorous rubbing of this powerful liniment eased the pains and reduced the stiffness in my joints. I continued to use Nerviline and was permanently cured. I am now perfectly well, and for three years have had no rheumatism at all. I know many families where no other medicine but Nerviline is kept—it is so useful in minor ailments like earache, toothache, neuralgia, coughs, colds, lumbago, and sciatica. I call Nerviline my "Life Guard," and urge all to try its merit."

RAIN WELCOMED AT LAKEHURST

Telephone Line is a Long Time Coming

Special Correspondence

Lakehurst, July 18—The rain which has fallen lately was extremely welcome here, as we have not had any of any account since the middle of June, and the crops were suffering in consequence. Although the rain came too late to help the hay and wheat, we trust that the peas and oats will be benefitted.

Mr. A. G. Shearer has opened an ice cream parlour at Lakehurst for Saturday evenings. A week ago Saturday was the opening, and the ice-cream was of first class quality and seemed to be in great demand.

Miss Edna Shearer visited Buckhorn a short time ago on a huckleberrying expedition. She reports however that the crop is not so good as might be desired. Her entire picking amounted to one pint.

Mr. Alvin Johnston of Belleville spent a few days of last week visiting friends here.

Misses Marion and Lena Weir have returned home after a short visit with friends here.

Miss Sue Weir spent last week visiting her aunt in Apsley.

Miss Holmes and Mr. Aimes of Raeboro were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Holmes a week ago Sunday.

Miss King of Peterborough who was visiting at the home of Mr. McGuire, returned home on Friday.

The telephone line is still incomplete. Although we are experiencing the unpleasant features, such as having immense posts thrust in our door yards and having the boughs topped from our beautiful shade trees, we have as yet, had no chance of testing the advantages of the innovation, but trust that, when we do it will amply repay us for all past delays and inconveniences.

ASQUITH'S SCHOOL DAYS

Recalled by Former Schoolmate of the Prime Minister of England—Some of His Characteristics

His political friends and foes alike are agreed that few men have achieved fame and honor in a more brilliant fashion than Mr. Asquith. All he has attained has been accomplished "off his own bat." As a youth he won a scholarship at the City of London School, and he has kept and educated himself ever since. The Premier entered the City of London School in 1864, when he was twelve years of age, and, as will be seen from the following reminiscences of Mr. Thomas Thwaites, of Barnet, who was at school with the Prime Minister, the latter soon began to give indications of his extraordinary capabilities.

"Within six months of his entry into the school," said Mr. Thwaites, "young Asquith had secured the Divinity prize and also the Latin prize. The following year he got the prize for general proficiency, and in 1866 the Classical Progress Prize; the next year the first Classical prize fell to him, as well as Sir William Titus's scholarship. Then in 1869 and 1870 he was captain of the school, declaiming the fame of John Carpenter, the founder, in Greek, and gaining such prizes as the Latin Verse prize, English History prize, gold medal for general proficiency, and the Mowlem prize for English.

"It is surprising," continued Mr. Thwaites, laughingly, "that during the time Mr. Asquith was at school, if any boy thought of going in for some special prize he usually retired from the contest when he heard that young Asquith was also competing.

"Still, in spite of his brilliancy, we little dreamt that we were chumming with the future Prime Minister of England. It was not easy to imagine, in spite of young Asquith's brilliance in the schoolroom, that the boy who lived at Highbury and walked from there to the City, via Goswell Road, in order to save the bus fares which were so expensive in those days, would one day sit at the head of the British Cabinet.

"And Mr. Asquith himself has confessed that such an ambition never entered his mind; for he stated at a dinner given to him by the John Carpenter Club—that association of old boys of the City of London School who see to keep alive the memory of the founder—on the occasion of his being made Home Secretary, that occasionally on his way from school he would look with a 'sense of awe-struck solemnity at the Houses of Parliament and the members entering, little thinking of the part he himself would play there in the future.'

"I cannot say that young Asquith was popular. He was not good at games. He didn't like them. He seemed to stand aloof, and acquired the reputation of being what we term 'stand-offish.' Not because he was naturally unsociable, but simply because it was work, and work alone, which appealed to him. Boyish play was not part of his programme, and apparently he refused to force himself to be as other boys.

Very Tenacious

"I can picture him now—a small, rather square-headed lad, with a pronounced North-country accent and very taciturn manners, but whose speech, when he did let himself go, was very much to the point. There was one subject upon which he was very decided, and that was the great superiority of practically everything in the North of England to anything in the South. And as the majority of the boys of the school were from the South, this topic naturally led to very heated arguments. But young Asquith showed remarkable tenacity in sticking to his guns, and I have since heard that when, as a sixth-form boy, he became a member of the debating society as an advanced Liberal, he was even then strongly opposed to Women's Suffrage.

"Apropos of the doings of this debating society, I might mention that Dr. Abbott, the head master, has related that, as president of the society, he often attended the debates; but as his duties were practically nominal, and as time with him was very precious, it was his custom to take a batch of exercises from the schoolroom and correct these while presiding over the debates. But when Mr. Asquith entered the society he became so interested in the eloquence of the future Prime Minister that he found it difficult to concentrate his mind on the exercises, and, finally, whenever young Asquith held the floor, Dr. Abbot was obliged to resign himself to willing attention.

"The City School, now standing upon the Thames Embankment, looks a much more swell affair than the old building in Milk Street, but it is in the nature of things that it cannot hope to send forth many pupils destined to run a similar course to Mr. Asquith. Some of us old scholars may be Conservatives, but I don't care two straws what shade of politics we affect; in admiration of our old schoolfellow Tories and Liberals are at one."

KITCHENER'S HUNTING SPOILS

Lord Kitchener brought home with him from his trip through the Soudan, Uganda, and East Africa, a fine collection of trophies of the chase which he shot during his tour, writes a London correspondent. Among the more notable of these is a very good specimen of the Soudan giant eland, one of the species which Mr. Selous is sojourning at the present time in Bahr-el-Ghazal in order to obtain for the Natural History Museum.

OPERATED ON HIMSELF

A young Roumanian surgeon, who has astonished Paris by performing upon himself, M. Fzalcon, has been studying a new anaesthetic, which leaves a patient lucid while suppressing sensibility, and as he was suffering from hernia he resolved to try the efficacy of the anaesthetic. It was administered to him, and sitting down at the operating table he calmly performed the necessary operation on himself, stitched up the wound, and then went off to bed. M. Fzalcon is now, it is pleasing to learn, in a fair way to recovery.

People don't seem to be homesick as much as they formerly did.

OFFERED THEIR SKIN

Members of Congregation Respond to [illegible] Save Man's Life

A request for one hundred inches of human skin made by Rev. Dr. Herbert Symonds before his sermon at Christ Church Cathedral rather startled the members of Montreal's most fashionable congregation.

Dr. Symonds explained that a very difficult operation was to be performed within a few days at the General Hospital. William Thomas two weeks ago fell on a red-hot stove at his house while attempting to fix a stove pipe. He was terribly burned, and the doctors now declare that only a new skin can save the man's life.

Dr. Symonds said one hundred square inches were required. He asks for thirty members of the congregation to volunteer each to part with a piece of their skin three inches long and one inch wide.

By noon the next day fifteen members of the congregation had volunteered to contribute toward a new skin for Thomas.

STRINGENT AUTO LAW

Manitoba's New Code Regulating the Running of Motor Cars

The amendments proposed in the automobile law of Manitoba are fairly drastic. In place of the present license fee of $5 the future license will be based upon horse-power, the $5 remaining for all vehicles of twenty-five horse-power or less; between 25 and 35 h.p. the fee is fixed at $10; from 35 to 50 h.p. $15; and 50 h.p. and above $25. To secure a chauffeur's license the applicant must be twenty-one years of age and supply proof that he has passed a satisfactory examination. In case of accident full responsibility is cast upon the owner although he may not be the driver. Stringent provisions deal with joy riders and tampering with autos without the consent of owners. No engine is to be left in motion while standing on the highway. Chains and metals are only to be used on tires when there is ice or snow or the paveemnts are slippery. Drivers must slow down when passing street cars letting off passengers, and must also slow down to six miles per hour at cross roads in the country.

GRAND TRUNK RAILS

An Order for 40,000 Tons Placed at Sydney, N.S.

The Grand Trunk Railway has placed an order for 40,000 tons of steel rails for delivery this season in western Ontario. These will make twenty miles of 80-pound to the yard track and 240 miles of 100-pound track. The cost will amount to considerably over one million dollars. The company will ship 209 miles of its displaced track for use by the Grand Trunk Pacific in constructing yards and sidings in the west. Some of these rails have been in use since 1869 and are still good. They were imported from England at that time for the lines in Ontario. As they are only of 56 and 65-pound weight, to the yard, they are considered too light for the heavy locomotives now in use on the main lines. All the present order of rails will be filled by the Sydney, Cape Breton, mills.

WORK OF CHARITY

Large Consumption of Food at Free Breakfasts in Toronto

The Sunday morning free breakfasts given at Yonge Street Mission, Toronto, are over for the season.

During the winter thirteen breakfasts have been given, with an average attendance of 310 men each Sunday. The men have had all they could eat and drink, which is quite evident from the 34,000 beef sandwiches and 1,300 gallons of hot coffee consumed. In addition to this 2,588 meal tickets have been given out, making in all 6,611 who have been fed this winter.

Not only have the hungry been fed but over 5,000 articles of clothing have been given away, and 1,225 beds have been provided for those who otherwise would have had to walk the streets during the zero weather.

EXPERIMENTAL FARM

An experimental farm has been established on Prince Edward Island, the site costing $8,000.

I believe I never knew a widower who was not abused for not visiting his wife's grave oftener.

FIRST THROUGH TRAIN

From Portland, Me., to Edmonton—Protecting Immigrants

The first Grand Trunk train bound direct from Portland, Me., to Edmonton, Alta., carried 175 Welsh people for the West. The party was in charge of Mr. R. Courtney, London, England.

Mr. Courtney said these prospective settlers have considerable capital and they intend to take up land.

Mr. J. M. Clark of the Ontario Immigration Department announced that a party of twenty-eight Scotch and North of England farmers, each with $1,000 to $5,000 and over, to invest in Ontario land, would arrive the next week.

Hon. J. S. Duff, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario, had impressed upon Mr. Clark and his subordinates the desirability of exercising particular alartness to prevent intending British investors in Ontario farms laying out their money before they had become acquainted with conditions in this province. It was desirable that such persons should look around the country and become conversant with the prices of land and methods of farming before they located themselves on land.

CANADIAN TREE VALUES

Innumerable Wood Lots that Could be Made a Source of Mixed Trunk Supply

Within ten years the price of Canadian forest productions have in some cases doubled, and in some cases quadrupled, and, for those uses to which cement cannot be adapted and timber is necessary, the values are likely to go even higher. In ten years pine has trebled in price, elm quadrupled, and cedar more than doubled. Such timbers as walnut and hickory are becoming almost unknown.

The Ontario Legislature has given some considerable attention to the forestry problem, and a very interesting bill was passed at the recent session. It states that: The municipal council of a county may pass by-laws:—

(a) For acquiring by purchase, lease or otherwise such lands designated in the by-law as the council may deem suitable for reforestration purposes;

(b) For planting land so acquired and for preserving and protecting the timber thereon;

(c) For the management of such lands and the sale or other disposal of the timber grown thereon;

(d) For the issuing of debentures from time to time for the purpose of providing for the purchase of such lands to an amount not exceeding $25,000 in any one year.

No by-law shall be finally passed under this Act until the same shall have been approved in writing by the Minister of Agriculture.

There are thousands of stony or sandy hillsides and thousands of creek banks now valueless that could be turned to profitable account in the growing of timber. There are innumerable wood lots that could be made a source of mixed timber supply. There are marshy locations in which cedar, elm and spruce could be well and profitably grown, and not only would these reserves form a source of future timber supply, but they would be a great aid in the regulation of our water supply systems.—Canadian Engineer.

Z. A. LASH, ELOCUTIONIST

Mr. Z. A. Lash, K.C., has an unusual hobby. It is reciting. And many a gathering in Toronto has been made to stand out in the memory of those attending by reason of Mr. Lash's performance. His favorite is Drummond, whom he interprets in rare style, and of recent years he has added to his repertoire a number of the most striking of Service's ballads, which, it is needless to add, he renders with great effect.

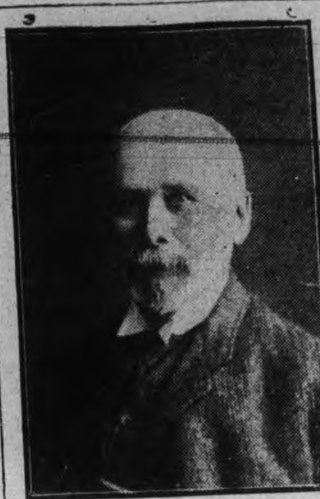
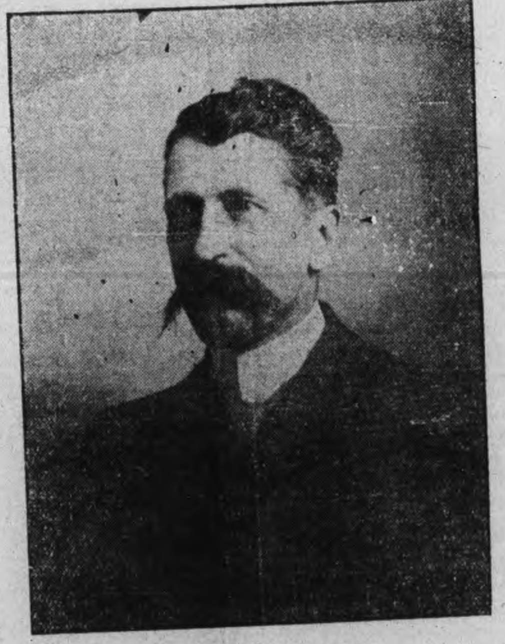
nomination again, was greatly regretted by the delegates and others present. W. H. Moore, K.C., made some appreciatory remarks about Mr. Bradburn's splendid service. J. H. Burnham moved, seconded by Dr. Morrison, the following resolution:



W. H. MOORE, K.C.

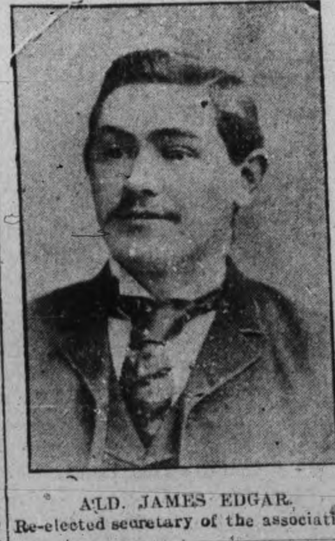
Who moved the complimentary nomination of Mr. T. E. Bradburn, M.L.A.

That the members of the Liberal Conservative association of West Peterborough having learned with deep regret that it is the intention of Mr. Thomas Evans Bradburn, M.P.P., at the end of his present term to withdraw from the representation of this riding, which he has held nearly two terms, and not to offer himself again as a candidate, the members deem it proper to place on record an expression of their high appreciation of his services to the riding, and to the province at large He has ever been found courteous and ready to apply his best efforts not only in forwarding the interests of the riding but as well his aid in an official capacity to all who came to him for assistance, and that without the least regard to party affiliations. It will be admitted on all hands that he has been a conscientious representative and has ever been found in his place in the house, giving intelligent support and help in the passage of measures calculated to benefit the province at large. In a word, he has been a faithful servant to the people, and to-day holds their confidence as surely as he did when his name was first placed in nomination."



MR. T. E. BRADBURN, M.L.A.

Who announced his intention of retiring at the end of the present term from politics, and moved Mr. E. A. Peck's nomination.



ALD. JAMES EDGAR.

Re-elected secretary of the association

CONFIDENCE IN BORDEN

A resolution expressing confidence in and loyalty to Mr. R. L. Borden was read by L.M. Hayes, K.C., and seconded by William Croft, and was received with hearty applause. It was

That the members of the Liberal Conservative association of West Peterborough in convention assembled to place on record an expression of their continued confidence in Mr. R. L. Borden the admirable leader of His Majesty's Loyal opposition in the House of Commons at Ottawa, and in his resolute fight against the unpatriotic government which through its tenure of office has proved wholly unfaithful to the administration of Canada's most vital interests. To our leader is now given the unreserved assurance that every just effort will be made to drive the present government from power, to be replaced by a government of which Mr. Borden will be premier, in which effort West Peterborough may be relied on to do its duty, and it is confidently believed, return a representative to strengthen his hands.

MR. HARRY PHELAN

Re-elected vice-president of the association.

A RECIPROCITY RESOLUTION

A resolution on the reciprocity pact appearing in another part of the Review was moved by Geo. W. Austen, and seconded by James Moncrief, of Smith.

THE NOMINATIONS

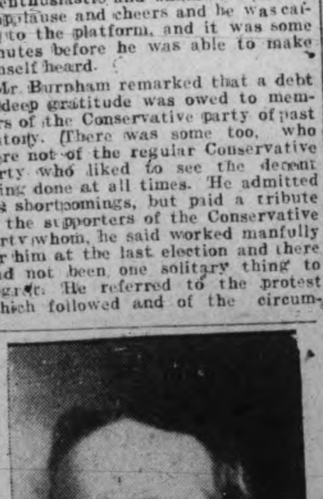
Every precaution for the proper conducting of the voting when the nominations for the Dominion House and Ontario Legislature representative was taken. The names of the delegates were all gone over carefully and scrutineers appointed. The latter however, were not called upon to do duty.

Nominations for the Dominion house were called for first and Mr. Burnham's name was proposed. When no other nominee was forthcoming, the president provided for a five minute interval, and the nominations were closed by Chairman Kendry.

Mr. Burnham's nomination elicited an enthusiastic and unanimous uproar of applause and cheers and he was called to the platform, and it was some minutes before he was able to make himself heard.

Mr. Burnham remarked that a debt of deep gratitude was owed to members of the Conservative party of past history. There was some too, who were not of the regular Conservative party who liked to see the decent thing done at all times. He admitted his shortcomings, but paid a tribute to the supporters of the Conservative party whom, he said worked manfully for him at the last election and there had not been one solitary thing to regret. He referred to the protest which followed and of the circumstances in connection with it.



L. M. HAYES, K.C.

Who moved the resolution expressing confidence in the leadership of R. L. Borden.

Speaking of his position for the coming fight, Mr. Burnham said that he felt mighty well trained. "I'll fight as hard as ever I can, he said, "and you know I have fought fairly. "Unworthy as I am to represent the Conservative party, nevertheless I brought no stain upon it. I don't want to be elected if the people don't want to elect me. Let them elect another man. You could have a better man in my dear old friend Mr. Kendry." Mr. Burnham held that he would be responsible for the organization for the coming fight if the members of the association would do the ward work. He remarked that a certain man had said at his own meeting that he was not afraid. I hope he is not, said the speaker. He made a fitting reference to the late Hugh Waddell, who had been his friend and one of the association, and also to Mr. Kendry.

MR. BRADBURN NOMINATED.

Mr. T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P., was nominated for the Ontario Legislature by Mr. W. H. Moore, K.C., seconded by Dr. M. A. Morrison. Mr. Moore referred to the faithful services given by Mr. Bradburn to the people, whom he represented.

Mr Bradburn, however, replied that that he had not intended to allow his name to go before the convention and he still stood by that. He returned his thanks for the splendid support which had been accorded him and was grateful for the honor conferred upon him. He nominated Mr. E. A. Peck, and the nomination was seconded by Mr. Frank Adams and carried.

It was moved by Ald. Buller, seconded by Mr. R. Denne and carried, that a resolution of condolence be sent to the widow and son of the late Hugh Waddell.

With cheers for the King and the candidates and Mr. Borden, the meeting concluded.

INDIVIDUALITY

When Eye Glasses are required there is individuality in the facial features, which requires special shapes, styles of lenses and mountings.

Eye Glasses which enhance the appearance of one face would be unbecoming to another. Eye Glasses, like artificial teeth, must be built to fit the features.

Patrons of the Optical Institute frequently remark that there is individuality in our Eye Glasses because they "grace the face," "fit the features," and "please the wearer."

The Fall Wheat is of First Class Quality

Special Correspondence

Keene, July 18—We have been favored with a copious rain which will be a benefit to pasture and root crops.

The farmers in this vicinity have the hay crop stored away and are now engaged harvesting their wheat. Although fall wheat is a thin crop the quality is first class.

Mrs. Dr. Harrison left here last week to visit her daughter Mrs. T. B. Sharpe of Prince Albert, Sask.

Mr. T. Mather of Northern Ontario is home on a visit and reports having a rather hot time before leaving.

The Orangemen of Keene celebrated the anniversary of the battle of the Boyne in Cobourg on the 12th inst.

It is a decided fact that cows are a public nuisance on our streets.

SONS OF REST

The Sons of Rest held a monster meeting in their hall on Saturday night last in the absence of president Legget, district organizer Decackey took the chair. After opening the meeting he rose and addressed the brethren as follows: Brethren it is gratifying to me to preside over this meeting as I feel I am under obligation to the Keene brethren as I know it was through your influence that I was elected as district organizer. At your last meeting organizer Ellison of Hastings, addressed you and informed you that he purposed to organize a society at Mathers Corners. Now brethren we hold a meeting there on Friday night and hope to see a goodly number of Keene brethren present. As it is now ten o'clock I will declare the meeting open for business. Fatty Drummond laid a charge against Poney Moore, for cruelty to snakes Decackey fined Poney $25 and five cts to be paid in one week or six months in jail. Poney Moore laid a charge against Fatty Drummond for winking at a young lady while fishing. Decackey censured Fatty for flirting with young ladies and imposed a fine of $200 to be spot cash or three years in Central prison. Fatty gave his note. Cobalt Roach laid a charge against Chittery Gall for allowing frogs to loaf in his store and scare the ladies out of a year's growth. Decackey advised Chittery to bag the frogs and sell them to fishermen. No fine was imposed on Chittery. Mumbling Elliot rose and said that it was time to close as harvest was on and he had to get to work at six o'clock in the morning. Decackey then asked Tobin Brown and Fighting Archy to sing the closing ode. You can rest assured that there was no flies on them while singing the ode. The meeting was then declared closed until next Saturday night.

IS THE GOVERNMENT TRYING TO MAKE TERMS ON THE PACT

Rumored That Sir Wilfrid Will Try to Have Bill Passed on Condition of Election.

Ottawa, July 20.—The political situation is to have a new turn, according to reports current in the lobby last night. The Government, it is said, will offer terms to the Opposition. The proposal so far as it is known is that reciprocity be allowed to formally pass, with the solemn understanding that it shall not go into effect for a year and that in the meantime there shall be a general election, when the people can pronounce upon the pact. Color is lent to this story by a series of conferences which took place last night between the Prime Minister and some of his Ontario supporters. No offer has yet reached the leader of the Opposition.

When the House met yesterday afternoon it was seen that the ranks of the members had been largely augmented over night. Mr. Monk and the Nationalists were in their places. There were more Ontario members on hand, and the Maritime contingent was almost full strength.

Mr. Fielding, in reply to a question from George Gordon (Nipissing) regarding the Porcupine fire sufferers, reminded Mr. Gordon that Mr. Smythe, the member for East Algoma, had drawn the matter to the attention of the Government on Tuesday, and that he had made a statement to the effect that the question was engaging the attention of the Government.

When Mr. Fielding moved the House into the committee on the reciprocity resolutions at 3.20, A. S. Goodeve (Kootenay), introduced a discussion on the question of the western coal strike, inquiring if the Government had received the report of the conciliation board and what action was proposed to take.

Mr. Goodeve said that the situation caused by the strike was serious, and promised to be worse if a settlement was not reached before the cold weather set in. If no relief is given in way of coal supplies, settlers would freeze to death on the prairies during the winter months.

Hon. Mackenzie King, after laying on the table a report of the conciliation board, said he was surprised to hear the member from the Kootenay discuss this industrial situation from the standpoint of party policy. The moment either party commenced to make political capital out of the situation, the difficulties in the way of a settlement would be increased.

The main question in dispute was that of the open and closed shop, the workmen and the operators taking diametrically opposite views. It was quite possible, therefore, that the strike might develop into a test endurance.

Claude MacDonnell (South Toronto) accused the Government of being neglectful in dealing with the situation.

J. G. Turriff (Assiniboia) said the Opposition members were paying more attention to the political side of the question. They made no suggestion as to how the difficulty might be settled.

The discussion then drifted into a general criticism of the Labor Department, Messrs. Blain, Middlebro, Reid and Perley, all condemning it. Dr. Reid said that to his knowledge the Department had never settled one strike and should be abolished.

Uriah Wilson (Lennox and Addington); who retires with the present Parliament, sang his swan song yesterday and added more fuel to the reciprocity debate. He based his judgment on the assumption that reciprocity would diminish Canada's trade with England. He thought that England should give some compensating consideration for the preference.

E. Gus Porter (East Hastings) quoted a mass of statistics to show that Canadian farmers receive more for their products than do those of the United States. It would, he said, be

SHOT HIS WIFE AS BURGLAR

Kiettanning, Pa., July 20.—Thinking his wife was a burglar, George Golden, a leading merchant of Wiegboro, adjoining Kittanning, shot and killed her during the night. The half-crazed husband is under the care of a physician.

Golden had bought a revolver because of the many burglaries committed in the vicinity of his home recently, and when he was aroused from heavy sleep by his wife pulling down a window in their room he reached under his pillow and securing the weapon, fired. He discovered his error when upon rising to look upon the supposed thief he stumbled over her body.

An Epidemic of Blackleg.

Kingston, July 20.—An epidemic of blackleg has broken out among the young cattle near Portland, Ont. Dr. Ackland is busily engaged vaccinating all the young cattle in an effort to check the further spread of the disease.

U.S. SENATE APPROVES IT

Anglo-American Arbitration Agreement is Passed.

Washington, July 20.—The treaty between the United States and Great Britain, providing for the arbitration of pecuniary claims between the two countries, in accordance with the general arbitration treaty, was ratified by the Senate in executive session yesterday.

The treaty provides that within four months each of the Governments may submit to the other any claims which it desires shall be passed upon, the only condition being that the claims shall be grouped. All claims not submitted within the time specified are to be barred.

A tribunal of three members, one of whom is to be chosen by the United States, another by Great Britain, and the third by the first two, is provided for. It is to sit in Washington.

With the treaty there was submitted a long list of shipping claims against the British Government, and a much shorter list against this Government, consisting in the main of Canadian demands for the refund of hay duty.

Many of the claims are of long standing.

The treaty was not acted upon by the committee on foreign relations until yesterday, and was ratified as soon as reported, an unusual proceeding. There was no debate.

Atlas Out on Parole.

Kingston, July 20.—It is reported that Rev. G. M. Atlas, who has served about eight months of a six-year term in the penitentiary on a charge of misappropriating trust funds, was released yesterday by an order from the Minister of Justice, and that he left at noon for Toronto.

According to the prison officials, Atlas was granted only a release on parole.

Hoboes on the Rampage.

Kingston, July 20.—Hoboes were on the rampage about Newboro, where C.N.R. construction work is proceeding. Two highwaymen tried to hold up Dr. G. F. Ackland in a Portland swamp. One man caught the horse's head and another tried to catch the hind wheel, but the frightened horse plunged forward.

Grand Lodge Reports Are Very Encouraging — St. Catharines' Accommodation is Entirely Inadequate

St. Catharines, July 20.—The hotels of the city are unable to accommodate the crowds who are here to attend the fifty-sixth annual communication of the Masonic Grand Lodge of Canada, for the Province of Ontario, in session in the armory. The formal opening was made yesterday morning when an address of welcome was extended to the delegates by Mayor McBride. The Masonic welcome was voiced by George H. Sherwood, E. W. Smith, and James McIntosh, masters of three local lodges. The report of Grand Master MacWatt was then submitted.

Grand Master MacWatt's address contained considerable very interesting intelligence. It showed that to the end of May 31 the total revenue was $42,383.81, an increase of $1,176.42 over the year previous. For ordinary expenditure it required $16,797.07, and thus a surplus of $25,586.74 was at hand; this amount is slightly less than last year. During the year benevolent grants from the ordinary fund amounted to $26,275; this, however, was supplemented by grants from the interest of the semi-centennial fund of $3,920, making a total of $26,676.34. The lodges have so far paid into the semi-centennial fund $92,178.80, every lodge having contributed something during the year; last year 37 lodges contributed nothing.

The year was closed with a total membership of 48,500, as compared with only 46,000 the year previous.

Col. Ponton of Belleville had charge of the report on the condition of Masonry. One of the most particular recommendations was that in growing towns and cities permanent Masonic halls or temples should be erected. It was claimed that the reports of surpluses on hand in most cases would justify such an expenditure. Attention was also called to the need of providing for Masonic charities, while no restriction was placed on other charities.

Seven More Deaths.

Toronto, July 20.—Seventy will no doubt be the total death list from the Porcupine fire. This seems clear from a message from the relief committee yesterday received by Hon. Frank Cochrane.

The newly-registered deaths at Porcupine are:

Ed. Cullen, 2,021 Broadway, New York.

Osmond Butler, Tangier, N.S.

Five are dead at New Liskeard. They are:

Thomas Cooper, Toronto working at Dome mine.

John Bowers, Copper Cliff.

Pietro Depaoli, Copper Cliff.

John Bilo, a foreigner.

Arthur Aho, Copper Cliff.

Cholera Is Suspected.

Montreal, July 20.—The steamship Bendu, from Bombay arrived yesterday with an emergency crew aboard. She called at Baltimore, Md., to discharge, and was given a clean bill of health. At Quebec she was held for two cases of suspected cholera, and the whole crew were landed, and the Canadian Government put on an emergency crew to bring her to Montreal. The two suspects and the crew are at Grosse Isle yet.

Eleanor Robson's Loss.

New York, July 20.—When Mrs. August Belmont, who was Eleanor Robson, the actress, arrived here yesterday on the Olympic, the customs inspectors deprived her of a fifteen thousand dollar diamond studded bow-knot pin, which was sent to the appraisers stores for valuation. Mrs. Belmont believed that the duty had been paid on the pin when she obtained it. The customs officers thought otherwise.

Bar Cobalt Beer.

Montreal, July 20.—Montreal's temperance workers, having succeeded in securing legislation limiting the hours during which liquor can be sold, are determined to prevent the sale of even the mildest substitutes. Yesterday a case was entered to prevent "Cobalt" beer being sold as a temperance drink before Judge Leet in the Police Court.

The case heard is one taken by J. H Roberts, secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance, against R. Lusher, proprietor of the Empress Hotel, Berri street. Mr. Roberts stated that on May 12 he purchased a bottle labelled Cobalt beer. Mr. Roberts had the contents analyzed, and, according to his evidence, it contained 1.42 per cent. alcohol and 2.48 per cent. proof spirits.

BURGLARS ROB STORES AT ATHENS, AND GET JEWELRY

Skeleton Keys Used to Make an Entrance — Valuable Goods Were Overlooked.

Brockville, July 20.—By the use of skeleton keys the stores of T. S. Kendrick and H. Knowlton in Athens, were entered during the night. In the former the till was raffled, but the intruders only got a few coppers. Mr. Knowlton, who keeps a jewelry store, did not fare so well. All the valuable jewelry was left in the safe unlocked, making access to it the easiest kind of a job. There are missing one dozen gold watches, one tray of watches belonging to customers, one tray of opal rings, one tray of diamond rings, a number of gold chains and lockets and $75 in cash.

The burglars overlooked a quantity of valuable goods which would have appealed to their thieving proclivities had they been experts. For this reason it is believed that the burglars were amateurs, well acquainted with the both premises, particularly so as the floor of the Knowlton store, half freshly painted, was only marked in two places, showing that the visitors picked their steps.

Barnardo Boy's Bones.

London, Ont., July 20.—The police are convinced that the human bones found in the burned barn of Simon Blight at Wiarton on Tuesday are those of John Cousins, the Barnardo boy who mysteriously disappeared some weeks ago, shortly after the barns of a former employer at Lambeth had been destroyed.

He has a bad record, including a vicious attack on a farmer's wife.

CHAMP CLARKE

In an address before an audience of six thousand Christian Endeavorers at Atlantic City recently the Hon. Champ Clark, Speaker of the House, said:—

"The hoodlums who run nine-tenths of our elections, cast their own ballots, and perhaps other ballots, are better American citizens than the fine haired business men who are too busy to go to the polls. I would like to see a federal law passed disfranchising every man who fails to cast his ballot at two general elections."

PEERS PROMISE TO BE GOOD; WILL ACCEPT THE VETO BILL

Unionists Editorials Foreshadow Acceptance of Asquith Program – Fifty New Peers May be Made in Any Event.

London, July 20.—The Daily Telegraph, a staunch Unionist paper, in to-day's editorial, says not only that the House of Lords will pass the third reading of the veto bill to-day without division, but that when the Government bill is returned to the Upper Chamber, shorn of the Lords' amendments, they will pass that also, for the simple reason "that there is really no practicable choice," and because it would form an evil and dangerous precedent to bring the crown into the struggle and it would be impossible for the King to withhold his consent if the Ministers requested the creation of peers.

Practically the whole Unionist press has now fallen into line with The Telegraph in the admission that this is the only reasonable policy for the Lords to follow, and that the "no surrender policy would be suicidal."

Long meetings of the Cabinet and also the Unionist leaders, including Balfour and Lansdowne, Selborne, Curzon, Salisbury and others, were held yesterday for the purpose of making final arrangements for the coming debates. Premier Asquith has postponed his visit to Scotland on account of the crisis, and urgent whips have been issued to all parties for Monday's sitting of the House of Commons. On that date the Prime Minister will move the excision of the Lords' amendments, and he is expected to make an important pronouncement on the Ministerial intentions. According to persistent reports, whatever happens fifty new peers will be created before the bill is sent back to the House of Lords, as an earnest of the Government's intentions, should there be a disposition on the part of the peers to display obduracy.

It is explained that the present Government has created much fewer than the customary number of peerages in recent years, and that therefore the creation of fifty now would little more than restore the balance.

That the creation of peers may yet be necessary is indicated by an editorial in The Morning Post, which still counsels a firm policy of no surrender.

Crisis Settled Peaceably?

London, July 20.—The announcement yesterday that A. J. Balfour, leader of the Opposition in the House of Commons, will go to Gastein to take the cure early in August, is regarded in the lobby of the Lower House as particularly significant, and is widely accepted as an indication of a peaceful settlement of the constitutional crisis.

At the same time a denial was issued by the Unionist leader that the condition of his health necessitated the trip. This disposes of the suggestion that he was obeying the orders of his physician and is taken as confirmation of the belief that he does not anticipate any vital political disturbance over the Veto Bill such as would be created by a deadlock of the two chambers and the appointment of a large number of peers.

JOHNSON IN AN UGLY DEAL

To "Lay Down" in Fight With Bombadier Wells

Special to the Review.

London, July 20—Sporting circles are all agog on the report that Jack Johnson, the negro champion pugilist, has agreed to "throw" his fight with Bombardier Wells. It is alleged that the promoters of the fight have engineered a deal by which they and Johnson will clean up many thousands of dollars.

Reimbursed Husband's Clients.

Schenectady, N.Y., July 20.—In the will of Mrs. Mary H. L. Thompson, admitted to probate here yesterday, she bequeathed $1,000 each to two women to replace losses suffered by them in 1884 through investments advised by Mrs. Thomson's husband, who was the counsel for a foundry concern which failed here. It was learned that though the Thomson fortune was nearly wiped out by that failure Mrs. Thomson out of her own means since slowly repaid all of her husband's clients except the two mentioned in her will.

An actor is like an Indian; when he wants to get married again, he doesn't pay the attention he should to the fact that he is already married.

Have you noticed that when a man asks you for your candid opinion, he nearly always questions the soundness of it?

Lightning's Queer Trick.

Grover, Colo., July 20.—Mrs. Henrietta Wilson was struck by lightning. Every stitch of her clothing and her shoes were torn from her body. The bolt melted the bowl of a spoon she was holding in her hand, but not a single mark was made on her body.

Avoid Gambling Charge.

Albany, N.Y., July 20.—The Gillins bill to relieve directors of racing associations from liability for gambling carried on at race tracks without their knowledge, passed the Senate yesterday by a vote of 26 to 22. It has not passed the Assembly.

INDIANS CREATE TERROR IN TOWN

Frenzied With Liquor They Fought on Streets

Special to the Review.

Toronto, July 20—The particulars of a disgraceful riot in Manitowaning during the twelfth of July celebration are given in a communication which has been received here. It is said that Indians who made up half of the number of visitors to the town, got liquor in unlimited quantity and fought about the streets, terrorizing the citizens by their threats to take the town. Constable Milligan, of Little Current, was badly beaten in his endeavors to arrest some of the redmen.

TOOK STRYCHNINE AFTER SENTENCE

Leamington Man Suicides on Being Convicted.

Leamington, July 20.—A tragic affair took place here yesterday morning, when John Oliver, an old resident of Leamington, took strychnine and died a few minutes later.

Mr. Oliver was sentenced yesterday morning to a short term in Sandwich Jail, on conviction of being drunk and disorderly, and while on his way from the Police Court to the car, said he would like to go home and get his coat. To this the chief of police agreed, and accompanied him to his home. On the way to the railway station Mr. Oliver went into convulsions, informing the chief he had taken strychnine.

The policeman and others around supposed him to be shamming, but Mr. Oliver died within a few minutes. He was about 66 years old, and leaves a widow and three daughters.

About this time last year Mr. Oliver's son-in-law, named Dresser, shot and killed his wife (Miss Oliver) and then shot himself fatally. Thus three tragedies have occurred in the Oliver family within a year.

Bloodhounds Seek Murderer.

Richmond, Va., July 20.—Bloodhounds yesterday are aiding in the hunt for the man who on Tuesday night shot and killed Mrs. Harry C. Beattie, jr., as she was riding with her husband in an automobile.

Young Beattie stopped the car when an unidentified man, evidently an anti-automobile fanatic, stood stubbornly in the middle of the road. When he asked the man to make way, the latter with a surly retort raised a shot gun and fired at close range.

Special Prizes

The special prizes of $500.00 each given by the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, go to the cattle classes that last year had the largest number of entries in the beef and dairy breeds respectively.

The prize will go to the best animal exhibited in Shorthorns or Holsteins without regard to sex, and the value of it ensures a wide range of competition. It should prove a great incentive to cattlemen to put their best in great condition for showing.

Coughs, Colds
Bronchitis

If there is an ailment in the throat or chest, it is surely essential that the remedy be conveyed direct to the affected part. It's because the healing vapor of Catarrhozone is breathed into the sore, irritated throat and bronchial tubes, because its balsamic fumes kill the germs and destroy the cause of the trouble. These are the reasons why Catarrhozone never yet failed to cure a genuine case of Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis, or Throat Trouble.

The wonderfully soothing vapor of Catarrhozone instantly reaches the furthest recesses of the lungs, produces a healing, curative effect that is impossible with a tablet or liquid, which goes merely to the stomach, and fails entirely to help the throat or lungs.

To permanently cure your winter ills, your coughs, sneezing, and Catarrh, by all means use a tried and proven remedy like Catarrhozone. But beware of the substitutor and imitator. Look for Catarrhozone only. 50c and $1, at all dealers. 10

FIGHTING AT OTTAWA

The evident intention of the government is to find out what the enemy proposes to do, in the matter of letting the reciprocity bill make headway in parliament. The wily Laurier wants to demonstrate that the opposition is going to prevent the jamming through of the agreement that is fraught with such dangers to Canada; and no sooner was the house well opened before a motion was made to go into committee on reciprocity.

The government has two or three months' legislation held back, that should be dealt with. Much of it is necessary, but it evidently wants to play for sympathy on the ground that the opposition won't let it conduct affairs as it should do. It is proving immediately that it is the opposition and not the ministerialists who are really representing the country on parliament hill.

The Globe is authority for the statement that elections are likely, from the government's standpoint, early in October. They cannot be held before that, because lists have to be prepared for many new districts. There is no thought by the government that redistribution can be effected before the conflict over reciprocity. It hopes that it may through the yowls of its newspaper supporters, make the country take stock in its absurd assertions that if there is no redistribution before an election, the opposition is responsible.

The fact remains that there is plenty of legislation that needs attention, and which the ministers have neglected, to be considered, while the census returns are being prepared. But the government is afraid of the west since Mr. Borden's trip, and would sooner split up the present representation.

It is a pretty jockeying game Sir Wilfrid would like to play, but he has met his peer in tactical skill, in the opposition leader.

A NEW ALARM CLOCK

To the mayor of Milwaukee belongs the credit of being first to recommend the abolition of the alarm clock and the substitution therefor of a phonographic arrangement provided with such mechanics, as will set it going and cause it to dispense sweet strains of music at any given hour, says the Christian Science Monitor. The central idea, of course, is that it shall be employed in lieu of the alarm clock to awaken sound sleepers in the morning. The alarm clock, it is not denied, performs its task efficiently in the great majority of cases. It does not always get the sound sleeper out of bed, to be sure; but it does all that could be reasonably expected in this direction. It is the sleeper's fault if he goes to sleep again. In either case the alarm clock is regarded in the light of an enemy. No matter how faithful it may be to its trust, it never has been popular. People dislike it when it works; they despise it when it doesn't.

These considerations may seem to be taken too seriously here. But they cannot be treated lightly for this reason; If the alarm clock, through no shortcoming of its own, is generally unpopular, will not a phonograph used for a like purpose have a tendency to depopularize music? Will not a music-loving people be led gradually to abhor music by the introduction of the alarm phonograph? Let us be clear. Suppose, for example, that a man is awakened every working morning for, say, six months by the strains of a vocal or instrumental piece that has been his favorite for half a lifetime. Will he not come eventually and inevitably to dislike and even to loath it? Will he not say after a while, as he is aroused from a fine sleep by the first or second bar, "Oh, there goes that horrible thing again; why was it ever composed?" or "Can it be possible I ever had the poor taste to whistle that abominable air?"

This is where the difficulty lies. And it is impossible to see how even the higher compositions can fail to suffer from the innovation, for it stands to reason that the owners of the phonograph alarm clocks will charge some of them with selections from the opera and the symphony. The thing for each music-lover to do is to be careful. If a hand organ will depopularize a favorite air in a few months simply by playing it intermittently and miscellaneously, what can be expected to be the result when an alarm phonograph plays it right against one's ear every working morning in the year?

THE NEW PEERS

That will be a funny spectacle in Britain, when Premier Asquith bends his energies to the creation of five hundred new peers, in order to swamp the house of lords on the veto question. The peers cannot believe that Premier Asquith will really let so many common fry invade their sacred ranks, with titles of "your grice" and your "ludship" and are disposed to put him to the test.

If the Premier should be called on to carry out his threat of new peers, there will be some tall mix-ups. It proposed, for one thing, that the sons of present Liberal peers, shall be elevated, giving them equal rank with their fathers. This elevation of the sons to the ranks of the old uns is not relished by the old peers, quite naturally. The House of Commons cannot be drawn on for the new peers, because that would entail more elections, and the government doesn't want any more elections. The new earls, and barons, and viscounts, and lords will have to come from the plebians, and what joy would there be among the ranks of the would be aristocrats. If wealth were made the entree mark, it is to be feared that aristocratic England wouldn't be so positively horror stricken at the additions. It might even consent to recognise some of the interlopers, and perhaps as a great act of condescension, might consent to take some of their lucre.

Socially the creation of five hundred new peers would sound the death knell of aristocratic exclusion, and would prove another feather in democracy's cap.

EDITORIAL NOTES

It looks as if the Grit candidates in the east riding would be a jaunting Kerr about election time.

If R. R. Hall is the candidate in West Peterborough, will he share the fate of a couple of other good Liberals who once upon a time undertook to be candidates?

Have you noticed that the Conservatives of the riding hold their conventions in a business like manner? They don't even have to use ballots—let alone having seventeen over that cannot be accounted for.

The crops in the west are simply splendid. This presages another good commercial year for eastern Canada. Canada is commercially dependent on the western grain for a great part of its prosperity, and both east and west rejoice in a heavy yield.

It is said that during the last week baked apples could have been plucked from the trees in many parts of the country, but nothing has been printed about hot rolls that could have been picked up on the ocean anywhere along the Atlantic coast.

Out in Vancouver the "boom has bust" and it is said that there are 14,000 workmen walking the streets looking for work. Vancouver has been having a mush-room growth beyond all safe progress, and a heavy reaction is sure to follow. The unpleasant part of it is that people get caught who don't deserve such a fate.

Commissioner Von Frankenberg, however, is known to have been traveling in the region mentioned in the despatches.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, July 19.—At the Canadian Pacific live stock market the offerings this morning were 625 cattle, 400 sheep and lambs, 1150 hogs and 700 calves. The trade in cattle was fairly good on account of the cooler weather, and, as the offerings were not excessive, a steady feeling prevailed in the market, and prices show no change from Monday. Choice steers sold at 6¼c; good at 5½c to 5¾c; fairly good at 5c to 5¼c; fair at 4½c to 4¾c, and common at 4c to 4¼c per pound. Cows brought from 3½c to 5¼c, and bulls from 3¼c to 5c per pound, as to quality.

The tone of the market for small meats was strong under a good demand and small supplies, and prices had an upward tendency, with sales of sheep at $4.50 to $6, lambs at $3.50 to $5.50, and calves at from $3 to $6 each, as to size and quality.

A weaker feeling developed in the market for hogs, and prices declined 50c per 100 pounds since Monday, on account of the increased offerings. At this reduction the demand from packers was good, and an active trade was done, with sales of selected lots at $7 to $7.25 per 100 pounds, weighed off cars.

"Always."

"Pay a lot of attention to that fellow Smith. He's an awful good friend of yours."

"I've found that out tonight," she answered. "Good night."

"Good night, Emma."

When she had gone the old man sat for some time smoking his pipe meditatively. Finally he kicked off his slippers, rose, stretched himself, sat down again, smiled and uttered his thoughts aloud.

"Well, Captain Bill," he told himself, "I guess you've paid up a part of that deficit you've owed decency for such a long time."

CHAPTER XVI.

"OH, there you are!"

Mrs. Harris stood glaring at her son-in-law.

"I thought you were going to meet us," said Beth, with a toss of her head.

"We waited until every one had left the theater," snorted her mother, flopping into a chair and fanning herself vigorously.

"I'm sorry. I forgot," explained Brooks, who this time spoke the truth.

"Forgot, forgot! That's a nice excuse!"

"I said I was sorry," he snapped. "I've been worried about something else."

"Just spoiled the whole evening, leaving us there to be insulted by a lot of men," declared Mrs. Harris. "When we were standing in front of the theater, waiting for you, a snip of a boy came up to me and said, 'Hello, little one, aren't you lonesome?'"

"Why, I thought he spoke to me!" affirmed Beth.

Her mother looked at her indignantly.

"No, he didn't," she retorted, with asperity. "I guess I know when I'm spoken to. The very idea! Where's Emma?"

Brooks told her that she had gone out for a few minutes.

"Who with?" demanded Mrs. Harris promptly.

"I think she went alone."

"You think she went alone! Don't you know? I don't see how you let your wife go out alone in this part of New York at this time of night."

"Well, nobody stole you," growled Joe, "so I guess Emma 'll get home safely. Something has probably detained her. That's all I know about it. If she wants to tell you more when she comes that's her business, not mine."

"I certainly do not approve of her being out without a proper escort. It isn't ladylike."

"What I want to know is, where did she go?" insisted her mother.

Brooks turned upon her, and an oath almost escaped him as he snarled:

"You want to know a good many things, but it seems to me that a man and his wife can have some privacy. I told you she went on business. If she wants to tell you, all right, but don't try to mother-in-law it out of me!"

The entrance of Emma and Smith stopped on Mrs. Harris' lips the wrathful retort that had risen to them. She rose and greeted her daughter with an air of maternal solicitude.

"Ah, there you are, dear! Where have you been? We've been so worried."

"I am a little late."

"We were wondering about you, and Joe wouldn't tell," said Beth.

Smith reassured them.

"I was taking care of Emma all right," he declared. "You see, I'm a sort of utility man with the ladies—always trailing along in the rear ready to touch my cap and do all the chores and errands necessary."

Emma had taken no notice of her husband, whose eyes from the moment of her appearance had been glued avidly upon her. There was nothing in her demeanor to indicate that she had succeeded. Indeed, she appeared haggard and worn out, as she was, for the emotions of the night had left her exhausted to the point of breaking down. His anxiety and apprehension increased as he marked her condition.

"Where did you meet her?" he demanded of Smith, with an effort.

"On the way home," he answered.

Emma went to Mrs. Harris and put her arm around her.

"Mother, I'm very tired tonight," she said appealingly. "You won't mind if I ask you to go home and leave me. I've something to tell you some time, but I want to be alone now."

"I am. You won't mind, will you, mother?"

"Certainly not. I'm hot and sticky myself."

"I'll take you to the subway and put you on the car," volunteered Brooks.

"You needn't mind," declined Mrs. Harris. "You're too disagreeable tonight. If you bring my purse from Emma's room, Jimsy will take us. Won't you, Jimsy?"

"I'm still the utility man," responded the complaisant Smith as Brooks went on the errand.

While Beth was putting her mother's hat straight Mrs. Brooks whispered to Smith:

"Tell mother as much as I told you and then come back."

He nodded.

"Come on, folks," he said as Brooks reappeared with the purse. "You know time and the subway wait for no man."

She had sunk on to the sofa and sat there, still wearing her hat, the picture of weariness and sorrow.

The color came and went in his sunken cheeks. It was certain from her attitude that her mission had failed, yet he feared to learn it from her lips.

She gave no indication of intention or desire to break the silence or even that she was aware of his presence.

He could bear it no longer.

"He wouldn't do anything? It's all up?"

The words escaped him tremulously in despairing tone, as though they answered the interrogation.

She did not reply, but, rising and drawing from her bosom the paper Captain Williams had given her, handed it to him.

He took it hesitatingly, almost fearfully.

"For me?"

"For you."

As he read it the blood rushed to his face, and he gave a sigh of immense relief. Joyfully he looked over to her, but there was no responsive exultation. She appeared crushed. It might have been his death warrant.

Doubting whether he had read it aright, he perused the acquittal again with increasing exultation.

"Emma, you've succeeded!" he cried. "This means he won't prosecute and it's all right. You made him do it. You have saved me!"

She nodded her acquiescence, and he went to her, brimming over with relief and gratification, to take her in his arms.

"You're the best little girl that ever happened, the pluckiest"—

Gently she pushed him from her.

"Please don't, Joe!"

"Why, what's the matter?"

"I'm tired—very tired."

"Of course you are," he said in a tone of concern and tenderness. "You sit down there. I'll bet you had a hard time. I know what Williams is."

CANNON CRACKER STARTLED LADIES

Joke That Might Have Caused Serious Injuries

Special Correspondence.

[illegible], July [illegible].—Mr. and Mrs Armstrong, of Springville, spent Sunday in this vicinity.

Mr. Armstrong was the guest of Mr. James Wood.

We regret to record the serious illness of Miss Dolly Fry, one of our prominent young ladies, who has been ill for some days. We all hope for her speedy recovery.

Miss Stevens of Manvers, was the guest of Mr. Herbert Perrin, during the past week.

The 12th was spent quietly in this section. Two or three anti local optionists participated in a fight and we judge from the condition of one of the former champions that he was outclassed, which was undoubtedly due to not being in condition.

Mr. and Mrs. Purdy and their son, of Port Perry, were the guests of Mr. Joseph Byers on Thursday. Their means of conveyance was an automobile, and they have spent some days visiting in different parts.

Mr. Joseph Woods' barn raising was on Friday and the structure will soon be in condition for the season's harvest. Mr. Smithson has quite a number of employees who are rushing the work along quite satisfactorily. Mr. Mr. Wood will be little behind other people in the handling of his harvest in spite of his misfortune of about two months ago, when his barns were destroyed by lightning.

We have made mention of grievances in regard to automobiles, cattle pasturing our roads at night and a defective local option by-law, any of which are bad enough, but an accident is reported which might have proven fatal a few days ago from a cause with which we have never before been confronted. It appears that at Mr. Woods' raising some person had huge fire crackers which, during luncheon, they would light as sort of childish amusement. It so happened that some ladies were seated in a swing chair when the villainous rascal lighted one of these and threw it towards the chair where it exploded like a cannon, and the women who were taken by surprise, leaped in terror. One lady who was nursing an infant at the time, fell while taking her exit from the chair, but fortunately neither received more than a few sprains and bruises. Such unseemly conduct should be stopped and whoever the perpetrator may be, will do well to improve their conduct.

Fall wheat, the average of which is small on account of the severe winter, is now mostly cut and other grains are ripening fast,

MANY LAKE VIEW LOCALS

Newsy Notes on Current Events Briefly Told

Special Correspondence

Lakeview, July 19.—The statement in last week's issue regarding the pasturing of cattle and other animals on the road, which said the owner of such animals would be held responsible for damages occurring to anyone driving along the road, I beg to differ with the writer of last week that there is a clause in the by-law protecting the public in such cases. Now I would like to warn the writer and others who may have animals running on the road that the public highway is not a pasture field for the farmers. He also spoke of reckless driving, but to my knowledge such is not the case and it would not make the man who has those obstructions on the road the less responsible. He also referred to another case, but I wish to state that our township is a local option township and the citizens are a good moral living people. The drunkenness and disgusting manner as he termed it would not be allowed in our township.

Mr Harold Nurse was the guest of Mr. James Bullock on Sunday last. Mr. Nurse is undertaking to ~~run a~~ traction engine for a threshing outfit this year and he embraces every opportunity to be with Mr. Bullock to receive instructions, as he is an expert engineer.

Miss Mary Staples of Ida was the guest of Miss Zuleum Perrin for the past two weeks.

Mrs. Charles Perrin of Oakwood is visiting friends in this community.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Wood and daughter were the guests of Mr. William Jewison, broken front last Sunday.

Miss Viola Wood was the guest of her brother Dr. H.A. Wood of Peterboro the past few days. She has returned to her home again, Lake View.

Mr. and Mrs. William Wood of Toronto were the guests of Mr. Wood's father, Mr. Thos. Wood on Sunday last.

Mr. Edgar Wood, the record breaker in horse driving, made another fast spin, coming from Peterboro to his own home in one hour two minutes and a half. The distance he covered was thirteen miles and a half.

Miss Whitfield and her friend Miss Magill, of Cavanville, spent Sunday last at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Perrin.

SLADE FINED AT LINDSAY

Shot Robt. Douglas of Birdsall in The Leg

Warder.—Mr. Fred Slade, Kincardine, appeared before the magistrate this morning on the charge of discharging a revolver on a train of the G.T.R. between Belleville and Orillia Mr. Slade was in charge of a car belonging to a lightning rod firm with which he was connected. The young man who was injured is Robt. Douglas, Birdsall, who was shot in the leg.

Mr. T. E. Weldon appeared for Mr. Slade, and made a strong plea for leniency. The young man comes of good family and his past record has been good.

In imposing the sentence the magistrate took as lenient a view of the case as possible in order to give the young man a chance to do better. The magistrate warned Mr. Slade to leave strong drink entirely alone. A fine of $100 was imposed, and in default of payment six months in Central Prison. The costs are included in the $100. Detective Scott of the Grand Trunk was present in the interests of the company.

Mr. Robert Douglas, the young man who was shot, and a brother of Slade, were present during the trial.

Held Memorial Service

A memorial service in memory of the late George Wagner, who lost his life in Peterborough a few weeks ago by electricity, was held this morning at the church of Our Lady. The Knights of Columbus, of which the deceased was a member, attended the service in a body. Rev. Father Tompkin conducted the service.—Guelph Herald.

WEDDING BELLS

LOVE—MacMILLAN.

A very quiet but pretty wedding took place this afternoon when Caroline, eldest daughter of Trainmaster and Mrs. MacMillan, Lindsay street, and Dr. C. H. Love, of Brooklyn, N.Y., were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. The pleasing ceremony took place at the home of the bride's parents at three o'clock, only the immediate relatives being present. The house was beautifully decorated with flowers and ferns.

Promptly at three o'clock the bride entered on the arm of her father, the wedding march being played by Miss Love, sister of the groom, the hymeneal knot being tied by Rev. James Wallace, and Rev. R. L. Love, of Brooklyn, assistant pastor of Plymouth church, and father of the groom.

The following guests were present from out of town.—Mr. Wm. Piggott, and Mr and Mrs. James Piggott, of Midland. Mr. and Mrs. J. McDow, of Midland: Mr. and Mrs. Roderick McMillan, of Hamilton: Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Green, of Peterborough: Miss Love, of Brooklyn, N.Y.: and Mr. and Mrs. Wm Pears, of Toronto.

APSLEY MAN MET DEATH

Electrocuted by Live While at Work on Pole

William Spence, a Bell telephone company lineman living at 24 Division street, was instantly killed by a contact with an electric light wire at Bloor and Christie streets at 4.30 yesterday afternoon, and his clothing was then burned and his body partially roasted by the continued contact until it was removed by a fellow workman and the police.

Spence was at work sitting in a swing swung from and riding upon a cable stretched across between the wires on both sides of Christie street. Wm. Morden was running the swing with a rope handled from below. In some way as the swing was allowed to run from the east to the west side of the street, it touched the electric light wire, which flared up and broke. One end of it fell on Spence's hands and arms, and immediately his clothing started to burn and his flesh to toast.

Morden hurriedly drew the swing away from the broken tire, but the man's clothing still continued to burn. When he was free of the wire, Morden, with the assistance of Policeman McIntyre, Allison and Hicks, lowered the body to the ground, where water was thrown upon the burning clothing. Dr. Malcolm Cameron, 379 Spadina avenue, was called, but found him dead. The body was then removed to the morgue, and the chief coroner notified.

Spence was a married man about 35 years of age. His wife and family are living near Stony Lake.

LAID TO REST

The funeral of the late Mrs. Browne, 525 George street, held yesterday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock, was very impressive and largely attended. After a brief service at the house, the cortege proceeded to St. John's church, of which the deceased was a most faithful and valued member, where Canon Davidson referred in feeling terms to her devoted christian character. The favorite hymn of the deceased was sung R. J. Devey officiating at the organ.

The floral tributes were very numerous and beautiful in design and variety. The following is a list;—Large pillow, "Mother," from members of family, large cross, "Grandma," from grandchildren; anchor, from Patternmakers of Wm. Hamilton Co.; gates ajar, from Examiner staff; basket, young ladies of Miss Wesley's department, of Cressman Co.; bouquet, Mrs. E. G. Wesley; basket, Miss Lucy Anderson; bouquet, Mrs. Cuffe and family; anchor, from Review staff; basket, Miss O'Sullivan; large wreath, from staff of Cressman Co. stores; sheath bouquet, Mrs. Dillon and Miss Campbell; sheath of wheat from brothers and sisters, Lindsay; sheath of wheat from Marathon Lodge, Knights of Pythias. flowers were received from St. John's.

The pall-bearers were four sons, A. D. Browne, Frederick, George, Robert, R. McGill Hood, a son-in-law, and Charles Seymour, a grandson.

Representatives of the Patternmakers' Association attended the funeral, also several members of the Marathon Lodge, Knights of Pythias.

TURNERS HAVE HAD MANY RUSH ORDERS FOR TENTS

Porcupine Fire Gave Much Work to Local Factory.

J. J. Turner and Sons have received many orders for tents and supplies, as a result of the fire in the Porcupine district. The stock which was on hand was cleaned out, and the large staff of employes have been working overtime in an endeavor to keep up with the orders coming in. Yesterday the firm shipped a large double tent for the Bank of Toronto, which will be used as the quarters of the bank until the new building is erected.

"We have been very busy getting out tents to be forwarded with all haste," said Mr. Turner, sr., to-day, "and it has kept us hustling to put out the work. We have orders for all kinds and sizes of tents and have been working every night."

GRANDSTAND FOR PETERBORO FAIR

Five Openings to Give Access to Seats

A few days ago directors of the Industrial exhibition met Mr. R. A. Morrow, owner of the block on which the fair grounds are situated, and arranged for a further lease of the grounds for a term of five years. While Mr. Morrow could have disposed of the property to advantage, he consented to leave it in the hands of the directors at a nominal rental and conceding an option at which price they could acquire the property.

Following the execution of the lease the directors set about the erection of a new grand stand, which will be put up at once. It will be built of reinforced concrete, absolutely fireproof and safe, and the contract has been taken by the firm that put up the big C.G.E. building recently. The seating capacity will be over 1,500. The stand will be lower at the front, so that a good view of the whole of the track in front of the stand will be made from the east end, a space of five feet being reserved between the stand and fence of the track, from which five openings will give access to the steps and tiers of seats.

As they are erecting a work of so permanent a nature, it may be taken as evidence that the directors see in the future a fairly practical plan by which they may acquire the grounds and this will be done before the expiration of the least period. The stand will be ready for the annual exhibition in September.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Review does not hold itself responsible for opinions expressed by its correspondents

To the Editor of the Review.

Allow me to submit a suggestion to the city authorities on behalf of one of the city's aggressive and thoughtful young business men, regarding a plan which appears to him feasible in directing municipal government. His idea is very simple. He suggests that the control of all civic and municipal matters be left in the hands of five clear-headed, energetic and aggressive business or professional men of the city, elected by the rate-payers, and who shall have power similar to that now held by the members of the city council. A mayor is not included in the committee of five, he being allowed his customary power. Of these five men let one be specially appointed for his adaptability to further the industrial development of the city devoting his exclusive time to that object. Do not have him linger in the city trying to secure these, but have him get out in the large centres and hustle. He should be appointed for his talents in that direction and be possessed of personality and well cultivated business tact.

Regarding remuneration for the services of these men, it is the suggestion of the business man mentioned to have each of these men paid say $1200 or $1500 a year, a salary that compares very favorably with the average income of the majority of men. The contention of the business man mentioned is that, whereas the city councilmen in many cases are unable to devote their time exclusively to furthering the interests and controlling municipal matters, paid men, paid solely for these purposes would achieve immensely more practical and tangible results than by the former and present method.

The originator of this suggestion would be pleased to hear other suggestions relating to the plan.

Yours, etc.,

BETTER SERVICE.

Meanwhile the interior of the theatre is being renovated.

Sergt. Elmhirst Honored at the Coronation

Sergeant G. Elmhirst, of Indian River, who was one of the Canadian coronation contingent, was one of the thirty Canadians who rode in the coronation procession. He received a silver medal at the hands of the king, and a piece of the coronation cake.

Mr. Elmhirst was, of course, through Westminster Abbey, St. Paul's cathedral, and saw the other sights of London. He is a member of the Third Prince of Wales Dragoons, and is six feet one inch in height. In the coronation parade he was only a few horses behind Capt. Macoun, who was hurt. His friends of Indian River feel quite proud of their able representative at the honors across the sea.

ENGLAND TO HAVE LONG DISTANCE AEROPLANE RACE

Course of 1010 Miles for Daily Mail Prize of $50,000

London, July 20.—England is to witness this month one of the most ambitious attempts at long distance aeroplaning yet seen, a circuit of the island over a course of 1,010 miles for a prize of $50,000 offered by the Daily Mail. Entrants include Chas. T. Weymann, United States; Beaumont, winner of the recent European circuit competition; Vedrine, who finished first in the Paris to Madrid race, and Valentine, the Englishman, who competed in the European circuit.

The course is divided into sections, ranging from 20 to 182 miles in length. The race starts Saturday, July 22, at Brooklands, but the day's tas kis only a sort of tuning up flight of 20 miles to Hendon, where the competitors will rest over Sunday. Early Monday morning they will begin the second stage of 343 miles, from Hendon to Edinburgh. En route they will halt after 182 miles at Harrogate, and after another 68 miles at Newcastle, thence over a flight of 93 miles to the Scottish capital.

The third stage is from Edinburgh to Glasgow, and thence to Bristol, altogether 385 miles, with stops at Stirling (31 miles), Glasgow (31 miles) Glasgow, (22 miles), Carlisle, (86 miles) Manchester, (103 miles) and Bristol (141 miles.)

The fourth stage from Bristol to Brighton is 224 miles. Stops are to be made at Exeter (65 miles), the final stage to Brighton being 76 miles. And lastly a short flight of 40 miles will be made from Brighton to the starting point at the Brooklands motor racing field.

Whether any of the competitors will complete the race is doubtful, as the conditions, in the opinions of the experts, are almost impossible of fulfilment. More depends upon the stability of the machines than has been required in any previous race. The flying men must do the circuit of over 1,000 miles practically with their machines intact. The most important parts of each machine are to be marked, and these parts must be kept together throughout the course.

TORONTO GRABBED BOTH; BALTIMORE GOES TO TOP

Babe Adams Forced Every Run at Philadelphia—Cy Young Bumped.

Toronto, July 20.—There were frills and then some more to yesterday's double-header at the Island, and the same were all tucked on to the Kelleyites, for they walked off with both ends of the bill of fare, which, by the way, made it a clean sweep for Kelley's "wreckers." They were great battles, especially the first one, which was a pitchers' duel between Holmes and Lush, with the visitors out in front till the eighth, when Shaw's homer evened up the game, while Kocher's triple and Fitzpatrick's single counted the winning run in the ninth. What happened in the second was a shame, for the Leafs pounded two Rochester beavers into submission, and won pulled up by eleven to one. It was a clean sweep of the series for the "wreckers," and, while hunting the enemy to the quick, sent them away in second position, which place they have never held since the real race began.

Philadelphia, July 19.—With the bases full, Pitcher Adams passed Titus, who batted for Chalmers, thereby forcing in Beck with the winning run in the final half of the ninth, giving Philadelphia its fourth consecutive victory over Pittsburg at Fogel Park to-day by 5 to 4.

IS THE GOVERNMENT TRYING TO MAKE

the height of folly for the farmers of Canada to cast in their lot with those of the United States.

Hon. Sydney Fisher, Minister of Agriculture, was vigorously assailed in the Commons yesterday afternoon over the census figures. In reply to an interpellation by Mr. Borden on Tuesday the Minister stated that the final figures would not likely be available before October. About 28 per cent. of the enumerators had not made their returns, but the bureau was keeping up with the work of tabulation.

G. H. Perley (Argenteuil) led the attack. He quoted from a local paper a severe criticism on the manner in which the work had been done here, and declared that the system of paying five cents per name was not calculated to encourage enterprise. He said whole parishes had been omitted in Montreal.

Mr. Fisher characterized the criticism of his Department as reckless and unfounded. People who thought they had been omitted should notify the census commissioners. As a matter of fact the Department had received few complaints.

Mr. Borden created some amusement by wanting to know if he had been counted in as a citizen of Canada. Until June 15 no enumerator had called upon him. He found it impossible to believe that complaints from all over the country were without foundation.

Mr. Emmerson observed that the Maritime Provinces were vitally interested in the correctness of the census, and he was satisfied that it would be found the population had been correctly enumerated.

ENGLAND'S BIG MISTAKE

Catholic Register.

"Rome's Policy and England's Mistake" is the title of a sermon by some hot-headed preacher bigot in last week's Orange Sentinel. "England's Mistake" is good. The home government will not listen to its self-constituted Orange advisers, and as a consequence is making a number of mistakes. The one thing, however, that makes for the strengthening of the empire everywhere throughout the world is religious liberty, in the fullest sense of that term; and religious liberty, in the eyes of our Canadian bone-heads is the greatest mistake of all. We have always believed too, that at bottom, these misguided fanatics are plotting treason against the empire, whose greatness, freedom and liberty they are unable to appreciate or understand. England's wisdom at the same time, is best manifested in permitting incipient rebels of this type to get the poison out of their systems. Anarchists, cranks, and bigots are given every chance to air their views in the belief that sensible people take no particular stock in their foolish utterance. The Orange bigot is placed in the same category with the Baboo sower of sedition in India. Their seditious utterances usually end in talk and England's rulers know that the open mouths are seldom dangerous. Two hundred years ago an ignorant preacher could run amuck and make all kinds of trouble, by stirring up the worst passions of the untutored populace. The populace has learned by experience that these unsophisticated and unlearned "men of God" are far from being safe leaders. The procession has moved on and left the preachers behind. They still range and fret and fume and would set people at each other's throats if they could; but no one pays any attention to them, save here and there a misguided Orangeman, an old woman or a craft politician, who is glad to seize an opportunity of this kind to boost his own political stock. Here in Canada the non-Catholic layman, who comes in daily contact with his Catholic neighbors, has learned something which the half-baked, under-educated preacher cannot be made to realize. He has learned to respect his neighbor's religion, which helps to make him a cleaner, better and more honest neighbor. He has found, too, that his Catholic acquaintances and friends respect his religious convictions and are willing to give him as square a deal as those of their own faith. When his education has pro[illegible] words and he frequently winds up by remaining away from church. The United States and Canada to-day are filled with well-meaning Protestant men and women, whom under-educated, unlettered and intolerant preachers have driven from their churches. Many of them are sincere and God-fearing, but they will not stand for the brand of Christianity dispensed by the Battys, Stouffers, Hincks and other clerical nobodies, whom a self-respecting Protestantism should forcibly thrust from their pulpits and relegate to those walks of life where the lack of a real education elicits no comment. "Where ignorance is bliss 'tis folly to be wise" is no longer true even of the Canadian Protestant pulpit.

GIRLS SAY THEY ARE NOT GUILTY

Ethel Conrad and Lillian Graham in Court

New York, July 19.—Ethel Conrad and Lillian Graham pleaded not guilty before Judge Crain in General Sessions Court to-day to indictment charging with the attempted murder of Millionaire W. E. D. Stokes. Their counsel was granted ten days in which to withdraw the plea and substitute whatever motions he might see fit. Their former bail at $5,000 each was continued.

It was stated that the girls will interpose demurrers to the indictment, and these will probably be overruled. The actual trial, however, will not take place before next October.

Ethel Conrad limped badly when she appeared in court, and explained that she had sprained her ankle while dancing at a local theatre last night.

CANNOT INVADE THIS CONTINENT

American Expert Points Out the Many Difficulties

Brigadier General Chittenden, in a letter to the New York Outlook, speaking with the authority of an expert, points out how difficult, or impossible it would be for a hostile force to obtain lodgment on the coast of North America. It is true, he says, that troops could now be transported across the Pacific or the Atlantic oceans in greater numbers and in far less time than in the days of sailing vessels, but other considerations fully offset the advantages which an invader would possess in this respect. In the early days, before telegraph or railway, a hostile fleet could cross the Atlantic without any knowledge of the event on this side of the water and land anywhere from Maine to Georgia, while troops for the purpose of repelling this invasion could be concentrated only by the slow process of marching. Now a hostile fleet could not start from Europe without immediate knowledge of the event on this side, and troops could be concentrated by railway for the purpose of meeting the invasion. Besides that the fleet carrying an invading force, with its dependence on coal, would require a base of supplies such as was not required in the old days of sailing vessels when wind was depended upon for locomotion. These and other considerations says General Chittenden, show that the ocean as a bulwark of defence for America has been made greater than less as a result of modern inventions.

What the general says in relation to the United States is equally true in regard to Canada. The most baseless of scares is that which has been worked up in regard to the possibility of either German or Japanese invasion of any part of America. This continent is almost absolutely proof against danger from any outside source. The only possible source of danger is within the continent itself and that can best be obviated by the extension of commerce and a spirit of good neighborhood throughout all parts of the northern half of this greater rather than less as a result of modern inventions.

PETERBOROUGH INSTITUTIONS FOR SICK OR AFFLICTED

The Nicholls Hospital upon its situation of eminence and in its continuous mission of healing, constitutes a monument to its founder, Mrs. Charlotte J. Nicholls more lasting than pillars of marble or monuments of brass. It is of red brick and its symmetrical mass and imposing facades rising on the highest grounds in the city limits, dominate the view of the city, and include the winding sweep of the river and the rolling hills to the east.

The new building, the present hospital, was erected during the year 1889, and formally conveyed to the trustees and opened to the fulfillment of its purposes on January 20th, 1890. On this occasion the most prominent men of the city were present and voiced the warm appreciation of the public and of the magnificent liberality and beneficence of Mrs. Nicholls. As expressive of the character of her benefaction, a brief description of the beautiful memorial window erected by the trustees at the main entrance of the hospital, will show to what extent it is significant of her aims and objects. The window is placed on one side of the partition separating the main hall from the vestibule balancing the folding doors also fitted with stained glass. The subject of the beautiful picture which composes the window is the pathetic parable of the good Samaritan. In the background the rocky way from Jerusalem to Jericho is very happily depicted, rock trees, and water filling in the details. The whole scene is powerfully shown and is more free than usual from the conventional stiffness of outline or inflexibility of detail inseparable from the unplastic nature of the materials.

Thee lower part of the window contains this legend—"This window was erected by the Trustees of the Nicholls Hospital, to the memory of Robert Nicholls Esq., and in honor of his wife, Charlotte J[illegible], who donated this hospital in the year [illegible]9."

The City and County of Peterboro has a hospital not only architectually handsome, but provided with every equipment and appliance demanded by the latest advances of medical science in the treatment of the afflicted. While of course the main debt of gratitude is due to Mrs. Nicholls, a warm tribute of praise belongs to the members of the profession, who constitute the efficient medical staff of the hospital and have given since its foundation, and continue to give their services gratuitously.

The management of the hospital is conducted on sound and reliable business principles. The Board of Trustees is elected by the Protestant churches of the city, in a ratio of one to each, excepting St. Paul's and St. Andrews which elect two each. Each representative serves for a period of three years and is eligible for re-election. The original board, as appointed by Mr. Nicholls consists of Richard Hall, Esq., Robert S. Davidson, Wm. Manson, John McClellan, Geo. A. Cox, Joseph Flavelle, James Stratton, and A. P. Pousette. Of the original board, Messrs. Richard Hall, and John McClelland have remained on the Board continuously. Mr. John Crane, has served most efficiently in the capacity of Secretary-Treasurer for several years

ST. JOSEPH'S HOSPITAL

The imposing structure which overlooks the city from the east, and which is visible from almost every quarter thereof, stands as a beacon to the sick and suffering of Peterboro. Here, noble charity is exercised towards suffering humanity and tender care and skillful nursing are bestowed on all who enter its doors in affliction. And this has ever been the case since the day, upwards of twenty years ago, when the hospital doors were first thrown open to the public. On that occasion, in the presence of hundreds of [illegible] Lordship Bishop O'Connor, then recently appointed to the Episcopal See of Peterboro, said in the course of a scholarly address to the assemblage: "This hospital, will be open to the sick of every denomination, to Jew and Gentile, Catholic and Protestant. Sickness and injury will be the key that will open wide its doors for those who desire to seek relief within its walls."

That the desire of His Lordship has been the sole guiding principle of those in charge is evidenced by the fact that during the past twelve months alone, there have been treated entirely free of charge, no fewer than 135 patients, not two-thirds of whom were Catholics. This year has been only a type of previous ones, and all these patients have been treated and nursed, many of them through long tedious illnesses, and have received the most vigilant and devoted care, entirely free of any pecuniary remuneration.

A splendid addition was built about three years ago, which is furnished with every recent device for the relief and comfort of the sick. It contains a "continuous bath" of which there are only two others in the Dominion. And the new operating room with "Mayo table" is said to be one of the most perfectly fitted up operating-rooms on the continent.

The institution is in charge of the sisters of St. Joseph, who are careful and skilled nurses. It is manifestly their delight, as is testified by all who have been cared for by them, to serve their Divine Master in the person of His suffering fellow creatures.

HOUSE OF REFUGE

The County House of Refuge is situated on parts of lots 25 and 26 in the 8th concession of the township of Smith, a short distance from Lakefield. The building was erected in the year 1903 and is most admirably adapted for the purpose for which it was built. The tank which was installed last year is working very satisfactorily. The cost of maintenance is increasing every year, but the farm produce raised on the grounds is charged to the inmates as per inspector of prisons and charities.

There are about forty inmates at the present time, who are incapable of supporting themselves, or without means of maintenance.

The expense of sending persons to the House of Refuge is borne by the municipality from which such persons are committed. Each year at the first session of county council, a board of management is appointed, consisting of two persons who may be members of the council and who, together with the Warden, form a board of management, the chairman of which is named by the council and which board has the management and regulation and control of the House of Refuge and the farm.

A superintendent and matron namely Mr. and Mrs. H. Beavis, are in charge of the House at the present, and who are fully qualified to discharge the duties of their office.

A physician appointed by the Board provides medical attendance to any needy inmates.

MOUNT ST. JOSEPH.

The beautiful convent of "Mount St. Joseph" crowns the western hill, and is one of the points of interest for visitors to the city, and one that never fails to give delight, because of its shaded solitude and quiet grandeur.

FATALITY AT PORT HOPE

Wm. Mercer Killed at Canning Factory in Explosion

Many Bones Broken But He Remained Conscious Till End

Port Hope, July 20—Mr. William Mercer, who resides just north of the G.T.R. viaduct met with an accident while at work at the Canning Factory about six o'clock last evening which proved fatal.

Mr. Mercer was engaged in the back room cooking peas in one of the retorts and it is thought he neglected to fasten the door of the retort securely. When the steam reached a certain pressure the door was blown off breaking in two pieces and striking Mr. Mercer with great force. The forty-five cans of peas which were in the retort at the time of the explosion were also strewn in every direction and it is thought that many of these struck him.

The injuries were numerous and very severe. Both bones of the right forearm were broken with a compound fracture of the left leg below the knee. There was also a compound fracture of the left knee cap, the left thigh was broken the left arm and left forearm and left collar bone were broken and also the upper six ribs of the left side. Drs. McKinley and Forest were called and did everything possible for the injured man but he passed away this morning at six o'clock. Notwithstanding his numerous injuries and the severe shock to his system the deceased remained conscious all the time and talked quite freely.

OBITUARY

The Late Cornelius Culling

The death occurred this morning of Mr. Cornelius Culling, 563 Albert St., at the good old age of eighty-five years.

Born in Norfolk, England, he came to Canada in 1870. He was a cobbler by trade and for twenty years was in the employ of R.F. McWhinnie, the boot and shoe dealer, George Street. Latterly he was engaged with the Carey boot and shoe store.

There are left to mourn his departure four daughters and three sons, namely Mrs. Daynard, and Mrs. Fred. Shepherd, of this city, Mrs. J. E. Noble of Toronto, and Miss Anna. at home, Jack of Philadelphia, William of Toronto, and Edward of Chicago.

The funeral will be held on Saturday at 3.30 o'clock to Little Lake cemetery

The Late Miss Reid

A particularly sad death occurred at 11.30 last evening, when at the early age of 23 years, Miss Amy F. Reid passed away at her home, 174 McDonnel street, after an illness of only four months' duration. Death was the result of a general break-down of the constitution following an attack of scarlet fever, which brought on other complications.

The deceased young lady was one of the city's most generally liked young people. For the past six years she was connected with the local Bell Telephone Company and was considered one of their brightest and most reliable operators. Her winning disposition and invariably cheerful character contributed greatly to the popularity which she enjoyed, and her premature demise will leave a vacancy that will be keenly felt by her numerous friends. She was a faithful adherent of All Saints' church and formerly taught a class in the Sunday school.

Surviving her besides her parents are two sisters and four brothers namely, Elsie R., of Red Deer, Alta.; Florence, of Vermillion, B.C.; Frederick, Reginald and James, of Camrose, Alt., and Wallace, of this city. Her father, Mr. R. H. Reid, is also in Camrose, Alta.

The funeral will take place at 2.30 to-morrow afternoon to Little Lake cemetery, service at the house being held at 2 o'clock p.m., conducted by the Rev. H. R. Trumpour, rector of All Saints'.

HAVE DISSOLVED THE PARTNERSHIP

Ross & Holgate, Engineers, Have Separated

Montreal, July 19.—The partnership of the well known firm of engineers, Ross and Holgate, has been dissolved, the dissolution of which official notive is given to-day, taking virtual effect as from July 1st last. Henceforth the business will be continued under the name of R. A. Ross and Company.

Mr. Henry Holgate, who has been associated with Mr. Robert A. Ross for the past ten years, has joined the Cedar Rapids Power Company and will take over the control of that concern as president. For the next few days his office will be with his old business concern on St. Francois Xavier street, but the Cedar Rapids Company is taking offices in the Eastern Townships Bank Building, whither Mr. Holgate will move very shortly.

Messrs. Ross and Holgate during their partnership were concerned with the best establishment of some of the best known electrical works in the country, notably the Hydro-Electric, and the West Kootenay Companies. They established the Westmount electric lighting system, and were engaged by the city of Montreal as consulting engineers of the electric lighting question and the establishment of underground conduits. They were also consulting engineers for the C.P.R. and it was under their supervision that the Angus shops were laid out.

Mr. Holgate was chairman of the commission which was appointed to investigate the cause of the collapse of the Quebec bridge.

The Cedar Rapids Company, of which he now becomes the controlling head has authorization to tap the Cedar Rapids for power for electric light and energy, and important developments are to take place in the immediate future.

Messrs. Ross and Holgate formerly were in Peterborough, and are well known here. They are engaged by the city to make a report on the Lakefield power proposition.

TREES FOR THE RAILWAY

The C. P. R. Has a Nursery East of Winnipeg

The Canadian Pacific is making use of about 400 acres of its farm of 480 acres lying about 12 miles east of Winnipeg for nursery purposes. The object of this large nursery is to grow trees, shrubs and hardy perennials suitable to Western conditions, for use along its line, the trees to be planted for shelter belts along the main line, and the shrubs and perennials for the decoration of station gardens of the West. These are to be shipped to section foremen and station agents, who will be instructed by an expert horticulturist how to plant the material and how to lay it out to the best advantage. As a side line to the nursery, and for the purpose of crop rotation, vegetables and a small amount of grain are grown each year. There is a greenhouse for propagating bedding material for the larger parks along the lines. About 100 pure-bred Plymouth Rocks are kept as a side line to consume by-products at the nurseries, and, incidentally, to supply eggs and chickens for the dining cars, and thus reduce the running expenses.

REDUCED TO A SKELETON

DOCTOR SAID SHE WOULD DIE

"Fruit-a-tives" Saved Her Life

RIVIERE A PIERRE, QUE., May 9th 1910

"I look upon my recovery as nothing short of a miracle. I was for eleven years constantly suffering from Chronic Dyspepsia, Indigestion and Constipation. The last two years of my illness, I was confined to my bed nearly all the time. I was so thin I weighed only 90 pounds, and I vomited everything I ate. Even water would not stay on my stomach.

The doctors gave me up to die as the stomach trouble produced heart weakness and I was frequently unconscious.

At this time, a lady friend strongly advised me to try "Fruit-a-tives" and how thankful I am that I did so. When I had taken one box, I was much better and after three boxes, I was practically well again and had gained 20 pounds.

I have taken thirteen boxes in all and now weigh 150 pounds and am absolutely well—no pain—no indigestion—no constipation—my heart is sound and complexion clear".

IMMIGRATION SCENES

Many Races Mingle in Station at Winnipeg—Pictures of Various Nationalities

There were two hundred new comers housed at the Winnipeg Immigration hall one evening a short time ago. They proceeded the next day to various points. The guests were of six or seven different nationalities—French peasants of Alsace, Ruthenians, Poles, Hollanders, Russian Germans, and Germans. The rotunda of the C.P.R. was a place of many nations and several races. Within a radius of thirty feet were represented the white, yellow and black races. On one seat a big, pleasant-faced negro sat amid his luggage; a little way off two Galicians, in their odd hats with beehive crowns and turned-up brims, nodded and gesticulated; and, on a bench facing these, were a row of Chinamen, cloth caps tilted forward over their braided and knotted queues, in their eyes a curious, blank look, like gawky schoolboys.

Five races were seen, cheek-by-jowl, on one short bench. At one end, a black-haired Assyrian sat alone, his hat tilted forward, his hands in his pockets, and his legs stretched disconsolately out before him; before him an Alsatian wrote laboriously on a piece of note-paper spread on the back of the seat; next to him two Polanders talked animatedly; next these again a fat mulatto woman loiled sleepy-eyed, her bundle in her lap; and, at the other end of the bench, a Swiss boy and girl sat side by side. Many stopped to look at the last two, for there were tears in the girl's eyes and the boy ceaselessly and tenderly pressed her hand, holding it against his cheek. "They are brother and sister," said the linguist from the Immigration offices, "family attachment was very strong among the Swiss."

THEY GROW FINE SEED

Good Quality of That Found on Prince Edward Island

Three seed fairs were held on Prince Edward Island this year, whilst three years ago there was only one. So much importance is attached to these that on two occasions the Island Legislature adjourned in order that the members could attend and deliver addresses at these fairs. Judges from the mainland pronounce the Island seed to be unsurpassed for quality in the Dominion. A shipment of selected seed oats, sold to the Seed Government Association at Quebec, realized ninety cents per bushel.

An old soldier who had pawned his medals and lost the tickets, was, at Willesden, granted an order for the recovery of his property.

INDIVIDUALITY

When Eye Glasses are required there is individuality in the facial features, which requires special shapes, styles of lenses and mountings.

Patrons of the Optical Institute frequently remark that there is individuality in our Eye Glasses because they "grace the face," "fit the features," and "please the wearer."

by the Sisters of St. Joseph in 1895, for a hospital and mother-house. A few years later the original building was found to be too small to accommodate the growing community, and in 1903 an addition was made containing the lovely devotional chapel of the Sacred Heart.

After the lapse of eight years it has been again found necessary to enlarge the building. Adjoining the old building and to the north of it, a handsome structure is being erected. As it nears completion the pile of buildings presents an appearance of taste and elegance of which the city may well be proud, and in which the good Sisters, especially the charming lady, Reverend Mother Clotilde, under whose management all has been accomplished, may feel a pardonable satisfaction.

MINISTERS IN THE SMUGGLING FRAUDS

Officials Charged With Jobbery Involving Million Dollars of Public Money—Sir Wilfrid Has Troubles With His Following in the House.

Ottawa, July 21.—Ministerial difficulties resulting in loss of temper were apparent during yesterday's sitting of the House. The Government is daily experiencing more trouble in keeping what is now known as the silent majority of Liberals in their places. The members are openly expressing their discontent, and the whips urged on to greater efforts by Sir Wilfrid Laurier are having all kinds of trouble with the rebellious rank and file. Strenuous efforts are being made by the Government to create the impression that the Opposition is obstructing. Sir Wilfrid Laurier last night angrily accused J. D. Taylor of New Westminster of killing time, after Mr. Taylor had spent three hours in placing on hansard, evidence taken in the British Columbia Chinese immigration frauds. These frauds had been investigated by a royal commission, whose report is in the hands of the Government and has been for weeks. Taylor has repeatedly tried to get the document tabled, without success.

Caucuses of both parties will be held on Tuesday, and on that day, in accordance with a notice given by the Prime Minister last night, morning sittings will begin. The U. S. Senate will have passed upon the reciprocity bill by that time, and the issue here will be forced.

On the motion that the Speaker leave the chair and the House go into committee on the reciprocity resolutions, J. D. Taylor (New Westminster) charged the Government with delay in bringing forward the report of Judge Murphy on the Chinese immigration frauds in British Columbia. Mr. Taylor proceeded to censure the members of the Cabinet, and declared that a scandal was involved which affected $1,000,000 of the public money. It included members of the Cabinet, consular officers in China, and implicated the customs department in opium smuggling frauds, as well as Chinese frauds, he declared. The circumstances, said Mr. Taylor, had been explained by the press of the country for the past three years, and involved the various members of the Government, Prime Minister, Minister of Customs, Minister of Interior, Minister of Trade and Commerce, Minister of Labor, and Minister of Inland Revenue. All these gentlemen had been put in possession of the details, in which they might have shown some personal interest, but none had come forward to explain the report of the commissioner or determine upon any course of action.

The member for New Westminster then went on to read facts adduced in evidence, published in the British Columbia newspapers, which, in the absence of the report, were sufficiently well authenticated to be heard. He reviewed the appointment of the commission on Nov. 14, and traced the investigation, which extended over some months, reading long extracts of evidence. He said that the report of the commissioner had been in the hands of the Government for over two months, and quoted a telegram from Hon. Wm. Templeman to his party friends, regretting the turn events were taking.

The attention of the House was at low water mark during the entire afternoon and Mr. Taylor had to voice indignation. His final retort was that those who were doing most of the interrupting were the beneficiaries of the frauds.

On a cry of "order" from the Prime Minister, the member for New Westminster explained that no personal reference was meant.

The debate continued after supper recess, when Sir Wilfrid Laurier made an explanation that Mr. Justice Murphy, the commissioner, had recommended the prosecution of certain parties, but these parties were not in the country. He also asked that his report be not made public until these men had been prosecuted. Sir Wilfrid promised to take the matter up with the Minister of Justice and make a statement to the House, and suggested that Mr. Taylor had brought the question up for the purpose of wasting time.

Quickly the member for New Westminster resented the imputation. "I give it a positive denial," he declared. "I did it in pursuance of my duty to a number of citizens of Vancouver, who are my constituents. I asked for this report on two previous occasions without making any remarks at all on the subject."

CLAIMS DEAL WAS FRAUDULENT

Chatham Woman in Litigation Over Some Land

Chatham, Ont., July 21.—Acting for Mrs. W. J. Strong, J. M. Pike, K.C., has issued a writ against her husband and his father, Anthony Strong, to set aside releases of a dowry signed in December and January last, relating to several houses and lots on Weverley road, Toronto, which she claims were obtained from her by her husband under misrepresentations, and without any consideration or independent advice on her part. The property is valued at about $7,000, and includes lots 108, 110 and 112 on Waverley road. She claims these were conveyed by her husband to his father, Anthony Strong, who is now living in one of them and she asks to have set aside and declared null and void the releases of dower obtained from her and an injunction restraining them from mortgaging or selling the lands in the meantime.

No one was badly hurt.

PORTUGUESE CROWDS CHEER FOR CHURCH AND MONARCHY

Soldiers Meet Hostility From Lisbon Mobs—Army Officers Stoned.

Lisbon, July 21.—The Minister of Finance yesterday asked the Cortes for credits of $1,500,000 for the national defence, and for $100,000 for the work of the Foreign Office.

When a detachment of the twentieth regiment arrived at Guimaraes, where it had been sent as a precautionary measure to prevent outbreaks, the soldiers were greeted with hostility by the people, who jammed the streets and cheered for the church and the monarchy.

Army officers who tried to harangue the people were stoned by a mob, and forced to seek refuge in the house of Governor Salgado, which was immediately surrounded and besieged until reinforcements arrived.

Capt. Couciere, the royalist leader, is reported as continuing his preparations for an invasion of the frontier.

Advices from Coimbra report fighting on the streets there, as a result of the counter demonstrations.

HUGE ARMY OF ENGLISH BOY SCOUTS GREET THEIR MONARCH.

FORTY THOUSAND BOY SCOUTS CHEERING KING GEORGE.
FROM THE SPHERE

King George inspected about forty thousand Boy Scouts in Windsor Great Park one afternoon not long after the Coronation. In front of the royal enclosure, spread out in a semi-circle ten ranks deep, were the King's scouts. Fifty yards to their rear were scouts who have been decorated for life-saving and scouts with colonial flags. The main body of the scouts was drawn up beyond. His Majesty's arrival was marked by the hoisting of the royal standard. All the scouts saluted and the band played the national anthem. A grand charge and demonstration of first aid and other scout work followed. The King was in military uniform and rode his handsome bay charger, accompanied by the Duke of Connaught, Lieutenant General Sir Robert Baden-Powell, who was in command of the boys, and many other distinguished soldiers. To watch the vast array of boys assembled it seemed almost impossible to believe that it was only so short a time ago as January, 1908, that the first troop of scouts was formed.

IT WILL LEAD TO UNION

"And so we firmly oppose this agreement," said Mr. Borden to his Winnipeg audience, "because we believe that, if carried to its logical conclusion, it would lead to commercial union, and commercial union will inevitably end in political absorption. Mr. Taft has repeatedly referred to this agreement as "commercial union.' In its present form it is not absolute commercial union; but, as the President has shrewdly observed, it means nothing less.

"No one questions the loyalty of the Canadian people; no one questions their devotion to Canada and the empire. But that man is blind or foolish who cannot realize the meaning of these proposals.

"What said Edward Blake in 1891? "Unrestricted reciprocity would, in my opinion, result in the annexation of this Dominion to the United States. Its friends in the United States urge as the chief reason of its adoption that unrestricted reciprocity would be the first step in the direction of political union.' What said Sir Oliver Mowat in 1891? "I am not willing that Canada should commit national suicide. Are you? I am not willing that both our British connection and our hope of Canadian nationality shall be forever destroyed."

LORDS PASS THE VETO BILL IN SLIGHTLY MODIFIED FORM

Extremists Who Would Throw Out the Bill Are Held Down — Bill Now Goes Back to Commons, and Then the Final Death Struggle.

London, July 21.—The House of Lords passed the third reading of the Parliament bill, otherwise known as the veto bill, without division yesterday, with only three hours debate. The insurgent peers failed to do any harm. The threats of the extremist lords to throw out the bill at this stage and precipitate a crisis proved a bluff. One solitary peer, Baron Stanmore, raised his voice to demand a vote. He found no single supporter in his role of Horatius-at-the-bridge.

Lord Morely of Blackburn, for the Government, and Lord Lansdowne, leader of the Opposition, repeated some familiar arguments for and against the measure. Lord Halsbury, leader of the extremists, threatened a fight if the House of Commons rejects the amendments.

The future of the measure may be predicted last night with reasonable certainty. Premier Asquith in the House of Commons on Monday will move the rejection of the Lords' amendments en bloc. This done, the Prime Minister will announce that if the Lords persist there will be no course open for him but to tender the King certain advice, which will ensure the passage of the bill. It would not be in accordance with the constitutional etiquette to specify the nature of the advice, but it is understood that that means the creation of Liberal peers.

LORD LANSDOWNE.

The House of Lords will meet on Wednesday or Thursday, and Lord Lansdowne will move the acceptance of the bill, predicting its repeal as soon as the Unionists return to office. If the extremists rally around Halsbury, and vote for the rejection of the bill, Lord Lansdowne is expected to summon his followers to vote for it. It is not anticipated that Halsbury will find more than fifty, perhaps not more than a score, to make the last stand, and the greatest constitutional revision in most a century will be accomplished.

Three considerations have impelled the peers to swallow this bitter medicine—a desire to save their own caste from cheapening, to shield the King from an embarrassing position, and to prevent the immediate enactment of extreme radical measures, such as home rule and the disestablishment of the Welsh church. What the ultimate effect of the humiliation will be on the Unionist party lies in the lap of the future.

The scene yesterday in the ancient chamber was more funereal than belligerent. The only dramatic touch was furnished by Lord Halsbury, whose voice, despite his 86 years, rang with passion and indignation as he denounced the passage of the old regime.

The other speakers were diplomatic rather than oratorical. Lord Morely suavely hoped that this Parliamentary operation would be accomplished without further social shock; and everyone understood that social shock meant dissolution of the peerage by the infusion of new blood. Lord Lansdowne replied with equal suavity that the Unionists must oppose the bill as proposed by the House of Commons as long as they were free agents. Everyone interpreted this to mean that they would not consider themselves free agents when the threat of doubling the peerage was definitely held over their heads.

Mr. Balfour has summoned a meeting of the leaders of both Houses for to-day for the purpose of considering the question of future policy.

Senator Bailey's Fear.

Washington, D.C., July 21.—Senator Bailey of Texas, speaking against the Canadian reciprocity bill in the Senate yesterday, expressed the fear that in giving trade concessions to Canada, the United States would become involved in trade disputes with other countries.

AUBREY WHITE IS NOW G. M.

Masonic Grand Lodge at St. Kitts is Through

W. D. McPherson is Deputy Grand Master

St. Catharines, July 21.—The Masonic Grand Lodge of Canada for the Province of Ontario yesterday afternoon completed the business of the 45th annual convention and adjourned to meet next year in Toronto. Delegates voted in large numbers for the Queen City, in preference to either Hamilton or Port Arthur. They evidently had had sufficient of the smaller city hotel accommodation.

When the meeting opens next year, a Toronto man will occupy both the grand master's and deputy's chair. Deputy White having been elevated to the chief position, and W. D. McPherson having been chosen over three opponents to fill the position of deputy grand master. But for the fact that McPherson was a Toronto man, he would have probably been elected on the first ballot, as many were loath to give both honors to Toronto. However, McPherson won out on his merits, and it is most likely that for the next four years the Masonic grand master will reside in Toronto, as it is the custom to give the grand master two terms.

The officers elected for the year are: Grand master, Aubrey White, Toronto; deputy grand master, W. D. McPherson, Toronto; grand secretary, R. L. Gunn, Hamilton; grand treasurer, W. T. Malone, Toronto; grand senior warden, J. A. Grobb, St. Catharines; grand junior warden, T. G. Davis, London; grand chaplain, Rev. S. A. Wood, Chesterville; grand registrar, A. W. Petit, Windsor; board of general purposes, W. M. Ponton, Belleville; W. J. Drope, Grimsby; Frederick Guest, St. Thomas; W. H. Wardrope, Hamilton.

The grand master appointed the following to the board of general purposes: George Naylor, Ingersoll, G. S. May, Ottawa; C. W. Haentschell, Haileybury; R. H. Revell, Walkerville; J. A. McFadden, Toronto.

Didn't Want Hospital.

Kingston, July 21—It having become known that the residence of the late Col. Straubenzie, in Portsmouth, was considered the most desirable site for the Sir Oliver Mowat Memorial Hospital for Consumptives, the council of the village has entered a protest against the sanitarium being within its limits. Reeve Baiden threatens to sue for damages in case the site is chosen.

ARE WORRYING ABOUT HARVEST

Where Will the Required Help be Secured

Toronto, July 21.—The Canadian Northern Railway head office received another crop report yesterday, which said that the amount of rain and sunshine had been so favorable that a record yield will undoubtedly be the result.

The C.N.R. is worrying about the prospective unsufficiency in the number of harvest hands. The suggestion has been made that European lands be called upon to supply the need.

Several difficulties, however, present themselves. In the first place, if the men were obtained, what would become of them during the winter? This, with difficulties regarding immigration regulations, has so far kept the railways and Government from taking any action along this line.

THE CENSUS

The census was badly bungled. That is about the truth of it. The enumerators were paid six cents a name for those they got, and those they didn't get are of course not mentioned. This system led to many enumerators skipping houses where there was some difficulty in getting at the head of the house. What enumerator was going to spend half a day in time traipsing back to one house to get a name or two—12 cents' worth—if the people were away?

What is everybody's business is nobody's business, and where families were absent from home, the chances are that they were not bothered by inquisitive prying from any enumerator. If the enumerator assigned to them at home could not find them, how would an enumerator in the place where they were temporarily located get at them? Among the prominent members of parliament whose names were not taken, according to reports, were R. L. Borden, Mr. Lennox, South Simcoe; J. C. Dougherty and many others. John Herron, representing Macleod, tells of a district in his constituency, where dozens were missed. In Calgary hundreds were missed, and the newspapers urged the people not to wait for the enumerators, but to go to them, and cram the information down the inquisitor's throat, so as to be sure to be counted.

The census taking was made a party patronage affair. It was turned into soft jobs for the faithful, and of course was bungled from start to finish. Right here in Peterborough conditions were not better than in other places. The census taking was more or less of a joke, and when Canadians quote the 1911 statistics, the qualifying fact must be considered—that the figures represent only a fraction of the real number or amount, and that they are in no sense really trustworthy.

CANADIAN INDEPENDENCE

John E. Ewart, of Ottawa, is publishing a series of very interesting pamphlets, to prove that Canada should object to being termed a colony, as not befitting our dignity as a great, free and prosperous people. He objects to the word "empire," as indicating the existence of a superior or head state, and inferior or subsidiary states, holding, of course, that as Canada is a co-equal state with the other parts of the empire, it should not be designated a Dominion. He would have the empire—if empire there must be—as a system of federated nations, but not known as an "empire"; and he declares that even imperial federation is a dream and a myth.

Mr. Ewart has come out frankly as an independentist and he says he will welcome the day when Canada will throw off the nominal yoke of British allegiance. He says:

"Colonial assistance in the wantonly aggressive war against the Transvaal (1899-1902) gave a tremendous impetus to British imperialism; and with almost any other opponent than Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Mr. Chamberlain would probably have swept Canada off her feet. We are now past the last great crisis in our political history. OUR INDEPENDENCE IS ASSURED. There but remains the inauguration of the fact. I should like to live to hear Sir Wilfrid's inauguration speech."

So ho! Mr. Ewart would like to have Sir Wilfrid, who is more or less of an independence advocate, pronounce the inauguration speech, deliver the Canadian Declaration of Independence But Mr. Ewart is only one of eight million people in Canada, and while he may be better read on questions of imperial moment than the seven million, nine hundred and ninety thousand, his vote and opinion count for only one.

The public mind and the public conscience does not weigh the scruples of finely fashioned reasoning in the balance; does not draw its deductions from half a thousand remote sources. It does not reach the height of closely analytical logic, but the public mind and conscience intuitively gets at the fundamental basis of the question just the same. The Montreal Witness a few days ago said that if Canada were not dependent in one direction, she would be dependent in another. This is reasoning of the kind that will appeal to the masses. Apart from questions of sentimental loyalty to the crown—and the happy things of life are largely based on sentiment, after all—could Canada afford to be separated from the British empire?

We are now so independent in everything of moment that we make our own treaties, govern our affairs as we please, have our minister of external affairs—Canada hasn't many, except commercial—and are in everything but name, an independent nation.

Should we drop the substance to grasp at the shadow of a name—become independent, only to find our powerful southern neighbor slowly pressing us into dependence on her foreign policy?

It is a pleasant pastime speculating on Canada's separation from the empire, but not a profitable use of time.

INSULTING OUR NAVY

One of the chief officers of the trim little German cruiser, Bremen, in Montreal port, committed an inexcusable insult to the Canadian navy when he declared that our 11,000 ton cruiser the Niobe, was no good as a warship, but would do as a training ship. What is the officer of a little third-class cruiser like the Bremen, supposed to know about naval matters, and the Niobe especially? Was not our big defence warship bought from the admiralty scrap heap, and brought over here on the expert recommendation of Admiral Brodeur, of the navy department?

The Bremen can steam 23 knots, while the Niobe can make 20 knots. It is true that the Niobe could not overtake the little Bremen, but what would that matter when she has some big guns aboard to keep off an enemy?

The Niobe is faster than the colliers of the German navy, and could doubtless cut them out in the event of a conflict. So what is the boastful and critical German talking about?

The gallant Von Sposettl did not possibly know that our navy department is distinctly of the opinion that the Niobe is an efficient warship, or he would not have made such rude remarks. He has explained that he meant that the Niobe was not a Dreadnought. Possibly this fact has been hidden among the archives of the navy department as a state secret. It would never do to put such valuable information in the hands of outsiders or any but the chiefs of the Canadian admiralty, and now the little German has "gone and done it." We demand that he be recalled by the Kaiser, immediately and put in irons, for making remarks about our navy that cannot possibly be excused. He has dared to impugn the superior knowledge of Admiral Brodeur and his staff, which of course is lese majeste of the most obstreperous kind. Away with him to the dungeon!

EDITORIAL NOTES

England doesn't seem to be greatly alarmed at the prospect of Jack Johnson becoming an Englishman. Two or three centuries ago it suffered from the black plague.

A German officer of the cruiser Bremen, visiting in Montreal, remarked that the Niobe would be no good whatever in war, but was a good trainingship. This tremendous insult to Canada's navy should be resented by every Canadian who knows that the Niobe could lick a whole German fleet. The Niobe no good for war, indeed! Here is an insult that can be only wiped out by the red blood of thousands of the Kaiser's men.

The moral atmosphere of Ottawa was shocked when it was discovered that a Salome dancer was doing business in the Young Buffalo circus, and a detective stopped the show, to discover that the lady of the shimmering laces who was delighting hundreds of men was only a man. If the men in that audience had known they were watching a man dance, how long would they have stayed?

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, July 20.—Owing to the advance of 1c per bushel in prices for wheat at Winnipeg, all foreign bids were out of line for Manitoba grades, but the demand was good for American red miller wheat and considerable business was worked, which resulted in ocean freight engagements being made for 500,000 bushels. American corn was stronger with cargo lots of number three yellow offering to arrive at 69c afloat. Oats were quiet and steady. There was some enquiry from European sources for spring wheat flour, but little business resulted. The local trade is fairly active. There is considerable demand for bran and shorts from all sources, and higher prices are talked of in the near future.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Toronto Live Stock.

TORONTO, July 20.—The railways reported 68 carloads of live stock at the City Yards, consisting of 638 cattle, 2266 hogs, 625 sheep and lambs, 132 calves and 1 horse.

Butchers.

George Rowntree bought 540 cattle for the Harris Abattoir Co. at the following prices on Wednesday and Thursday: Butchers' steers and heifers, at $5.35 to $6.10; a few choice cattle of export weights at $5.90 to $6.20; cows, at $4 to $5; canners, at $1.25 to $2.25.

Milkers and Springers.

There being no buyers from Montreal or Quebec, trade in milkers and springers was the dullest of the season and prices declined about $10 per head on an average. Milkers were the hardest hit. Prices ranged all the way from $30 to $60 each. See sales given below.

Veal Calves.

Prices for veal calves remained steady at $4 to $8.50 per cwt.

Sheep and Lamb.

Sheep light, ewes and yearlings sold at $4.50 to $5; heavy ewes, $3.50 to $4; rams, $2.75 to $3 per cwt. Lambs were a little firmer, selling at $7 to $8 per cwt. Drovers should go easy, as should there be heavy deliveries it is not at all likely that the latter price will prevail next week.

The bulk of the hogs have been bought during the week at about $7.25, f.o.b., cars, at country points. Selects, fed and watered, sold at $7.60 to $7.65, and $7.30 to $7.35 to drovers for hogs, f.o.b., cars, at country points, and we heard of one deck being sold at $7.40, f.o.b., cars.

He would have led her to the sofa but again she repulsed him gently. He went to the table and took up the acquittal he had laid on it.

"Found my accounts to be correct," he muttered. "That means he will have the books fixed up and nothing will show. Did he say much about me?"

"Not very much."

"But I bet he gave you an awful argument. Williams is not an easy man to get to give in. But here it is in black and white, and he can't go back on this. Did you ask him to put it in writing?"

"No."

"Then he did it of his own accord. Wonder if he called the detectives off. Did he say anything about them?"

"No."

"But it's all clear sailing now," he went on, selfishly jubilant, already planning for the future. "I can get another position and a better one. There's enough money left to give me time to find one. Do you think he'll interfere any more, Emma?"

"I don't know."

"What do you think? You must have some idea."

"I haven't the slightest."

"Well, anyway, Emma, you did splendidly. You came right to the front."

As he uttered the commendation he tried again to caress her.

"Please don't, Joe!"

This time she rebuffed him sharply and moved away from him.

"Oh, all right, if that's the way you feel about it!"

He turned from her with an injured air and, lighting a cigarette, began to pace the room. Although in his remorse during her absence he had resolved not to ask her what had passed in the captain's rooms, curiosity, now that his confidence had been restored by the proof of immunity, tormented his vicious mind. He was not only ready, but desired to know everything that had occurred even to unavowable details, if any such there were.

"He was there when you arrived?" he questioned, seeing that she showed no disposition to talk.

"Yes."

"Anybody else?"

"He was alone."

"You must have caught him in a good humor. He'd never have done this in one of his usual grouches. I didn't know you were such a diplomat. What did you say to him?"

"A good many things."

"Didn't tell him I sent you, did you?"

"He knew."

"He knew? How did he know? Who told him?"

"I don't know. He just knew."

"Somebody must have told him, and you were the only one who knew."

"No; he knew too. I didn't tell."

"But how did you open the conversation?" he demanded impatiently. "What did you say? What's the matter? Can't you answer me?"

"I don't see why I should."

"I do. I want to know, and I've a right to know."

She vouchsafed no reply.

He dropped his authoritative tone and became persuasive.

"You say he was alone when you arrived. How did he receive you?" he coaxed.

She remained silent.

"What did he say to you? What did he do?"

Still she did not answer, but sat as though in a stupor.

"Come, Emma, don't be contrary. Tell all that took place. You know that it is between us— Did he ask you to kiss him?"

"I wonder what time it is," she said, with a shiver, as though she had not heard him.

"Never mind the time. What did he say when you asked him to let me off? He must have said a lot. You were gone long enough."

"Will you please tell me what time it is?"

"It is about 11:30. What of it? Why don't you tell me what happened at Williams'?"

She rose, still in her stupor of weariness.

"Goodby, Joe," she said.

"Goodby?" he echoed, amazed. "Where are you going?"

"To mother's. Jimsy's coming back for me."

"You didn't say anything to your mother while she was here about this?"

"That was for your sake. Every one doesn't need to know."

"What are you going to your mother's for? This is where you belong—your home. And what's Jimsy got to do with it?"

"I said goodby."

"What's the reason you can't stay here?"

"You couldn't expect me to live with you after what happened tonight."

"Why not?"

There was consternation as well as anger in his voice.

"Because it is quite impossible. You ought to realize that."

"I don't see why it is impossible. Everything is all right now unless you have got some reason that makes it impossible."

"Yes, I think I've all the reason in the world to make it impossible. I think it's time for you to realize it."

CHAPTER XVII.

EMMA moved toward the door, but her husband ran and intercepted her.

"Wait a minute. You can't go that way," he said determinedly. "You are my wife, and you can't leave here without some explanation."

"I've no explanation to make," she retorted coldly. "You will please let me go. I've done my part, and it's my right to leave."

"I tell you I won't let you go until you tell me the truth. What happened with Williams, and how did you induce him to agree?"

"You've no right to ask that. The price I paid for that letter is none of your business. You set that price at the highest possible figure a woman can pay. Now, how I bargained or what I paid is none of your affair."

"It is my affair. I want to know, and I will know!"

"When you sent me to that man, Joe Brooks, I told you that if I made the bargain I was to make it alone, that it was to be my business alone and that I should never be asked. You agreed. I've carried out my part. You carry out yours. I gave you your freedom. You give me mine."

"There is only one reason why you should leave here now, and that is Williams. Are you going back to him?"

She stepped back from him and swept him with a look of cold disdain.

"If there was one thing left for you to do to make you the most contemptible cad you've done it now!" she exclaimed. "When you sent me to Williams I thought you'd sunk as low as you could, but I see I was mistaken. There was a depth that even in my disgust, my loathing of you, I never imagined existed. But now you've reached it. I don't hate you. I just pity you."

"I won't let you go until you tell me the truth."

A gleam of fury glowed in his eyes under this merciless castigation, and he moved toward her menacingly.

"That's not the answer I want," he said harshly. "You're quibbling. Tell me the truth about Williams."

"You'd better let me go."

"You'll tell me the truth about Williams before you leave this room!" he shouted. "Make up your mind to that now, because that's just the way it's going to be!"

She realized that she had gone too far in her denunciation, that his anger was dangerous and that he would stop at nothing, not even blows, not even murder. He was white, his teeth were set, and on his quivering face was an expression of ferocious determination that warned her that she must temporize and appear to give in to him.

"Very well," she assented, turning from the door; "if that's the way it's going to be I'm perfectly willing."

"Then answer me."

"I intend to do that, but I intend to do something more than merely answer that question. If you don't mind we'd better sit down."

She motioned him to a chair and seated herself so that the table was between them.

"In the first place," she went on, very calmly, "in order to relieve your mind I might tell you that I have done nothing tonight which can reflect upon me as a good woman. I had no intention of doing any such thing. So far as I can find out, you are the only person who had my degradation in mind and was willing that it should happen if it resulted in your escaping the consequences of being a thief."

"What do you mean?"

APPLE YIELD WILL BE GOOD

Hot Weather Didn't Kill the Prospects Entirely

Ottawa, July 20.—The report of the fruit division of the Department of the Department of Agriculture states that the prospect for apples has diminished slightly since last month's report, except in British Columbia, where prospects have rather improved, and it is now estimated that shipments from that province will be 85 per cent. of last year's crop, which was very heavy.

The hot, dry weather does not appear to have materially affected the apple crop prospects in Eastern Canada, although correspondents, especially in Ontario, have exhibited apprehension that if sufficient rain does not come soon the crop will be very much shortened. There are reports of sun scald in the counties north of Lake Huron and Inland to York county.

Nova Scotia still expects to have the greatest crop on record, due partly to the increased acreage, but also the heavy yield.

Pears will be light in all sections.

Plums promise to be a fair to medium crop in Ontario and Nova Scotia.

Early and late peaches will be a good crop. Peaches of the Crawford type are reported as somewhat light.

Raspberries and gooseberries suffered severely from the dry, hot weather in Ontario, and the crop will be an almost total failure in some localities.

There is an increased acreage of tomatoes in Ontario.

CITIZENS DO NOT LOCK THEIR DOORS

Many Easy Marks for Knights of Dark Lantern

Glowing examples of the carelessness of some citizens has come to the notice of Chief Thompson, since he inaugurated the system of daily inspection of residences in different parts of the city. The other night, every door of the home of a prominent citizen was found to be unlocked and the members of the family away. Doors in other houses have been found unlocked by the police officers. In some cases keys have been found in the doors.

ANOTHER TRIPLE PLAY PUT OVER

Pacific League Players Kills Three Unassisted

Los Angeles, July 20.—Walter Carlisle, centre fielder of the Vernon club of the Pacific Coast league, made the sixth unassisted triple play recorded in organized baseball yesterday in Los Angeles, in a game won by Vernon, 5 to 4.

In the sixth inning, with the score tied, Moore and Metzger of Los Angeles, walked. Pitcher Carson, of Vernon, was replaced by Stewart. Akin, third baseman for Los Angeles, hit the first ball Stewart pitched low over second base, for what looked like a clean single. Moore and Metzger both got off to a hit and run signal, but Carlisle, playing close in, came forward like a flash and picked the ball off his shoe tops. His funge carried him off his feet and when he recovered both base runners, counting Akin's drive a sure safety, had passed the second station. Carlisle raced to second and touched the bag, while Moore was well on his way to the plate, then trotted to first, retiring Metzger.

PRESBYTERIANS HAD FINE TIME

Annual Outing of Sunday School Was Big Success

The annual excursion of Knox church Sunday school, held to Mt Julian and South Beach yesterday was the most successful on record.

About two hundred and fifty people took the 8.30 G.T.R. train to Lakefield and were met there by the steamer "Stoney Lake" and conveyed to Mt. Julian, where the boat remained a couple of hours to allow the excursionists to have dinner.

A sail around the Lake followed, and at three o'clock the pleasure seekers were landed at South Beach, where a fine list of sports were carried out. When the sports were finished and the prize-winners had received their trophies, supper was served before the return trip commenced.

The weather was ideal and the trip was very much enjoyed. The usually tedious journey through the different locks was made more pleasant by the music of the Brotherhood orchestra.

The outing was a success financially as well as otherwise as the Sunday school realized about $35 over expenses.

Boys under 6 yrs.—1 A. Trussler, 2 E. Munro.

Girls 6 to 8 yrs.—1 G. McKenzie, 2 J. Mervin.

PORT HOPE TO TRY TARVIA

Power King and Schwartz to Bear the Expense

Port Hope Guide

Mr. B. E. Smith, representing the Paterson Manufacturing Co., Ltd., Toronto, was in town yesterday superintending the work of putting Tarvia on Dorset street. This Tarvia has been spread from Mr. J.L. Schwartz's residence to the east end of Mr. Culverwell's property, "Glenridge." As it is impossible to have the watering cart go up Dorset street Mr. Culverwell and Mr. Schwartz decided in this plan to keep down the dust. They bear the whole expense of the work and the residents of that portion of the street will enjoy the benefits.

Tarvia resembles tar very much and the odor is similar. The road is thoroughly scraped before the Tarvia is applied and about one gallon covers four square yards. After the Tarvia is put down a light coat of sand is scattered over it and it is then in condition for traffic. It costs about four cents per square yard, and yesterday's application will be sufficient to keep the dust down for the balance of the season.

This public spirited action on the part of Mr. Culverwell and Mr. Schwartz will not only be appreciated by the residents of that section of the town, but also by the citizens in general.

MYSTERIOUS DEATH OF LADY NEAR FRASERVILLE

Mrs. James Harrison Taken Suddenly Ill — Inquest to be Held.

Mrs. James Harrison, wife of Mr. James Harrison, residing on lot 3, con. 8, North Monaghan, died this morning about nine o'clock. According to her husband's story she was seized with convulsions while driving with him to Peterborough early to-day. He hurriedly drove her back home and Dr Russell, of Baillieboro, was summoned, but death had ensued before his arrival. She was conscious just before her death.

Several conflicting stories as to how death occurred, were circulated, but her husband's version of the sad affair was considered accurate. He stated while in the city this morning, that accompanied by his wife, he started for Peterborough to arrange a legal matter in connection with which she had been in Peterboro the previous day. When only about a mile and a quarter on their way, his wife was suddenly taken ill and turning the horses towards home he made way with all haste in returning to the village. Dr Russell of Baillieboro, who was called arrived just too late, she passing away a few minutes prior to his arrival.

Another story of the occurence was that the deceased was found dead in bed this morning about 6 o'clock, and that heart failure had been the cause of her death.

It is understood that an inquest will be held to-morrow.

Gordon Campbell Here on His Way to New York

Bronzed as an Indian and looking none the worse for his recent experiences in the fire at Porcupine, Gordon Campbell is in the city, on his way to New York, where he will meet his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Campbell, who are returning from an extended trip to Europe. They are expected in New York either to-morrow or Sunday.

"Pete" tells some interesting stories of the great holocaust, and has a number of telltale photographs. He says everything is being rushed to the limit in the towns visited by the fire and that Peterborough tents and canoes are largely in evidence. He has been playing ball with Golden City nine, on which are two Princeton University players, and an old Eastern leaguer, Evans by name, and who at one time played for Toronto.

"Pete" does not intend to return to the northern country, but expects to go on a western trip and will follow up mining work. For part of the way here he was accompanied by Mr. Arthur Tompkinson.

LEAFS TOOK FIRST FROM GREYS; HIGHLANDERS DOWN TIGERS

Pinch Hitter Lajoie Drove in Two Runs for Naps.

Toronto, July 21.—Taking into account the 3 to 2 victory of the Leafs over the Grays at the Stadium yesterday, Toronto has won thirteen of the last sixteen games played. Providence, with their star twirler, Bill Sline, in the box, gave the Kelleys a hard battle, and had it not been for the timely extra base clouting of Bradley and Shaw, darkness might have intervened before an issue was obtained. As it was the show went past the eight-inning mark with the score tied. More than that, there were two men out in Toronto's half of the ninth when Shaw hit one of the longest home runs of the season and averted an extra-inning soiree.

It was a tight and exciting sample of the great summer pastime in spite of Toronto's repeated butting into the boot column. Rudolph and Sline had a merry battle, and with honors slightly in favor of the Leaf heaver, because the Krew hit Sline harder than they hit the local man. Two of the three Toronto runs were homers. The Grays' infield put up a stubborn defence and reeled off three double plays at times when the Leafs were making desperate efforts to get around the little rectangular course.

Bill Bradley monopolized the limelight. He scored Toronto's first run with a four-base whack which would have been going yet had it not bounded into the bleachers. The ball sailed on a line over Centre-fielder Perry's head. In the eighth, with two down and O'Hara at third, Bradley tied the score with a ripping single to left. He had two very difficult fielding chances and made brilliant plays on both.

Cleveland, July 20.—Cleveland defeated Boston 8 to 7 in a game in which each team took turns at leading. Boston used four pitchers, Cleveland scoring the winning run off Wood in the ninth on Stovall's single, a pass, a wild pitch and Turner's single. Lajoie batted for Mitchell in the sixth and singled, driving in two runs.

Detroit, July 20.—New York outplayed Detroit to-day and by sensational baserunning was able to win, 8 to 6, the game going into an extra inning. Mullin was hit hard, and Willett replaced him. Chase scored from second on an infield out, and Walter scored from second on an infield hit.

MAJORS AFTER STAR BATTERY

Big Price Offered for Pair of Record Makers

Kansas City, Mo., July 21.—The wild scramble of major league managers, for possession of O'Toole and Kelly, the St. Paul star battery, was resumed yesterday, with the prospects that a sale would be made soon.

"Marty" O'Toole, the pitcher, broke into the game with the New England League, and was drafted by the Cincinnati Nationals. Clark Griffith turned him over, without strings, to St. Paul, which club released him conditionally to Sioux City of the Western League. His record there in 1909 caused Manager Kelly to yank him back.

O'Toole first broke into the limelight June 15th, when with Kelly behind the bat, he held Toledo runless for sixteen innings. A week ago yesterday with Kelly catching, he struck out seventeen players, an American Association record.

Roger Bresnahan, of the Cardinals, made the first offer for the battery, the figure being reported at $16,000. Charley Murphy, of the Cubs, is said to have boosted it up to $20,000. Hugh Duffy, of the White Sox; Sam Kennedy, scout for Cleveland; Barney Dreyfuss, of Pittsburg, and "Cy" Ferry, Detroit scout, all are bidding for the duo.

O'Toole has not lost a game since June 5th. In seven games he has struck out sixty-five men, an average of nine strike-outs to the game.

Catcher Kelly also holds an enviable record. He was purchased by Manager Kelly of St. Paul, from St. Louis two years ago and came into his true form at the opening of the season.

OUTFIELD HAS ONLY ONE ERROR

Batting and Fielding Work of The Peterboro Ball Team

The batting and fielding averages of the Peterborough Midland League team, up to date, are given below. A glance over the figures will show that Manager Quinlan is setting his team a good example by leading with the stick, he having an even .500 percentage, which is some figure for a pitcher, believe us. Most of his swats have been of the extra base variety, at that. Jimmy O'Hearne, the sterling second baseman, is second, with .440, and Mike O'Brien, who has made more hits than any man on the team, is close on his heels. Two of the first basemen's smites were of the circuit variety. Shaw, the demon left-fielder, is a good fourth. The fielding averages show that two of the outfielders, W. O'Brien and Craig, have yet to make their first slip, while the outfield had made but one error this season, a wild throw to third, by Bill Shaw. Mike O'Brien comes next with but one error in 44 chances, a fine showing for the first baseman. The figures of the regulars are as follows:

Batting—

| | G. | A.B. | H. | P.C. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Quinlan | 5 | 22 | 11 | .500 |

BASEBALL

So far this season 122 home runs have been recorded in the Eastern League. The Toronto players have registered 31 circuit drives and lead in this department of the game. Royals are second in home run class with 21 circuit drives to their credit. Tim Jordan leads the league with 13, with Al. Shaw, and Charlie Harford, of Montreal, tie with 9 apiece.

FOOTBALL

The C.G.E. football team of Peterboro have won the championship of the Midland League and will enter the Ontario finals. On behalf of the Havelock team we wish them success in their quest for the Provincial silverware.—Havelock Standard.

THE PRIZE RING

A Few of the Fighters Who Have Seen Better Days

A list of the fighters who have seen their best days and who may quit the big clubs before 1911 is over would probably comprise the following: Boer Unholz, Dave Deshler, Matty Baldwin, Biz Mackey, Al Delmont, Willie Lewis, Dixie Kid, Mike (Twin) Sullivan, Al Kubiak, Battling Nelson, Dick Nelson, Jimmy Walsh and Danny Webster. There are a few more who might also be mentioned, but they are not so very well known outside of their own native hamlets.

Boer Unholz was knocked out recently by Jack Redmond, a demon fighter who couldn't destroy a helpless cripple with his fists. Redmond hit Unholz twice in the stomach and the Boer lay on the floor and groaned weakly. Unholz has been in the game nearly eight years.

Dave Deshler is a veteran who will never go any higher than he is at present. He is still a good tough boy, but he has passed the stage where he can get big money. Biz Mackey of Ohio has been on the down grade for three years, and is now nearing the bottom. He gave Al Delmont a fight in New York some weeks ago, but Delmont is not what he once was.

Danny Webster of California once looked like the best bantam in the world, and later was good fighting around 119 and 120 pounds, and, although now he can't be classed as a has-been, he's beyond redemption as a first-rater.

Al Kubiak was touted as a heavyweight champion when he cracked out of the lumber camps of Michigan a few years ago, but his fighting has never won him any gold medals. All he is now is a trial horse, although he can put up a good third-rate exhibition.

HARNESS HORSE TALK

R. J. McKenzie Has Purchased a Fast Pacer

The R. J. McKenzie, Chamber of Commerce candidate, Joe Patchen, at present rules favorite in the Anti-post betting. Dexie Lou, the Geers nominee, is a close second choice, while Game Maid, in the stable of Billy Snow, and owned by David Hughes of Toronto, has a host of friends.

Word comes from Memphis, Tenn., that R. J. McKenzie bought another fast pacing prospect in Harry Direct, a son of Walter Direct, that worked a mile better than 2:06. The price was not mentioned.

Guy T. Rockwell recently said this of Uhlan in the Cleveland Plain Dealer: "Look out for Uhlan. The world's champion trotting gelding is on the war-path this season, and unless misfortune befalls him, Father Time is going to be given an awful beating before the snow flies next fall."

One of the fastest green horses at the Lexington track is said to be Proctoria, a bey gelding by Roosevelt, a son of Ashland Wilkes. He has never been worked until this year, and recently turned a full miles in 2:13¼, with the last half in 1:03½. Ben Joes is training him.

LOFTUS

THE KING'S NEWSPAPERS

Although State-owned newspapers in native dialects such as the Government of India have decided to issue are a new departure, the King is nevertheless a pretty extensive newspaper proprietor. His best journalistic property is the London Gazette, which is sold at 25 cents, and makes a steady profit of $100,000 a year. Many Government departments have their organs in the Press, the Board of Trade issuing two—the Labor Gazette, which comes out monthly, and the weekly Board of Trade Journal. This latter can boast of a wider range of correspondents than any other journal in the world. Every officer in the British Consular Service is bound by official regulations to keep it supplied with items of commercial interest.

CHILD'S QUAINT SYMPATHY

A lady taking her little girl to the menagerie recently was anxious to know how the different animals and their performances had impressed the child, so when leaving the show she asked: "Well, dear, and which of the animals did you like best?"

"Oh," replied the little girl, "I liked them all, but I was so sorry for the poor elephant; he had so many creases [illegible]."

SHOOTING

Excellent scoring was made at the weekly shoot of the Peterborough Gun Club at the Exhibition Park last evening, where there was a good turnout of members. At thirty birds the scores stood:

| | |

| C. Wood | 26 |
| C. James | 19 |
| H. Sawers | 18 |
| R. Tivey | 18 |
| C. Gutterson | 16 |

| H. Cook | 15 |
| C. Lech | 11 |
| C. Mills | 19 |
| H. Routley shot at 24 birds | 22 |

It is all right to vote for the country's prosperity; but you must work for your own.

There would be some reason in putting off work if you could get out of it by delay; but the work has to be done, and delay makes more of it.

THWARTING THE PEOPLE'S WISHES

Toronto Saturday Night.

Liberal journals throughout Canada are daily engaged in censuring Mr. R. L. Borden for his assertion that he will force an election on the Reciprocity issue—as though it were a crime to assume that the people should have a voice in the fiscal policy of this country. This is a strange departure from the Liberal tradition that the voice of the people is the voice of God. It is essential to the success of any reciprocity treaty entered into that it should have the support of the people at large. To force it on Canada without an appeal to the electorate would simply be to engender a feeling of resentment which would ultimately imperil relations between this country and the United States. Reciprocity is unquestionably Mr. Taft's plan, but Canadians are not Mr. Taft's constituents and can make no representation to him. They should be allowed to think the issue out for themselves and express their opinions at the poll. No matter what sophistries may be indulged in by advocates of the pact, the truth is that reciprocity is a revived corpse, and the people wish to get acquainted with it before they welcome it back into the household. It was formally declared dead by Sir Wilfrid Laurier fourteen years ago. Unquestionably the Tories regarded it as a household pet in 1891, but while in the sight of the Almighty a thousand ages are as an evening gone, twenty years is a considerable period in a Confederation that is only forty-four years old. Many things happen in all times of business in twenty years. The merchant of to-day, who would declare positively that he was going to stick to the same policy he pursued in 1891 and would consider no other would be laughed at as a fool. As the late Lord Salisbury once said, parties bound by hard and fast theories forget that we live in an ever-changing scene. It may be very interesting to read what Sir John A. Macdonold thought twenty or thirty years ago, but that statesman is long since at rest in an honored grave. It is with living men and living issues that we have to deal and all the sentiment out of which popular government has been created demands that the people should vote on the pact before it is ratified.

ORILLIA HAS HOUSE FAMINE

New Factory is Causing Town to Boom

Orillia, July 21.—The establishing at Orillia of the factory of the Tudhope-Anderson Co., Ltd., means a big growth to the town. Already there is a house famine here, and to accommodate the skilled mechanics, who will come to Orillia to work in the new factory, 50 to 100 houses are absolutely needed. It will be necessary to build these before the snow flies, as it is expected that the new factory will be in shape to start operations before the end of the year.

The taxes from these new dwellings alone will add considerably to the town exchequer next year. Oh! No! It doesn't pay to have new industries come to town.

ENGINE IN CANAL

Accident at Port Colborne Blocks Welland Canal

Welland, July 20.—A terrible disaster occurred at Port Colborne near midnight to-night, when Charles Smith, of Sarnia, a Grand Trunk engineer, ran his engine and tender into the Welland Canal, going down himself with the engine, the fireman jumping and escaping with his life. A freight engine, bound west, had just taken water a few hundred feet from the bridge. The engineer started up, apparently not noticing that the bridge had been swung to get a boat through.

Navigation in the canal is blocked. It will be a difficult job to get the engine out to clear the canal.

Why Reciprocity is Sure to Pass the U. S. Senate

Toronto Telegram.

Such are the signs of prosperity on exhibition in Pittsburg, Pa.

Pittsburg sees in every one of its unemployed locomotives an argument for continentalism in trade, an argument that is emphasized by the fact that fifty per cent. of the toilers in the steel and iron trades are out of work.

Americans feel themselves sinking deeper and deeper in the mire of bad times. Instead of waiting until the protective principle pulls them out, as it has pulled them out before, they are determined to try the reciprocity cure for adversity.

Reciprocity is being driven through the United States Senate by the irresistible force of a public opinion that recognizes continentalism as a cure for the ills that United States flesh is heir to just at present. Reciprocity will prove its powerlessness to make the United States well and its power to make Canada sick.

AVENGED CHICKEN ON YOUNG GIRL

Connecticut Boy Shot Quebec Girl in Auto

South Norwalk, Conn., July 20.—A strange excuse is given by William Beers, the 12-year-old boy who shot Miss Eva Hammond, of Coaticook, Que., while the girl was in an auto.

Miss Hammond lies to-day at the home of her uncle here with a bullet lodged against the base of her brain. Her body is paralyzed and there is little hope that she will survive.

Young Beers told the police that a passing automobile ran over his pet bantam chicken a day or two ago, and he had laid in ambush to avenge the death of his favorite. With a small rifle in his hand he hid in the bushes and determined to shoot a hole through the tire of every automobile that went by. This he said was his notion of revenge. Miss Hammond's car was the first to pass. The lad aimed at the tire, but the bullet veered off and landed in the young woman's neck.

John Oliver of Leamington, swallowed strychnine and died after being sentenced to jail for drunkenness. He was 72.

Ignited Gas Well.

Chatham, July 21.—Lightning struck a gas well on the farm of Joyce Bros., a short distance south of Merlin, during the storm on Wednesday night. The bolt broke the tap off and ignited the enormous pressure of gas. The roar could be heard for miles around and the illumination was so bright that a newspaper could easily be read a half mile from the burning well. The gas is still burning in a gigantic jet, and all efforts to put out the fire have so far proved unavailing. Lightning also struck the Park street Methodist Church, knocking out a chunk of the wall and damaging the roof.

Tied for Kolapore.

Bisley, Eng., July 21.—(C. A. P. Cable.)—Canada and the Mother Country team tied for the Kolapore Cup with an aggregate of 759, but the home team won, on account of having secured the biggest score at the longest range. Canada's last shot was an outer by Freeborn. The home team had to make five bulls to tie and got them.

Canada's scoring at 600 yards was as follows: F. Morris 30, Bibby 32, W. Morris 33, Russell 33, Trainor 29, Clifford 33, Mortimer 28, Freeborn 25. Total—243.

Bait Pirates Punished.

St. John's, Nfld., July 21.—Pleading guilty in court here yesterday to charges of taking bait illegally at Cape Race, seventeen members of the crew of the Gloucester, Mass., fishing schooner Arethusa were fined $50 each or three months' imprisonment and their dories were confiscated.

They are anchored at the French island of St. Pierre, and it is believed here that the owners of the vessels will pay the fines of their men.

The Arethusa, one of the largest and best vessels of the Gloucester fishing fleet, is owned by Cunningham & Thompson and is commanded by Capt. Clayton Morrisey.

Disappeared From Home.

Beamsville, July 21.—Residents of this town and vicinity have been puzzled by the disappearance of Miss Allie Hooker from the home of her cousin, Mrs. Daniel Konkle, with whom she had been staying.

Miss Hooker left home a week ago Wednesday night and has not been heard of or seen since.

She is only sixteen years old, but is exceptionally tall and wears her hair up, so that she appears older. She has dark hair and grey eyes.

Will Tempt the Falls.

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 21.—Bobby Leach announced yesterday his intention of making the trip over the Horseshoe Falls on Monday afternoon in the new steel barrel, now being built by a local foundry. He yesterday signed a contract for the trip with the proprietors of a moving picture machine.

Bad Auto Accident.

Utica, N.Y., July 21.—Four men en route from Boston to Toronto by automobile, ran into a tree at Wampsville, west of the city, yesterday, and as a result two are in a hospital at Oneida with bad injuries. The men refused absolutely to give their names and one removed the license number from the car after the accident. Three of them are believed to be Toronto men. One of them has both legs broken, and another a broken knee-cap and internal injuries. The other two escaped with a shaking up. The force of the impact was so bad that the front of the machine was bent about the tree.

Auto Racer Killed.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 21.—Louis Strang, of Racine, Wis., probably the best known automobile racer in Wisconsin, was killed at Blue River, Wis., yesterday afternoon.

He was driving a car in the State Reliability tour, the car jumping an embankment.

SALOME DANCE IN WILD WEST SHOW

Ottawa Detective Was Fooled—"She" Was a Man

Ottawa Free Press.

"Ah! Here was something that mustn't go. In the moral atmosphere of Ottawa such a thing is shocking, shocking! It must be stopped."

Thus mused Detective McLaughlin, of the local police force, yesterday, as moving around among the side shows of Young Buffalo's circus, he came upon a salome dancer clad in something that very much resembled a lace curtain, delighting a large audience of men.

"Shocking," said the detective again to himself, and it was only after he had stopped the show that he discovered the dancer was only a man.

Detective McLaughlin, well satisfied with the day's proceedings, decided to make a tour of the sideshows, and see what was doing inside the canvas. The wary detective was surprised to see on entering one tent, a female clad in shimmering laces, dancing a variety of the Salome dance. He watched for a few minutes then quietly informed the manager that the show must stop, as such a performance could not be allowed in Ottawa.

The performer of the light fantastic withdrew from the stage and the detective had a chat with "her." He was surprised to learn that what he had taken for a woman was really a man. The performer was well made up and would have made a better advertisement for a paint shop or false hair establishment than a circus performer.

However, the detective was properly fooled and had to admit his mistake. Another real woman had taken part in the show with the man and the detective ordered them not to continue it.

BORDEN WAS IT

Toronto Saturday Night.

The tour showed that Mr. Borden has developed wonderfully as a platform speaker. When he visited the west in 1907, it was necessary to carry a couple of lighter weights to "dispel the gloom" (as some unkind Liberal journalist termed it). On this occasion Mr. Borden showed that he possessed a vein of humor which proved invaluable. He was the hardest worked man in the party. He dominated every meeting, and his driving, fireless energy was remarkable. He caught the ear and eye of the west. They liked his bluntness of speech, the pains he took to make his position clear beyond the shadow of a doubt. His honesty of purpose and desire to discuss with them in a straightforward way the issues of the day made a deep impression on the prairie farmers. As for his entourage, Dr. W. J. Roche shone forth as a bright star. "Andy" Broder did not have much to do. Geo. H. Perley proved that as a tour manager he had little to learn, and J. G. H. Bergeron was good in spots. There was little work for the "A.B." with the captain so constantly on the bridge.

MASKED ROBBERS ESCAPE IN AUTO

After Holding up Train and Making Haul

Grand Forks, N.D., July 20—Train No. 30 the east-bound North Coast Limited, on the Northern Pacific Railroad, was held up by three masked robbers near Buffalo, North Dakota, about 11 o'clock last night. The robbers secured about $500 in cash, by going through the passengers, and shot engineer S. P. Olsen of Fargo twice, in order to make him stop the train, and made a successful escape in an automobile, which they had awaiting them near the scene of the robbery.

The performance as executed was one of the most daring ever perpetrated in this part of the country, and showed that the men were no amateurs at the business. Every movement was cleverly planned and admirably executed.

When the train stopped at the high bridge at Valley City the three men boarded it, and went into the day coach. Heavily armed, and snooting recklessly, in order to intimidate the passengers, they first lined the train crew up at one end of the car, and then proceeded to search the passengers in the day coach one by one. In all they secured about $500 from this part of their robbery.

The sleeping car was entered, and in order to awaken the occupants of berths, a shot was fired down the centre of the aisle, narrowly missing the head of one of the passengers and imbedding itself in the woodwork.

After searching the occupants of the berths they climbed out the diner, and over the baggage and the express car to the engine, reaching that part of the train when near Buffalo. They ordered engineer Olsen to stop the train, so they could get off, and when he refused to comply with their wishes two shots were fired directly at him one glancing off his watch, and the other striking him on a rib, injuring him slightly.

After being wounded and seeing that the men were desperate, Engineer Olsen stopped the train, and the three men, who were all masked with polka-dot handkerchiefs, jumped quickly off the train.

Olsen, who is one of the oldest engineers of the system, was brought into Fargo, with the train, and is resting easily at his home there.

After leaving the train the robbers went to an automobile, which they had waiting near by, and drove off into the darkness. The express and mail cars were not molested by the men.

The train was run into Fargo, where the sheriff, every available deputy, and three deputy United States marshals hurried back on a special train to pursue the robbers.

REV. MR. EARLE IN RUNAWAY

Horse of Omemee Clergyman Scared by Auto

Omemee, July 20—The Rev. H. Earle accompanied by his child and a lady friend, were driving up Crawford's Hill, when an auto swung suddenly around the bend, at a coasting pace and scared the horse so badly that it turned the conveyance completely over on the occupants. The animal made a dash for liberty. The occupants of the buggy were severely shaken up and somewhat bruised but no bones broken. The buggy was pretty well broken up; the horse was a new purchase and was supposed to be auto-proof; it was soon recaptured.

CHEQUE OF $400 FOR THE ORPHANS

The Canadian Pacific Railway Co., through their claims commissioner, Mr. N. S. Dunlop, of Montreal, have forwarded to Mr. John A. McMillan, the administrator of the estate of the late Malcolm Frank McMillan, a cheque for $400, which is paid as a gratuity and on charitable grounds to him to be used solely for the maintenance of the infant children of the unfortunate parents, who, it will be remembered, were accidentally killed by colliding with a through freight train at the Dummer road crossing on the 12th of May last. In view of the fact that the evidence given at the inquest showed that the company were in no way responsible for the accident, this action on their part will be greatly appreciated.

BOBBY LEACH TO TRY IT AGAIN

Will Go Over the Falls in Barrel on Monday

Niagara Falls, July 21.—Between one and three o'clock on Monday afternoon July 24th, so Bobby Leach has officially announced, he will make a trip over the Horseshoe Falls in a new steel barrel, which has just been finished. ## OBITUARY

Death of Mrs. Henry Hemmer

The death occurred at Lockport, N. Y., on Sunday, July 16, of Minnie Flaherty, wife of Mr. Henry Hemmer, and eldest daughter of the late Edward Flaherty, of this city.

The late Mrs. Hemmer had been ailing for some time. She leaves to mourn her loss, besides her husband, one child.

The funeral took place on Wednesday from the late residence, 34 Frost street, to St. Michael's church, and thence to St. Michael's cemetery.

Two brothers of the deceased, Messrs. Fred and John Flaherty, of this city, were at the funeral.

The Late Miss Reid

A particularly sad death occurred at 11.30 Wednesday evening, when at the early age of 23 years, Miss Amy F. Reid passed away at the residence of her uncle, Mr. W. C. Bourn, 174 McDonnel street after an illness of only four months' duration. Death was the result of a general breakdown of the constitution, following an attack of scarlet fever, which brought on other complications.

The deceased young lady was one of the city's most generally liked young people. For the past six years she was connected with the local Bell telephone company and was considered one of their brightest and most reliable operators. Her winning disposition and invariably cheerful character contributed greatly to the popularity which she enjoyed, and her premature demise will leave a vacancy that will be keenly felt by her numerous friends. She was a faithful adherent of All Saints' church, and formerly taught a class in the Sunday school.

Surviving her besides her parents are two sisters and four brothers, namely, Elsie R., of Red Deer, Alta.; Florence, James and Reginald, of Vermilion, Alta.; Frederick, of Camrose, Alta., and Wallace, of this city. Her father, Mr. R. H. Reid, is also at Vermilion, Alta.

The funeral will take place at 2.30 on Saturday afternoon, to Little Lake cemetery, service at the house being held at 2 p.m., conducted by the Rev. H. R. Trumpour, rector of All Saints', assisted by the Rev. Canon Davidson.

BLIND BOY'S PLUCKY FIGHT

Can Operate Typewriter and is a Stenographer

Ottawa, July 21.—Alone, without friends, and totally blind, Antonio Godbout a nineteen year olf boy from Quebec, is to-day in the city applying for a position a sstenographer in the civil service.

Young Godbout arrived from Montreal on the 1.30 o'clock train this morning, and walked up to the Windsor hotel, where he took a room. Later in the morning he went up to interview some of the government officials without even a cane to guide him.

Godbout, of course, uses the touch system, and is an expert writer. He had several letters for inspection after writing them, and they are perfectly written.

"I am also a stenographer," he said, in answer to a question, turning his sightlesss eyes up towards the interviewer. "I got my French education in Montreal and my English education in Boston. I can find my way about on the city streets as well as I can on this typewriter. I know Montreal, Ottawa, Quebec and Toronto thoroughly, and am also familiar with several cities on the other side."

For the past two years Godbout has been travelling for a typewriter firm in Canada and the United States. He was stricken totally blind from inflammation shortly after birth, and his ability to go about large cities, purchase articles in stores, stop street cars and board them, and carry on business under the tremendous handicap which he carries rivals the case of the famous blind Senator Gore in the United States.

TRENTON YOUTH UP AGAINST IT

Got an Auto on a Petty Fairy Tale

St. Catharines, Ont., July 20— Malcolm Graham, a young man 23 years old, who struck this city some time ago, was arrested last-night on a warrant sworn out by F.W. Martin, of the Martin Electrical Supply Co., charging him with fraud.

Since coming to town from Trenton, Ont., Graham, whose trade is that of electrician, has been cutting something of a swath. He represented to different people that an uncle of his at Trenton had left him forty-four thousand dollars. On the strength of this he purchased an automobile from Fiheld, a local dealer, and had the house in which he boarded wired for electricity by the Martin Company. The local dealer later took back the motor car and Martin charges Graham with fraudulently obtaining $42 worth of wiring from him. It is understood that Graham was to marry a St. Catharines girl next week.

Graham also purchased three thousand five hundred dollars worth of shares in the Martin Electric Company, saying he would pay for it when is fortune came. He said his father was on his way here with two automobiles.

In the police court this morning Graham pleaded guilty and was remanded for a week. He told the magistrate he did not know why he made up the fairy story about the fortune and admitted there was nothing in it.

INDIVIDUALITY

When Eye Glasses are required there is individuality in the facial features, which requires special shapes, styles of lenses and mountings.

Eye Glasses which enhance the appearance of one face would be unbecoming to another. Eye Glasses, like artificial teeth, must be built to fit the features.

Patrons of the Optical Institute frequently remark that there is individuality in our Eye Glasses because they "grace the face," "fit the features," and "please the wearer."

REPORT ON TABLE

Chinese Scandal Evidence Now Out

Ottawa, July 22.—As soon as the House of Commons met yesterday Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that he desired to make a statement in regard to the discussion on the Chinese immigration irregularities the previous day.

Since Thursday he had further pursued the report, and was now able to state that Justice Murphy had suggested that publication be withheld because he was afraid that, if the report was made public, material witnesses would disappear. However, he had learned that the parties it was proposed to prosecute are now not in Canada, but in China. Therefore there was no reason why, even in the face of the recommendation, the report should not be made public. Sir Wilfrid then tabled the report and the evidence.

R. L. Borden inquired of Mr. Fisher as to alleged census irregularity. He had received a letter from a gentleman living in an apartment house in Toronto, in which it was stated that twenty-two people living in the apartment had not been counted. When an explanation had been asked for, the reply was that there were enough other names to make up for those missed.

Mr. Fisher said that he would prefer to wait until he had made a thorough enquiry into the charges of irregularity.

Mr. Borden wanted to know when the special committee named to inquire into the charges against Hon. Frank Oliver would get down to work. He thought it was strange that no action had been taken since the House opened to call this committee together.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier suggested that it was owing to the slim attendance of members.

A. H. Clarke (S. Essex), chairman of the committee, explained that the members of the committee were not all here, one was still missing, but would be in Ottawa in a day or two.

A. C. Boyce (West Algoma) brought up the question of the preparation of the voters' lists in the unorganized districts of Ontario. After referring to the discussion of 1908 he said that he had received semi-official information that the lists were now being made up, and that a board of registration was being constituted.

After declaring that in 1908 the lists in these districts had been padded, Mr. Boyce asked the Government if there had been a proclamation for an earlier preparation of the lists and, if so, what time would be occupied in the work.

Sir Alan Aylesworth said that the administration of the act was not in the hands of any Department of the Government, but on the judges of the courts in the districts. Sir Alan said that in 1908 there had been probably need for a limit to the preparation period as far as the law would permit. He had heard no complaints except from Mr. Boyce, and was encouraged to think that no amendment was necessary.

W. R. Smythe (East Algoma) said that he was one of the sufferers from the iniquitious list got up by the Government in 1908, when it had been found necessary to send Dominion police officers up to Algoma for the protection of life and property. He spoke of a list of 630 names at a poll a long way from civilization, in which case the enumerator had told him that he had got some of the names from a foreman, some from men going into the woods, and some from a lawyer in Blind River friendly to the Government.

Parcel post as a means of relieving the country from excessive express charges occupied the attention of the House of Commons for the entire afternoon yesterday. The discussion was initiated by W. F. Maclean (South York), on the motion to go into committee on reciprocity. Mr. Maclean based his argument on the triumph of public ownership in overcoming monopolies, and urged that state competition in the matter of public services would result in tolls being reduced one-third, and probably one-half instancing in support of his contention that people in European countries had received great benefit from the introduction of state competition.

Mr. Maclean secured from the Postmaster-General a statement that improvements in this direction were contemplated. First, in regard to a reduction of cable tolls between Canada and Great Britain, and second, that he had studied the question of the parcel post, and had already given instructions to George Ross, chief superintendent at Toronto, to carry on an investigation and make a report.

He understood that Mr. Ross' view was favorable to enlarging the present parcel post service.

Other members expressed strong views on the subject. Responding to the appeal of the member for South York, two western Conservative members, Dr. Schaffner (Souris), and Glen Campbell (Dauphin), came out strongly in support of his contention. Both enlarged their views to include a general reduction in carriage tolls, which they declared was a big issue among the farmers. Dr. Sproule (S. Grey) and F. R. Lalor (Haldimand) were also out-spoken in regard to present conditions.

Charge Reduced.

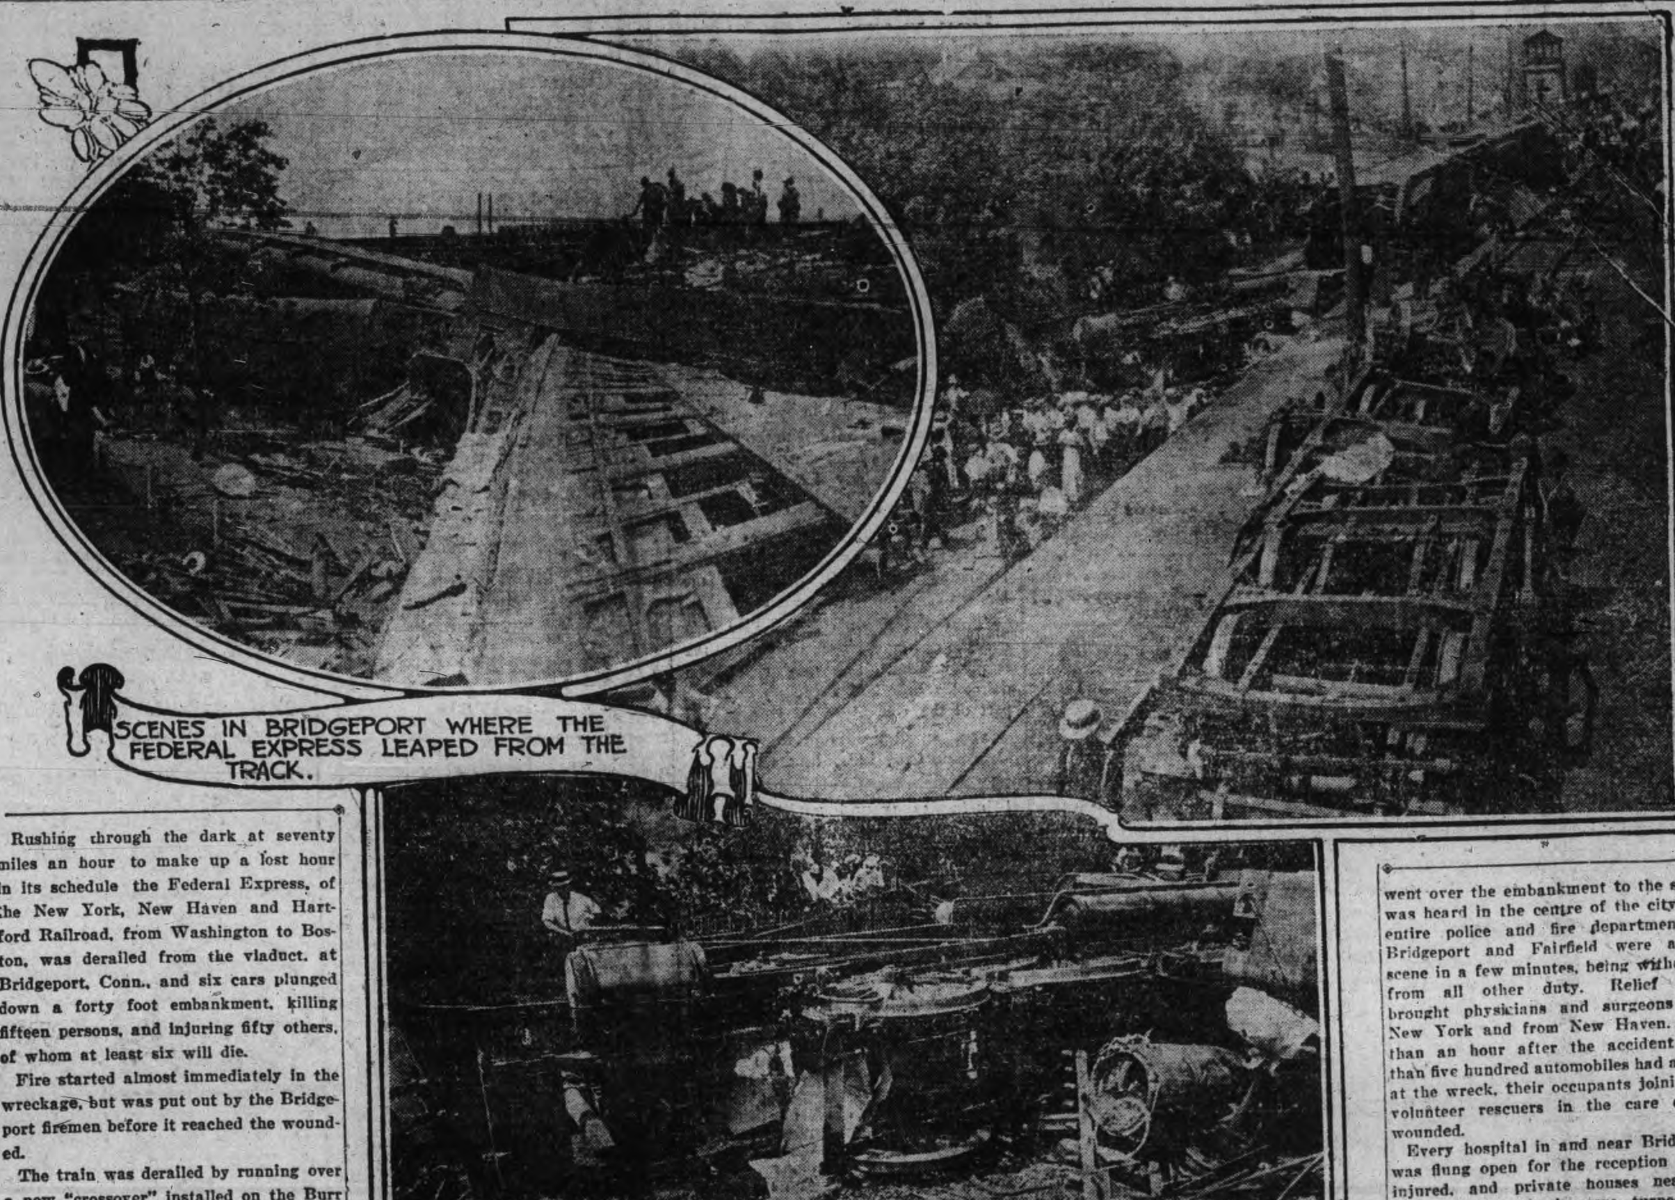
Berlin, July 22.—As a result of the physician's testimony concerning the post-mortem examination on the body of an infant found in the park lake several weeks ago, the charge of murder preferred against Annie Geletzki, the Polish girl, was withdrawn in the Police Court yesterday morning. She was committed for trial on a charge of concealment of birth.



SCENES IN BRIDGEPORT WHERE THE FEDERAL EXPRESS LEAPED FROM THE TRACK.

Rushing through the dark at seventy miles an hour to make up a lost hour in its schedule the Federal Express, of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, from Washington to Boston, was derailed from the viaduct, at Bridgeport, Conn., and six cars plunged down a forty foot embankment, killing fifteen persons, and injuring fifty others, of whom at least six will die.

Fire started almost immediately in the wreckage, but was put out by the Bridgeport firemen before it reached the wounded.

The train was derailed by running over a new "crossover" installed on the Burr road viaduct and embankment, on the western outskirts of the city, about a mile and a half west of the Bridgeport station. For a hundred yards the heavy train bounced along the ties, and then the locomotive, smashing against one of the huge ton blocks of the viaduct, went over into the street.

On top of it, in a mass of crumpled wreckage, went first the mail car, then the two flimsy day coaches and two of the heavier sleeping cars. One car hung over the embankment, its forward coupling snapped away, but the rear coupling held it to the three sleeping cars left on the track.

Men and women belonging to some of the most prominent families of Washington and Philadelphia and their suburbs were among the passengers, some of them among the dead and injured.

On the last car was Roger Bresnahan and the members of the St. Louis National League baseball team, who did heroic work in aiding the injured. In all there were nearly two hundred passengers on the train.

The crash, as more than half the train went over the embankment to the street, was heard in the centre of the city. The entire police and fire departments of Bridgeport and Fairfield were at the scene in a few minutes, being withdrawn from all other duty. Relief trains brought physicians and surgeons from New York and from New Haven. Less than an hour after the accident more than five hundred automobiles had arrived at the wreck, their occupants joining the volunteer rescuers in the care of the wounded.

Every hospital in and near Bridgeport was flung open for the reception of the injured, and private houses near the scene of the wreck were turned into emergency hospitals, where physicians and volunteer nurses worked over the maimed.

The wreck was one of the most appalling in the history of the New Haven road. Mail car, baggage car, day coach and Pullmans piled up in a tangled mass, making the work of extricating the passengers a long, hard task.

The locomotive, a twisted mass of helpless junk, was thrown two hundred feet beyond the first of the cars and lay on its back across the curb of Fairfield avenue.

CERTIFICATE FOR WILD-CAT BANK WAS ISSUED AFTER A PLAIN WARNING TO FIELDING

Notice of Writ Was Sent to the Department, Along With Letter of Explanation—Injunction Was Applied for to prevent Certificate Granting.

Toronto, July 21.—After the evidence of Mr. Wm. Laidlaw, K.C., had been taken in the police court this morning W. J. Lindsay was committed by Magistrate Denison for trial at the next assizes on the charge of conspiring to obtain a treasury certificate from the Dominion Government in connection with the Farmers' Bank. His Worship agreed to accept the same bail ($8,000) and sent for a bail bond which was made out and signed by the same bondsmen.

Mr. Laidlaw told of the litigation he instituted prior to the granting of the certificate to the bank, on behalf of a number of dissatisfied subscribers, the defendants including Smith, Luxon and Lindsay.

FRAUD AND MISREPRESENTATION.

The writ alleged that the subscriptions of Mr. Laidlaw's clients had been obtained by fraud and misrepresentation, and an injunction was asked to restrain the bank from applying to the Minister of Finance for consent to open the bank. The writ was issued, the papers all served, and a copy of the writ of summons was sent to the Minister of Finance. The department was notified that fraud was charged in obtaining the subscriptions.

Mr. Corley—"And that commissions had been paid on them?—Yes.

WHY WAS CERTIFICATE GRANTED?

The Magistrate—"How was it the certificate was granted in the face of that?

Mr. Laidlaw shrugged his shoulders, drew a long breath and replied: "That's a question."

"How did you come to withdraw the action?" asked the Magistrate.

Mr. Laidlaw replied that he went to the North Bay assizes and the information he received was that someone had paid back the money to his clients and had agreed to hand back the notes.

"An application was made to me for a withdrawal—rather it was made to McCarthy, Osler & Company, who sent it on to me. The parties who were the plaintiffs had received back their money and notes from some person connected with the bank."

SENATE VOTES ON IT TO-DAY

Reciprocity Measure in Senate to Be Passed To-day.

Friends and Foes of Measure In the U.S. Government Circles Agree That It Will Get a Two to One Majority—Cannot Be Signed Until the House of Representatives Meets Again on Wednesday.

Washington, July 22—Senator Townsend's amendment to the reciprocity bill, providing for international improvement of the St. Lawrence river, was defeated in the Senate yesterday by a large vote.

Mr. Townsend spoke in favor of his amendment, which would have authorized the President to enter into an agreement with Canada for the improvement and deepening of the river from the great lakes to the ocean. He said it would greatly develop commerce, reduce freight rates, and work toward closer commercial relations with Canada.

Senator Stone opposed putting waterway legislation upon the reciprocity bill. He said it should come up in Congress as a separate proposition, and that as such it probably would be favorably acted upon.

AD WASH kfigrw,yx oeb6789

The Senate adjourned until to-day at 11, when only the votes on the various amendments and the final passage of the bill remain. President Taft has his trunk packed for a week-end at Beverly, Massachusetts. Friends of the bill look for its passage by two to one, if there is even such a stubborn opposition.

Senator Smoot said yesterday afternoon that the utmost his forces could muster would be thirty-two or thirty-three out of ninety-one Senators.

It became known last night that if the Senate passes the reciprocity bill to-day it cannot be signed by the President before Wednesday. This is due to the fact that to-day's sitting of the Houes of Representative is a very brief one, and as the presiding officer of each Chamber must sign a measure while his House is in session before it can be signed by the President, these conditions cannot be complied with to-day. Senators Penrose and Crane tried to induce Speaker Champ Clark to prolong the sitting of the House till the Senate had finished, but he declined, saying it had been arranged that nothing would be done at to-day's sitting, and he could not go back on that.

An amateur would never take part in an entertainment if he didn't believe he could do better than he really can.

ASQUITH TELLS UNIONISTS KING WILL CREATE PEERS

Premier Sends Letter to Balfour Announcing That He Has Secured the Necessary Guarantees That His Action Will Be Supported — Peers Reserve Decision Until Monday, But Are Expected to Surrender.

London, July 22.—The constitutional revolution last night appeared to be an accomplished fact. Great Britain in the future will be governed practically by the House of Commons, with its hereditary Upper House possessing only a veto with a time limit of two years. The peers find their one gleam of hope in the predictions that the next Conservative Government will overturn Asquith's revolution and restore the old conditions, but the Radicals are confident that in such matters the hands of the clock will never turn back.

Thursday the future career of the veto bill was apparent to all politicians and its eventual acceptance by the House of Lords not doubted. Premier Asquith dispelled all clouds yesterday by communicating informally to Mr. Balfour, leader of the Opposition in the House of Commons the substance of an announcement which he will make in that House on Monday. His letter which Mr. Balfour communicated to the meeting of the Lords yesterday afternoon was brief and to the point. The Prime Minister stated that the King had agreed to take such measures as were necessary to secure the passage of the bill and brushed aside the lingering hope the peers have cherished that the crown would refuse to lend itself to weakening the prestige of the nobility, which stands between the crown and the people. The Premier's letter was as follows:

"I think it is courteous and right before any public decisions are announced to let you know how we regard the political situation. When the Parliament bill in the form in which it has now assumed returns to the House of Commons we shall be compelled to ask that House to disagree with the Lords' amendments. In the circumstances, should the necessity arise, the Government will advise the King to exercise his prerogative to secure the passing into the law of the bill in substantially the same form in which it left the House of Commons, and His Majesty has been pleased to signify that he will consider it his duty to accept and act on that advice.

"Yours sincerely,
"H. H. Asquith."

Yesterday was a day of caucuses. Three meetings were held to discuss the situation. The Cabinet assembled early with a full attendance and sat for two hours. Later the Conservative leaders of both Houses met at Mr. Balfour's residence, the Marquis of Lansdowne, Lord Curzon of Kedleston, the Marquis of Londonderry, the Earl of Selborne, Austen Chamberlain, the Rt. Hon. Henry Chaplin, the Earl of Halsbury and the Marquis of Salisbury being the principal figures of the conference.

The last and most impressive gathering was at Lansdowne House, which has been the scene of many important political meetings, but none as historic as this. More than two hundred peers, among them almost all the greatest names of their order, assembled and listened to the reading of the Prime Minister's letter and practically decided that they must accept the inevitable with the best grace they can.

Lord Lansdowne, Lord Halsbury, the Duke of Norfolk, the Duke of Devonshire, the Duke of Bedford, Lord Salisbury, the Duke of Somerset, Lord Curzon, Lord Selborne and several lesser lights made speeches, after which a statement was given out that the peers reserved decision as to government on Monday. Apparently this was mere temporizing. The Lords are not anxious to emphasize their surrender, ~~but,~~ speaking privately, few failed to say that they no longer consider themselves, in Lord Lansdowne's words, free agents, and will yield to the Government's threat to invoke the royal prerogative.

VOTE ON PACT THIS AFTERNOON

SOUR RISINGS FROM STOMACH

Those Who Experience Fullness and Pain After Meals, Stomach Disorders, and Indigestion, Should Read Below.

"When I was working around the farm last winter I had an attack of inflammation," writes Mr. E. P. Dawkins, of Port Richmond. "I was weak for a long time, but well enough to work until spring. But something went wrong with my bowels, for I had to use salts or physic all the time. My stomach kept sour, and always after eating there was pain and fulness, and all the symptoms of intestinal indigestion. Nothing helped me until I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Instead of hurting, like other pills, they acted very mildly, and seemed to heal the bowels. I did not require large doses to get results with Dr. Hamilton's Pills and feel so glad that I have found a mild yet certain remedy. Today I am well—no pain, no sour stomach, a good appetite, able to digest anything. This is a whole lot of good for one medicine to do, and I can say Dr. Hamilton's Pills are the best pills, and my letter, I am sure, proves it."

MURDER WILL OUT

The United States National editorial association at its annual session in Detroit, listened to many speeches strongly advocating "union" with Canada. This interesting information is contained in a dispatch sent out from Detroit by the Associated Press, and is quite authentic. The dispatch adds, in support of this;

> There is much speculation among the editors as to what kind of reception they will receive during their stay in Canada. On the opening day of the convention several speeches were made in which "union" with Canada was strongly advocated. So much was said along this line that a great many of the delegates have been dubbed "annexation boosters."

The editors of the United States association are supposed to be the best informed. The most intelligent and broad minded of citizens. They are the moulders of thought, the architects of the public mind. If they are so strongly in favor of the union of Canada and the United States, being sane, reasonable men knowing the circumstances of the relations of the two countries, is it not reasonable to suppose that there is a strong general undercurrent of opinion across the border for union with Canada, commercial, social and political if possible.

We have been repeatedly told by the Globe and Star and others of the Laurier organs that there is no annexation sentiment in the United States. It has been asserted so vehemently that Champ Clark's flag-to-the-pole speech was only a joke, and evidences of real annexation sentiment so carefully suppressed from the American newspapers, lest they inflame Canadian opinion, that the editorial opinions expressed in speech are quite interesting.

They typify the strong sentiment in the United States in favor of union with Canada. As long ago as 1812, the United States wanted Canada, and it has wanted her ever since. The words of Vice-President Sherman, in 1888, uttered in the U.S. senate, are as true to-day, from the Yankee standpoint, they were then. And Sherman said at that time:

"The way to union with Canada is not by hostile legislation; not by acts of retaliation, but by friendly overtures. This union is one of the events that must inevitably come in the future, it will come by the logic of the situation and no politician or combination of politicians can prevent it. The true policy of this government is to tender freedom in trade and intercourse and to make this tender in such a way that it shall be an overture to the Canadian people to become a part of this republic."

The American editors hold the same view now. Can Canadians in justice to themselves assume that the feeling cropping through into the light here, is non-existent? Can they with safety to themselves ignore what is thrust into their very faces? This reciprocity business is the first step. Shall Canadians take it, and open the way for the next, and the next, until this continent is one commercial whole?

OH, YOU CONES

Magistrate Denison, of Toronto, holds now that ice-cream on Sunday may be sold in cones in restaurants and carried away, but ice-cream may not be carried away in bricks or in pails.

When is this Sunday ice-cream absurdity to end? Isn't it time that some common sense law were put into force on the subject, and the endless technical quibbles thrown out of sight? The Lord's Day act of Ontario, under which the recent prosecutions in Toronto have been based, needs amending—and amending in this way: wiping out the restriction on the sale of ice-cream on Sunday. Give to the restaurants only the right to sell ice-cream on Sunday, but don't specify that ice-cream in cones is righteous, while ice-cream in a paper bag is Godless iniquity, or make any other such distinction. Ice-cream is ice-cream, and while it is necessary to prevent any merchandising on Sunday, such as a grocer might carry on, the use of ice-cream in the summer months is both healthful and permissible from any standpoint but that of the narrow and crotchety religious fanatic.

Ice-cream in bricks may be a huge sin, but, oh, you cones!

EDITORIAL NOTES

Vote for the by-laws next Friday.

What the census men missed seems to have been about as much and important as what they found,

Can any one imagine Lawyer Kerr posing as an eminent agricultural authority in parliament, representing some thousands of honest, hard working farmers?

If J.R Stratton wants to go to Ottawa to be ignored, and cold-shouldered by his political allies—well, its not an experience that is inviting to most men, but perhaps he likes it.

Germany is reported to be about to make the study of the English language compulsory in German schools. Yet in good many places in Canada, the French language alone is regarded as good enough for Canadians. Faugh!

The German naval commander who said that the Niobe was good only as a training ship was too frank. He would be "fired" in two minutes if he was under the thumb of the Laurier crowd.

It is generally a sound principle not to vote for any but a home-brew political candidate. That stops the political jobbery by party managers. Every riding should be represented by one of its own citizens—and the best in sight.

A German naval commander says that the Canadian cruiser Niobe wouldn't be any good as a warship in actual war, but as a good training ship. However, we prefer to believe the evidence of Admiral Brodeur, backed by the blue-books and statistics.

The southern Alberta coal mine strike is still being carried on, and the fuel situation is becoming serious, in view of next winter's needs. The Lemieux conciliation act has again succeeded in accomplishing nothing. Its success in this direction has been really remarkable.

The two assessment-fixing by-laws are ones that should be carried in the interests of the city. The Ackerman one is in pursuance of an agreement with the company when it built its factory extensions here, and the Peterborough Lock company one is assistance to a concern that is operating in the face of some onerous conditions

In what is known as the Big Horn coal basin in Alberta, six billion tons of coal have been located by the geological survey. Canada may not have a generous supply of the diamonds they wear on the biled shirt fronts, but as for diamonds that are important in keeping the tootsies from getting frost—bitten—well, we have a few.

The milk companies and dealers of Ottawa do not deliver milk on Sunday, and refuse to do so. They claim that as Saturday morning milk is delivered on Saturday afternoon, it can be kept over until Monday. But how do the poor who have no refrigerators manage in hot weather?

The civic address to be given by Ottawa to the King has been attached, the artist having discounted a note in expectation of getting paid on time No doubt the manuscript will, when it reaches the King, bear that charming legend "Paid in full."

Mr Stratton may or may not be concerned in the "conspiracy" to get the Farmers' Bank charter from the government—the courts have yet to decide on that—but his political influence around parliament hill doesn't cut very much ice. As a matter of fact, he counts for so little in the Ottawa bunch of Pugsleys, that one is led to wonder if the Farmers' Bank charge wasn't mistakenly laid!

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills Cure Most of the Family's Ills.

This Little Box is Mother's Stand-by.

Perhaps if the children, and the "grown-ups" too, always ate exactly the right quantities of exactly the right things, at just the proper times, and in every other way obeyed the rules of health, there would be no sickness in the family, and no need of medicine.

But they never have and probably never will, so in every family there are sure to be more or less frequent attacks of sick headache, biliousness, indigestion, constipation, and kidney and liver troubles, and occasionally some one is "sick in bed".

It is worth a good deal to the mother, then, to have on hand that perfectly safe and reliable remedy for these ills —

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

They invigorate those organs which cleanse the body of waste and impurities, regulating the bowels, stimulating the kidneys and opening the pores of the skin.

Thus Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills cure the common ailments and keep the family healthy. This they have been doing for over half a century in every part of the world.

A DECADENT CABINET

Stratford Herald

The Liberal press make weary faces over the intended appointment of Sir Frederick Borden to succeed Lord Strathcona. The Windsor Record, which proved its fidelity to party by somersaulting into obedience on the reciprocity question, damns Sir Frederick with faint praise when it says, "Sir Frederick Borden may be a younger man, but that is no guarantee that he will fill Lord Strathcona's shoes with as great degree of service or ornament."

Similarly the Woodstock Sentinel-Review feels impelled to say, that "there is no use ignoring the fact that there are other appointments that would give more general satisfaction in this country and that could be more readily, and would be more willingly, defended than that of Sir Frederick Borden." Other Liberal papers express similar doubts, so that if Sir Wilfrid Laurier promotes Sir Frederick it will be in the face of warning of his unacceptability.

The incident calls attention to the decadence of the Laurier Ministry. It formerly was strong in ability, but relatively it has gravely declined. The only men of first rank in it are now Sir Wilfrid, Mr. Fielding, and Sir Allan Aylesworth. The latter talks of retiring owing to his unfortunate malady of deafness. Sir Richard Cartwright was a first ranker, but age and bodily infirmity have made him a negligible quantity. The others are mediocre politicians, carried by the first rankers. Many old Liberals find it hard to shout for the Laurier Ministry now; they cannot interest themselves in aiding that aggregation to retain power; it really stands for place, not for Liberalism. It would be kindness to end the struggle, as thousands of Liberals now agree it would have been to give the "finis" to the Ross Government years before 1905.

Grand Forks, N.D., July 21.—Train No. 2, the eastbound "North Coast Limited," on the Northern Pacific Railway, was held up by three masked robbers near Buffalo, North Dakota, about 11 o'clock Wednesday night. The robbers secured about $500 in cash by going through the passengers, and shot Engineer Olson of Fargo twice in order to make him stop the train. They made a successful escape in an automobile which they had awaiting them near the scene of the robbery.

John W. Harding

Copyright, 1908, by G. W. Dillingham Co.

"I mean that Captain Williams did not have the slightest idea of putting a price on your freedom toward which I in any way would have to contribute. You seem to be the only one who thought that I, with all I hold precious, was a fair figure to offer. Had I gone, had he demanded, had I submitted and brought back that paper and given myself to you again, as well as your freedom, you would have been contented and happy."

"You know that's not true, Emma," he protested. The white heat of his ire had been dulled by her quietness, and little by little he was becoming cowed.

"I know it is true, Joe, and so do you. I wanted to go to mother without having all this talk, but now that we have to talk let's be frank with each other and with ourselves. And you try to appreciate the truth as much as you are able. To begin with, it seems that I have been alone in not realizing how worthless you are. My father when we were to be married warned me not to take you unless I thought you indispensable to my happiness. You know that every one else put it a little more bluntly. But I thought I loved you—I'm sure I did. Now it seems utterly beyond belief. But then it must have been love. I mistook your egotism for a deeper sentiment, a determination of purpose, and I thought in my girlish way that the things you preached about socialism, the cruelty of the rich and all that meant that you were noble, self sacrificing, even brilliant. Now I know the difference. You fight capital? God sometimes is kind to a fighter, but he can't have much use for a man who whines."

"You believed me then, Emma," he said brokenly, "you know you did—you know you did."

"That's the wonderful part of it. I've always believed you till tonight, and now I know I never should have believed you. You've always been a liar, and you've always been dishonest at heart. Your incompetency, the way you were distrusted by your employers, I thought was hard luck, injustice. But now I know that you never were and never will be the least bit of good to yourself or any one else. You married me to help yourself. You tried to disgrace me to help yourself. I was willing to meet the situation, but you couldn't, and tonight you wanted to sell me to help yourself. I pity you from the bottom of my heart. I think I've told you the reason why I cannot live with you any longer."

She rose.

"Emma," he supplicated humbly, "it will all be different. Let me start out again. Give me another chance. I'll never lie to you again, and I'll never take a cent that isn't my own. I promise you I won't."

She shook her head.

"Oh, yes, you will. You can't help it. Captain Williams told me tonight that a woman who was good couldn't be bad and a woman who was bad couldn't be good. It's that way with men. One who is inherently honest could never be dishonest, and one who is inherently dishonest could never be honest. You are both a thief and a liar, and there is no hope for you. You've struck the downward path, and you'll keep on going until the end. If you ever had a chance it was with me, and you've thrown it away. I'm sorry, more sorry than I can tell. Goodby."

He leaped to the door, which she was about to open, and placed his hand against it.

"Emma, you mustn't go. You can't go. I will not let you go."

"I will go, and I request that you will open the door," she said firmly.

She grasped the handle, but he put out his arm and forced her away.

"Enough of this tomfoolery!" he cried, with a savage scowl, following her up menacingly as she staggered back. "I'm your husband. I order you to stay here, and here you will stay!"

"It only remained for you to strike me!" she gasped.

"Strike you! I'll strangle you if you ever dare to try to speak to me again as you have done this night. I've borne with you and humored you and put up with your insults too long. What I did was for you, and you know it. What you did, about which you are giving yourself such airs, is no more than any wife would do for a husband who'd acted as I did. That's all there is to it, and I don't want to hear any more about it now or at any other time. I'm master in this house, and I'm going to remain master."

"You are not my master, and you can't frighten me with your threats," she retorted. "Open the door this instant!"

He grasped her roughly by the arm.

"You take your hat off and go to bed," he ordered, pushing her toward the bedroom. "That's the best place for you."

"Never!" she panted, wrenching herself free and grasping a vase on the table to defend herself with. "If you make one step toward me, you coward, I'll scream for help."

Rushing at her, he seized her by the throat and hurled her on the sofa. His fingers tightened their grip, choking all utterance.

"You will leave me, will you!" he cried, shaking her with all his strength. "Leave me! Leave me! Then you will leave me dead!"

He did not hear a knock nor the opening of the door that followed it.

A hand gripped him by the collar, and his own grasp of Emma's frail form relaxed. The hand swung him round and sent him reeling across the room.

"What's the matter with you, Brooks? Has it got to wife beating now?"

Smith stood looking at him scornfully.

Emma struggled up, more dead than alive.

"Oh, Jimsy," she cried, "he tried to kill me because I would not stay with him!"

"All right, Emma, you go now," he replied.

"You stop here!" commanded her husband furiously. "What does this man mean by interfering in my affairs?"

"I guess that man has a big claim on your gratitude," said Smith. "That's two escapes you've had tonight—one from the penitentiary and one from the electric chair. You've a whole lot to be thankful for if you only knew it, Brooks, but it looks like you don't."

Emma had reached the door and hurried out without looking back. Her husband would have rushed after her, but between him and the exit stood the tall form of Smith, and there was something in Jimsy's look, in the lines that had tightened about his mouth, that caused him to hesitate. He had never imagined that the kind, genial face could take on such an expression. The eyes had become hard and forbidding, and under their keen gaze the man's feeble courage wilted.

"Brooks," said Smith, "you have no more rights. You relinquished them all under the terms of your deal with Emma, and you have been paid in full. Of course if you repent of the bargain Captain Williams, as a party to the contract, may be induced to cancel the receipt and leave the matter as it was earlier in the evening. I will get him on the phone in a jiffy if you say so."

A smile so sickly, so distorted with baffled rage, that it became a hyena-like grimace, flickered on Brooks' visage.

"I see," he said. "You've all turned against me now you think I'm down. Well, as you like. Consider I've been paid in full. I'm agreeable. I've done nothing but slave for her for five years and been kept down by her. I didn't send her away; but, seeing she's going against my wishes, she'll stay gone. It lets me out. In future I'll only have myself to think of, and you bet I'm going to do it."

"That's up to you," retorted Smith sententiously.

CHAPTER XVIII.

WASHED with rain, the stars, "forgetmenots of the angels," blinked limpidly from the sky of violet blue. The moonlight flooded the country, percolated in soft, refulgent cascades through the spruces and hemlocks and traced with its witchery weird arabesques in the glades.

On the road that ribboned through the forest and up from the lake walked Emma Brooks and her sister Beth, the latter grumbling.

"You are the queerest girl," she complained. "No one but you would think of coming out in such weather—not a soul. My shoes are so heavy with mud I can hardly lift my feet."

"Oh, I just had to! I love it," replied Emma. "I simply could not stay indoors. I know now what a bird must feel like when it is caged. You must humor me, little sister. I have been born again—awakened to a new life. My soul, snatched from the swirl-fire of sordidness, of sorrow, of baseness, that seared it, must expand or burst. My life for so long was depressed in the fog, like that we came up through today to emerge at last into the brightness of the mountain tops. It is hard to realize that I have left all this behind and am free in the light."

FOR RAINY DAYS

What 10 Cents a Week to the Annuities Scheme Will Provide

The impression which some people have that the Canadian Government Annuities scheme is available only to persons over the age of 55, is quite erroneous, an impression arising, probably, from the fact that 55 is the earliest age, except for invalidity or disablement, at which an annuity can begin. Naturally, the younger the person is when the purchase is begun, the smaller will be the payments which he or she will have to make to secure the same Annuity, and smaller will be the apparent cost. But any person over the age of five, may purchase an Annuity. An account of the sad ending of an old gentleman who had, until recently, lived all his life in a Canadian province, but upon whom fortune, for some reason, had not smiled, was communicated a few days ago in a dispatch from a United States city. He had gone to Michigan to stay with a son for the remainder of his days, but shortly after his arrival the son died, leaving no means, and the father, who preferred death rather than the poorhouse, to which he was to have been sent the following day, terminated his life. If the old gentleman had been provident in his younger days, and had laid aside but 10 cents a week, the amount accumulated at 3 per cent. compound interest, which he would have had at his disposal at 80, would have purchased for him an annuity of $180 a year, an income sufficient to have enabled him to have provided for himself for the remainder of his days. Had he had the opportunity at 20, as all residents of Canada have to-day, of paying in to the Government Annuities fund a sum of 10 cents a week, his income at 80 would have been over $525, instead of $180, and had he died at any time before attaining the age of 80, his heirs would have received every cent that he had paid in, with 3 per cent. compound interest, up to the date of his death.

HOW TO OBTAIN A GOOD COLOR

A Treatment to Restore the Blood Supply That Has Been Most Successful

There is only this to tell people who are pale, weak and bloodless. You are pale and weak because you haven't enough blood and you won't be better until your blood supply is increased. You should not lose any time in increasing your blood supply, for people who neglect anaemia, often slip into a deadly decline. When you have increased your blood supply you can reasonably expect to have a good color, to have lost that tired, breathless feeling, to have a good appetite and get good nourishment from your blood. Now the only quick and always effective way to get a supply of new, rich, red blood is to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Every dose helps to make new blood, and this new blood coursing through the veins, brings health and strength to every organ and every part of the body, making weak, ailing people, bright, active and strong. This has been proved in thousands of cases of which the case of Mrs. George Clark, Abbottsford, B.C., is a fair sample. Mrs. Clark says; "After spending two years and six months in a hospital training for nurse, I began to fail in health, was very pale and the least exertion would leave me out of breath. After graduating I came to British Columbia to take up my profession as a private nurse. The first case I took I found I was not able to go on with my work. Doctors' tonics failed me and acting on my own judgment I purchased a supply of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Before I had finished them I was really surprised at the result. The color came back to my face. I gained in strength and by the time I had used nine boxes I was back at my work as a nurse. I have since married, but still have my friendly feeling for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SUDDEN DEATH AT CAMPBELLFORD

Young Man Passed Away on Passenger Train

A shocking fatality occurred yesterday morning when a young man named Shackster died in the G.T.R. passenger train at Campbellford. Mr. Shackster was a young brakeman, about twenty-seven years of age, on the York way-freight, and had been in Lindsay writing on his rules.

He went to Lindsay about Tuesday, but was taken ill while writing and forced to consult a doctor, who informed him that he had better go home.

He took the morning train which leaves here at 7.10 and had just arrived at Campbellford, his home, when he dropped dead. No particulars have been received, as yet, as to the cause of his death, but as he was crushed between some cars some time ago, he may have received internal injuries then.

Deceased was a bright young man, and well lived, so that his death came as a severe shock.

AFTER 7 YEARS SUFFERING

I Was Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Waurika, Okla.—"I had female troubles for seven years, was all run down, and so nervous I could not do anything. The doctors treated me for different things but did me no good. I got so bad that I could not sleep day or night. While in this condition I read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and began its use and wrote to Mrs. Pinkham for advice. In a short time I had gained my average weight and am now strong and well."—MRS. SALLIE STEVENS, R. F. D. No. 3, Box 31, Waurika, Okla.

Another Grateful Woman

London, Ont.—I feel as if I could not tell others enough about the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I was so weak and tired that I could not rest nights. A friend recommended your Compound and I soon gained health and strength and could not wish to sleep better. I know other women who have taken it for the same purpose and they join me in praising it.—MRS. WM. A. BUFFY, 905 Dame St., London, Ont.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has surely cured many cases of female ills, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, and nervous prostration.

WANTED COMPENSATION

The Home Secretary Denied the Request of an Ex-Convict

An ex-convict complains that he has been refused compensation by the Government. This man was undergoing a sentence of three years' penal servitude at Dartmoor when he met with an accident. Whilst employed building a wall he slipped with a stone in his arms and sustained serious injury. The accident necessitated his going into the infirmary, but the medical officer could not cure him. and on his release he had to undergo an operation at the Middlesex Hospital, where he now lies. After the accident, and whilst still at Dartmoor, he petitioned the Home Secretary for compensation; but was informed by the governor that Mr. Churchill saw no grounds for acceding to his request. Apparently, the Home Secretary declines to admit liability on the ground that the man was at the time of the accident serving a sentence of penal servitude.

REV. MR. McCORKINDALE INDUCTED AT LAKEFIELD

By Rev. H. J. Keith Moderator—Sermon by Rev. Jas. Rollins.

The Presbytery of Peterborough met in Warsaw, at five o'clock yesterday afternoon to complete certain matters that were left over in St. Andrew's church at the last meeting. Reports were heard from several of the mission fields of the Presbytery. Rev. G. A. Brown, of Campbellford, reported on his visit to Marmora; Rev. Mr. Thompson, of Hastings, reported very favorably on his visit to Pontypool and spoke highly of the work done there by Mr. Ferguson.

Rev. Mr. McCorkindale was appointed to visit Harvey, and Rev. H. Brown, of Warsaw, to visit Apsley.

The report of progress was presented by the committee re arrangements of work in Springville and Bethany.

The Presbytery adjourned, to meet at 7.30 in the Lakefield church for the induction of Rev. Mr. McCorkindale.

Rev. James Rollins, of St. Andrew's, conducted the service and preached a very appropriate sermon on "Temptations of Christ." Rev. Mr. Keith, the moderator, took charge of the induction service and after Mr. McCorkindale had answered the usual questions, Rev. Mr. Thompson led in the induction prayer.

Rev. Mr. McCorkindale was then inducted formally and given the hand of fellowship by the Presbytery.

The address to the minister was given by Rev. G. A. Brown, of Campbellford, and the address to the people by Rev. H. Brown, of Warsaw.

The service was closed by the benediction.

SALVATION ARMY BAND SCORED A BIG SUCCESS

Concert Was Largely Attended and Very Much Enjoyed.

It was the usual Friday night crowd that gathered at Victoria Park last night to hear the program of the Salvation Army Band. The occasion proved to be one of success for Bandmaster Peryer and his musicians, and of real enjoyment for the large attendance, many of whom were struck with the efficiency of the band and the soloists.

The program last night of national marches, melodies and songs was well arranged and each selection received well merited applause.

One of the most enjoyable numbers was "Songs of Scotland" it including several of the best known Scottish airs, which when played as they were last night never fail to give pleasure. But the band was in fine form throughout, displaying plenty of action, and every evidence of having a capable guiding hand. The trombone solo "Blue Bells of Scotland," by bandsman Sandford, and the work of bandsman F.W. Robinson in his euphonium solo "Killarney" were winning features of the band's performance.

It was a splendid opportunity for bandmaster Peryer, to show the merits of the Salvation Army band, and a better success could not have been wished for.

INQUEST IN CONNECTION WITH VERY STRANGE DEATH

Legal Proceedings may have been contributory to death of Mrs. Harrison.

An inquest to inquire into the death of Mrs. Thomas Harrison, lot 3, con. 8, North Monaghan, which occurred yesterday morning, opened at 10 o'clock this morning in Fraserville, conducted by Coroner Dr. Greer, of this city.

It appears from the statements of several parties well acquainted with the deceased and her husband, that some financial trouble was instrumental in causing the circumstances leading to her death.

It is reported also that a writ was issued against her husband for the sum of $835.00 by the Bank of Toronto and that a writ to recover another sum of money had also been issued against his wife.

The result of the inquest will be awaited with interest.

On the local market this morning several stories as to what was the cause of her death failed to agree, some stating that she died in bed from fits, and others that she took ill while driving to the city yesterday morning, and that she had said to her husband. "I am going to die," which premonition was correct.

PRESS NINE OFF TO LINDSAY

Big Ball Game in Scugogville Billed To-day

The local press nine left at noon today for Lindsay, where they will meet the Lindsay Press nine in what promises to be a great exhibition of baseball. There are several regrettable incidents in connection with the trip however, one being the inability of shortstop Rogers to get away, on account of Toothpick Myland having smuggled away his uniform in an endeavor to catch the team.

Undoubtedly the local ball tossers will be considerably handicapped by the absence of their clever shortstop but every effort will be made to bring home the bacon and anything else worth bringing. It is requested that the welcome back via the Flyer will not be such as to cause any embarassment.

GOLF

Peterboro golfers entertained members of the Lindsay golf club, yesterday at the local links, and the match ended a tie 8-8. Rev. R.N. Burns, and R.M. Harrison of the visitors played J.C. Blair of the local club and won out.

CANADIAN LEAGUE

Attendance Large and Brand of Ball Play First Class

If, last winter, some enthusiast had gone and prophesied that baseball was going to be such a success in Western Ontario as it has been in the Canadian League this summer he would have been given the merry laugh. But, leaving all jokes aside, not only has the ball played been first class, but the attendance has been far beyond expectations. Instead of Western Ontario men having to travel to Toronto to see good baseball, the shoe may soon be on the other foot.

CAN BREAK LINK.

Colonies May Leave Empire at Pleasure, Says Fisher.

London, July 22.—The Review of Reviews publishes a remarkable interview with Sir Andrew Fisher, who is alleged to have said:

"Don't talk to me of Empire; we are not an Empire. No end of mischief has come from the use of that word. We are a very loose association of five nations, each independent, each for the time being willing to remain in fraternal co-operative union with Great Britain and each other, but only on condition that we may at any time and for any cause terminate the connection.

"We are independent, self-governing communities, absolutely untrammeled by any laws, treaties or constitutions. We are free to take our own course according to what we believe to be our own interests, without anyone being able to prevent us.

"There is no necessity for us to say whether we will or will not take part in any of England's wars. If we are threatened we should have decided whether to defend ourselves, and if we thought the war unjust and England's enemy in the right to haul down the Union Jack, hoist our own flag and start on our own account. We don't expect to be attacked and don't contemplate a declaration of independence, because, except as a riddance of risk of being attacked by England's foes, we could gain nothing, as we are as independent as any other sovereign state and might lose much."

45,000 Harvesters Needed.

Winnipeg, July 22.—A conference was held in Winnipeg on Thursday between Deputy Ministers of Agriculture for provinces of Manitoba and Saskatchewan and the Dominion Government Commissioner of Immigration, dealing with the question of harvest laborers needed this year and most conservative estimates place the number at from 40,000 to 45,000. The Government reports show that winter wheat in Alberta and the earlier districts in South Saskatchewan and Manitoba will commence cutting before August 10, and harvesting will be in full swing by August 15 to 20. The railway companies are taking action to co-operate with a view of obtaining the necessary labor and in this connection the general agent of the Grand Trunk Pacific advises that that company can take care of 4,000 or 5,000 along their line by August 8 and 9, and commencing August 15 as fast as they can be obtained.

"Kidnapped" the Slogan.

Washington, July 22.—The American Federation of Labor yesterday inaugurated a vigorous campaign to raise money with which to conduct the defence of the McNamaras, charged with dynamiting the plant of The Los Angeles Times. In addition to a general appeal through the press of the country, it is planned to augment the fund by the sale of buttons bearing a picture of J. J. McNamara and the word "kidnapped." Stamps carrying a photograph of McNamara and designed to be used on the back of envelopes also will be offered for sale.

A Great Record.

Mourmelon, France, July 22.—Aviator Loridan, piloting a small biplane at the aerodrome here yesterday, covered 465 3-4 miles, remaining in the air 11 hours and 45 minutes. This is a new world's record for distance and time.

LINDSAY COMMITTED.

Farmer's Bank Stock Salesman Sent To Trial.

Toronto, July 22.—William J. Lindsay, stock seller for the collapsed Farmers' Bank was committed for trial from the Police Court yesterday morning by Magistrate Denison upon a charge of conspiracy with W. R. Travers, former general manager of the bank, to secure fraudulently the certificate of the Treasury Board of Canada which enabled the bank to commence business. He will appeal at the next sittings of the assizes after vacation.

William Laidlaw, K.C., was a witness at yesterday's hearing and told of receiving complaints from a number of Halton County farmers who had subscribed for stock upon Lindsay's solicitation. He swore that he had issued a writ on behalf of these complainants against Lindsay and others asking the rescinding of all stock subscriptions and seeking an injunction debarring an application for the bank's charter. A copy of the writ was forwarded to Mr. Fielding, Minister of Finance setting out the alleged frauds. He heard that an emissary of the bank had gone to Hamilton and agreed to cancel the subscriptions and to refund payments made and that the court had consented to the withdrawal of the writ.

It was said that about $80,000 of the $250,000 required for the issue of the certificates was alleged to have been secured in this way. Mr. Laidlaw said that these could not have been bona fide subscriptions when the certificate was obtained.

Mr. Lindsay was committed for trial and bail at $8,000 was renewed.

BLAMES POWERS.

Persia Says Russia and Britain Helped Exile.

Teheran, July 22.—The Persian Government yesterday sent a note to the British and Russian legations, pointing out that the various representations made on the subject of the intrigues of the deposed shah, Mohammed Ali Mirza, had been uniformly ignored, and alleging that the indifference of the British and Russian representatives had produced the natural effect in Mohammed Ali's landing in Persia.

The note adds that the Persian Government regrets that it has not received the assistance from Great Britain and Russia, which it had the right to expect in virtue of the protocol of August 25, 1909.

The situation is of the gravest nature. The Government, in spite of its first show of energy, is disposed to temporize, and nothing yet has been done in the way of equipping an expedition to proceed against the ex-shah and the revolutionaries who are active in Kurdistan. Two thousand Bakhtiarias have been summoned to Teheran, but the War Minister says that the force cannot be set in motion for ten days.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

Mrs. A. H. Boomer, well-known for works of benevolence in London, Ont., was seriously hurt in a runaway accident.

Wesley and Ernest Campbell, Wesley's wife and two children, missing since the fire at Porcupine, have been found.

It is stated that Mr. D. C. Cameron of Winnipeg will be appointed Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba, in succession to Sir Daniel McMillan.

Alex. Hargu, one of the sailors taken from the steamer Bendu, died at Quebec, and another man is very low. The nature of the disease has not yet been determined.

Gas companies operating in the Bayham field are engaged in a lively war, and it is expected people in Vienna and Port Burwell will enjoy free gas for a year as a result.

Chest Inflammation

Suffered From a Heavy Cold, Pleuritic Pains in Side—Constant Coughing.

"Anyone that goes through all that I suffered last winter will appreciate the value of a remedy that cures like Nerviline cured me." These are the opening words of the solemn declaration of E. P. Von Hayden, the well-known violinist of Middleton. "My work kept me out late at night, and playing in cold drafty places brought on a severe cold that settled on my chest. I had a harsh racking cough and severe pains darted through my sides and settled in my shoulders. I used different liniments, but none broke up my cold till I used Nerviline. I rubbed it on my neck, chest and shoulders, morning and night, and all the pain disappeared. Realizing that such a heavy cold had run down my system, I took Ferrozone at meals, and was completely built up and strengthened. Since using Nerviline I have no more colds or pleurisy, and enjoy perfect health."

Nerviline CURES CHEST COLDS

It's because Nerviline contains the purest and most healing essences and medicinal principles, because it has the power of sinking through the pores to the kernel of the pain—these are the reasons why it breaks up colds, cures lumbago, stiffness, neuralgia, sciatica, and rheumatism. Refuse any substitute your dealer may suggest—insist on Nerviline only. Large bottles, 50c, trial size 25c. Sold everywhere, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

POSTMEN'S HEADGEAR

Glasgow Carriers Will Have a Double-Peaked Cap

Next spring will see many Glasgow postmen in all the glory of the new double-peaked cap. There is a difference of opinion among the men as to its beauty and its comfort, but its adoption will not, we understand, be compulsory, as the "fore and aft," as the cap or shako has been termed, will be supplied only to offices where the three-fourths of the staff are in favor of it. The cap has the advantage of being fairly light, with the weight well balanced, the rear peak coming somewhat low in order to protect the wearer against the dripping of rain down the neck, which is the great discomfort with the present style of shako. In large cities where distinct offices are established the new style of headgear will be supplied only if the vote is for the city as a whole. It is proposed to supply knickerbockers and puttees to rural postmen who go their rounds on bicycles, an innovation of which it is said the men are unanimously in favor.

THE GREAT PEACE RIVER

Potentialities of the Far Northwest—A Comparison Made With Siberian Progress

One hundred million acres of agricultural land, sixty-five per cent. of it capable of bearing No. 1 hard wheat, are awaiting settlers in the Mackenzie River watershed, so Mr. J. K. Cornwall, M.P.P., of the Peace River district of Alberta, told the members of the Toronto Canadian Club. The farmer would be subjected to frost the same as Manitoba was, but at Fort Vermillion, 700 miles north of the boundary, the farmers averaged at the present time three crops out of five.

The greatest unfished fresh water lakes in the world were there, teeming with fish of the highest commercial value—trout and whitefish. Spruce and poplar trees were very plentiful, and the rivers of the country were good for a million horsepower. "What the country wants," said Mr. Cornwall, "is men, money, and transportation."

The speaker made an interesting comparison between the Peace River Valley district and the Province of Tobolsk, in Siberia. Tobolsk, he said, was in the same latitude, had a population of 1,656,700, grew twelve million bushels of wheat a year, and exported twenty million pounds of butter to England. The city of Omsk, situated 100 miles farther north than Edmonton, had a population of 3,000, and thriving industries.

Mr. Cornwall described how he happened to go to live in the Peace Valley. "I went broke on wheat in Chicago, and trekked north where a man doesn't need money so long as he's got spirit. I live four hundred miles from Edmonton. My address is simply Peace River. You can't miss me; we're all leading citizens up there."

INDUSTRY FOR CHATHAM

A new industry, which will be known as the Chatham Cement and Tile Works, will locate in Chatham, Ont., and will commence to build two factories in the south-west factory district at once. No concessions were given by the city.

BEAUTIFUL EYES

are made beautiful by long, silky lashes, and well defined, lustrous brows. Eyes, like diamonds, depend on their setting. The beauties of the face are lost if the eye brows are thin and scanty; and the lashes are short and lifeless. Parisian Lash Lustre grows beautiful, soft, silky lashes. It has done so for society women throughout Europe, and it comes here well recommended to do the same for you. Parisian Lash Lustre is not a dye or colorator, but a scientific preparation for beautifying the eye lashes and brows. Our guarantee goes with every box of Parisian Lash Lustre. A two weeks' treatment will bring beauty to your eyes that you have never before possessed. By mail, prepaid, in opal boxes, on receipt of price, fifty cents. B. V. # OUR CHILDREN'S COLUMN.

THE JOLLY OLD CROW.

And chattered away with glee, with glee,
And he saw the old farmer go out to sow,
And he cried, "It's all for me, for me!

He is wonderful kind to the poor, the poor;
If he'd empty it down in a pile on the ground
I could find it much better, I'm sure, I'm sure!

"I've learned all the tricks of this wonderful man,
Who has such a regard for the crow, the crow,
That he lays out his grounds in a regular plan,
And covers his corn in a row, a row!

"He must have a very great fancy for me;
He tries to entrap me enough, enough;
But I measure his distances as well as he,
And when he comes near, I'm off, I'm off."

A WAX MODEL.

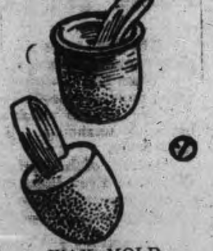
This is a little mold of wax to go in somebody's work basket. Any girl or boy can make one by melting some beeswax over a fire and then pouring it into a thimble to harden. However, the thimble must first have been greased on the inside so that the wax will not stick to it.



WAX MOLD.

Take a little piece of baby ribbon and dip the two ends of it into the melted wax after it has been poured into the thimble. When the wax hardens, the little ribbon will be held fast, and will make a handle to hold the mold up by.

TEMPER.

"I know I have a temper," I heard a girl say the other day; "but, at any rate, I'm not sulky." And from the tone in which she said it, one would have thought that a temper was something to be proud of, so long as it wasn't a sulky one.

As temper ages people, and leaves more lines on the face than almost any other thing, it isn't very wise to indulge in it at all. And there is another side of the picture, too. The people we live with have to be considered to some extent, and if we could only realize all the pain we give those near and dear to us when we indulge in fits of temper, we should surely try to get out of this bad habit. Life is too short to spend in wounding people unnecessarily, so the sooner we give up doing it, the better.

ABOUT COREA.

Corea is the land of queer customs. One is that the children in school use sand boxes instead of slates. They use the difficult Chinese characters and have to learn them as early in life as we do the alphabet. They make the character in the sand with a stick and then shuffle the box and make another.

There are many "little mothers" in Corea, for babies are mostly given over to older girls to be cared for. A broad sash or strip of cloth is tied around the waist of the little mother, and the baby is tucked snugly within its folds. It keeps its place during all the games of the children and seems as contented and happy as possible.

EXPERT LITTLE CHICKEN RAISERS.

A great many little girls and boys help their parents care for the chickens. They attend to the feeding, see that there is plenty of green grass cut for the chickens to eat, for, you know, chickens when they are penned up in what are called "runs" need some green stuff to eat. Then they can gather the eggs, and keep the water pans filled with fresh clean water.

MAYBE THE MERMAIDS RIDE A SEA HORSE.

A sea horse is a most peculiar fish. Its scientific name is "hippocampus," but to most people it is known as the sea horse, because its head resembles in no little degree that of the horse which we all know so well. What look like ears are really little fins, sticking out of the top of the head. The sea horse is like a monkey in one respect, and that is the use it makes of its tail.

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" WILL CURE RHEUMATISM

McMillan's Corner, Ont., Sept. 30th, 1910.

"Your remedy, "Fruit-a-tives" is a perfect panacea for Rheumatism. For years, I suffered distressing pain from Sciatic Rheumatism, being laid up several times a year, and not being able to work at anything. I went to different doctors who told me there was no use doing anything, it would pass away.

Fortunately, about two years ago, I got "Fruit-a-tives" and they cured me.

"Since then, I take them occasionally and keep free from pain. I am satisfied that "Fruit-a-tives" cured me of Rheumatism and they will cure anyone who takes them". JOHN B. McDONALD.

"Fruit-a-tives" is the greatest cure for Rheumatism, Sciatica and Lumbago in the world.

"Fruit-a-tives" cures, because like fruit juice it purifies the blood—regulates kidneys, bowels and skin—and thus keeps the whole system free of uric acid. Take "Fruit-a-tives" and you will find instant relief and a prompt cure.

AGAINST SHORT SLEEVES

Rev. Father Hudon, Ottawa, is against short sleeves. "I notice," he said, "that certain ladies of my congregation, evidently carried away by the craze after fashion, have been coming to church of late wearing short sleeves. I wish to state that this cannot be tolerated. The church is and has always been opposed to it, and I hope that I shall not again be compelled to call your attention to this matter."

FIRST QUAKER M.P.

Refused to Swear Usual Form of Oath—Descendant Elected

Joseph Pease, grandfather of the new Member for Darlington, was the first Quaker to enter the House of Commons. When he took his seat, in 1833, he refused to swear the usual form of oath. A Select Committee was appointed to inquire into precedents, and as a result of their report the new Member was allowed to affirm. When addressing the House Pease was careful to avoid the use of all titles. He dressed strictly in accordance with the rules of his sect, and refused to raise his hat on any pretext. After a time he instructed the doorkeeper to take his hat from him when he entered the House, and to replace it on his head when he went out. This saved him from appearing discourteous to the Speaker without wounding his own conscience.

MAN WITH SILVER RIBS

The story of a wonderful operation, in which silver ribs are said to have been supplied to a man, was told by Major A. T. Craig at a gathering at the premises of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Help Society in London. The occasion was the distribution by Princess Christian of Christmas hampers subscribed for by public school boys and others. In one case, said Major Craig, there was a box of delicacies, intended for a man who was badly wounded in South Africa, and got practically all his ribs broken. He had been working in a sort of steel jacket since, until at a hospital in London a very wonderful operation had been performed. The man was said to have been supplied with silver ribs.

During a storm which broke over the Canaries a house on the island of Gorhera was undermined by water and collapsed. Twenty-two persons, mostly children, were crushed to death.

INDIANS OF CANADA

Major Winter Tells of the Surrender of Poundmaker to General Middleton

Writing about "The Surrender of Poundmaker," Major C. F. Winter, in The Canadian Magazine for March, says: But though they made a brave show in coming in, they were much disconcerted at the reception accorded them, for General Middleton at once demanded their rifles, in proof of submission and surrender, before he would accord them a hearing. In a few curt words the General told them he demanded unconditional surrender. He had defeated Riel and taken him prisoner, and he had men and guns enough to crush both "Poundmaker" and "Big Bear," with all their people, if they still wanted fight. If they surrendered he could promise them nothing, but would represent their condition and views to the Government. He was a soldier sent there to put down the rebellion and he was going to do it, whether they surrendered or not, and if it took all summer. The men who murdered the Government Indian Agents and Farm Instructors at the beginning of the outbreak must be given up at once before any safe conduct would be ensured the remainder. There was a little hesitation among the younger braves for a few moments. Sharp glances were directed right and left, and wistful eyes cast backward to the slopes on the opposite side of the Battle River, as though mentally gauging the ability to get away in the event of a run for it. The comparative large number of volunteers, however, must have quickly shown what small prospect there was for successful opposition, and reluctantly (how reluctantly may be estimated from the fact that some were seen to kiss their rifles as they gave them up, a remarkable show of feeling for an Indian of the Plains), they handed over their arms to the detail ordered to secure them. Mostly all of these rifles were "Winchesters" of recent model, handier and much superior for the kind of fighting the Crees expected than the single-loading Snider-Enfield with which our Canadian troops were armed. Nearly all were decorated with notches, or brass-headed tacks upon stock and butt, indicative of some coup or lucky shot by which the owner believed he had placed an enemy hors de combat. Others indicated large game that had fallen to the aim of the owner.

RAILWAY RUMOR

C.P.R. May Secure Down-town Entrance to London

C.P.R. engineers are preparing a route which will give that road an entrance into the down-town section of the city of London, Ont. At present the company's station and freight sheds are in the north end. To secure a down-town station the company plans to build from Pottersburg to the city, and connect with the Pere Marquette, which has running rights into the Grand Trunk station. This move it is said corroborates the recent despatches from Detroit, to the effect that the Canadian Pacific Railway has obtained control of the Pere Marquette. All the big factories are at the south end of the city in the district in which the Canadian Pacific Railway spur is proposed.

WINNIPEG C.N.R. STATION

The Fine Structure Will Be Opened In July

The new station at Winnipeg which has been constructed by the Canadian Northern Railway at a cost of $1,500,000 for joint terminal occupation with the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway and other railways desiring these facilities is almost completed. This building is on the site of old Fort Garry, which was the nucleus of Winnipeg. The new structure has been a year and a half under construction, and the cost has greatly exceeded the estimates. The main building is 350 by 140 feet in area, and it is surmounted by a dome 190 feet in its greatest diamater, and 100 feet above the street level. In connection with it are eight elevated tracks with platforms of cement, each 1,650 feet long, and capable of accommodating two trains of eleven coaches each. The approaches are by covered subways to all platforms, and no person can cross the tracks.

ARE THE COLONIES ARROGANT?

Hon. George E. Foster, speaking at the Sons of England banquet, Toronto, expressed the view that the colonies are becoming too arrogant. He did not think the overseas dominions should have the power to make international treaties. Such power would certainly tend towards selfishness. Mr. Foster said the spirit of loyalty to the Empire and the glory of the old flag must be inculcated in the minds of our youth.

You might as well have a Furnace that will burn both Wood and Coal—

And one that can be changed from a Coal to a Wood Furnace at a moment's notice.

THIS LARGE DOOR

No danger of striking the shovel and spilling coal here. The door is big enough to take the largest shovel of coal or a knotty chunk of wood. It has a large sensible handle that drops into place, locking the door automatically.

The "Hecla" burns wood or coal equally well.

All you need to do if you want to burn wood is to slip a wood grate in through the big door of the furnace. Not a bolt or screw is necessary. You can fix it yourself without soiling your hands or clothing.

The wood grate is supplied free with each "Hecla" furnace, and doubles its usefulness to those who sometimes want to burn wood.

Note the Air Jets in the Door.

They are there to heat the air that passes into the fire chamber. Hot air consumes the gas; cold air checks the fire.

"Hecla" Furnace

Four Grate Bars.

Ever notice how a coal fire burns faster at the edges, leaving more ashes there than at the centre of the fire pot? Now, you can shake down the ashes in a "Hecla" without losing any of the good coals in the centre.

The "Hecla" has four grate bars which can be shaken separately, so that the outside edges can get a thorough cleaning without touching the centre.

Good idea?

The "Hecla" is full of them.

FINANCING CANADA'S HARVEST IS BECOMING A BIG PROBLEM

Growth of Acreage Under Cultivation is Steadily Growing But Still 300,000,000 Acres Waiting.

One of the great financial problems with which Canada is confronted is the financing of the harvest which promises to be greater than it has ever been in the past.

A country with a harvest such as Canada expects to put in the market this year needs a very considerable volume of currency to meet the demands upon it. The necessity for getting the larger part of the crop moved into the consuming centres before the close of navigation is pretty fully realized. This is the principal work that keeps three transcontinental railways busy in the autumn.

The Canadian banking system has been specially designed to meet such a condition as will shortly manifest itself. The right of note issue equal to the paid-up capital is accorded the chartered banks without any requirement of reserve, confidence being placed in each banking company's appreciation of the need of retaining absolute trust and keeping well within the limits of safety. There is indeed beyond this a provision for an emergency issue to be retired within a specified time should the necessity for it occur.

The Dominion makes no charge for this privilege of note issue further than the requirement that a large proportion of bank reserves be held in Dominion legal tender redeemable notes. When the West makes a very great demand for its crop movement it may mean withdrawal by the banks of a considerable amount of accomodation from the ordinary trade channels. Only once, in the year 1906, a great crop year was there any difficulty in meeting the situation. It is remembered that in that year, men of standing with perfectly sound contracts even from school boards and municipalities were obliged to throw them up through failure to get the banking accomodation they required.

17,000,000 ACRES UNDER CROP

Since that year Canada has grown the West has grown, and the banks have grown. Let us glance at the changed situation.

In the Canadian West there are 357,000,000 acres of land known to be capable of producing wheat and other cereals. Five years ago less than 5,000,000 acres had been sown with wheat, and the total cultivated land for all purposes did not exceed 10,000,000 acres. This season of 1911, 10,200,000 acres have been sown wheat 4,678,000 with oats, 1,150,000 with barley, and 751,822 acres with flax—a total in grain crops alone of 16,779,822 acres: the acreage in roots and cultivated grasses is 233,495—a grand total under cultivation of 17,043,317 acres.

The acreage under cultivation has therefore increased rapidly, more especially in view of the sparse population; but comparison should be made with the land still to be cultivated—nearly 340,000,000 acres.

Notwithstanding this small area of cultivated wheat land, in comparison with the possible whole, the wheat crop of the Canadian West is admitted to be one of the leading factors in the world's markets for breadstuffs. It is the best hard spring wheat in the world, and therefore the most valuable for mixing with the inferior wheats. The present season is one of great promise, and if fulfilled, the Canadian West will have for shipment out of the country, it is claimed, at least 160,000,000 bushels of wheat, besides 45,000,000 bushels of oats, 12,2000,000 bushels of barley, and 7,736,000 bushels of flax. Five years ago the exportable surplus of wheat was 68 849,910 bushels while oats and flax were not exported to any great extent.

A CONTRAST IN VALUES

The value of the wheat crop five years ago was $61,711,299; for 1910 it was approximately $91,350,000 (final returns are not yet in.) At the price of October wheat on June 15 the crop now growing, if reaped under favorable conditions, will represent a value of $176,500,000, that is 200,000,000 bushels at 88 1-4 cents. For the handling of the wheat crop, millions of dollars are annually distributed to country branches of the great chartered banks, which form a complete network over the three wheat producing provinces.

To store and move the wheat crop in the West is a gigantic task and involves an enormous amount of capital. It is estimated that at least 60 per cent of the crop should be moved to the Eastern terminals and seaboard before inland navigation closes for the year. Five years ago it required 47 000 cars to move this proportion; this year it is estimated that 145,084 cars will be required, and that each car will travel an average of 750 miles after it is loaded before it reaches the head of the Great Lakes. These figures give some idea of the investment of the railways in rolling stock for the movement of wheat alone.

THE ELEVATORS ON THE PRAIRIES

There are 1,870 elevators in the prairie provinces with a total storage capacity of 59,227,300 bushels, representing an investment of $15,991,371 for buildings alone. At the head of the lakes there is a storage capacity of 25,700,400 bushels, which cost $9,196,140 to erect. The investment therefore for interior and lake terminal storage is $25,187,511. To this must be added the costly equipment at Montreal, where there is 3,000,000 bushels of storage capacity and five miles of conveyor belts, making it possible to load fourteen vessels without their moving from their original berths

The growing of wheat in the prairie provinces has not been without its drawbacks, its failures, and its disappointments, but in the thirty-eight years it has been carried on, it may be remembered with comfort, that there has never been a total failure of crop. There are elements of chances in wheat growing as there are in every other business, but the farmer who has cultivated faithfully, sown carefully, reaped diligently, has never lacked bread and seed and something for profit. In a grain belt which is roughly 850 miles long and 450 to 500 miles wide it is not possible to hope for ideal conditions over the entire area every year, but no wheat growing country in the world has a finer record for uniform production than the Canadian West.

It will be seen the situation presents certain features of a more stupendous character than have ever been faced before. There is no reason to doubt that the banks which have likewise developed will be able to serve the West and the East efficiently in a time of abnormal pressure when the pressure means prosperity. The institutions are in the hands of men of ripe experience and sound judgment who realize the responsibility and importance of their part in sustaining the country's commerce and industry.

AN EXCELLENT INVESTMENT

The recent offering of $1,500,000 seven per cent preferred stock in the Canadian Locomotive Company was over-subscribed two days before the allotted time. The popularity of the issue was based on sound fact and conditions. The company is a going concern, which shows average profits of over $300,000 per year for the past four years. The estimated earnings when the extensions to the plant are completed are placed at $600,000, which would be sufficient to pay bond interest, preferred dividends, provide a sinking fund to redeem all the bonds at maturity, and still leave earnings equivalent to 18 per cent. on the common stock. Thus the past and future earnings looked sufficiently attractive to appeal to judicious investors.

In addition, the railroad development which has been going on in Canada for the past few years, and the likelihood of its continuance for many years to come, makes it practically certain that an almost unlimited market will be provided for the product of the Canadian Locomotive Company.

THE LABOR OUTLOOK

Is for Active Resumption of Outdoor Work—Much Building is to be Done—Labor Report

The Labor Gazette's review of industrial conditions is as follows:—

The outlook is for an active resumption of outdoor work on the opening of spring, in view of the many large contracts under way or contemplated in railway construction, building, and civic improvements. The immigration movement is opening with pronounced activity, and gives promise of a heavy year.

The total number of trade disputes reported to have been in existence in Canada during February was six, being two less than in January, and six less than in February, 1910. About six firms and 2,134 employes were involved in these disputes, three firms and 1,067 employes having been involved in new disputes.

Industrial accidents occurring to 264 individual work people in Canada during the month of February, 1911, were reported to the Department of Labor. Of these, 8[illegible] were fatal, and 180 resulted in serious injuries. In addition, four fatal accidents were reported as having taken place prior to the beginning of the month, information not having been received by the department before February, 1911.

In the preceding month there were 82 fatal and non-fatal accidents reported, a total of 263, and in February, 1910, there were 41 fatal and 196 non-fatal accidents, a total of 237. The number of fatal accidents reported in February, 1911, was, therefore, two more than in the preceding month, and 43 more than in February, 1911. The number of non-fatal accidents reported in February, 1911, was 21 less than in the preceding month, and 16 less than in February, 1910. Altogether there were 19 less industrial accidents reported in February, 1911, than in the preceding month, and 27 more than in the same month of the preceding year.

A NEEDED RAILWAY

To Connect Georgian Bay Towns—Aid Asked of Government

Citizens from Owen Sound, Southampton, Collingwood and Orillia are urging the Government to give aid in building a railway from Southampton through Owen Sound, Meaford, Thornbury and Collingwood to Orillia.

They ask the Government for the usual grant of $3,200 per mile of railway to be built where it is not paralleling a line already existing. This, it is expected, will amount to about $100,000 in all.

The need for a railway connecting these ports on Lake Huron and the Georgian Bay has long been felt, and all the towns interested would be greatly benefitted by it. At present the only direct means of travel between Owen Sound and Meaford is by boat in the summer or by stage. In order to go by rail from Owen Sound to any of hte points on the Georgian Bay, it is necessary to go all the way to Toronto and back.

The Canadian Pacific Railway Company may be asked to undertake either to build the line or to take over and operate the line after it is built. A charter has already been obtained for the railway.

MUST PASS ON OCEAN

So Governor-General Will Not Take His Proposed Trip Up the Mackenzie River

Owing to his departure from Canada early in September, just prior to the coming of the Duke of Connaught, Earl Grey has decided to abandon his proposed trip during the summer up the Mackenzie River to the Arctic Ocean, and thence around through Bering Straits to Victoria on the cruiser Rainbow. Preliminary arrangements for the trip had been made, but his Excellency has concluded that he would not be able to finish this second trip through the Canadian hinterland in time to carry out the usual arrangement of having the departing Governor-General pass the incoming Governor on the Atlantic.

The proposed visit of his Excellency to the West Indies has also been abandoned.

COMPLETING NEW MILL

Recent reports indicate that the Maple Leaf Milling Co., a recent consolidation which comprises both the Hedley Shaw Mill and the Maple Leaf Flour Mills, has made very steady progress. A report from Mr. Hedley Shaw, the managing director of the company, to the directors, stated that the progress made on the new large mill and elevator which the company is erecting at Port Colborne, would result in the company being able to operate the entire plant at that point by June next.

I became very despondent and didn't care whether I worked or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me guessed my secret. Imaginative dreams at night weakened me—my back ached, had pains in the back of my head, hands and feet were cold, tired in the morning, poor appetite, fingers were shaky, eyes blurred, hair loose, memory poor, etc. Numbness in the fingers set in and the doctor told me he feared paralysis. I took all kinds of medicines and tried many first-class physicians, wore an electric belt for three months, but received little benefit. I was induced to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, though I had lost all faith in doctors. Like a drowning man I commenced the New Method Treatment and it saved my life. # RECIPROCITY BILL PASSES IN UNITED STATES SENATE

Agreement is Carried by Vote of 53 to 27, But Pact Will Not be Enforced Until it is Endorsed by the Canadian Parliament—Efforts of Insurgents to Amend Measure Are Overwhelmingly Defeated.

Washington, July 24.—The Canadian reciprocity bill passed the Senate yesterday afternoon by a vote of 53 to 27. The action of the Senate brings a hard fought victory to President Taft, and ends a fight that has been waged for more than a year. It justifies the calling of Congress in special session by the President.

President Taft will not sign the reciprocity bill until Wednesday. This is caused by the fact that the House is not in session. It will be necessary for the Senate to formally report that the bill has been passed.

The law enacted Saturday will not go into effect until the Canadian Parliament passes on the measure. The opposition which has fought President Taft in the Senate and blocked the passage of the bill for months, is now training its guns on the legislative body at Ottawa and every effort will be made to kill it there. The Canadian Parliament, like the Senate, has no closure rule and the opponents of the measure there have succeeded in blocking its progress by speaking. Beginning to-day, the Government of Canada will force morning, afternoon and evening sessions of Parliament, and if this fails, it will be necessary for the Government to carry the matter to the fall elections. There is, therefore, a possibility that the bill passed on Saturday by the United States Senate, will not go into effect until next winter.

The bill passed the Senate unamended, all efforts on the part of the insurgents in this direction being overwhelmingly defeated. As soon as the bill was passed, an engraved copy, prepared in advance, was rushed to the White House for the President's signature, and Mr. Taft, before he left for Beverley Saturday afternoon, had the satisfaction of affixing his name to this important measure.

The bill was passed by the aid of Democratic votes. If it had been left to the Republicans in the Senate, it would have been defeated, 24 voting against it and only 21 for it. Of the Republican regulars, 18 supported the President and 14 voted against him. Senator Bailey was able to muster only two Democratic votes besides his own against the bill.

Following was the vote on the bill: Republicans against—Borah and Heyburn, Idaho; Bourne, Oregon; Bristow and Curtis, Kansas; Burnham, New Hampshire; Clapp and Nelson, Minnesota; Clark and Warren, Wyoming; Crawford and Gamble, South Dakota; Cummins and Kenyon, Iowa; Dixon, Montana; Crona and McCumber, North Dakota; LaFollette, Wisconsin; Lippitt, Rhode Island; Lorimer, Illinois; Oliver, Pennsylvania; Page, Vermont; Smith, Michigan; Smoot, Utah.

Democrats against—Bailey, Texas; Clarke, Arkansas; Simmons, North Carolina.

Republicans for the bill—Bradley, Kentucky; Brandegee and McLean; Connecticut; Briggs, North Louisiana; Burton, Ohio; Crane and Lodge, Massachusetts; Colom, Illinois; Huggenheim, Colorado; Jones and Poindexter, Washington; Nixon, Nevada; Penrose, Pennsylvania; Perkins and Works, California; Richardson, Delaware; Root, New York; Stephenson, Wisconsin; Townsend, Michigan; Watts, Rhode Island.

Democrats for — Bryan, Georgia; Bankhead and Johnston, Alabama; Bryan and Fletcher, Florida; Chamberlain, Oregon; Chilton and Walson, West Virginia; Culbertson, Texas; Davis, Arkansas; Foster, Louisiana; Gore and Owen, Oklahoma; Hitchcock, Nebraska; Johnson, Maine; Kern and Shively, Indiana; Martin and Swanson, Virginia; Martine, New Jersey; Myers, Montana; Newlands, Nevada; O'Gorman, New York; Overman, North Carolina; Paynter, Kentucky; Pomerene, Ohio; Reed and Stone, Missouri; Smith, Maryland; Smith, South Carolina; Taylor, Tennessee; Williams, Mississippi.—32.

Clears the Way.

Ottawa, July 24.—Saturday's Taft victory in the United States Senate clears the way for the final stages of the fight in Ottawa. Beyond the removal of the Government's last excuse for keeping the House in session, the passage of the bill at Washington does not affect the situation here. For the last two weeks the success of the White House influence has been a foregone conclusion. Both parties here expected it, and neither has shown any sign of giving ground because of it. With this formal passage out of the way, there is no longer any show of reason why there should be a protracted summer session.

R. L. Borden last night had no comment to make on the action of the United States Senate. The proclamation ordering preparation of the lists in the unorganized districts of Ontario between July 18 and Sept. 18, instead of between Aug. 1 and Oct. 15, appears in The Canada Gazette, as signed on the 17th. When A. C. Boyce asked the Prime Minister about this proclamation on Friday, Sir Wilfrid said he couldn't give an answer.

To Encourage Tobacco Growing.

New York, July 24.—Great Britain will not rely wholly on the decision of the U. S. Supreme Court to re-establish competition in tobacco. Under the Lloyd-George budget she has $6,000,000 to spend on improving agriculture and a part of it has been set aside to determine if tobacco can be raised in England and Scotland.

The expert who has tobacco in charge, A. V. Campbell, arrived here on Saturday on the Campania. He plans to spend nine months in Canada and the United States during which time he will visit the tobacco growers districts.

TWO MEN BELIEVED TO HAVE PERISHED

Finding of Empty Boat Indicates Probable Fate of Rowing Party

Toronto, July 24.—E. Goby, 1,223 Dundas street, and Harry Hughes of the same address, were probably drowned in the lake off Walter Dean's boathouse at Sunnyside between 7 and 8 o'clock Saturday night.

A submerged rowboat with two coats and a hat was picked up about three-quarters of a mile off shore a few minutes before eight o'clock by Frank Wicks, who was passing in his motor boat.

In one coat was the name H. Hughes, bearing the stamp of Hobberlin, while in the pocket of the other coat was the label E. Goby, with the address 1,223 Dundas street. At the Dundas street address the name of the occupant is James Frank Grant. The directory gives Hughes' address as 1,223 Dundas street, and it is also probable that Goby was a boarder there also.

"The boat was a canoe-shaped one," said Thomas Fitzpatrick, 57 Wilson avenue. It was a light two-seated craft. An oar was floating within a few feet and the whole affair appeared to indicate that the occupants had only just been thrown into the water.

A heavy northwester had whipped the lake into whitecaps all day, and it was no easy task to keep a boat afloat in the choppy seas. It is thought that the boat was in poor condition and filled with water, the two men leaping into the lake to escape the inrushing waters.

LOTS OF SUPPLIES IN FIRE DISTRICT

Porcupine Has All the Food It Needs, says Englehart

Toronto, July 24.—J. L. Englehart, chairman of the T. & N. O. Railway, learned from Supt. Black while speaking over long distance 'phone yesterday that a car of provisions and cooking utensils reached Porcupine on Saturday and that another filled with provisions had only reached there on Sunday last.

"There is absolutely no need for any man to go short," said Mr. Englehart. "There is talk of shortage, but I have personally investigated the charge and find that there is no ground for complaint. Mr. Gourlay has put the relief work in good systematic order and there is no reason for a kick from anyone."

The relief work in Porcupine district is now in the hands of C. A. Foster and Harold Kingsmill, who are devoting their whole time to it. There is now plenty of work for which the Government has devoted $8,000. There is also work to be found on the T. & N. O.

LEACH TO ATTEMPT TO GO OVER FALLS

Secures New Barrel and Makes Known His Intention

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 24.—Expressing explicit faith in his ability to safely go over the horseshoe falls, Bobby Leach, who has several times navigated the whirlpool rapids in a barrel, said last night that he would start on the trip as near two o'clock this afternoon as possible. His new barrel was delivered on Saturday, the one in which he made the rapids having been lost in experiments a week ago. Leach's barrel is of quarter-inch steel, eleven feet over all and three feet in diameter. On each end are wooden points, securely bolted to the craft. They are formed of cross sections of wood varying in thickness. A man hole is so arranged that it is fastened from the inside.

Unlike the barrel in which Mrs. Taylor, the only person who ever successfully passed over the falls alive, Leach's craft has a hammock upon which the daring little English navigator will be strapped. "I haven't a cent of insurance and don't expect to need any. I've always wanted to go over the falls. I feel sure of success. I expect the trip will occupy thirty minutes," said Leach.

Grand Trunk Train, heavily laden, in Bad Smash-Up

Cayuga, July 24.—A bad smash-up occurred about 11 o'clock Saturday night at the G.T.R. station, when eight cars were derailed and badly smashed. Traffic was completely blocked till 8.30 in the morning, the Fort Erie and St. Thomas wrecking trains being called. The train was heavily loaded with merchandise and a car of chickens. In the chicken car slept an attendant, who was not wakened by the smash-up, although car next was badly damaged. The cause of the wreck was thought to be a broken truck.

The car had left the rails several hundred yards before striking the first switch, where there is a sharp curve. For a distance of several hundred yards it being impossible to stop the train owing to the heavy down grade and the crippling of the air brakes.

CANADIAN CAPTURES SHOOTING HONORS OF BRITISH EMPIRE

Pte. Clifford of Toronto, Wins the King's Prize—Winner of Biggest Event in Imperial Contests at Bisley is a Member of the Grenadiers of Toronto.

Bisley, Eng., July 24.—Pte. W. J. Clifford of the 10th Royal Grenadiers, Toronto, on Saturday won the Empire's most coveted shooting trophy, when he carried off the King's Prize after a very close contest, in which his fellow-townsman, Lance-Corpl. Trainor, of the R.C.R., was second from lead at the beginning of the third stage. Clifford's total score was 319 out of a possible 355.

On Wednesday Clifford carried off the Prince of Wales' Prize, the badge, and $500, being the award.

The King's Prize consists of $1,250 given by His Majesty the King, the N.R.A. gold medal, and the N.R.A. gold badge. There were 1,150 competitors entered in the contest, being the representative shots from the volunteer forces of the Empire. The Canadians who fired in the last stage were Lance-Corpl. Trainor, R.C.R., Toronto; Pte. Bibby, Dundas; Sergt. Martin, Calgary; Pte. Clifford, Toronto; Lieut. F. Morris, Bowmanvile; Sergt. G. Russell, Ottawa; Lieut. W. Morris, Winnipeg; Sergt. Bayles, Toronto. The last stage is fired at 800, 900 and 1,000 yards, ten shots at each distance.

In the second stage of the St. George's Challenge Vase match, the Canadians scored as follows, with fifteen shots at 900 yards: Freeborn 63, Russell 56, Clark 51, Martin 67.

Civic Reception.

Toronto, July 24.—Private Clifford of the Grenadiers will be given a civic reception on his return from England, it was announced on Saturday by Ald. Maguire.

Clifford was married about a year ago to Miss Winnifred Lewis, whose father before his death was an instructor of musketry for the regular army service in India. Mr. Lewis was also a famous shot and one of the best known regulars in the service.

"Just think of it," said Mrs. Clifford. "The King's Prize! Who would ever think that William would prove the best shot under the Union Jack?"

Clifford was considered the best shot in his regiment for two years. He won the President's Match twice and last year at Ottawa he won the National Association Medal for shooting. In 1909 he was waiting man on the Bisley team and was a member last year and this year. Last year, however, he did not make the finals and didn't shoot for the King's Prize.

From the outset of his military career he displayed an enthusiasm for shooting, and with steady practice he soon came to be recognized as one of the best marksmen in the regiment. At the O.R.A. and D.R.A. meets he carried off several good prizes, and he was "always knocking at the door" at all the matches he took part in in recent years.

PRIEST DIES IN QUEBEC CHURCH

Tragic End of Rev. Father Lessard at St. Ambroise

Quebec, July 24.—With the work just completed, and while Bishop Roy was pronouncing a eulogy upon his services, Father P. Lessard, cure of St. Ambroise, Jeune Lorette, was taken suddenly ill yesterday morning in the handsome new parish church, which had been erected through his efforts. The reverend gentleman fainted, and was carried into the presbytery, where he died a short time afterwards.

CHURCH STRUCK BY LIGHTNING

Canso, N.S., July 24.—The most severe electrical storm that ever visited this territory raged here at an early hour yesterday morning and caused much destruction. The Catholic Church spire is badly shattered and only by the successful efforts of those who answered the alarm was the church saved from destruction by fire. The bolt that shattered the church entered at the point of the spire. Fire was kindled in several places, but the heavy rain prevented its spreading on the outside. H. L. Tate's house was also struck.

Thrown Under the Wheels.

Preston, July 24.—Yesterday afternoon about four o'clock several small boys were playing in the yard of the Preston Car & Coach Co. Little Johnnie Drake, the five-year-old son of John Drake, was sitting on one of the trucks that are used for putting under passenger cars, when his little comrades started the truck on the track down grade and threw the little fellow under te wheels, crushing his arm and shoulder blade. Little hopes are held out for his recovery.

HAD BETTER GIVE IN, SAYS SECTION OF UNIONIST PARTY

To Pass the Veto Bill is the Lesser of Two Evils, They Believe—Halsbury is Still Unconvinced and Will Hold a "No Surrender" Meeting.

London, July 24.—The past forty-eight hours have brought small change in the political situation. The Unionists and the partisans have joined in a chorus of hot denunciation against Permier Asquith for what they term his violation of Parliamentary decencies. The majority of the Conservatives in London and the provinces advise the leaders to submit to Mr. Asquith's ultimatum, as the lesser of two great evils.

The only uncertain factor in affairs is how many of the Lords will follow the Earl of Halsbury in the fight to the death.

The Prime Minister on Friday notified the peers that he would not send back the veto bill from the House of Commons to them unless assured that they would accept it. If Lord Halsbury can muster enough followers to outvote the small Liberal contingent in the Upper House—which may not be impossible, because there seems to be somewhat of a stop in the fighting—Lansdowne must induce his followers to vote for the Government bill to stave off the degradation of the peerage. While he has not said so, the general belief is that he will do it, if forced to it.

In the meantime interest centres in the meeting of the House of Commons to-day, when Mr. Asquith is expected to make a more explicit statement of his program than he has done up to the present. The pressure for admission to this historic session is enormous. It is possible that the Government may postpone consideration of the Lords' amendment for a few days to enable it to find out what the Upper House will do. If the result of the negotiations is unsatisfactory, the Government may announce the creation of a batch of 50 new peers as an object lesson to the Lords.

A correspondent of The Times, who signs himself "Anti-Corruptionist," declares that it is an open secret that a peer on his creation contributes a minimum of $25,000 to the party funds. He points out that 100 new peers would give the Liberal organization $2,500,000 to play with, which could be used to subsidize candidates and buy local papers.

Sir Edward H. Carson, M.P. for Dublin University and chairman of the Irish Unionists, has issued a statement and has informed Lord Lansdowne that "if we are to have home rule forced upon us without an appeal to the country, it will be as easy to resist it next year as in 1913," and protests against a surrender.

J. L. Garvin, editor of The Sunday Observer, in appealing for a large attendance at the banquet to be given on Wednesday next in honor of the Earl of Halsbury, says that "no surrender" represent the conviction of the masses. In the event of surrender, he says, the party will split from top to bottom, and will never be reconstructed under the present leadership. It is a grave thing, adds Mr. Garvin, that the party is still ignorant of Mr. Balfour's real mind.

BAD FIRE IS CHECKED

Constantinople's Conflagration Believed to be Incendiary

Many Thousands of People Lose Their Homes

Special to the Review.

Constantinople, July 24—Thirty thousand buildings were destroyed and many thousands of people were made homeless by the terrible fire which started yesterday and was not checked till this morning. The fire commenced simultaneously in six places and was undoubtedly of incendiary origin.

Constantinople, July 23—Fire started this afternoon in the Stamboul section near the Ministry of War. A violent north wind drove the sparks to the south, and in a short while a very large area was afire. At nine o'clock to-night the flames seemed not in the least checked. People have been fleeing for hours in the direction of Marmora.

The Stamboul is the oldest and most crowded in the city of Constantinople. The sight from the shore is terrific, Flames are roaring skyward and ever advancing. Owing to the great excitement that prevails through Constantinople, it is difficult to obtain even the most meagre details of the destruction that has so far befallen Stamboul. It is stated that the War Ministry was burned early in the conflagration.

It is said that Shevket Pasha was injured. The celebration of the anniversary of the Constitution was going on, and it is rumored that the flames were started by an incendiary.

SIR WM. AITKIN'S MAIDEN SPEECH

Canadian Member of British House Makes Attack on Harcourt

London, July 24.—In his maiden speech in the House of Commons, on Sir Gilbert Parker's resolution to reduce the Colonial Secretary's salary because of his action in excluding the consideration of desirable changes in the British fiscal system from the purview of the imperial royal commission on the trade relations of the Empire, Sir William Aitken declared that President Taft had begun with his campaign against the British Empire by reciprocity with Canada. He would next hit British trade by reciprocity with Newfoundland and lastly sweep the West Indies into the American net.

Sir William Aitken charged the Rt. Hon. Lewis Harcourt with turning the Imperial Conference to British party uses. Mr. Harcourt, he said, knew that all the overseas dominions, and more than half of the English people, favored Imperial preference, and yet he hamstrung the royal commission by ruling out this vital question.

Must Make Improvements.

Kingston, July 24.—The provincial license inspector spent some days here and has notified the local inspector that half of the hotelkeepers here must make improvements or else he will ask the department to cancel their licenses. They are defective as to fire escapes and lavatories, and a few have more serious defects.

"FEEBLE STOMACH"

Causes Digestive Weakness and Poisons the Entire System.

"No one can have suffered more than I did with stomach trouble," writes Phil. E. Pascalar, well known at St. Andrews Corners. "My doctor told me my indigestion and sleeplessness were due to poisons in the blood. Certainly my condition was desperate, and it seemed from the despondent feelings that swept over me that I would lose my reason. I happened to read about Dr. Hamilton's Pills and bought five boxes from the druggist. Such body-cleansing pills I never used; they were mild and yet quite strong enough to drive all the humors out of the blood. My stomach gained strength rapidly with Dr. Hamilton's Pills and I improved so much that in eight weeks I could eat and digest all ordinary food. Depression and weariness passed away and I am, thanks to Dr. Hamilton's Pills, enjoying robust good health."

No remedy for biliousness, indigestion, headache, sick stomach, or constipation that compares with Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Refuse substitutes. Sold in 25c. boxes. All dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

THE FARMER'S BANK

That is indeed a surprising statement made by William Laidlaw, K.C., counsel for some of the shareholders in the late lamented institution, who are trying to dispute the double liability clause.

Mr. Laidlaw states that a writ was issued, and an injunction applied for, to prevent the bank from applying to the department of finance for a certificate to do business, and that a notice of this was served on Finance Minister Fielding before the certificate was granted.

Direct warning that some of the subscriptions to the bank shares had been secured by fraud and misrepresentation was given to the finance minister. This is important. DIRECT WARNING was served on him by legal process, yet he went ahead and gave that certificate. In spite of other warnings, verbal and otherwise, he deliberately granted that certificate to the wild-cat bank. How is this for honest, business-like administration of public affairs? Does it not smell like a rat behind the scenes? Mr. Fielding says in parliament that he made a mistake, which any man might commit. Does this new information look as if the mistake was unintentional?

The department of finance was notified that fraud was used in obtaining subscriptions, yet it granted the certificate as if the promoters of the Farmers' Bank had character certificates from the recording angel. What is the real story behind the scenes that hasn't yet came out? What was the quid pro quo, and to whom, for this deliberately glaring piece of knavery by the department of finance. Fielding did not benefit, but who did?

TRUTH ABOUT THE NAVY

"Neither the Niobe nor the Rainbow was bought or intended for a fighting ship," says Admiral Kingsmill in confirmation of an innocent observation by one of the visiting German officers to the effect that the Niobe would, of course, be "of no account in case of war." Admiral Kingsmill ought to know as much about our navy as anyone in Canada, excepting possibly High Admiral Brodeur, and we accept his statement on this point with implicit confidence, especially as it is directly in line with the inferences that have been forced on us by the sedulous care with which the Niobe has been guarded from boisterous billows and rude winds ever since she has been truly our own, says the Montreal Star. Lest there should be any misunderstanding, however, let us quote Admiral Kingsmill a little more at length.

"It is unfortunate," he says, "that through lack of proper explanation the idea has got abroad that obsolete vessels have been bought by Canada for defensive purposes when really there has never been any intention whatever that these ships should be used for any purpose other than that of training naval cadets." This, we take it, covers the whole subject completely and succintly. The Niobe and the Rainbow are "obsolete" and are not expected to defend, let alone attack, anything or anybody no matter what emergency arises. In the event of the Empire being involved in war, we would be exactly where we were before we started spending several million dollars a year on our "navy" as far as being of any assistance to the Mother Country is concerned. In fact, the first thing which we would expect of the Admiralty would be to have two real cruisers sent post-haste to Canada to defend the Niobe on the Atlantic and the Rainbow on the Pacific. In this fashion we will continue to contribute to the defence of the Empire, until in the fulness of time, we build, first dockyards, at which warships can be built, and, second, warships, which can float, can steam and can fight. Pending the accomplishment of these high, but vague purposes, we will continue to train midshipmen in moderate numbers, this being, according to Admiral Kingsmill the sole purpose of the Niobe and the Rainbow, and we hope that the rest of the Empire will never cease to be sufficiently grateful.

Before the incident closes, Lieutenant Von Ferboni di Sposetti's share in it ought to be suitably recognized. Had it not been for his chance remark which drew Admiral Kingsmill's "explanation," many of us might still have labored on under the conviction that our "navy" was a navy in other than a Pickwickian sense. In the new light, which has been thrown on the subject, we can heartily sympathize with the worthy Admiral in his annoyance that "the idea has got abroad" that these vessels were bought for defensive purposes. Evidently it would be as proper to expect a Kindergarten to turn out Doctors of Philosophy as to count on our Canadian navy doing any real fighting. It is more honorable and very much safer to let possible antagonists know this before any trouble is started than afterward.

ENTRANCE EXAMS.

The results of the county entrance examinations are not at all satisfactory as compared with the results obtained in the city schools in the same examinations. In the city, examinations, 187 pupils wrote, and 143 passed. In the county, 199 pupils wrote, and only 122 passed.

The higher efficiency of the city schools, has of course, been long reconnized, owing to the fact that the cities pay slaries that will enable them to get the pick of the teaching talent, while some of the school boards of the sections, try to grind the teaching expense down as low as posible.

We do not know whether the difference in the results as obtained in the county is due to lower teaching calibre, or whether the cause lies in the brighter mentality of the city pupils; but we certainly are not inclined to believe that the healthy county pupils are in any way different from the average boy or girl.

However, there are the actual results, and conclusions to be drawn therefrom should be considered by those in charge of the county school system.

THE WEALTH CRAZE

In the course of a speech on reciprocity, Senator Kenyon took a fling that may be considered well deserved, at the extravagance of some of the newly rich Americans in the city. His remarks are worthy of consideration: "We are living in an extravagant age. We are money mad and racing through life at a neck breaking pace, piling up fortune on fortune men worth millions striving for more, never stopping to think that there is no pocket in a shroud. The rich are flaunting their riches in the faces of the poor. We see some of our citizens at the coronation of the King endeavor to outdo the aristocracy of Europe, even wearing of knee breeches, if necessary, to properly see royalty.

"We see a hundred and twenty thousand dollar organ at the opening of a millionaire's home in New York and a long line of hungry men, at midnight, in the same city constituting the bread line; girls working in stores for $5 a week, and the proprietor of such stores dying and leaving millions to museums. Is it any wonder that the people of this country are getting restless?

"The problem of the control of great wealth is the most important problem of the hour, and one that should receive our attention. Would that we might get away from the racking, never ceasing, wearying, commercialism of the day."

EDITORIAL NOTES

The sessional indemnity will end on August 1. After that the legislators at Ottawa will be serving their country "free gratis," as the Irishman says. We shall see how long the servants of the people will continue to serve without drawing enough pay for their daily bread, and just a few dollars more, making a total of $2,500 per session.

THE MARKETS

Latest Quotations in Grain, Dairy Products, Live Stock Etc.

CHICAGO, July 22.—The grain market showed a firmer tendency during today's dealings, prices for all cereals making an advance from the closing prices of last night. The trading was decidedly dull, however, and at no time did the market exhibit any symptoms of vivacity.

Wheat futures closed to-day ¼c to ⅝c higher than yesterday, corn ½c to ⅝c higher, and oats ¼c higher to ⅛c lower. Provisions were comparatively unchanged, with signs of strength in pork and lard.

The Liverpool market closed ⅛d to ¼d higher than yesterday on wheat, and unchanged to ⅛d higher on corn. Paris closed unchanged to 1¼c lower on wheat, Antwerp unchanged, Berlin ⅜c higher and Buda Pest ⅛c lower.

Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twentytwo per cent., or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirtyseven per cent., or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium, or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse, but you must see that it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Castoria causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.

Letters from Prominent Physicians addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Dr. A. F. Peeler, of St. Louis, Mo., says: "I have prescribed your Castoria in many cases and have always found it an efficient and speedy remedy."

Dr. Frederick D. Rogers, of Chicago, Ill., says: I have found Fletcher's Castoria very useful in the treatment of children's complaints.

Dr. William C. Bloomer, of Cleveland, Ohio, says: In my practice I am glad to recommend your Castoria, knowing it is perfectly harmless and always satisfactory.

Dr. E. Down, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "I have prescribed your Castoria in my practice for many years with great satisfaction to myself and benefit to my patients."

Dr. Edward Parrish, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I have used your Castoria in my own household with good results, and have advised several patients to use it for its mild laxative effect and freedom from harm."

Dr. J. B. Elliott, of New York City, says: "Having during the past six years prescribed your Castoria for infantile stomach disorders, I most heartily commend its use. The formula contains nothing deleterious to the most delicate of children."

Dr. C. G. Sprague, of Omaha, Neb., says: "Your Castoria is an ideal medicine for children, and I frequently prescribe it. While I do not advocate the indiscriminate use of proprietary medicines, yet Castoria is an exception for conditions which arise in the care of children."

Dr. J. A. Parker, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Your Castoria holds the esteem of the medical profession in a manner held by no other proprietary preparation. It is a sure and reliable medicine for infants and children. In fact, it is the universal household remedy for infantile ailments."

Dr. H. F. Merrill, of Augusta, Me., says: "Castoria is one of the very finest and most remarkable remedies for infants and children. In my opinion your Castoria has saved thousands from an early grave. I can furnish hundreds of testimonials from this locality as to its efficiency and merits."

"You certainly have had a hard time of it with that beast," admitted Beth, stopping to take breath.

"Listen!" went on Emma. "Don't you love that chorus of the frogs and the grasshoppers? I think there is something weirdly exquisite in these noises of the night that we do not hear in the city, that I have not heard for ages and ages. Oh, I wish the woods here were full of the old world nightingales that the poets say 'feed the heart of the night with fire, satiate the hungry dark with melody.' don't you? And don't you love this incense of the soaked earth and its verdure? It lifts me to the clouds there that drift like silver snow past the moon."

She laughed aloud in her light heartedness, and the joyous peal went echoing through the wood.

"Lor', Emma, how you talk!" said Beth, marveling at her sister's exaltation, which she did not understand. They trudged on and upward in silence through the mud, past cheerful lights that glowed through windows of bungalows and cottages among the trees, until they came to a miniature dwelling ensconced in a bower of laurels.

At the door stood Mrs. Harris. She was displeased.

"For goodness' sake! Where have you been?" she exclaimed as the girls entered. "I began to think you had fallen into the lake or off a rock or that some other dreadful thing had happened to you and was scared to death."

"Emma," said Beth, dropping into a roads were awful and ankle deep in mud so sticky that I thought I'd have to leave my rubbers in it. Don't forget, too, that's all uphill coming back."

"Oh, I never enjoyed a walk so in my life!" declared Emma. "It was magnificent! I couldn't have slept, I couldn't have stayed in bed, if I hadn't taken it."

But Mrs. Harris refused to be mollified.

"And I won't be able to sleep because you've made me so nervous," she complained.

Emma went to her, put her arm about her and kissed her.

"Don't be cross, mother," she pleaded. "You know this is my first sniff of real country for a century, and I have never been in the Catskills before and therefore never so near heaven. I am a little girl again, as full of childish joy as I used to be when father took us on those trips which now seem like a dream, they were so long ago."

"If your father hadn't been so 'easy' we'd be owning a handsome cottage at one of the fashionable places in the Adirondacks instead of hiring a mean little bungalow here," lamented Mrs. Harris. "No fashionable people ever come here, and one has to be so particular. But what is one to do? One can't remain in New York in the dog days!"

"For me, I'm sick and tired of the mountains," announced Beth. "I'd like to go to Newport, where we'd stand a chance of meeting somebody and where anyhow we'd be able to see real society people."

"Bother society!" said Emma happily.

Both her mother and Beth looked shocked.

"Emma, how can you say such a thing?" reproved Mrs. Harris, enveloping herself in an air of loftiness. "I hope you have not allowed yourself to be influenced by the anarchistic vaporings of your—of that unspeakable person whose name is not to be mentioned."

"I've read somewhere that fine society is only a self protection against the vulgarities of the street and the tavern," chirped Beth primly.

"That all depends on how you define 'fine society,' Beth," said Emma.

"I mean the society of wealth, the Four Hundred, of course. I pray every night that I may marry a duke or a count."

"Beth has such elevated ideas!" commented her mother admiringly.

"Such petitions," observed Emma, becoming grave, "never reach the mercy seat. It is said that at midnight every New Year's eve, when the bells of the churches ring out the dying year, there issue from the belfries streams of vapory spirits with distracted, terrified faces, their hands clasped to their ears. They are the prayers that never rose any higher, prayers of worshipers in the churches who repeated them mechanically, as they are accustomed to do every Sunday, without realization of the significance of the words they utter; prayers muttered by those whose thoughts were on other things; prayers of the hypocrite; prayers of the humbug; supplications to the most high for the preposterous and the impossible; prayers of those who do not practice what they preach; prayers of those who do those things which they ought not to do and leave undone those things which they ought to do and think their weekly glib confession of it and their obolus in the collection plate absolve them. With the jangling and clanging of the bells they are borne by the winds over mountain and sea and are lost forever in the eternal void between the worlds. All such prayers wherever uttered must share this fate."

By this time Mrs. Harris was agape, too astonished to utter a word.

"Gracious, Emma!" gasped Beth. "You talk like a book. I don't know what's come over you."

"It is my new birth. I told you it was as though I had been born again. I hope you will marry a duke or a count if you want to, Beth. As a rule, I believe they are real men, every whit as worthy as good men who don't bear this distinction of title. Still, the field is necessarily restricted, and you mustn't forget that there are other noble men as distinguished from noblemen—men of sterling value, who ring true under every test."

"Like—like Jimsy," ventured Beth with a dubious air, casting about and on the spur of the moment thinking of none other she knew who would fit the description.

"Like Jimsy," assented Emma emphatically.

"But he's so ungrammatical, so—er—shy on education, besides which he hasn't any money," objected Mrs. Harris.

"None to speak of," seconded Beth, pursing her lips deprecatingly.

"Aside from that, though," conceded Mrs. Harris, "I must say Jimsy's a real good man and most obliging. He can't help his upbringing."

"How about Captain Williams?" questioned Emma. "How would you class him?"

"My dear," answered her mother, "you wouldn't put him in the same class with Jimsy—I mean socially. He's so rich! I wouldn't be surprised if he were several times a millionaire. Remember, he has two automobiles. And the handsome way he treated you! Why, he crossed out the $16,000 that abomination stole as though it were a matter of 16 cents."

"That is how it may have appeared to that foreign prophet in the year 1," retorted Mrs. Harris with a tone of finality, "but in this age of horse sense in the United States a million dollars in the bank is the real standard of wealth. With money you can do everything. If you have plenty of it you can do plenty of good, and everybody else will sit on the fence and clap, but if you haven't any you are no good to yourself, can do no good to others, and everybody else will get down from the fence to kick you."

* * * * * * *

Left to his own devices, Brooks took a survey of the position in which he found himself, and his conclusion was not without gratification to him. The clean "bill of health" she had been the means of obtaining for him from Captain Williams had in fact left at his free disposal as his own property several hundred dollars from his stealings and from his last "plunge" on the horses, which had been a winning one. Then there was the furniture. The piano was supposed to be Emma's, and he felt sure she would send for it, but he had no intention of surrendering it. Not one stick, not one penny, would she ever get out of him after the way in which she had treated him. The very day after her departure he sold the instrument to the piano house from which it had been purchased.

Within three days he had removed from the hotel where they had lived in state for such a brief period and transferred such furniture as he required to one room in a bachelor apartment house. The rest he disposed of for cash. He was a bachelor again to all intents and purposes, and he resolved to enjoy his liberty to the full. He had had enough of married life, with its cares and the discipline of restraint it imposed. Once more he was "one of the boys." To make his position unmistakable and discourage any disposition on his wife's part to return to him he forwarded, care of her mother, her portrait, that had been conspicuous on the parlor mantel, after taking it from the gilded frame in which it had stood. On the back of it he wrote a verse of an old song:

My wife she ran away from me
  Some two or three weeks ago,
And now she wants to come back again,
  But I tell her it's no go.
"Once bit twice shy," is my reply,
  And if it was to rain
Cats and dogs and mussels and frogs
  I'd never have her back again.

BAD LUCK CAME THICK AND FAST

A Bank Clerk's Terrible Experiences While Lost in an Australian Forest

I had taken a holiday from my employment as a clerk in a Sydney bank, says John Coates, Dublin, and was spending it very agreeably with my friend, Mr. C. T. Stiles, New South Wales. Mr. Stiles had a large outlying station, Towamba, some forty miles distant, which was controlled by a manager, and I made a visit with him to this station, our intention being to remain a few days. On the day after our arrival, Mr. Stiles and his manager being engaged on some business accounts, I had a horse saddled and went off for a ride unaccompanied.

I was practically a "new chum," having been only a couple of years in Australia, and knowing nothing whatever of the bush. Of course it was carelessness on my part, but I simply rode out into the bush and got lost.

At first I was only a little amused, for I was within a dozen miles of the station, and I felt sure some of the men could find me easily. It became apparent, however, as darkness approached, that I was fated to spend the night in the bush. I had taken a hearty midday meal, and I was well supplied with tobacco and matches. I "hobbled" my horse with the throatstrap of the bridle and made a big fire under a ring-barked wattle and against its trunk. Then I lay down, with my pipe going well, and ultimately fell asleep, in spite of a storm which suddenly sprang up.

I awakened with a sensation that the end of the world had come, and it was some time before I realized what had happened. The tree against which I had made my fire, being partially burnt through and thereby weakened, had been blown down and had fallen across the upper part of my body. I was lying on my right side, and both my arms—the right one being underneath me—had been broken; the left one was broken, as I afterwards found, in three places. Three ribs were also broken on the left side. Of course I did not take stock of my injuries at the time.

The tree lay across my body, completely pinioning me. To add to the horror of the situation, I became aware that some of the burning sticks from the fire had been dashed against the lower part of my right thigh. My trousers and undergarments were quickly burned through, and I smelt the flesh burning. Then I became unconscious. How long I lay it is impossible to tell, but my next awakening was to a condition as frightful surely as any mind could conceive. A colony of ants, disturbed, perhaps, by the falling tree, were crawling over my face and had attacked my eyes. I screamed in my agony, but there was none to hear. I cannot tell how long I lay enduring torments which I can find no words to convey an idea of, but it must have been hours before I lapsed again into merciful unconsciousness.

It was on the morning of the fifth day that Mr. Stiles and his men found me. I was a raving madman, and of the finding I have no recollection whatever. It seems that I was taken to Bega, where, under the ministrations of Dr. Joseph Marshall, I came slowly back to this world again.

My left eye was completely destroyed and had to be removed; the right one came very, very near sharing its fate. I was totally blind when I regained my reason, and remained so for two months. My left arm had been amputated—it seems that it was quite shattered. My thigh had been horribly burnt, and I bear an enormous scar. All this happened twenty years ago, and to-day, although I am one-eyed and one-armed, I am a hale and vigorous man of fifty-five. My adventure gave me a horror of Australia, and I returned to Ireland when well enough to travel.

SOFT SHELLED EGGS

Experiments That Were Carried On at a Kansas Station

It is a general belief that soft-shelled eggs are due to a deficiency in the supply of lime to the laying hens. At the Kansas Experimental Poultry Farm, experiments were carried out to throw some light on the subject. It appears that hens subject to much nervous excitement are liable to lay soft-shelled eggs, due to nervous shock and analogous to abortion in other animals. It is known that on the ordinary diet a hen's system usually contains enough lime for the shells of five or six eggs. If lime is withheld, then, after laying five or six eggs, the hen will cease laying; but if lime in limited amounts be given the hen will lay eggs in proportion to that amount, though the shells on examination may prove to be somewhat thinner than usual. In addition to grit, lime must be supplied in the form of shell-grit or oysters. Old plaster is also very satisfactory.

CANDID CRITICISM

Said the Actor's Voice Was Like a Rasping Saw

Mr. Willie Garvey, who, as Aladdin's mother at the Kennington Theatre, has been manufacturing laughter wholesale, and who, by the way, has been engaged by Mr. Robert Arthur for five years, has earned considerable distinction as an opera singer as well as comedian. Indeed, he is far prouder of his operatic record than he is of his pantomime performances. "But I received a nasty jolt the other night," he said to the writer during an interview. "While leaving the theatre I heard one man ask another what he thought of the man who played Aladdin's mother. 'Oh, he's all right,' was the reply, 'but he's got a voice like a rasping saw.'"

CHILD HAD A NARROW ESCAPE

Little Mildred Davis, the three-year-old child of Jeff Davis, Bethany, had a hard tumble yesterday when she fell out of the buggy of Mr. John Taylor.

With her sister, Miss Rhoda, she had walked to Taylor's camp, in the vicinity of Bethany, and got the horse and buggy while making a crossing on the trot the buggy jumped so much that Mildred fell out. Fortunately she only received a few minor scratches and a shaking up.

MR. SCOTT SAYS IT WAS ALL FIXED

Writes a Letter Stating That He Leaves the Conservative Party

Mr. R. N. Scott, who, he says, was a candidate for nomination at the late Liberal Conservative convention on Tuesday evening last, was written a letter to local papers, which we reproduce below:—

To the Editor of the Examiner

Sir,—I notice by the report in the Review that the Conservative convention was conducted in such a fair and harmonious way it would lead the public to believe it was true. As you were aware, the convention was called for the 18th at 8 o'clock. Promptly on time, that noted hot air tank, the Czar of the Conservatives of West Peterborough, before whom all knees must bow, all tongues confess, Sir James Kendry, took the chair and the meeting was opened for business. After the election of officers, and after I had been fired out of the office of Third Vice-President, for reasons unknown to myself, but known to the gang who were after me, they proceeded to move some resolutions to nominate candidates for the Dominion and then for the local. After nominating the great Priest Exterminator for the Dominion, they started their dirty work. Mr. Bradburn was then nominated by the stalwart Mr. Moore, who gave him the floor, and before sitting down after declining the nomination. Sir James said he would give him five minutes for each nomination. Did he do so? I guess not. Before my mover had time to think, they moved Mr. Peck, a gentleman who is too good to mingle with them. They say they waited three minutes, but I say they lie and I can prove it. They only waited about one minute when one of the machine moved that the nominations be closed, and the Czar who was standing waiting for the word never waiting for a seconder declared the motion carried. My mover, Mr. Harry Garbutt, was trying to be heard, but the howling mob drowned his voice and R. N. Scott's nomination was down and out, as far as they were concerned. I was informed since by two prominent residents of the city that they knew two weeks ago that they had it fixed for me, because I was too friendly with some prominent reformers, and I believe it. They must have had several rehearsals, as every one knew his piece and his place, and the right time to do it. Now, I have worked had and supported Sir James Kendry and his party for 35 years, but I am done with them now. They will never get another vote from me or anybody I can influence. I do not intend to take further notice of what they may say, as they are too dirty for any honest man to deal with.

Thanking you for the space in your valuable paper, I remain.

Yours truly,
ROBERT N. SCOTT.

As far as Mr. R. N. Scott's complaint is concerned, in reference to the Conservative convention, we think Mr. Scott is mistaken in thinking there was not plenty of time for his nomination. If his name did not go before the convention that was not the fault of the convention or the officers, but of his sponsors, who had plenty of opportunity.

Mr. Scott, of course, may suit himself about his future attitude, and doubtless the Conservative party will be able to survive the shock. But he should remember that life is full of disappointments, especially politically, and the man who isn't prepared for them in playing the political game is better out of it. At any rate, venting such feelings, based on such entirely inadequate grounds, does not harm one party, and does not secure a passport into another. The best way in such cases is to forget it, and try again, with hope of better success next time.

This convention undoubtedly wanted Mr Peck, and in not getting his name before the convention, fate possibly did not deal so unkindly with Mr. Scott after all.

FREIGHT CAR OFF THE TRACK

Mishap Near Hunter Street Crossing of G. T. R.

The traffic on Hunter street was blocked for a couple of hours at noon yesterday, when a freight car on the G.T.R. left the track.

The "moonlight" was being made up and there was quite a lengthy delay before the car was replaced. Only one truck was left off. The roadbed was torn up for about twenty-five feet.

GUELPH AND ITS IND. TIRE CO.

Guelph, July 24.—Mr. H. H. Hastings, one of the leading officials of the Independent Tire Co., was in the city yesterday on business connected with the company. He is very much delighted with the manner in which the stock of the company is being grabbed up by investors, and the prospects are very bright, indeed, for the concern. Mr. Hastings has just returned from a short trip into Pennsylvania, where he succeeded in selling $15,000 worth of stock and only yesterday sold over $6,000 worth not very far from Guelph.

Mr. Hastings says that they are meeting with some pretty stiff opposition on the part of some of the older tire companies, but this only goes to prove that they recognize the quality of the goods put up by the Independent Tire Co., and are not at all anxious to see them establish a Canadian branch.

While the work on the Guelph building has been temporarily suspended, it is understood that a gang of men will be put to work on August 1st to rush the building to a finish. It had been definitely decided that the building will be reinforced concrete, instead of brick, and will be a most substantial one.

CASE SETTLED OUT OF COURT

Proprietor of Bethany Store Had Trouble With Customer

Bethany, July 24.—The affair of July 12th, between John Taylor, one of the contractors on the new C.P.R. road, which is being run through here, and Mr. J. Hadden, a local merchant, has been settled satisfactorily.

It appears Mr. Taylor had been getting credit from Mr. Hadden and when the bill had run to over $800, Mr. Hadden refused to give Mr. Taylor any more goods without the money. On July 12th, Taylor went to Hadden's, and used offensive language, finally attempting to beat the proprietor. Several friends of Mr. Hadden in the store at the time overpowered the railroader and ejected him from the premises.

Mr. Hadden, it seems, laid a complaint against Taylor, charging him with assault. Witnesses were summoned to appear in Port Hope Saturday, but Taylor settled Friday night.

BUGGY STRUCK POST AND UPSET

While Milton Fallis, of Cavan township, was driving from Peterborough to Bethany on Saturday evening, he had the misfortune to upset by striking a post on turning a corner, and damaged his buggy to the extent of $3. He had difficulty in controlling his spirited horse until his buggy could be righted, but he finally got the animal unhitched and tied to the fence after which he temporarily repaired the buggy as well as possible, and hitching the horse again continued to his destination.

MARRIAGE AND THE DECREE

Toronto News.

On May 8th last Mr. George Taylor made inquiry of the Ottawa Government as follows:

1. Has the Dominion Government to legalize or validate any or every marriage solemnized anywhere in Canada?

2. Has the Government taken any steps to ascertain the power of this parliament in that regard?

3. If not, does the Government propose to take any steps for that purpose?

4. Has the opinion of the law officers of the Crown been asked or obtained on this question?

5. Does the Government propose to obtain the opinion of the law officers of the Crown thereon?

To these questions Sir Allen Aylesworth, Minister of Justice, replied on behalf of the Government as follows:

1. The Government does not consider that it possesses any such power.

2, 3, 4, and 5.—The Government has not considered the advisability of taking any of the courses suggested.

It is not therefore the intention of the Government to take any action on the question which has excited so much interest and received so wide consideration by the people of the country.

DRUG APPRENTICE SUFFERED MISHAP

Fell Off His Wheel and Sustained Broken Collar Bone

Ernest Porter, an apprentice in McDermid and Jury's drug store, while on a message on his bicycle, Friday evening, collided with another cyclist, at the corner of Smith and George Streets and in falling off his machine broke his collar bone.

He had delivered his parcel and was returning to the store when he was met by a bicyclist and an automobile at Smith Street. He could not turn out and found it impossible to avoid colliding with either one or the other and be chose the bicycle as the lesser evil. He was rendered unconscious and when he regained his feet he was dazed and started walking north. Someone turned him south again and he trailed his bicycle to McDermid and Jury's store, another eight blocks. When he got to the store he was pretty well fatigued and when the extent of his injuries was ascertained he was removed to the Nicholls Hospital. He suffered from shock for a couple of days, but is improving nicely now.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Archie Davidson

The death occurred this morning, about eleven o'clock, of Mary Tucker, wife of Mr. Archie Davidson, 222 Rubidge street. The late Mrs. Davidson was 41 years of age, and had resided in the city for the past nine years. Her father is Mr. Zachariah Tucker, of Keene. The deceased was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church. Besides her husband, two children, aged four and nine years, are left to mourn her loss.

The funeral will be held on Wednesday.

Barnum-Bailey Circus

The Barnum and Bailey show in its tour of the province will not travel further east than Toronto, and there is some doubt that the circus will be seen there on account of trouble in securing grounds.

Public Coincidences

(Toronto Star.)

E. A. Peck of Peterboro is the Conservative candidate for Peterboro West (Provincial.) His law partner, F. D. Kerr, is the Liberal candidate for Peterboro East (Federal.) This is no more remarkable, however, than the fact that Dr. Godfrey was member of the Legilature in the Conservative interest, while his brother, the well-known Toronto barrister, was contesting a riding as Liberal candidate. Gladstone and his brother sat on opposite sides of the House, and the Hon. Neil Primrose, son of Lord Rosebery, is a Radical.

THE BABY SHOW AT TORONTO FAIR

Last year the Baby Show at the Canadian National Exhibition had 380 entries, and the fat little youngsters, whose mothers thought they were the best on earth, brought them from all over the province. This year they are coming in even greater numbers, and in order to give them all a chance the different classes will be put on at different hours on Labor Day. Any sour old bachelors who do not like babies had better keep away from the Women's Rest Rooms on that date.

PETERBORO' BOY DROWNED IN LAKE NEAR EDMONTON

Telegram Announces Sad Ending of Erle Weller, but No Particulars Are Given.

The shocking news of the drowning of Mr. Erle Weller was received in the city on Saturday, by a telegram sent to Mr. Warren Dean from Edmonton, where the sad accident occurred.

No particulars have been received, but a letter is expected to arrive shortly from Mr. Will Bradburn telling how the drowning happened.

Lake Wabamun, about forty miles from Edmonton, was the scene of the tragedy, and the body, as far as is known, has not been recovered.

The deceased young man was well known in this city having received his education in the public schools here. He went west a little over two years ago and was engaged in the stationery business in Edmonton. He was the adopted son of the late Judge Weller.

STOMACH HAS BEEN SENT TO TORONTO FOR ANALYSIS

Inquest Adjourned to Monday Next—Cause of Death Not Yet Known.

An inquest was held on the body of Mrs. Thomas Harrison, on Saturday at ten o'clock and after several witnesses had been examined, the investigation was adjourned till Monday next July 31st, to await the report of the Provincial analyst of Toronto, to whom the stomach of the deceased was forwarded for examination in the endeavor to discover the cause of death.

Dr. Greer called the inquest and the following jurors were sworn—W. B. Anderson, foreman; George McGowan, Andrew Hogg, Bert Cunningham, Jas. Boyd, J. T. Solomn, J. Solomn, Alex Campbell, Matthew Clark, Alex Laing and Harry Clark.

The evidence of the witnesses failed to bring forward any reason for the death of the deceased Mrs. Harrison, and Dr. Russell was also unable to give the cause.

The witnesses were the deceased's husband, Thomas Harrison, and Ben. Johnston, an employee of the Harrison farm, Mrs. Thompson, a neighbor, who was in the house when the death occurred, and Dr. Russell of Bailieboro.

Drs. Russell and Amys performed the post-mortem examination.

The remains of the deceased lady were forwarded to Orillia by her husband for interment.

The inquest will be continued in the Orange Hall next Monday, not at the house where the inquiry on Saturday took place.

CONVENTION AUGUST 5TH

DELIVERY HORSE TORE THINGS UP

Butcher's Wagon Badly Damaged in Runaway

The horse of Mr. Robert Dale, butcher, caused some excitement this morning when it ran away and smashed the delivery wagon badly.

The driver left the horse on Patterson street, near the boundary, while he delivered a parcel of meat. He did not attach the weight and before he returned to the wagon the animal had departed on a jaunt on its own account.

As it was tearing along at a breakneck pace the pedestrians soon scattered and no one seemed able to pluck up nerve enough to try for a catch. The seat was thrown to the road and broken. The terrified animal proceeded up Reid street and east on Charlotte, causing a great disturbance on the latter street, as there were a number of other vehicles abroad. It turned across the market square and went north on Water street, distributing the spokes of one wheel on the way. In front of Mason's, the florist, it was caught and then taken back to Mr. Dale.

ANOTHER DELAY.

Mr. Dale borrowed a wagon to go after the pieces and transfer the broken wagon to Fitzgerald's. While he was coming east on Charlotte street one wheel parted company, the nut having been lost some distance back. He quieted the horse and after tethering it, hiked back to look for the nut.

CHORISTERS WENT TO IDYL WYLD

Delightful Outing for the Choir of All Saints'

The first annual excursion under the auspices of All Saints' Church Choir, to Idyl Wyld per steamer "Stoney Lake," Saturday afternoon, was pronounced, in every way, an enjoyable success. With about two hundred on board and to the strains of Mr. Charles Tucker's Orchestra, the boat pulled out of Wolfe Street wharf on time. A stop was made at the Railway Wharf to pick up a few more passengers. One regret was unanimous—the inability of Rev. Mr. Trumpour to be present, his duties compelling him to remain in town. During the trip songs and dancing were freely indulged in, to the delight of every one. "Dad" Langley and Mrs. Langley gave an example of the old English round dance—the polka. "Dad" is a chorister of 53 years' standing and is in tune yet. The excursion was a financial success and warm thanks were expressed to Choirmaster George Chandler for arranging the trip. The refreshments were in the hands of Miss Birdie Dawson and a band of helpers, who did their level best to see that everyone was supplied with ice cream, fruit, candies, and other little dainties that make life pleasant. Mr. Chandler wishes to thank the many helpers and those who donated candies ice cream, etc. and to the many friends for their presence and support.

The orchestra supplied by Mr. Chas. Tucker, was indeed a pleasure to listen to. Their numbers were varied, tuneful and numerous.

PUBLIC MEETING AT COUNCIL CHAMBER

PARISH OF ALL SAINTS' TO LOSE THEIR RECTOR

Rev. H. R. Trompour Accepts Professorship in Bishop Latimer College

During the morning service at All Saints Anglican church, yesterday, the rector, Rev. H. R. Trumpour, announced that he had decided to accept a professorship at Bishop Latimer College, Vancouver, B.C., and would be taking up his new duties this fall.

Rev. Mr. Trumpour will be Professor of Literature and Exegesis of the New Testament and Patristics.

The members of the parish of All Saints', and citizens in general will be sorry to lose Rev. Mr. Trumpour. In his few years as rector of All Saints' he has won a warm spot in hundreds of hearts and this has not been the case in his own parish alone. It is a high honor which has been bestowed upon him and one which he is well worthy to fill.

STEEPLE CHASE ON HUNTER STREET

Noon Hour Crowd Witnessed Thrilling Feat

When a horse attached to a heavy two-wheel town cart that is used in clearing up street rubbish, commenced to touch the high spots on a swift runaway jaunt out Hunter street at one o'clock to-day, on-lookers began to take notice expecting to see something exciting and they were not disappointed. The first calamity happened when it overtook Mr. James Akey, who was driving one of his livery horses towards the Bell Telephone building. It made a pretty bad case of the rig, causing two of the wheels to look badly "jagged" besides inflicting minor damage. Proceeding on a little further the delivery wagon and horse, belonging to D. Belleghem, blocked the way. Hearing the racket behind, Belleghem's intelligent beast looked around and seeing what was approaching, turned to get out of the way thereby presenting a broadside of the cart to the speeding runaway. Catching it fairly in the middle the town horse cleared the wagon as neatly as any steeplechaser, breaking part of the harness, and leaving the heavy cart, to which it had been attached, on the other side of the wagon, the two carts becoming very badly tangled.

Belleghem's horse broke away from its wagon and crossed the road, from where it surveyed the havoc. Several men in the vicinity straightened things out and pulled the wagons apart. Fortunately there was no furniture damaged, save a bed-stead on Belleghem's cart, but had the accident occurred a few minutes later more damage would have undoubtedly ensued as a load of valuable furniture was about to be loaded.

It is understood that Mr. Akey is to enter a claim for damages against the town for the injuries done to his vehicle.

ARMY HELD PARK MEETING

The Salvation Army band held their usual open air concert and Sunday service in Victoria Park yesterday afternoon, and a large number of citizens gathered in the park. The playing of the band was up to their usual high standard and the singing was bright and helpful. Several solos were contributed by members of the band, and one given in a sweet, strong contralto voice was especially pleasing.

The band realized an even $10 in their collections yesterday.

QUINLAN TWIRLED NO HIT GAME AND HAD HOME RUN

Locals Took Bowmanville Into Camp With 5-3 Score—Twenty-four Strikeouts

Manager Quinlan came suspiciously near being the whole working in Saturday's Midland League game at Riverside Park, which the Petes won by 5 to 3 after an exciting battle. The Peterborough leader and pitcher twirled one of the best games of his career, allowing the visitors not a single solitary hit, or anything that looked like a safety, while to put the finishing touches on his work he drove in the winning runs by a beautiful home rum over the left field fence in the seventh. The score was tied at time and Quinlan's mighty swipe won the game there and then.

Had the Peterborough manager received perfect support he would have had a no-hit, no-run game to his credit. He had everything Saturday, striking out fourteen, while he did not give a base on balls, although he plugged two batters. The Rubbermen were eating out of his hands, only three balls going out of the infield, and they were easily handled by Shaw and O'Brien. Beith, for Bowmanville, pitched a splendid game as well, fanning ten batters, but the Petes bunched hits, with Bowmanville errors. The game was without any remarkable fielding features. The nearest approach to the sensational being W. O'Brien's catch of Kavanagh's fly to deep centre, which he juggled momentarily before holding it safely.

It was a good game of ball all the way, featured by Quinlan's grand pitching, and the five hundred fans seemed to enjoy the exhibition thoroughly.

Bowmanville took a lead in the first when they scored two out of their three runs. Sisler, first up, took one of Quinlan's slants in the short ribs and stole second. Rahmel fumbled Rowe's grounder, sending Sisler to third. Tucker flew out to M. O'Brien, but Rahmel lost Jones' grounder, Sisler scoring. Kavanagh came through with a sacrifice fly to W. O'Brien sending Rowe across and Logan wound up the innings by grounding out to M. O'Brien.

Peterborough failed to get one back in their half. Murphy dropped a single over Kavanagh's head and stole second. Shaw missed three, but M. O'Brien singled to centre. Quinlan fanned. Gonter took a slant on the top of his head, filling the bases, but Beith pulled out of the hole by causing McFadden to lift an easy foul to Kavanagh. Quinlan fanned Wilcox, Doll and Beith, in a row, in Bowmanville's half of the second.

For Peterborough, Rahmel was safe on Kavanagh's error, but was out stealing—Jones to Logan.

Quinlan made his strike-out record six in succession by fanning Rowe, Tucker and Jones in the third.

Peterborough broke into the scoring column in their half with one counter. Murphy singled and stole second, going to third on Shaw's neat sacrifice. M. O'Brien lifted a fly to left which Tucker grabbed and returned so quickly that Murphy was held at third. Quinlan came to the rescue with a timely single over second, scoring Murphy. Gonter was passed, but McFadden ended by fanning.

Both sides went out in order in the fourth, and Bowmanville were blanked in their half of the fifth. Peterborough took the lead in this innings. Murphy started it with a walk. Shaw hoisted one to Rowe which the centre fielder obligingly dropped. M. O'Brien singled to centre, scoring Murphy; Shaw and O'Brien pulled off a double steal. Quinlan was passed, filling the bases. Shaw scored on McFadden's out—Logan to Kavanagh. Rahmel ended the scoring by missing three.

The Rubber men tied it up in the sixth. Tucker was safe when Gonter missed his third strike, and then threw wide to first. He stole second while Jones was fanning. Kavanagh hit to Quinlan, who threw wide to first, Tucker scoring and the runner going to second. Wilcox ended the innings by grounding to Craig.

The Petes were blanked in their half. Craig, first up, singled to centre but was out stealing—Jones to Logan.

The visitors were out in order in the seventh, but the Petes wound up the game in their half. With one gone, M. O'Brien hit to Sisler, who threw badly to first. Quinlan followed with a clean home-run over left field fence, sending O'Brien in ahead of him.

That ended the scoring, and the excitement as well, as not a man on either side reached first base afterwards.

LINDSAY TOOK FIRST OF SERIES

Press Nines Clash and 19 Runs Are Scored

Second Game Will be Played Here Saturday

It was 13-6 with our Lindsay brethren taking the hoodoo number which of course was all very proper. Nothing like that for our team which is composed of ball players whose exhibitions of difficult plays is truly wonderful. We had the Lindsay people gaping at us with expressions which would do credit to any country fair side show audience and it sure was better to have played and lost than never to have played at all. Our adventures during the afternoon and evening will remain deep rooted in our upper storeys for some time to come. It was a great trip, particularly the home journey on the flyer. Then there was no time to think of the meeting at the hay field just on the outskirts of the village which we reluctantly left behind. We were travelling. Quite the contrary were our experiences as our crowd numbering about fifteen, including Scotty, the mascot, made the trip via Millbrook, Bethany, Omemee and Reaboro. It was alright as far as Millbrook, where we adjourned for other connections. Someone suggested that we walk, but this was cried down with charges of "cold feet" and each of us gamely took his medicine. To dispel our apprehensions as to the hour of arriving at our destination, two cars of black diamonds of the softer composition were annexed to our special and we started after making sure of a good start. We tore into Bethany with all ceremony due us, but most of the inhabitants were busy at lunch, only those who had duties to perform on the side door pullmans, awaited us when our mogul slowed down. Mascot Scotty, who had hitherto failed to make our spirits aviate awoke our manager, Mr. "Mack Miller and doped out a program by which we might have a workout with the village champions, during the interval between our arrival and departure. This failed to appeal to Manager Miller, he being of the opinion, that we might suffer injuries. Words would fail utterly to explain the great joy that permeated every atom of our interior when the 'con' gave the signal for an other start which was successfully carried out. Thus the minutes and hours slipped on and finally we all awoke to find that Lindsay had been reached.

All hands beat it for the first bus but as the accomodation was not sufficient to warrant everyone continuing the jaunt to slumberland, some of us walked, in our sleep and generally behaved as the natives of the burg which we had invaded. We all met again at the Royal Hotel, where the proprietor, Mr. T. McCarroll received us as honored guests and showed us to a room, also a bath tub. Changes in our apparel were soon effected and we were carted off again, this time to the ball field, where Mr. Richard Butler took charge of the fray, and our Mr. Miller proceeded to the plate and promptly struck out. Such was the beginning. Our extreme modesty will not permit of our making any further explanations as to what we did during the game save for a few general remarks. Mr. Miller twirled for us as long as possible, and then retired in favor of Kid Swanston, who had the Lindsay swatsmen performing all manner of manoeuvres in an attempt to connect with his repertoire of slants Previous to his taking possession of the twirler's headquarters, the enemy had very selfishly made eight circuits and what is more to their discredit, all in one inning, the second. However, our clever middle sacker, Mr. Sherrard with the able assistance of Mr. Johnson, commenced the good work with the willow and then we all started banging to the uttermost parts of the hay field, and when it all ended we were just seven behind, after which, both fans left the grounds.

The combatants were:

Lindsay—R. Henley, p., c.; Nesbitt, c.; F. Chapman, 1b; E. Hanley, 2b; F. Dennison, ss; Heckingbottom, 3b and p; Murray, cf; Neill, lf; Griffith, rf.

DEVILISMS

The collection amounted to $1.39

The umpire played well.

Lindsay will be here next Saturday.

It was plain to be seen that our first pitcher lacked condition.

The Siamese Twins, Masters Swantson and Taylor, made bits of various descriptions.

Pittsburg Club Gets O'Toole for $22,500

Minneapolis, July 24—Barney Dreyfuss, President of the Pittsburg Club of the National League, late to-day purchased Marty O'Toole, St. Paul's spit-ball pitcher, for $22,500, the highest price ever paid for a ball player in the history of organized ball.

Four other clubs were after O'Toole, and Manager Lennon put his price at $25,000. Mike Cantillon, acting for Comiskey offered $20,000, but Dreyfuss split the difference between that and Lennon's price, and got the pitcher.

Miss Ida Newlands, visiting at New Westminster, B.C., was in an auto at Agaissiz, which swerved at a bridge and plunged into the creek, where she was nearly drowned.

In an incendiary fire that destroyed two dwellings, a saloon and grocery store in the foreign quarter at Niagara Falls, N.Y., yesterday, two infants were rescued by being thrown from windows by firemen.

Judge Murphy's report on the Vancouver Chinese investigation says there was free smuggling of Chinese and opium. He blames the Chinese interpreters, and exonerates the Liberal executive and the Government officials.

One man was severely burned about the back, chest and abdomen. Another was taken from the front windows of the upper storey by the firemen in a blaze which damaged the English Chop House in Toronto. The rest of the 12 guests and eight employes were able to make their way to safety.

British Officers For Canada.

Ottawa, July 22.—In furtherance of the scheme of Major-General Sir John French for the organization of the Canadian militia, a number of British officers have been secured for service of the Department. Some have already arrived.

The intention is to place a second grade staff officer in charge of the training at each division, Col. Gwatkin, first grade staff officer, will be in charge of mobilization at headquarters, and the others are Capt. L. J. Lipsett, Royal Irish Regiment; Major L. F. Phillips, King's Royal Rifles; Capt. Gordon-Hall, Yorkshire Light Infantry; Capt. R. J. F. Hayter, Cheshire Regiment; Lieut.-Col. C. E. English, Royal Engineers; Major W. Robertson, Royal Engineers.

Minnesota Sends Aid.

Washington, July 22.—The American Red Cross yesterday contributed $2,500 to the relief of the forest fire sufferers in New Ontario, and a similar amount for the assistance of those deprived of their means of livelihood by the recent Woodland fires in Michigan. This money was given by the Minnesota Red Cross branch and representatives, a surplus of contributions procured last year during the great forest fires of the northwest.

'Twas Bedlam Broken Loose.

Viterbo, Italy, July 22.—During yesterday morning's exciting clash between the defence counsel and prosecutors in the Camorra trial, the prisoners in the great steel cage formed a sort of clique, hissing and cursing their accuser, and applauding their lawyers. Giovanni Bartolozzia and others pressed their heads between the bars of the cage like wild animals, struggling to reach their tormentor.

"Get your heads back in there," ordered the carbineers, with a threatening movement.

"No, cut off our heads. Yes, behead us," they cried.

Then Bartolozzia tumbled over in a fit. Doctors entered the cage, and were followed by a score of carbineers, each of whom seized a prisoner and held him until he was physically exhausted.

Located Engineer's Body.

Port Colborne, July 22.—The Hamilton auxiliary crane, working all day, succeeded in raising the tender and trucks of the large Mogul engine, which plunged into the Welland Canal here on Thursday night. The diver has located the body of Engineer Charles Smith of Sarnia, which cannot be reached, being jammed in the cabin of the engine. Pontoons will be brought here to-day, and Supt. Weller hopes to have the canal cleared by to-night.

Shots Fired In Strike.

Montreal, July 22.—The first case of violence in the carpenters' strike was reported yesterday morning when two shots were fired at a body of striking carpenters, as they were on their way from the United Shoe Machinery Building, now under construction, to the Labor Temple. The shots were fired by a non-union foreman who is employed on the job. Fortunately each shot missed and no one was hurt. No arrest has been made, but the union men state that they know the name and address of the man alleged to have fired the shots and that he will be taken in charge.

A different version is given by J. N. Fournier, the foreman accused of shooting, who admitted that he had fired, but declared that he fired in the air with the object of frightening the men, several of whom had threatened to attack him. He said that he had reported the affair to the police and had asked for protection, which was promised him.

Almost Queered Election.

Ottawa, July 22.—In connection with a fire which occurred at the printing bureau on Thursday, it developed that Canada came very near not having the expected election this fall.

It all hinged on a fire which started in the long grass beside the printing bureau, and which was extinguished by a volunteer fire brigade from the bureau. Right beside the burning grass was a pile of old packing boxes, and beside the pile of packing boxes was a long shed. In the shed were housed the recently revised voters' lists of Canada in type. Had the packing boxes caught the flames would have spread to the shed. Had the shed become ignited the voters' lists would almost assuredly have been ruined.

Hot In Old Lunnon.

London, July 22.—London yesterday sweltered in the hottest weather in five years, the temperature reaching 88 degrees in the shade. Lord Justice Williams, presiding over the appeal court, made an almost unprecedented sacrifice of judicial dignity to comfort by doffing his wig and permitting the barristers to follow suit.

The hot spell has now been unbroken for two weeks and London is threatened with an ice famine. Thousands are flocking to the seaside and the country. No rain has fallen in the greater part of the country districts for three weeks and farmers are complaining bitterly of ruined crops.

Aviator Is Suspended.

London, July 22.—In the case of Aviator Gilmour, who applied for an order restraining the Royal Aero Club from suspending him because of his action in flying over the Henley course during the recent races, the court yesterday declined to issue the order.

It expressed the view, however, that the action of the Royal Aero Club in suspending Gilmour's French pilot's certificate was not an effective suspension of that license.

SHOOTING PAINS IN SIDE, ARMS, BACK

Prove the Presence of Rheumatic Virus, Which Is Cured Quickest by Nerviline—Rub It In.

Pains in the muscles, in the sides, the back, the neck, or the chest—they always carry with them great discomfort. If the inflammation is severe the pain will be intense. ## OUR CHILDREN'S COLUMN.

TO-DAY'S TRICK FOR THE SUPPER TABLE.

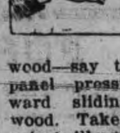
Tell him you can make a quarter stick to the wall without using glue or anything else.

If he feels like arguing the matter, ask him if he will give you a quarter if you can make it stick to the wall. When he "bites" take the quarter and slam it flat against a smooth surface of wood—say the bookcase or a door panel—pressing it hard with a downward sliding motion, against the wood. Take your hand away and the coin will stick tightly.



The striking and pressing expel the air between the coin and the wood, forming a vacuum which will hold the millionaire's dollar or Johnny's penny just alike.

BOY CAN MAKE.

Some Descriptions of Useful Articles for Camping.

Many boys look forward to going into camp as soon as school is closed, taking for their camping grounds some piece of woods or small island near their homes. It is also good fun to set up a camp in the back yard if one's parents do not wish to have one go away. Boys who are interested in this sort of good time will find it a good plan to start soon to make some of the necessary articles of the camp equipment. A boy reader has sent to this page some descriptions of articles which are useful for campers and which may be made at a very small cost or without any cost at all.

To make a camp lantern take a can and puncture it. A small block of wood may be hollowed out to make a holder for the candle. The block of wood is set inside the pail and the light shines through. This pail may also be used for carrying small fish or bait.

Another lantern is made of a glass jar which has a tin cover. Puncture holes in the cover and make a basket for the candle of wire which is twisted around so as to hold the candle as shown in the picture. There are two long strands of wire which come up through the lid and form a handle for the lantern.

The article to be cooked may be put in a covered pail and then covered with hot coals. To make an oven fill the pail with hot coals. The articles to be roasted may be placed on top of these coals.

ASOF AND HIS PONY.

An Arabian Story for Canadian Children.

Asof loved his pony Selim very dearly. He used to whisper in his ear that when he grew to be a man he would buy him a string of the loveliest pearls to hang around his neck and feed him on rose sugar drops. One day Asof's uncle came to see Asof and brought him a box of sweetmeats of most beautiful colors and shapes, 25 in all.

"Have a good time with these candies," said he. He knew his little nephew had a sweet tooth, and the sugar rosies, violets and lilies were made of the purest creamed sugar.

Asof nodded his head.

"I will have the best of times," said he. "I will eat five candies myself and feed the rest to Selim."

"To Selim!" echoed his uncle.

"Yes, to Selim!" merrily laughed Asof, and off he scampered to have a good time with his pony.

AN AFTER SUPPER THUNDER "STORM."

Here's some homemade, individually applied thunder that will outthunder old Vulcan himself. You can produce it on nights when there isn't a cloud in the sky—right in the house, and only one person at a time will hear it.

Place a piece of string around the other fellow's head, taking care that his hands cover his ears. Then cause the string to vibrate by drawing the moistened finger and thumb along the string.

The effect will be that of a rolling peal of thunder, audible only to the person operated upon.

INSECTS TOOLS.

There is a little fly called a sawfly, because it has a saw to work with. The fly uses it to make places where the eggs will be safe. What is more strange it has a sort of home-made glue which fastens them where they are laid.

Some insects have cutting instruments that work just as scissors do. The poppy-bee is one of them, whose work is wonderful. This bee has a boring-tool, too. Its nest is usually made in old wood. This borer cleans out the nest for use. When all is ready, the insect cuts out pieces of leaves to line the nest and to make the cells. These linings are cut in the shape of the cells. You would be surprised to see the care taken to have every piece just the right size

FUN FOR FRIVOLOUS FROLICS.

A forfeit must be paid each time one fails to "Buz" or "Bang" at the right time.

"Love, Laughter and Life"

THE HOME-KEEPER

If the home is to exercise that deep and lasting influence which every good home should exercise, says the Family Journal, it is essential that all who dwell in it should be made to look upon it as the happiest spot on earth. "All the Latest Attractions" is a good motto for homes as well as picture palaces. We have in our language two words, "House" and "Home," which, though similar in a way, are widely different in their true meanings. To look after a house and keep it in good working order we have a "housekeeper." This word is suitable enough for a person hired to merely look after the house; but the devoted wife and mother who makes the home her main interest is worthy of a higher title. We want a new word to distinguish the two; why not "homekeeper"? It stands for householders and housekeepers alike, provided that they have at heart the welfare and happiness of all that dwell in the house. Just as a home is more than a house, so is a homekeeper far, far more than a housekeeper. To be a good homekeeper is a worthy ambition for any girl or woman. Parents, train your children to be more than mere housekeepers. Teach them to make use of that sympathy, tact, love, and indefinable influence that turns house into home. And in teaching them this, impress on their minds the importance of making the home really attractive. From the untidy, dirty, disorderly home, people are only too glad to escape. They will hang about the streets sooner than remain in it, or will take their recreation in places of amusement instead of by their own fireside. It is possible to be too much at home, and so get a narrow view of the world, but few people err on this side compared to the numbers that err on the other. As a general rule, the more time you spend with your own home folks, the better. Tidiness, games, books, general good-humor, order, comfort, brightness, music, fun and frolic are just a few of the things that help to make home attractive. See that your home is not deficient in these, and you are well on the way to being a good homekeeper.

WELL-KNOWN WOMEN

A Few Remarks for Readers to Think Over

"The person who 'forms a strong opinion' without the preliminary fatigue of making up his mind, is tiresome."—Mrs. F. C. Caroe.

"In no country is money so willingly given for educational purposes as in Denmark, and in no country are the obvious results more gratifying."—Ethel Hargrove.

"The ordinary system of teaching aims at cramming into the infant mind as many facts, dates, numbers, and verbal definitions as possible; it cultivates, when it does not overload, the memory, but leaves all originality of thought and action out of account." —Mrs. Ada Ballin.

"Heart-education is as necessary as mind-education, though few of us realize it in time, and one of the greatest lessons of life is that of learning how to love."—Mrs. W. Agnew.

"Pay your own way, keep your engagements, live up to your promises, appreciate your benefactors, and respect your own manhood and womanhood before you kneel and worship your talents or your temperament."—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

"When we try to put thoughts into words it is like breaking a soap-bubble. Now, it is a lovely and wonderful thing, all light and color. Then, pouf! it has lost its shining wonderfulness and is nothing but a drop of soapy water."—Arabella Kenealy.

HELPFUL HINTS

Practical Information for the Home—Keep for Ready Reference

When limewashing an outside wall or fence, put two handfuls of salt in each pail of limewash. The salt prevents the rain washing it off.

Lengthening Blankets

For blankets that are too short to tuck in, machine some strong unbleached calico to one end. Tuck this well under the mattress, and in this way the whole of the blanket may be kept on the bed.

A Hint for Dressmakers

Before covering button-moulds with washing material, boil the moulds. This will prevent the coloring in them coming through, and will save the trouble of recovering every time the dress is washed.

Sticking Stoppers

When decanters are left untouched for a long time the stoppers are very apt to get fast, so that they cannot be removed without the risk of breaking the bottle. This may be easily avoided by wrapping each stopper in paper before putting into the mouth of the decanter.

Soap Scraps

In household use scraps of soap are often thrown away. To prevent this waste, put all together in a tin, add a small quantity of water, and put in the oven to bake. It will form a solid cake. Leave it in the tin till cold, then put a knife round the edge and turn out.

A Refreshing Drink

Put a breakfastcupful of tea into a large jug, add two large lemons cut in slices; sugar to taste, and fill up with water. Stand in a cool place for an hour or two. In hot weather the addition of a piece of ice is an improvement. Any tea left in the teapot can be used, and the lemons will do two or three times.

Second-Hand Furniture

When buying second-hand furniture at a sale, the articles should be well washed with warm water and carbolic acid, in case they have come from a fever-infected house. After washing them inside and out, polish with beeswax and turpentine. If there are any worm-holes, syringe them with paraffin, fill with putty, and then polish.

Don't Throw It Away

Cold coffee should be put into a jug, and keep till washing-day comes along. Then, if you are washing a frock, blouse, or apron made of holland or brown linen, a dash of coffee in the water will fix the color and prevent the garment from looking faded. Brown silk and ribbon should also be washed in coffee, and so should any lace which is at all yellow or ecru in tint.

Washing White Silk

To wash white silk, place in a saucepan of water a handful of bran tied in a muslin bag, a piece of yellow soap cut up, and bring to the boil. oPur the water into a basin to cool, then wash the silk in it. Rub the soiled parts, but do not use any soap. Rinse in cold water. Wrap in a clean, dry towel, without wringing, and put through the wringer. Put it into another dry towel, and again put through the wringer; then press with a moderately hot iron.

Chow Chow

Take one pint of finely-cut celery, two dozen small cucumbers, one quart of small white onions, two cauliflowers, six green peppers, and two quarts of green tomatoes. Cut the vegetables into inch pieces, and place in a stone jar. Make a brine, allowing half a pound of salt to a gallon of water; pour over the vegetables, and allow to stand over night. Next morning place the vegetables in the brine over the fire, and just bring to the boil. In another saucepan put three quarts of vinegar and one pound of sugar. Mix one heaping cupful of flour, half a pound of mustard, half an ounce of tumeric with cold vinegar. When the vinegar boils add the mixture, and cook for two minutes, stirring all the time. Pour hot over the vegetables, and when cool tie down. There is a saving in making this at home.

Take an occasional chance; the sure things are all tied.

Don't depend on the committee; do it yourself.

WEDDING BELLS

EATON—GOLDEY.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at 2.30 o'clock this afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Wolstenholm, 232 Bolivar street, when Miss Grace E. Goldey, of Peterborough, and Mr. Oscar Burton Eaton, of Regina, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. G. W. Henderson.

Those present from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Eaton, parents of the groom, also Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Goldey and Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Goldey. Mr. and Mrs. Eaton left on the 4.28 C.P.R. train for points west. They will reside in Regina.

SAVED FROM SERIOUS INJURY

A ten-year old lad had a narrow escape from being trampled under the feet of a team of horses on Saturday about 3.15 o'clock in the afternoon. The young lad was running across the road at the corner of George and Hunter Streets, when he struck a post at the corner and fell back stunned. Fred Sanderson and John Breen, who were standing at the corner, ran out and rescued him from being trampled upon by the horses and carried him to the pavement. He was in a half unconscious state, and Mr. Sanderson and Mr. Breen secured water. By applying it to his face they brought him to. After walking him up and down Chambers Street, he was sufficiently recovered to proceed on his way.

THE BORDEN TOUR

Toronto Saturday Night

Before the tour was over the grain growers became quite peevish. At first the leaders of the movement were swept into the wave of admiration and appreciation which followed the straightforward pronouncement of Mr. Borden as to his policy on Western problems. But the re-action came and the executive from its Winnipeg headquarters made desperate efforts to prevent the rank and file being stampeded into the anti-reciprocity camp. Resolutions were sent out broadcast, with instructions that they be presented to the Opposition leader on every possible occasion. These resolutions invariably made reciprocity the chief plank in the program of the organized farmers, and neglected the things for which they have have been crying out for years, viz., State ownership of terminal elevators, construction and State operation of the Hudson Bay Railway, State aid of the chilled meat industry, etc. All these things Mr. Borden pledged himself to give, when returned to power, but the leaders of the movement proved that they were willing to sacrifice everything for reciprocity. Thus they pulled every wire. They monopolized a good portion of Mr. Borden's time in many places, and did their level best to make him lose his temper by insinuations that his opposition to reciprocity was not sincere. In this they were unsuccessful. Mr. Borden reasoned with them, courteously and frankly. He showed them the economic and national dangers of reciprocity, and although there is no doubt that he made a great many converts, the hostility of the Winnipeg Moguls, who lead the movement cannot be denied. The great aim of those at the head is to make the farmers believe that they are the most down-trodden people on earth, that the hand of the Eastern manufacturer is at their throats, and that relief for all their imaginary ailments will be found if they take a good swig of this new patent medicine put up by Dr. Laurier. Once the farmer finds he is being used by these politicians at the forefront of the movement, the days of the office-hunters will be numbered. The awakening is at hand.

Hessian Fly in Wheat.

Galt, July 24.—W. V. Longley, who has been employed by the commission of conservation in taking an agricultural survey of parts of Waterloo County, reports that there is considerable Hessian fly in the wheat.

Ontario produces about $17,000,000 worth of fall wheat, and of this amount Waterloo produces about $900,000 worth, so that wheat growing is no small item in the production of Waterloo County farms and it would be a serious matter if steps were not taken to prevent losses.

Another Aviation Record.

Hempstead, L.I., July 24.—Thomas Sopwith, the English aviator, broke the world's record here at the aviation meet Saturday afternoon for landing on a designated point. Sopwith stopped within one foot 5 1-2 inches of his point. The former record of five feet was recently made by a United States army officer, Lieut. D. E. Milling. Later Sopwith won a cross-country flight, carrying a woman passenger, for the first time in racing, it was said. The passenger was Miss Ella Mohr.

Invitation to Laurier.

Montreal, July 24.—A deputation from the Canadian Society of New York, en route for Ottawa to present to the Premier an invitation to be present at the annual dinner of that institution on December 8, passed through this city yesterday. It is expected that President Taft and Ambassador Bryce will also be present on this occasion. The Canadian society this spring had the honor to entertain the President at one of their banquets.

The delegation consisted of T. N. Jarvis, president of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, formerly of Ontario; Dr. J. A. MacIsaac, surgeon in the New York Eye and Ear Hospital, formerly of Nova Scotia; F. ### Tuberculosis Congress.

Rome, July 22.—The central committee has granted the request of the foreign committees for the postponement of the next international congress on tuberculosis from September 15th to the following April.

The official explanation is that the foreign committees considered that September was not a propitious season for the meeting and were further influenced by the fact that the program could not be completed in time.

It had been reported earlier that the postponement was sought because of the prevalence of cholera in Italy. The congress will be held in this city.

MISSIONARIES AS EMPIRE BUILDERS

To Their Influence is Due the Acquisition of Many Large Territories

The expansion of South Africa is largely the work of the missionaries. In Bechuanaland the northern route was for a long time kept open solely by their influence. Some of the earliest roads were known as "Missionary Roads," and many place-names preserve the memory of individuals.

Indirectly the missionaries account for the Transvaal and Orange River Provinces. For though England had to pay $1,000,000,000 for the wa rof conquest, in contrast to the inexpensiveness of missionary labor, it was nevertheless to that latter that the great Boer Trek of 136 was due, which resulted in the founding of the Republics. For had not Dr. Philip been so doughty a champion of the natives, and so trusted an adviser of the Government, the Boers would never have moved out.

Some Great Scotsmen

Of the great achievements of Livingstone it is unnecessary to speak; but we must not forget that they opened the country to successive incursions of Englishmen, and that John Mackenzie, the missionary, was one of the first to follow him. It was Mackenzie who saved the native states from extinction by the Boers, and, as Deputy-Commissioner of Bechuanaland, helped to found that province. It has been said that if his advice had been taken the Boer War would have been averted. The Moffat Treaty of 1888 with the Matabeles laid the foundation of Rhodesia for Britain. Yet that treaty was the work of a missionary, the Rev. J. S. Moffat, son of the famous Dr. Moffat.

Basutoland, the Switzerland of South Africa, Britain owes to a French missionary, Coillard of the Zambesi. Moshesh, the able Basuto chief, governed with a Cabinet of French missionaries.

Listen to Rhodes and Stead

Barotseland also, now known as North-West Rhodesia, is due to French Missionaries. Though it is as big as the German Empire it did not cost a single life. Coillard advised Lewanika, the king, to put himself under the protection of some European nation, and with great disinterestedness recommended the British. Convinced by past experience of the good judgment of the missionary, Lewanika agreed, and in consequence his country became a British Protectorate in 1890.

North-East Rhodesia, again, Britain owes to Stewart of Lovedale. By his exploration of the Chire country he supplied Lord Salisbury with the information on which he formed the British Central Africa Protectorate. By the founding of Livingstonia he did much more still to establish British authority there. It was only just in time to anticipate the great partition of the Continent, and to resist the Portuguese claim to the Nyassa region as well. As Cecil Rhodes once said: "We owe all Rhodesia to you Scotch missionaries." Or, as Stead more dramatically put it, "The frontier has advanced on the stepping-stones of missionary graves."

ELECTRICITY ON OLYMPIC

Power Plant on Modern Steamer is No Small Affair

The electrical power plant of a modern transatlantic steamer is no small installation. The steamer "Olympic" is to be provided with four units generating 2,144 horse-power. This power will be employed in lighting the vessel and for radiators in the first-class quarters; for cooking purposes, for operating various machines, cranes, wiches, etc., and for running two passenger elevators and eight freight elevators. The lighting system will total 100,000 candle-power. At present, while being fitted up, the vessel is furnished with electric light and power from a 320-kilowatt plant on a tug moored alongside. The tug is also provided with a steam fire-pump for use in case of emergency.

FORTY MILES A DAY

Archdeacon Sinclair Has Taken Many a Long Walk

It was a London policeman who, referring to the splendid physique of Dr. Sinclair, Archdeacon of London, whose forthcoming retirement has been announced, said, "He ought to be one of us." Dr Sinclair stands considerably over 6 feet in height, and is broad in proportion. His father was one of fifteen children, the shortest of whom was 6 feet in height and the tallest 6 feet 7 inches. One day the tallest of the Archdeacon's aunts was accosted by an Irish beggar woman, who invoked blessings on her head in the hope of alms. Finding her blandishments in vain, the woman changed her tone, and exclaimed, "At least ye might give me your shoe to make a cradle for my baby." In his days of greater leisure, Dr. Sinclair used to ride a good deal and cycle—he once cycled from London to Thurso, 730 miles—and he has tramped his forty miles a day for several days in succession, and even slept out on a moor in Scotland after such a walk.

A ROYAL PREACHER

Prince Max, brother of the King of Saxony, whose writings have aroused much criticism of late, will be favorably remembered by many. About a dozen years ago he was a devoted worker among the poor of Whitechapel, where his mission sermons drew large congregations to the German Church. Subsequently he won wide popularity in Paris, and all the religious rank and fashion of the French capital flocked to hear his sermons.

Some people are so timid that they are never impudent except to friends.

INDIVIDUALITY

The lady or gentleman who thinks, accentuates their individuality of character and personal appearance.

When Eye Glasses are required there is individuality in the facial features, which requires special shapes, styles of lenses and mountings.

Eye Glasses which enhance the appearance of one face would be unbecoming to another. Eye Glasses, like artificial teeth, must be built to fit the features.

Patrons of the Optical Institute frequently remark that there is individuality in our Eye Glasses because they "grace the face," "fit the features," and "please the wearer."

When you think of Eye Glasses think of—

BRITISH PRIME MINISTER WAS NOT ALLOWED TO SPEAK

Was Howled Down in Tumultuous Scene in House of Commons.

London, July 25.—The last act of the Parliamentary revolution was ushered in yesterday with a revolutionary scene. For the first time in its history the House of Commons refused to listen to a speech by the Prime Minister. For the first time in its history the Speaker of the House was compelled to invoke the rule which empowers him "in the case of grave disorder" to declare the sitting adjourned on his own responsibility.

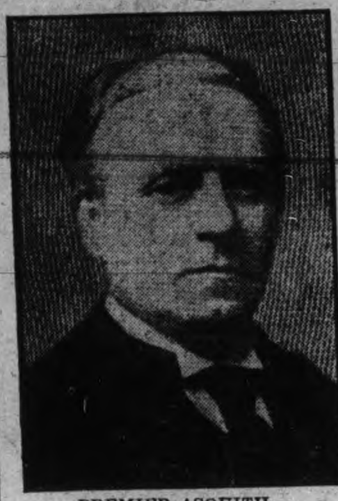
No such hostile passions have been given free rein in a chamber which traditionally carries on its debates with chivalrous courtesy, since the stormy days of the Gladstone home rule bills.

During the three-quarters of an hour Mr. Asquith rose at short intervals and read a sentence or two from a manuscript, only to be overwhelmed by jeers, hootings and cries, among which "traitor" was the most frequent, but with "Redmond," "Patrick Ford" and "American dollars" often distinguishable.

Again and again the Prime Minister tried to speak, but his voice was drowned in the whirlwind. He gave utterance to a few broken sentences, a word or two of which could be heard. Finally his mouth hardened and he glared at his tormentors like a lion at bay—an impressive figure with straight cut features flushed with anger and heavy gray hair. He closed his manuscript and cried: "I am not going to degrade myself. I shall simply state the conclusion at which the Government has arived."

Having announced the Government's intentions as briefly and hurriedly as possible—although they were not heard—the Premier sank back into his seat.

The leaders in the outburst against the Prime Minister were Lord Hugh Cecil, an intensely unpopular member of one of the most patrician families, and a young barrister, F. E. Smith, who recently achieved prominence in the Conservative party. The former kept up a constant fire of cries, and the Labor member, Will Crooks, in rough clothes and slouch hat, sitting across the aisle, several times jumped up as though about to assault him, but was pulled back by a friendly hand.



PREMIER ASQUITH.

He was unable to make speech in the House of Commons.

The Speaker's pleadings to "observe the decencies of debate," were drowned in the tumult. The wonder was that the crowded House did not come to blows, but the belligerent members were often pulled down by their neighbors. The political hatred engendered by the bill made the session memorable to many. So violent were the Opposition members and so indignant were the Ministerialists that the Speaker, after two hours, decided to suspend the sitting in order to obviate graver disorders.

The members dispersed amid a scene of violent excitement, toots or "Traitor," "Coward," following the Prime Minister as he departed, to which the Ministerialists hurled back cries of "You're beaten," "We will win."

Mr. Asquith last night issued to the newspapers a summary of the speech. In the speech he contended that the principles of the machinery of the bill had been before the people at two elections. By no form of referendum devisable could the opinion of the electorate have been more carefully ascertained.

SHORTAGE OF FOOD

Car Billed for Porcupine Sufferers Went Astray

Toronto, July 25.—Chairman J. L. Englehart of the T. & N. O. Commission intends to leave for Porcupine to-morrow to make a thorough investigation of the whole situation there at present. During the past few days reports have come to hand of some conflict over the administration of the relief funds to the fire sufferers, and food has not been as plentiful as either the people themselves or the committees in charge of the distribution of supplies would have liked.

There is now, however, enough food in reserve to last until Saturday, according to R. S. Gourlay.

Considerable delay has been caused during the past week in the delivery of supplies into Porcupine and some members of the northern relief committee were dissatisfied and placed the blame on the Toronto officials. One carload of supplies for fire sufferers unfortunately was taken to Montreal by the C.P.R. and its whereabouts caused much anxiety, as the people were daily looking for its arrival at Porcupine.

"It was an accident," said Chairman Englehart yesterday. "The car simply got mixed in with a C.P.R. train instead of with the G.T.R., as was intended. Accidents will happen no matter how much care is taken."

Canada's Vote Decides.

London, July 25.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Pall Mall Gazette says nobody who has taken a broad view of the reciprocity agreement could ever have expected the United States of America not to welcome it on farsighted grounds since it so manifestly makes directly for ultimate dominance of the entire American continent by the States.

The vote of the Canadian people will really decide whether Canada's future is to be mainly Imperial or American entirely.

The Evening Standard says J. J. Hill and other American politicians openly confess that their desire for reciprocity is prompted by wish to thwart British Imperial federation. Some go further and say reciprocity can only end in annexation. One thing is certain that the preference now given British manufacturers in Canada will not benefit.

THREE YACHTS IN BIG LAKE RACE MET WITH DISASTER

Two Are Aground and it is Feared Third May be Lost, With Crew.

Mackinac Island, Mich., July 25.—Of the 11 yachts that left Chicago on Saturday in the Chicago-Mackinac race, five are anchored in the harbor here, three have put in for shelter at different ports along Lake Michigan, one is wrecked on Beaver Island, one lies on Mission Point and another has not been heard from since Sunday. This is the result of a storm which reached its height between 5 and 6 o'clock yesterday morning, after blowing a gale all day Sunday.

The winner of the race, the sloop Mavourneen, shortly after capturing the Mackinac Cup, dragged her anchor and now lies pounding to pieces on the beach. She was released once by the Valmore, but went ashore again and although lines were got to her three times, they have broken. A tug has been summoned from Cheboygan and until it arrives the Mavourneen is helpless.

Grave fears are felt for the safety of the Illinois, nothing have been heard from her since Sunday morning, when the Mavourneen passed her. The Valmore arrived at 5.04.53 yesterday morning and was followed at 6.50 by James O. Heyworth's Polaris.

The Juniata is at Charlevoix, where she put in for the night. The sloop Veneedor is aground on Fisherman's Island in the Beavers. The Capsicum is reported at Frankfort. The sloop Prairie arrived here at 10.12 yesterday forenoon and the Iroquois is reported in shelter at South Manitou. The Amorita and the Shark were the first to arrive Sunday night.

To Accept Britain's Advice.

New York, July 25.—A cable from Constantinople says:—

An important British communication has arrived in Turkey, through the Turkish ambassador in London. It states the British views concerning the Albania and the Macedonia question, and there is friendly advice to moderate the proceedings and to apply conciliatory methods in order to avoid Balkan complications. Although Turkey had determined from the outset to reject foreign interference, the British communication is so circumspect and so friendly that Turkey has decided to follow the advice offered.

Sheffek Mahmoud Pasha and his party are disposed to prolong for a month the amnesty offered to Albanian insurgents.

SITUATION IS CRITICAL

Speedy Settlement of Western Coal Strike Hoped For

Macleod, Alta., July 25.—Delegates to settle the coal strike, which has utterly destroyed business over a wide area for six months, are in Macleod to-day. Both sides to the dispute are present and presidents of Boards of Trade of British Columbia and Alberta represent the people.

The fuel situation could not be much worse on the prairie where there is no wood to burn. President Barclay, Vice-President Pollock, Secretary Moffatt and other delegates are attending the meeting.

All delegates are anxious to see a settlement. The Crow's Nest towns are suffering from lack of business, and the closing down of the enormous payroll has completely demoralized business. The prairie towns fear the prospects of a coal shortage, thus common cause will be made in an effort to get the mines reopened and also to arrange for securing a supply from outside points.

No expression of feeling is given by local delegates as to the advisability of the abolition of the duty as advocated by boards. Private parties along the Pass think it would be a good thing as tending to bring both parties to time.

Should Have Constabulary.

Montreal, July 25.—Inspector Leslie-Jennings of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police arrived in Montreal yeserday, in advance of the mounted police contingent which attended the coronation, and which is coming back on the Allan liner Corinthian.

He said that all the men and horses were returning in excellent health. The contingent had greatly enjoyed its visit to the old country, and had been much pleased by the attentions showered upon it. The men were especially flattered by invitations to furnish an advance personal escort to the King on the occasion of his progress through North London to Guildhall and to furnish a guard of honor to Her Royal Highness the Princess Louise.

FRESH FIRES BREAK OUT

Special to the Review.

Constantinople, July 25.—Incendiary fires continued to-day and the whole garrison has been ordered out to patrol the city. The conflagration of the two days made twenty thousand people homeless.

Fernie Merchant's Romance.

New York, July 25.—Coming from the opposite ends of the world to meet in Brooklyn to wed, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. Kennedy are now at Niagara Falls on their honeymoon.

Kennedy is a lumber merchant in Fernie, B.C. Two years ago he went to Ireland on a business trip, and met Miss Kathleen M. Conway of Maynora Castle, Comer County, Kilkenny.

They corresponded, became engaged, and it was arranged that they should meet at the home of Miss Conway's sister.

To Be Largest of Ships.

London, July 25.—The plans for the new steamer Aquitania, which the Cunard Co. is building at Clydebank, have been modified to make the vessel the largest in the world.

Her length will exceed 900 feet and be ten feet greater than the length of the 50,000 ton liner Imperator, which the Hamburg-American line will put into service in the spring of 1913. It is also stated that the Aquitania will be one knot faster than her German rival.

The original specifications called for a length of 885 feet and a speed of 23 knots an hour. She will accommodate 4,000 passengers.

Would Investigate Penitentiary.

Kingston, July 25.—The Kingston Standard is calling for a royal commission to investigate the penitentiary, in view of statements as to its mismanagement. It wants a commission to be non-partisan, and to have full power not only to compel the attendance of witnesses, but to question them under oath. It says there are too many disquieting stories hereabouts to be pleasing.

CLAIM AGAINST CHOCOLATE KING

In Connection With Island of Anticoste he Bought

Montreal, July 25.—A claim for $40,000,000 will be made inside a month against the millionaire French Chocolate King, Henry Menier, who bought the Island of Anticosti a few years ago.

A family named Lemieux, of whom there are sixty or seventy members, claim to have clear title, and also to have the deeds in their possession. It is said that Menier bought the island from a man named Parent, who claimed to own the island, but had no deeds, and the sale was at Menier's risk. Tancrede Pagnuelo, lawyer, is in Paris to-day in connection with the case, and will enter the case on his return during the first week of August.

LAURIER AND FIELDING ARE DRIVEN INTO MAKING REPLY

Opposition Leader Rejects Charge of Obstruction—Repeats Offer to Give Government Till March to Make Redistribution.

Ottawa, July 25.—Yesterday's debate on reciprocity in the House was memorable, because both Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Fielding took the floor in defence of the pact, charging the Opposition with obstruction and a desire to postpone an appeal to the people. Mr. Borden came right back at the Premier with a reference to his change of front from the days when he was in opposition.

W. F. Maclean (South York), who followed Mr. Fielding, declared that the agreement was "not reciprocity but a revolution." For the first time in the history of Canada had the President of the United States been admitted to the councils of the Dominion and allowed to dictate her tariff. It was Canada's national humiliation.

The reciprocity discussion was precipitated by W. S. Middlebro (North Grey), who, commenting on an article in The Toronto Globe charging the Opposition with obstruction, said that there was evidently a conspiracy to misrepresent the attitude of the Opposition. There was no doubt in his mind that the Government had found itself between the devil and the deep sea, and had intended for some time past to go to the country. The object of keeping Parliament in session at the present time was simply to endeavor to place the blame of going to the country before redistribution on the Conservatives. Mr. Fielding had said that every member of the Opposition would be given an opportunity of expressing his views, and yet at the present time, when 55 Opposition members had not spoken, they were charged with obstruction.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier replied: "My hon. friend rose for the purpose of trying to convince this House and the country at large that the Opposition is not obstructing the business of the Government and is not obstructing the reciprocity agreement, which has been before this House since Jan. 26 last. However, he had not proceeded very far before he gave away his whole case. He protests that the Opposition is not obstructing, yet at the same time he says, 'Let reciprocity wait.' If he is not obstructing, why should not reciprocity go on? That is what we on this side of the House want. We do not want reciprocity to wait. The hon. gentleman opposite told us what we already knew, and I thank him for being so candid in the statement, that we did not want reciprocity to go through, but wanted it to wait, and that they are trying to-day in this House to prevent it from going on."

"If the hon. gentlemen wish to prevent an election, let us go on with the reciprocity agreement, and there will be no election. I have nothing to hide in this matter. I will speak to the House with perfect candor. When I saw the evidences of obstruction taking place in this House day after day—(cries of no, no)—when I read the reports of the speeches made here while I was in England, and when I learned that the leader of the Opposition was making a triumphal tour of the country.

"We are before the people, and if Government is to be made a farce, if the minority abuses the privileges of a minority in order to prevent progress, there are judges over us to decide between the Government and the Opposition. Surely these hon. gentlemen do not object to an election, and when we tell them that we do not object they cheer, but when we take steps to have an election they find fault. But we understand all this. The last thing they want is to go before the country. Well, there is one way in which it is possible to avoid going to the country, and that is to pass this agreement, so that the farmers of Canada may have the market of the United States open to their products. That is our position."

As to redistribution Sir Wilfrid said that there was not time for it. It would come next year.

R. L. Borden answered the Premier. "The Prime Minister is pressing for a vote in the House. Well, we are pressing for a vote in the country, a vote of the people. The right hon. gentleman who professes himself to be a Liberal of the British school, a democrat to the hilt, is unwilling to give that vote except at the sacrifice of redistribution."

Mr. Borden repeated his offer of the sixth of March to take the census, give the west its increased representation and then submit the question to the people of Canada.

The Prime Minister knows very well what the actual situation is. He knows perfectly well that he and his colleagues made a careful estimate of this situation weeks and months ago, as to how they would stand without re-distribution. Taking everything into consideration, they decided that it would be a prudent thing to appeal to the country without re-distribution. When the right hon. gentleman talks about obstruction, I would like to remind him of some occasions when he did not entertain exactly the same views when he spoke of the minority abusing its right. What did he do with the minority when he was a member of it in 1885? I venture to say that that minority was abusing its right very much more than the minority had abused its rights during the present session. What does he think of the course he took in 1896?

Mr. Fielding was quickly on his feet to reply to the leader of the Opposition. For six months the Opposition had been shouting that what they wanted above everything on earth was an appeal to the people, and if there was anything they had made clear, if there was anything on earth they did not want it was an appeal to the people.

An interruption occurred at this point and Mr. Cowan (Vancouver) called: "Take it back." The Minister of Finance wanted to know what he would take back.

"The Minister of Finance has never heard one word from this side of the House or from any Conservative newspaper to indicate that we were fearful of going before the people."

Considerable wrangling followed, and the incident passed with Opposition cries: "Bring it on, why don't you bring it on?" referring to the election.

"And I say," went on the Minister, "that the hon. gentlemen opposite are doing their utmost to prevent this Government of doing any business, and the business of this Government, is to give the country reciprocity, and in due course to give the country redistribution, and the hon. gentlemen by the action they are taking are doing their best to prevent our giving either the one or the other."

In conclusion, Mr. Fielding demurred at the suggestion of Mr. Lancaster that a constitutional principle had been violated, and told Col. Hughes that the delegation to Washington last year did not bind the Canadian Parliament.

"SPEED KING" BURMAN AFTER NEW RECORDS.

BURMAN

"Bob" Burman, world's speed king, wishes to establish a new record. Two months ago Burman made an unofficial record at the Motor Parkway, Long Island, when he guided the National stock car a half mile at a speed of more than seventy miles an hour, but as this trial was not officially timed the record could not be allowed. He is now anxious to make a trial on August 4, just before the start of the twenty-four hour race at the Brighton Beach Motordrome, to establish a record for "night riding."

SEPTEMBER ELECTION

Is the Belief Now Expressed at Ottawa

Special to the Review.

Ottawa, July 25.—As a result of Liberal caucases held this morning it is believed that the dissolution of the House will take place within the next ten days, and that an election will be brought on about the middle of September.

FIGHTS TO LEAVE THE ASYLUM

Montreal, July 25.—A determined fight for liberty was started yesterday by Justin McDougald, son of A. W. McDougald, a wealthy club man.

He helped out George O. Hayes and wife when they met with financial reverses, and later met Mrs. Hayes, who was an exceedingly pretty Austrian girl, in New York. Divorce proceedings followed, and when he came home a few weeks ago he was put in St. Joseph's Asylum at Longue Pointe. His friends engaged a lawyer, who was not allowed to see his client, and yesterday when the case was called, the brothers were not on hand with the young man. They have to produce him to-morrow.

Appointed Lieutenant-Governor.

Ottawa, July 25.—The appointment of D. C. Cameron, of Winnipeg, to be Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba, in succession to Sir Daniel McMillan, has been put through by Order-in-Council.

NOT GETTING SQUARE DEAL

Porcupine Relief Committee make Their Complaints

Only Get Seven of the Fifty Thousand Dollar Fund

Special To The Review

Toronto, July 25.—Cyril T. Young with two other members of the Porcupine Relief Committee, arrived here this morning to confer with committee appointed here to discuss the situation in the north. They complain that Porcupine did not get its proper share of the supplies sent up and also say that the first car of provisions and other articles sent by the Toronto committee took eleven days to reach its destination. The town of Cochrane received better treatment they say, and Porcupine had only got seven thousand dollars out of the fifty thousand dollar fund which had been raised.

Car Bumped Station.

Montreal, July 25.—John Lambert, of Guelph, Ont., and Katie Blackwell, four years of age, were injured on Sunday afternoon when one of the surface cars of the Mount Royal Park incline railway bumped the station at the foot of Fletcher's Field. Lambert escaped with a severe injury to his right knee, but the child sustained a fracture of the left thigh.

Lambert and the little girl were removed to the Royal Victoria Hospital in an ambulance, but the man was not seriously injured enough to remain in the hospital. The accident was due to the car being allowed to go a few inches too far.

Britain Alive to Situation.

London, July 25.—Thomas McKinnon Wood, Under Secretary for the Foreign Office, in reply to a question in the House of Commons yesterday, said the Government was fully alive to the German occupation of Agadir.

Germany's occupation of the port has caused a serious situation, and Mr. Wood stated that the Government would not lose any opportunity to urge its views upon the powers which were signatory to the Algeciras convention.

One of the reports in circulation to-day was to the effect that Germany had declared war on France.

$400,000 FOR STATUE OF GOLD

Quebec, July 24.—News comes from New York that the French-Canadian Catholic colony of New York has formed a society to provide $400,000 for the erection of a gold statue of St. Anne, which will be donated to the monastery at the shrine of St. Ann de Beaupre, near Quebec. The statue will be eight feet high, of fourteen karat gold, with a pedestal of carrara marble.

Thousands of doctors and patients have been disappointed by using stomach medicines for coughs and colds. Have you not found it a rather roundabout way to reach the diseased portion of the throat and lungs?

Why not use Catarrhozone, which is breathed to the very root of the disease and heals so quickly and perfectly that every spot is rebuilt with new healthy tissue?

ROTTEN FINANCE

The Farmers' Bank business will not down. It has been shown that Finance Minister Fielding got formal legal notice that fraud and misrepresentation was charged in the securing of subscriptions to the stock, before the certificate was granted. The men who refused to take their allotments however, in learning of the fraud, were speedily settled and hushed up when the matter was threatened with publicity. Even the Toronto Globe admits that Fielding was deceived, and says that it is quite evident now that the bank was founded in fraud. And the evidence points to the knowledge by the department of finance that the fraud was there, a guilty knowledge that should have prevented the issuance of the certificate, and did not, owing to some strange fatality.

If the farmers of this county, who undoubtedly have a strong feeling of sympathy for the farmers of Halton and other places who have lost the hard-earned wealth of a life time, vote for Fielding and his "mistake" they are allowing party sentiment to run to bounds exceeding good sense. The Farmers' Bank blunder is one of the greatest of the Laurier administrations many mischievous errors, and the fact that there seems to be considerable behind the scenes that cannot be probed out, is worthy of special consideration. Every man whom the public can reach by its voting power, who is in anyway responsible for the Farmers' Bank fiasco, should get the axe. There is too much rotten high finance in Canada now.

A POWER FIGHT

The Cataract Power Company has been waging a bitter fight in Hamilton against the introduction of hydro-power for a street lighting system. The methods used by the company are very interesting, demonstrating the tremendous resources which can be brought into play if necessary by a big corporation. On Saturday night in Hamilton the company gave a free exhibition of moving pictures on one of the main streets, attracting a tremendous crowd, and, of course, using the opportunity to put a few anti-hydro arguments on canvas. The campaign arguments have been put with an energy with which a political campaign couldn't compare. Undoubtedly in Hamilton the introduction of hydro power, and even the fact that the transmission line passed Hamilton's doors, has had a great influence in curbing and controlling the company, which is one of the oldest in Canada, and very favorably situated. If the citizens will defeat the by-law, the present company will build street car extensions; and it promises almost anything except to cut its rates to the point which it is expected the hydro system will offer.

One of the interesting arguments used—and one that would be undoubtedly used in Peterborough if the cheap power movement gets as far as an actual vote by the people—is that the people's taxes will be greatly increased by this $500,000 expenditure; that the general citizen will have to pay heavily to afford some others lighting and power below a fair margin over cost. That is scarcely a fair way of putting the matter, but many people do not stop to really consider the situation. Even if the cost greatly exceeds the estimated $500,000 it by no means follows that the citizens will be called on to pay the full interest and sinking fund charges out of their yearly taxs. They might be called on to pay any deficit arising in the operation of the system—which might be great or small according to management, and prices—but assuredly, if the commission sets a price on power and house lighting sufficient to provide enough income, the citizens will not be out of pocket, but in pocket as the result of what will probably be cheaper rates. The weak point of the hydro situation seems to be this: the commissioners will not announce what rates they intend to put in force. This leaves it a possibility that after authorizing the expenditure of the half million to get the system installed, the rate would not be sufficiently low to make the venture worth while. The presence of a municipal competitive system might have a salutary effect on the prices of the private corporation, and in this way offer a great advantage to the power users, but after all, where a company gives good service at reasonable rates, the expenditure of over half a million dollars in a lump sum is something worth while pondering over.

With cheap and deadly competition from the Cataract Company, the city system will most certainly, if installed, have a hard time forcing an entrance into the field, especially if the rates on a small consumption are fixed so as to cover the annual charges—which rates would, with, say 1,000 h.p. in use—be prohibitive. It looks as if, in order to make a successful debut, with a small quantity used, the hydro rates will be much below cost, and that the deficit will be made up out of taxes. Thus the Cataract's contention is really justified, to all appearances.

READY TO WIN

The Montreal Gazette says in speaking of the West Peterborough political situation, and the revolution in opposition to reciprocity passed here at the convention.

The Conservatives of West Peterborough, while nominating Mr. J. H. Burnham as their candidate for the parliamentary elections, put themselves on record in firm opposition to reciprocity with the United States on national, economic and imperial grounds, and expressed hearty approbation of the policy of Mr. Borden and his colleagues in resisting to the last the adoption of the bill to give effect to the agreement which Mr. Fielding made at Washington. West Peterborough is one of the constituencies held by the Liberals, having been carried in 1908 by Mr. Stratton, of Ross Government memory. It is noted that the Conservatives are confident of regaining it when polling day comes and expect to accomplish the task by a straightforward appeal to the voters on the main issue the Government has raised. In this, too, they are in agreement with their fellows in other constituencies. Some Liberals, holding views like Mr. German, M.P., Mr. Sealey, M.P., and Mr. Harris M.P., have hesitated to go with their party on the reciprocity question. No outstanding Conservative has weakened in face of the Government party's boasts or threats. Moreover, the Conservatives are nominating their men and carrying on their campaign in the strongest centres of Liberalism in the province. In the Oxford constituencies where the Liberal nomination used to be equivalent to an election, and the Perths, which were hardly less pronounced for the old clear Grit ideas, the Conservatives have nominated candidates or made their preparations therefor. This is not the time for putting up men to keep constituencies from going by default. The nominees are in the field in the belief that they can win, which is often an important influence in making success sure. And so it is throughout the province. An influence in creating confidence is the Conservative press, whose strong argument, kept up steadily as the varying phases of the issues present themselves, must be having a solidyfying effect on the opinion of the electorate. Ontario, with its eighty-six members, sends to Ottaw amore than a third of the representatives in the House of Commons. When its public sentiment is strongly one way, as it seems to be now, those who are in the minority of its people have a heavy handicap to overcome before they can win in the rest of the country.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The United States senate has of course, passed the reciprocity bill. The American legislative body that wouldn't make such a good bargain (for the U S.) when there is a Laurier ready to help, doesn't exist.

In the ferreting out of the details of the Chinese immigration scandal, involving many of the high government officials, is obstruction, it is in the country's interest that the opposition should "obstruct" every day of the session.

Laurier is afraid of the effect of redistribution, since Manitoba and British Columbia, which will receive more than half of the to-be-created western seats, and of course, will return Conservatives. An appeal to the country, with "obstruction" the battle cry, would seem to be Grit game now.

THE MARKETS

Latest Quotations in Grain, Dairy Products, Live Stock Etc.

LIVERPOOL, July 24.—The market opened steady and unchanged. The firmness in America on Saturday was offset by larger world's shipments to the United Kingdom. Following the opening there was some disposition to support with offers slightly smaller, but realizing in a small way carried a dull market lower on rumors that the outlook for the India monsoon is more favorable. A slight recovery again took place just before noon, but the general demand was small. The market was narrow, but nervous, awaiting the effect of the reciprocity on values.

There was no word of explanation beyond this insulting doggerel, and he was careful not to give his address. He chuckled as he put it in the letter box. At times he was a little uneasy lest she should seek to discover his whereabouts for the purpose of making a claim for support, but as the weeks wore on and nothing was heard from her be became reassured.

He had had little difficulty in procuring work, thanks to Captain Williams' note accepting his resignation, and soon was established as assistant to the receiving teller in a bank with a salary of $25 a week. With this and the money already in his possession he deemed himself rich, and his fitful optimism obtained the ascendency once more in its usual extravagant form. But his escape from arrest had been a lesson that had sunk in deeply. He vowed never again under any circumstances to "borrow" from the funds he handled in the course of his duties. He eschewed horse racing also, knowing that if the bank officials became aware that he was gambling he would lose his place that very instant.

After awhile his fellow employees noticed that Brooks, the spry, genial Brooks, who had won the good will of everybody, as he had in the general office of the Latin-American Steamship company, manifested a tendency toward moroseness; that his face at times assumed an expression of melancholy. Despite his love of self, he was of those natures which do not thrive in solitude.

He never had cared much for the companionship of men. His inclination always had been toward that of the opposite sex. Accustomed also as he had been for so long to the consolations of home life, to the thoughtful, affectionate ministrations and bright presence of Emma, he was bound sooner or later to miss her.

"There's nothing in this living alone."

The avowal came one night after he had spent an evening at the theater with two sociable fellow clerks and he gazed around his silent, cheerless bedroom. Although he had not at any time loved Emma with that ineffable passion which is the golden ladder upon which the soul mounts to heaven, yet she had filled a larger place in his heart than he had ever had any complete idea of prior to her absence. His sentiment, fostered by his selfishness, revived with violence under his introspection. He yearned for Emma's smile of greeting and the kiss that accompanied it at his homecoming, for the numberless sweet attentions she had lavished upon him.

How pretty she was, how gentle! How sweetly she had put up with his ill humor! She was different from any of the girls and women he had ever been acquainted with. He was sorry he had sent the photograph, not alone because he felt that he had made gratuitously a false move, but because he wished he had kept it for himself. There was not one personal object remaining that had belonged to her. The little ornaments she had liked, her clothes, the trinkets she had left behind, he had disposed of in his haste to get rid of everything that could recall her or to which she might lay claim.

He wondered if she, too, was sorry for their separation. She must be. How could she live under the eternal nagging and fault finding of her mother and the lording proclivities of Beth and not long to return to the independence of her own home?

She had loved him. His memory evoked the distant vision of her frail, lithe form clinging to him as she gazed up into his eyes, her own aglow with the glory of her adoration and its delirious intensity. He felt the blissful pulsations of her heart throbbing against him, its paean of passion; he heard, too, in fancy the red lips murmur her soul's ecstasy in words of flame and beauty, felt the thrill that shivered through him as his fingers threaded caressingly the shimmering cloud of her tresses. That was long ago in their early possession of each other, when she had awakened to knowledge of herself and had worshiped him as a god, fountainhead of joy and light for her on earth.

This transcendent passion had not found in him the responsiveness it craved and which alone could nourish it. Emma had been an enigma to him often, a riddle that had bored him at times. His blunted senses, sharpened by desire of her, perceived that stupidly, ignorantly, he had disdained a treasure beyond price.

But, remembering what he had been to her and that she was still his wife, he believed that a reconciliation could be brought about. Sentiment and desire took counsel with advisability; selfishness weighed the pros and cons. In the end sentiment and desire, being the stronger, adjusted objections to their own point of view. But even then it was some time before he could summon up courage enough to take any steps in the matter.

Summer had given place to winter and returned again since Emma had left him. In all that time he had not heard from or of her. He had made no attempt to see Jimsy Smith or any of his former friends and associates.

Now he bent his thoughts upon how best to effect the rapprochement. Should he write Emma, expressing his contrition and begging her forgiveness? His pride stiffened at this proposition. Should he write and request an interview with her? If he could see her he believed he would have little trouble in persuading her. But, counseled by her hateful mother, who always had despised him, she might refuse to see him. Perhaps the best way would be to approach her through some one else. The only person he knew of who by any possibility could act as intermediary was Jimsy Smith, the general utility man.

Requisitioning Jimsy's services did not appeal to him. He had long been jealous of his prosperity and of the fact that he had once been a suitor for Emma's hand, although jealousy on account of the latter circumstance was rather the outcome of envy of his success in business. Nevertheless Jimsy was indispensable, and the more Brooks realized this the higher became the degree of favor to which he restored him. It had been bad policy not to keep in touch with Jimsy, a serious mistake. Smith, however, was such an "easy," obliging, warm hearted fellow that there would be no difficulty in squaring things with him and getting him to act as go-between.

He resolved to call on Jimsy.

CHAPTER XIX.

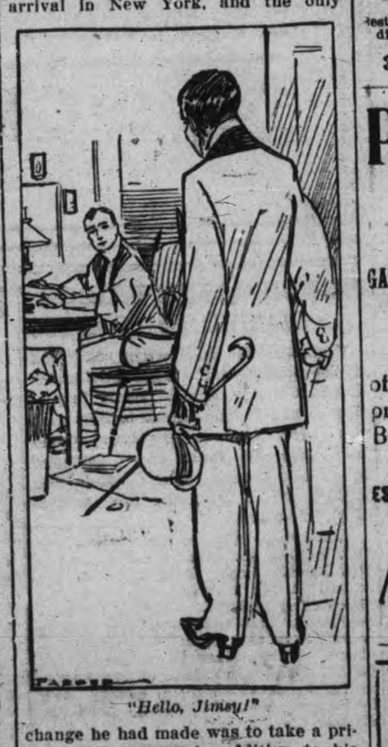
DESTINY is a strange thing. Under many a quiet exterior smolder fires of volcanic passion that never are fanned into activity because the essential puff of cause has never stirred them. Jimsy Smith had had conceptions of comfort and life on a large scale that he had never attempted to carry out for the reason that the one thing upon which they were based, the one incentive, was lacking—a wife. Given wealth and a woman responsive in the same degree to the profound devotion and large ideas of which he was capable, Smith might have developed into a magnificent nabob, a great statesman or a great "captain of industry," certainly into a great and wise philanthropist. Given such a woman as an inspiration, he might with his strength of mind and self control have won from nothing to a position that would have enabled him to live in some accord with the aspirations that once had illumined his day dreaming.

As it was, he had banished day dreaming from his plan of existence. He had fixed a rigid line of demarcation between right and wrong for the governance of his own conduct that he never permitted himself to overstep, but the failings of others he was prone to condone and ever was ready to stretch forth a hand and help a weakling to set himself straight.

Jimsy occupied two furnished rooms in a small, quiet boarding house. He had lived in the place ever since his arrival in New York, and the only change he had made was to take a private sitting room in addition to his bedroom when his means admitted of it.



"Hello, Jimsy!"

It was here that Brooks found him when late one evening he called there. Jimsy, cigar in mouth, was working at some plans and figures in the light of a reading lamp when Brooks opened the door. He looked up from the table with no evidence of surprise as his visitor entered.

"Hello, Jimsy!"

"Hello!"

Smith might have expected him and regarded his presence as an ordinary thing for all the tone of his response to the salutation indicated.

"How have you been all this time?"

"About as usual. How have you been getting on? Take a chair, won't you?"

He did not see the hand that Brooks extended for the reason that he was rolling up the plans that had been stretched before him.

New Bank Delayed.

Ottawa, July 25.—Owing to an informality in the organization of the Banque Internationale of Montreal, the proceedings will have to be all gone over again, and the bank will not be able to open its doors for business for nearly a month. One of the Paris financiers who was elected a director could not qualify because he was not personally a shareholder—though the subscription for a large number of shares was made in the name of his firm. The Minister of Finance has given this ruling.

DON'T FOOL WITH YOUR LIVER
MAKE IT ACTIVE AND HEALTHY WITH "FRUIT-A-TIVES"
Don't treat the Liver with common purgatives. Salts, senna, calomel and the host of "liver pills" do not act on the liver at all. They merely irritate the bowels.
"Fruit-a-tives" will cure Biliousness and Torpid Liver because this famous fruit medicine acts directly on the liver.
"Fruit-a-tives" corrects Indigestion and Constipation—not by inflaming the bowels like common purgatives, but by making the liver active and healthy.
"Fruit-a-tives" is the greatest liver medicine in the world, and is the only medicine made of fruit juices.

PRIZE LIST FOR PETERBORO INDUSTRIAL NOW READY

Dates are September 14, 15 and 16, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The prize-list for the ninth Peterborough Industrial Exhibition has just been issued and is considered to be one of the best and most comprehensive ever put out. It is in the form of an eighty-page booklet, nicely arranged and tabulated with a view to convenient reference and includes all kinds of valuable information for the benefit of exhibition enthusiasts. The rules and regulations of the fair, the names of the officers and directors and the various committees and the classes of exhibits with the prizes are all arranged in a ready reference order.

The exhibition will be held on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Sept. 14th, 15th and 16th, and the amount of premiums is $3,500. Special arrangements have been made with the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific Railway companies for railway fares to the exhibition, and reduced rates will be allowed by the navigation companies on the lakes north of Bridgenorth and Lakefield and on the Otonabee river.

The rules and regulations for the exhibition are practically identical with those of previous years. Exhibitors on bringing their exhibits to the grounds will be passed in free by showing their entry tickets. All entries are required to be in by noon on September 13th. Members of the press are cordially invited to the exhibition and ample accommodation will be provided for them.

The stock-judging competition for Peterborough young men under 30 years, promises to be interesting. A special prize of $5 is offered by Wm. Yelland, Esq., for a dog race, dog to be driven by a boy.

NEW GRANDSTAND.

The new steel grandstand at the grounds is now assured. Instead of allowing the structure to be erected by contract as formally intended, the committee have decided to have it built by day work. The plans and specifications have been drawn and the steel material to be used is now on order. Work will be proceeded with as rapidly as possible, as it is the object of the committee in charge to have the grandstand ready for the September exhibition. Steel and re-inforced concrete will compose the structure, and while it will not be as large as first intended, it still will amply accommodate 800 people, and next year should conditions require it, an addition will be added. A request will be made to the mayor to allow city engineer T. A. S. Hay to inspect it and see that everything is in good shape.

THREE BY-LAWS EXPLAINED

To the Editor of the Review.

Dear Sir,—On July 28th, the qualified electors will be asked to vote upon three by-laws, and we wish to give to them through your columns, an explanation of them.

PARKS AND PLAYGROUNDS

The growth of the city has made necessary the procuring of more land for parks and playgrounds. The open spaces are filling up, and the breathing spaces and playgrounds are becoming scarce. To provide places for children to play, and resting spots, land must be purchased and held for these purposes.

Part of the city is served by Jackson Park and another part by the Nicholls Park, while the centre is benefitted by the smaller Victoria and Central Parks. But the western and southern parts of the city on the west side of the river, and the southern part on the east side of the river are without park accommodation. The proposal is to purchase three acres adjoining the present King Edward Park and thus make that park consist of about six acres. At present it is not large enough to be of much service. With the enlargement it will be a good playground and resting place. On the east side of the river it is proposed to purchase about six acres on the river, which will afford an excellent playground and fine park of the size. The city owns an island out from this ground and in time it could be filled up higher and a rustic bridge constructed, and bathing places could easily be built there. This park will be admirably suited for the southern part of the east ward, and with a bridge across the river, which will some day come near this point, will serve other parts of the city as well. It is also intended to pruchase about six acres adjoining the city to the west, near Charlotte street, or Sherbrooke street. Thus three parks of about six acres each will be provided in the districts where they are most needed, and they should be procured while the land is available, for if not procured now there will be no suitable property obtainable and the loss of the opportunity would be regretted by all.

THE ACKERMAN BY-LAW.

A year ago Mr. Ackerman contemplated enlarging his manufacturing facilities, either by adding to his factory here or by starting a branch in Regina, where he had purchased property for factory, or warehouse purposes. The chairman of the Manufacturer's committee conferred with the firm several times, the result being that the Council agreed to fixing the assessment of the factory for ten years at $15,000 for municipal (not school) purposes, and the firm agreed to enlarge their building and plant here. The factory accordingly has been enlarged and the electors are asked to confirm the city's part of the arrangement.

THE LOCKWORKS BY-LAW.

The Lock works are assessed, including the building occupied by Mr. Rishor for his wholesale grocery, at $26,450. The Lock company in view of their increasing the capacity of the factory, asked that the assessment be fixed at $25,000. A United States concern has been given concessions in St. Catharines, including tax exemption, and the request of the Lock company here, which has to meet the competition of the western factory is a moderate one. The Council passed the by-law and it is submitted to the electors for endorsation.

SHOULD RECEIVE SUPPORT.

These by-laws should be supported by the electors. Nothing should need to be urged to emphasize the advisability of procuring necessary parks and playgrounds now, and the other two by-laws are reasonable and moderate proposals that should commend themselves to the favorable opinion of the electors. The council, after giving these matters their best consideration, have submitted the by-laws and recommend the electors to vote for them.

W. G. MORROW,
Mayor.
W. BULLER,
Chairman Manufacturer's committee.

Sir,—The verdict at the inquest in the case of the death at the police station seems inconsistent with facts. I think it was the same cell I was in a few days before, and I was certainly not searched in any way whatever. Then again, these cells have been officially condemned. Responsibility should have been laid on the proper shoulders.

PIGEON CREEK BRIDGE CLOSED TO TRAFFIC

Yesterday W. G. Howden, chairman of the Roads and Bridge Committee of the County Council, made inspection of the Pigeon Creek bridge, with the result that it has been closed to traffic. He found it so damaged by recent storms and winds and pushed out of shape by the masses of floating bog.

This bridge was built 47 years ago, and is now so water soaked that it will hardly float. If it is to be retained in use it will require to be thoroughly rebuilt. It has been suggested that the best thing to do is to fill in the reach from shore to shore, as the water is shallow. No doubt a joint conference of the representatives from the city, county and County of Victoria will be held to discuss the matter.

BAND MADE A HIT AT TORONTO

Could Have Another Week's Engagement at Scarboro

The 57th regimental band returned home from Toronto on Sunday morning, after fulfilling a six days' engagement at Scarboro Beach, Toronto. The members were highly pleased with their reception and the time they had during their engagement, and are well satisfied with the results. The playing of the band was evidently considered of a very high order, and was commented upon in very complimentary terms by the press of Toronto. The band was asked to remain another week, but the members were unable to remain. They have a pressing invitation to play two days during the Toronto exhibition.

A case of common assault between two residents of the township of Asphodel named Dickson and Hope, which was to have come up before County Magistrate Edmison this morning at ten o'clock was settled out of court. The two parties had arrived at a compromise and the defendant agreed to pay the costs.

WAGES CASE.

Edward Fountain has laid a charge against William Whitefield of non-payment of a balance of wages due him. A similar charge has been laid by him against George McGowan. The two cases will be heard at eleven o'clock Thursday morning before Magistrate Edmison.

NO LICENSE.

Isaac Puffer, of Norwood, the village constable, has laid a charge against Lewis Abraham, for peddling in the village without a license. The latter charge will be heard in Norwood on July 28th at 10 a.m.

COMPARISON ON MARKET PRICES

Warder.—The people of Lindsay are somewhat inclined to grumble at the high market prices which seem almost exhorbitant to some, but the following comparison with Saturday's market at Peterborough shows that the local citizens are somewhat better off than the residents of that city. In Peterborough butter sold at 25c a pound, while here 22 and 23c was paid; eggs brought 20c a dozen in the city, while 18c was the price here; ducks sold at $1.25 each in Peterborough compared with $1 a pair here. Live hogs sold at $7.50 in Peterborough, while $7 was paid in town; hay was about the same in both places as were raspberries, while new potatoes brought 45c. a peck in Peterborough.

Funeral Notice

A Runaway

A team of horses drawing an empty delivery wagon did a sprint up George street and down Simcoe towards the Peterborough Cereal Company about noon to-day, where they were caught without any damage being done.

HAT FACTORY PROPOSITION BEFORE CITIZENS' MEETING

Promotors Want to Dispose of $50,000 Worth of Stock —Committee Appointed.

At a meeting held last night to consider the proposition of Mr. M. Mannist re the establishing of a hat factory in Peterborough, among those present were Mayor Morrow, D. W. Dumble, K.C.; James Kendry, ex-M.P.; Aldermen Brown, Bradburn, Morgan, Kerneghan, Metheral, Anderson, Graham, Messrs. Thomas Barrie, Thomas Hooper, G. N. Gordon and City Clerk Armstrong.

Messrs. Roy Woods and Arthur Buckley, Toronto, with Mr. Mannist are holding forth the proposition to Peterborough. It will be necessary to sell stock to the amount of $50,000, and as an evidence of good faith Messrs. Woods and Buckley will take $10,000 worth of stock—$5,000 cash and the other to come out of their salaries from time to time.

A fully equipped plant, capable of turning out 420 hats a day and assuring a revenue of $300,000 a year could be installed at a maximum cost of $8,727. The remainder of the capital would be required for raw material, operative expenses and ample margin until the first season's output is marketed. In order to get out samples for next spring's trade by October 1st, it would be necessary to have the plant in operation by September 15th, of this year There were several buildings in the city which could be utilized to advantage.

Mr. Gordon, of O'Connell and Gordon was the first speaker, and he briefly outlined the policy of the company, as he understood it. He thought it desirable that a board of directors, composed of local men who were interested, should be in control. The stock should be sold to people who could give bona-fide securities that they would pay when called upon. The trouble with a number of Peterborough small manufacturing concerns before was that they did not have enough capital.

Mr. Mannist spoke on the grade of the goods which would be produced and of the chances for selling. He said that from 105 to 115 people would be employed regularly.

Mr. Kendry considered it a good practical proposition. He thought it would be in the interests of those concerned to inquire in other places regarding the manufacture of hats and the dividend paid.

Mr. Thos. Barrie considered that there was a good opening in Peterborough for a hat factory.

Mr. Gordon moved, and Ald. Bradburn seconded a motion, to the effect that Messrs. Kendry and Barrie be a committee to inquire into the conditions under which hats could be manufactured in Peterborough and acquire any other data regarding the enterprise.

WHO WILL BE THE "LAMB"?

It is a well known fact about the city, it having leaked out since the last caucas of the Liberal Party, that the Liberals are finding some difficulty in getting a candidate for the House of Commons. It is said that Mr. Stratton is afraid to try. It is also said that Mr. Hall has stated that he is not keen for the job by any means. Its rumored also that some very prominent Liberals were approached, but have definitely declined. The convention is to be held a week from this coming Saturday, and although two caucases have failed to "kok," it is likely somebody will be found by convention day.

WHEN WILL THE PRICE COME DOWN?

Current Query That is Hard to Answer Just Now

The "murphy" question being in the lime light very much just now, the Review interviewed a couple of local merchants regarding the outlook for a decrease in the price of this much used vegetable.

The matter is arousing great anxiety in the hotels, restaurants and even among the retail dealers of the city, and the question is, when will the price of potatoes descend. Present indications, according to one local dealer, are that within a short time the supply will become sufficient to allow the price to come downward a little, Just now they are selling at 50 cents a peck in the retail stores, although this price must decline soon. The large potato dealers in the city have not as yet handled extensively any of the American product, the exceedingly high price of 80 cents a peck which was necessary to ask effectually preventing would-be purchasers from going that deep into their jeans.

The recent rains have done a vast amount of good and the prospects are that a considerable increase in the quantity of potatoes so far marketed will result.

It is always funny to hear a man say nice things about his opposition; it is nearly as funny as to see a stingy man try to be liberal.

HOW LINDSAY VIEWED THE GREAT PRESS GAME

Liked the All Round Work of the Locals — Return Game Here on Saturday.

Lindsay Warder.—It was like ye olden times to see a baseball team from Peterborough here Saturday, and the result of the contest with a Lindsay nine was also like the stories told "once upon a time," because the Lindsay nine came out of the fray with the long end of the tally, and the Petes with the diminutive end.—13 to 6.

The two rival teams were not Eastern League nor Midland League stars, but instead were nine humble printers from the Electric City and an equal number of frisky type slingers from this town, and although the game was not of the professional brand, yet it was decidedly interesting, and the score is by no means an indication off the play. The local typos were lucky enough to secure eight runs in the second innings, which put them on easy street. The game was played before a large crowd of electors, suffragettes, printers and other respectable citizens, and all were pleased to see the local youngsters pull off a victory of such sterling proportions. The rooters became very enthusiastic and cheered their pets to the echo. A team from Peterborough always takes well in Lindsay, and the small boy, as is customary, got in his usual number of jokes on the Electric City nine.

It is expected that the return game will b eplayed in Peterborough next Saturday, and the local typesetters will no doubt be accompanied by a large following. If the game Saturday next is as interesting as the one here the Peterborough citizens should turn out in large numbers, for it was a game well worth watching.

The Post hands out the following bouquets:—

Sherrard, make-up on the Peterborough Examiner, "covered" second sack. Some of the fans thought he was Dr. Beattie Nesbitt.

George Johnston, formerly of the Post staff, made a nice running catch during the game.

NEW ONE FOR THE LADY PEDS

Labor Day Sport Program to Have Walking Event

The Trades and Labor Council intends holding a big field day of sports on Riverside Park Labor Day and Mr. J. J. Thompson, physical director of the Y.M.C.A., has been asked to draw up a list of events. The list has not been completed as yet, but there will be an event, new to Peterborough sporting circles in a quarter mile ladies' walking race. There will be a good program of sports for which suitable prizes are to be given.

The Labor Council are sparing no expense to make this one of the best sporting meets ever held in Peterborough and the prizes to be given are of the best and will be displayed in the window of a George street merchant in the near future.

LAWN TENNIS PLAYERS RESTING

Nothing Much Doing in the Racquet Game

Everything is quiet in tennis circles. The players have either all gone on holidays or are indifferent. The fifth round of the Y.M.C.A. tournament has been drawn for over a week and none of the players have met yet. In class A. there are only three left; Messrs. W. A. Landry, S. R. Hall and W. T. Butler. "Bill" Landry just returned from Montreal yesterday where he has been holidaying. "Sandy" Hall is at the senior "Y" camp and will not be back until the week-end. It will necessarily be some time before the winner can be announced as the games cannot possibly be finished before next week.

The city tennis association events are going behind for the same reason—everybody out of the city. However, the games are being well contested this season.

BASEBALL

Lindsay Post.—Peterborough Midland League ball team will play a friendly game with the Lindsay nine in the course of a week or two.

"Prunes," Quinlan, manager and twirler for the Electric City nine, was in town to-day, and made arrangements for the game, the date of which will be announced later.

The Grand Trunks, of Belleville, with Ashton twirling, were defeated by Colcman's Flats on Saturday by 6—2 score. The railway men were short a couple of their regulars.

SPORTING COLUMN.

BOXING TO LEARN SINGING.

Welshman Whose Tenor Voice Equals His Boxing.

You've heard that threadbare expression, "playing both ends against the middle?" Well, what do you think of a boy who aspires to a musical education, following the prize ring to get the money that will make him a second Caruso?

You can't beat that, can you?

The boy working the duet is Fred Dyer of Cardiff, Wales. He says he is a better singer than he is a fighter and if this is true he must be a marvel, for he is one of the best lightweights in the British empire.

Dyer's specialty is to beat his man and then, with chest heaving from the exertion and pursuant to shouts of "Thora! Thora!" he sings in a clear tenor the song the London fight-loving public has taken to.

Sometimes Dyer sings with a lip split, or his nose swollen or one of his eyes blackened. Such things don't interfere. He gets double pay for his singing act.

Dyer whipped every lightweight in Cardiff before going to London and between battles sang in the choir of the biggest church in the Welch city His stay in London has been an unbroken string of victories. He expects to sail for the United States soon.

The boy has been doing concert work in the fashionable West-end.

Dyer says singing helps his fighting and that fighting helps his singing.

FITZMONNS FOUGHT MEN WHO RUSHED HIM.

But Jim Corbett Used to Keep Him Guessing.

Bob Fitzsimmons says he always could beat a man quickly who would rush at him. The fellows who knew how to feint and step around were the ones that bothered him most—that is, they lasted longer against him than the sluggers. For instance, Tom Sharkey was always easy for Bob because he went in and tried to rush Bob all around the ring. Ben men like Jim Hall and Jack Dempsey and Jim Corbett made it more troublesome for the lanky fellow, says W. C. Kelly in the Cleveland Leader.

"It made no difference how hard they could hit if they would come tearing in I liked them," said Bob last night. "I knew the moment I squared off in front of Sharkey that I would beat him just when I got ready to do it. He was a powerful fellow, but every time he rushed he left himself wide open, and all I had to do was to shoot out one fist or the other. He went down when he got it on the right spot.

"I had some trouble finding Jim Corbett, for he was the shiftiest fellow who ever pulled on a glove, and he was an adept at the art of feinting. And any man who can feint cleverly can bother any fighter, I don't care how good he is. I had to bide my time and do a lot of thinking before I finally got to Corbett. He was watching my right hand all the time and stepping away every time I moved it.

"Finally, I thought about the shift and then by feinting with the left to one side, and then with the right, he threw up his guard one after the other. The instant he lifted his right arm to protect his jaw, I shifted my right leg in front, and then let go with all my force in the solar plexus, or pit of the stomach. He went down, and the fight was over. If I had missed his stomach he would have got the blow on the chin.

FANS HAVE INNINGS.

Not all the fun at a ball game is on the diamond. The remarks hurled by fans at the umpire or players are often funny—very funny. The wit of the baseball fan in the bleachers is ever blooming. Here are some of the funny things that have been heard at ball games:

The crowd at Spokane, Wash., thought the umpire rotten. When he stepped up to the home base to sweep the dirt off so he could see it more plainly a bleacherite hollered out:

"Do you have to know much to do that?"

"Aw, hang crepe on your nose. Your brains are dead.

To appreciate this one you must remember the size of Joe. Yeager's ears. At a critical part of a game a fan yelled:

"Flap your ears, Joe. There's a fly on your neck."

The young auto owner, just new to the game,
 Remarked: "This is mighty fine sport."
"Don't use that word fine, for it gives me the creeps,"
 Was the hardened old drivers' retort.

"I have seen many players hit on
The fly has a thousand eyes
 And many a limb;
That's why you must be quick
 To slaughter him.

The first aeroplane death occurred in 1908 when Lieut. Selfridge was killed while flying with Orville Wright.

Napanee Sells Electric Plant.

Napanee, July 25.—The bylaw authorizing the town to sell the municipal electric plant to the Seymour Power Co. was carried yesterday, 408 voting for and 48 against. The town sells the plant to the Seymour Co. for about $40,000, gives the company a 30-year contract and secures electric light at 8 cents net a kilowatt hour for consumers.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

The sealing treaty was finally passed by the Senate at Washington.

The artillery team to take part in the competitions in England has been completed.

The three indicted labor leaders pleaded not guilty in New York to charges of contempt.

The high wind is reported to have blown down a lot of the fruit in Niagara and other sections.

Lieut. F. H. Morris of Bowmanville won the Rapid-firing Challenge Trophy, valued at $5,000, at Bisley.

Complimentary references were made in the House of Commons to Pte. Clifford's winning the King's Prize.

The steamer Glengarry of Kingston, which sunk in the Wellington Basin last week, has been successfully floated.

All grades of refined sugar were again advanced by ten cents per 100 pounds throughout Ontario and at Winnipeg.

Prof. Gummer of Bishops' College, Lennoxville, Que., has been appointed assistant professor in mathematics in Queen's University, Kingston.

Windsor ratepayers carried bylaws to improve the waterworks and to encourage a manufacturing concern, but defeated the bylaw to provide an automobile fire wagon.

Rev. Dr. MacTavish, holidaying at Regina, has decided to accept the position of field secretary in Ontario for the Temperance Alliance. He has tendered his resignation to Cooke's Church, Kingston.

More than 5,000 buildings were destroyed and many thousands of persons rendered homeless by an incendiary fire which started in the Stamboul, or native quarter, of Constantinople, Sunday night.

THE NEW PHASE.

It must have been quite two a.m. when I was awakened from my slumbers by a voice, apparently from heaven.

"Nah then, funny, wot yer gettin' at there?" was the burden of its speech.

It was, by oral evidence, Matilda. Matilda is our Domestic Permanency, my wife's proud boast to outsiders, her domineering tyrant in the house. Matilda's bedroom was above ours, and she was evidently talking out of the window. I could imagine the gargoyle effect.

"With you great boots," continued the voice, "a-treadin' over our flowerbeds, an' what good you think you're doin' of or ever will do in the catchin' line with them feet. . . ."

A pause, evidently for breath.

Who was this Romeo? Had I been less comfortable I should have got up and looked out of the window.

"And I'll thank you to stop flashin' that there dratted light up at my window. What you think you're goin' to see at this time o' night I don't know. No, I ain't got me tarara on. Wot's that? Winder left open, won't the master come down? Not 'im! Not if there wasn't twenty burg'ars 'e wouldn't. 'E's too snug in 'is bed. With 'is feet on 'is 'ot bottle."

During breakfast a terrific crash from the kitchen reduced my wife to tears. I rang the bell fiercely—I always got as far as that—and an akimbo form appeared.

"It's yer Uncle Josiah's dessert-service gone, and if I won't a stayer I should give notice immediate, own' to shock"

"But what was my best china doing ——" began my wife feebly.

My blood was up.

"Look here, you'll take a month's notice and go!"

I was eyed with a stony stare.

"Oh, Matilda, we couldn't dream of parting with you!" protested my wife hastily; and with an indescribable sniff the stayer disappeared.

And every attempt at giving notice had elicited the intention of going straight to one of our most intimate friends.

"And we couldn't refuse a good reference after six years; and think what she could say about us!" wept my wife.

I hastily agreed, remembering the small hours of that morning.

"Amelia," I demanded suddenly, "what do we pay Matilda?"

"One hundred and twenty-five dollars a year and her keep must be quite another $250."

"Then if we pensioned her on $250 a year we should save. Besides Uncle Josiah's china."

"But she'd never leave—she's too accustomed; is it likely she'd leave this house which she practically owns, for two rooms? Besides, she'd go to Mrs. Robinson-Jones."

"Perhaps if she found a loving heart," I suggested. An idea of meteor-like brillance occurred.

"But this is a 'No Follower' place."

I rang the bell firmly.

The look of silent scorn which preceded withdrawal could ony mean "I could have had them any time I liked in spite of you."

That day I called at the police-station and inquired for the man who had been on night duty in our secluded road. I was directed to a busy crossing, and there in command of the situation was Romeo.

I grasped his hand wormly.

"Are you a married man?" I said.

Oe looked at me sadly.

"So hearly in the morning, sir?"

I saw his point and hastened to clear myself. He was not a married man, he was not even casting an eye.

"Though there's a many. . . ."

I hastily agreed.

"Give me a young woman with sperrit," he went on. "Now, there's a female I encountered last night on professional duty. . . ."

I shook both hands—he had met me half-way. It was soon arranged. Robert was to woo and win Matilda, in consideration whereof he was to receive $250 per annum for the term of his natural life.

He was naturally suspicious. I cited breakages and incompatibility of temper.

"But, of course, a policeman——" I insinuated.

"I'll see to that, sir," he replied genially.

The wooing was short. My wife and I became adepts at coughing and rattling the kitchen door-handle before entering, and with fiendish intent stocked the abode of the couple with crockery. The marriage settlement, so to speak, was drawn up in black and white.

For a year after our villa was the abode of joy. We obtained a treasure, who was only a moderate stayer, we entertained our friends, even seemed to save money.

And then we went abroad in summer, and in consideration of Maltida's changed character as shown by the entirety of her own household crockery, we installed her and Robert as caretakers and gave the treasure a month's holiday.

On our return we were met by Matilda, who, as per contract, was to have left the house the morning of our return.

"Where's Jane?" faltered my wife.

"The gal has gone. Likewise box and brown paper parcel, owing to words over filthy cupboards left behind. There ain't no cause to look blue. Robert and me can stop till suited, as man and wife. E's 'andy at doin' bits of jobs in the garden when off. And you may be thankful as there's no encumbrances an' I can come. As the register young person ses to me, 'There's not many in these days as is stayers.' "

That was some years ago.

"And that Raven, never flitting, still is sitting, still is sitting."

No applications for the place have permeated. I pay them $250 a year, they live rent free on the fat of the land, and he draws policeman's pay as well.

But one can get used to everything.

Flagged Train, Fined $20.

Guelph, July 25.—Roy Rivers, aged 20, of Walkerton, flagged the Grand Trunk express from Chicago to Toronto, a mile and a half west of Rockwood yesterday morning. Rivers wanted to go to Hespeler, which was in the other direction. He walked to Guelph, where he was arrested and fined $20 and costs, and will stay in jail until he pays.

A BRITISH PREFERENCE

Toronto News.

The politicians who assume to speak for the Western Grain Growers' Association, persistently assert that the Canadian farmers do not desire a preference for their produce in the British market. In so doing they wholly misrepresent the vast majority of the agriculturists of this country.

It was at the instance of the Canadian farmer that our delegates to the Imperial Conference of 1902 offered the people of Great Britain an increased preference for their products in Canada, in return for a preferential treatment of Canadian foodstuffs entering the Old Country. Ever since then the rural population of this country has watched with interest the progress of the tariff reform cause in the Mother Land.

The farmers of Canada know that the triumph of the Chamberlain policy in England will bring with it the entrance of their exportable surplus into the British markets on specially favorable terms. They know that Canadian grain, fruit, meat and dairy products will have to pay a lower duty at British ports than foodstuffs from the United States. So great is the prospective advantage to our farmers that the Americans are frightened. They foresee the day when the Dominion will wholly supplant the republic as a source of food supplies for the British Isles.

Hence the anxiety of the United States to get reciprocity ratified and thus prevent Canadians from securing a preference over them in the British markets. Hence also largely the opposition to the Taft-Fielding compact found amongst our farmers. They want the extra revenue that a preference in England will give them, and they do not approve a Washington arrangement that aims to deprive them of that advantage.

Intelligent Canadian farmers have kept track of political developments in the Old Country, and they are aware that in the general election of January last 48 per cent. of the electors voted for tariff reform and Imperial preference. They recognize that their long desired preference in the British market is almost attained. Like President Taft they recognize that the empire is on the verge of commercial consolidation—unless the Washington Government can succeed in withdrawing Canada from the Imperial fiscal and commercial orbit.

The newly arrived English Cobdenites who are behind the agitation for freefree trade with the republic, forget the miserable trans-Atlantic conditions from which they fled, and they are ignorant of the needs of their adopted country. They also fail to realize without a definite self-contained national policy the maintenance of the Dominion as a separate political entity cannot be assured. Fortunately in this country the fatuous free traders are few and far between. In their scarcity largely lies our hope for Canada.

WOMEN'S SECTION AT TORONTO FAIR

The new Women's Building is not the only evidence that the Canadian National Exhibition is this year giving special attention to women's and children's work. The women's and children's section of the prize list shows an extended classification covering all departments of work by women and children. There is a special class for domestic science and another for household arts, while the boys and girls can compete either in separate classes or against each other in general competition. The wider scope thus given to this class of work and the additional advantages for displaying it, promises to make it a distinctive feature of this year's Exhibition.

BITERS BITTEN

A Good Story of a Tenderfoot and a Game of Poker

Down at one of the Rhodesian mining camps there is a bar with a regular poker "push," and the barman stands in with the gang. Any new-chum with sporting proclivities has a poor show.

One night the tenderest new-chum imaginable, just up from Beira, after half-a-dozen drinks in the saloon, agreed to take a hand in a half-crown game.

Things went along in the usual way for awhile. Then an amazing series of nods and winks began to pass about. The barman had signalled that the tenderfoot had four kings on the draw. There were more nods and winks, and betting began.

In the midst of the betting a boy brought sandwiches and whisky in order to distract the mug, and while the poor dupe was tossing off his drink the sharper next him slipped a sixth card on to his hand, thus, of course, nullifying it.

The unconscious youngster took up a huge sandwich, bit off a large mouthful, and began to bet again. Right and left, of course, they raised him. He ate on and bet away calmly. An enormous sum lay on the table.

Then suddenly the barman resumed his nods and winks. He was terribly excited. Something was wrong. The sharpers, a little anxious, called the kid.

The blue-eyed darling finished the last bite of his sandwich, took a long drink of whisky, and then laid his original five cards. Then in silence he gathered in his vast pile of winnings, and with a cool nod took his leave.

After his departure there was a terrible time.

"What the dickens did he do with that sixth card?" the sharpers cried.

"Didn't you see? Didn't you see?" cried the barman, dancing up and down with rage. "He ate it with his sandwich."

A JOURNALIST'S WORK

Busy Life of George Gordon Bennett, New York

The famous proprietor of the "New York Herald," Mr. Gordon Bennett, is reputed to be the hardest-worked journalist alive; and although he finds time to go in for yachting, motoring, and sport of all kinds, it is only because he begins his working day at five o'clock in the morning and gets through as much work in one hour as the average man could get through in six. Mr. Bennett will be seventy in a few months, but seems only to grow more energetic as the years pass by; and he can navigate a yacht, steer a motor, or fire a gun with all the accuracy of a man half his age.

"LUCKY LAMBTON"

The Life and Soul of Ladysmith Garrison

So Sir Hedworth Lambton has often been referred to on account of his many extraordinary escapes from death, and the nickname will be revived now that Lady Meux has bequeathed to him $100,000 and the residue of her estate. One of the conditions of the bequest, however, is that he must assume the name and arms of Meux within a year. Sir Hedworth joined the service as a boy of fourteen, and was present at the bombardment of Alexandria and the Battle of Tel-el-Kebir. It is in connection with the siege of Ladysmith, however, that he is especially noted, Sir George White describing him as the "life and soul of the garrison."

ANYTHING TO OBLIGE

Some Stories Told of the Well-Known Lord Fisher

There was no greater admirer of the qualities of Lord Fisher, who, having attained his seventieth birthday, retires from the active list of the Navy, than Queen Victoria. A delightful story is told of how, when a certain French admiral was about to pay a visit to Portsmouth—this was when Sir John was Admiral Superintendent at the dockyard—the Queen requested him to be sure and "be very nice" to the visitor. With a face as impassive as a Chinese mandarin the Admiral replied, "I'll kiss him if you wish it, ma'am!" Devoted to duty, Lord Fisher would brook no shirking from any man under him. A certain captain once sent word that it was impossible to get his ship to such and such a place on a given date. "Umph!" replied "Jacky Fisher," as he is known in the service. "Tell Captain Blank that if he is not ready to leave X—— on the day named I'll have him towed there."

"THE BETTER LAND"

Composed by Dr. Cowen, Who Always Has the Aid of His Pianette

Dr. F. H. Cowen, the famous musician, whose latest work, "The Veil," has been heard for the first time in London, was a young man of twenty-five when he wrote the music of "The Better Land." It was written in an hour or two, on the suggestion of the late Mme. Antoinette Sterling. Dr. Cowen was calling one day upon the popular vocalist, when she read Mrs. Hemans's poem to him, saying she thought it would make a beautiful song for her. When the score was sent to her next morning, Mme. Sterling liked it so much that she offered to buy the copyright from the composer—an unusual course for a singer to take; but to this, fortunately for his pocket, Dr. Cowen would not agree. Dr. Cowen has a mascot which he would not part with for untold gold. This is a little pianette which he has had since he was a boy of fourteen, and every work he has composed has been written with its aid.

After the average man reaches 30, he gives up hoping for an easy time, and gets down to work.

OUR WEEKLY NATIONAL ARTICLE.

HOW CANADA CARES FOR ITS NEEDY.

BY M. G. COOK.

(Copyright by Publishers Press Limited, Montreal.)

The school may be said to have been literally the first institution set up by the white man in Canada. Nowhere is the history of education so ancient or so honorable. Not only are the schools of Canada the oldest in America, but they are also the best.

When the French settled the shores of the St. Lawrence, their explorers, soldiers and peasants were accompanied by missionaries whose first work it was to establish schools for the Indian population. Nowhere else were the Indians so treated, whether by English, Spanish or Dutch explorers. When children of white birth began to grow up in the colony, there were schools and teachers all ready for them; and long before the rival settlements to the south had done more than clear the ground for forts and farms, the youth of Quebec were learning their letters in a stone schoolhouse. The first teachers of Canada, the Recollet Fathers, will in five years be celebrating the three hundredth anniversary of their arrival. The Jesuits had a college in the city of Quebec a year before the foundation of Harvard College in Massachusetts.

It is somewhat a far cry from these devoted Catholic instructors to the Ontario Public School system of the present day—the typical educational system of the Dominion, and one which has been the model not only for most of the Provinces of Canada but also for much imitation in the United States and elsewhere. "It may be doubted," says Dr. W. T. Harris, editor of the International Education Series, "whether there is another instance in America of so wise a use of money and supervisory power as is shown in this Province of Ontario", in its system of local control and central regulation of the people's schools.

Like the early French schools of Quebec, however, the first educational efforts of the people of Ontario had their origin largely in religious feeling. These early Canadian wanted schools, as their Governor and intellectual leader, Simcoe, put it, "from which more than from any other source a grateful attachment to His Majesty, morality, and religion will be fostered and take root throughout the whole province." As a result larbely of Simcoe's efforts, the Legislature in 1797 secured the setting apart of a large portion of the public lands as a fund for the establishment of grammar schools. From that time the schools of Ontario, and of practically the whole of Canada, have been managed and financed by the people themselves in their own school districts but regulated and largely aided financially by the central authority. To-day the three grammar schools of that time have grown to 5,869 public schools, 465 Catholic separate schools, 145 high schools and a half-dozen of universities and colleges; there are 500,000 students in the Province; illiteracy is practically unknown; and by an extensive system of scholarships the highest ranges of education are within the reach of the poorest boy who possess marked ability and application.

The Hon. George W. Ross, a schoolteacher himself in the 'sixties when Ontario was feeling her way toward this ideal system, was the Minister of Education for eighteen years, the closing eighteen years of the last century, before he became first the Premier of his province and then a member of the Dominion Senate; and he has left on record the opinion that the Ontario school system "is the evolution of the best thought of different Legislatures, aided and directed by the judgment of men who gave a lifetime to the task of adapting broad principles of organization and pedagogy to the wants and aspirations of the people for whom it was designed." The same authority claims ten great characteristics for this system, which he describes as follows:

(1) It is an organized whole, beginning with the kindergarten and ending with the university.

(2) It provides free education for all persons under twenty-one years of age.

(3) It graduates the courses of study so as to avoid waste of time of the pupils and waste of teaching power of the teachers.

(4) It provides a trained teacher for every school, aided by public money.

(5) It furnishes a uniform standard for every teacher according to his rank.

(6) It protects children against the selfishness or neglect of parents and guardians, by making attendance at school compulsory.

(7) It secures trustees against the incapacity of teachers by a rigorous system of examination and inspection.

(8) It protects education from the caprice of public opinion by the appointment of inspectors during pleasure, and by the election of trustees for a lengthened term of service.

(9) It secures economy and uniformity in text-books by placing their publication in the hands of a central provincial authority.

(10) It permits the establishment of separate schools for Roman Catholics subject to the same standards of efficiency as to the public schools.

The Ontario Department of Education has taken a very wide view of its functions, not at all confined to the mere management of schools. It carries on a vigorous campaign amongst the public libraries of the province, improving the character and classification of books, promoting the purchase of serious works other than fiction, and encouraging the circulation of Canadian and British literature as against American and other foreign writings. Hundreds of Travelling Libraries are operated by this Department in rural communities, and the children in all Ontario schols are encouraged to make the freest possible use of the available collections.

But it is in the West that education has accomplished its greatest marvels. Almost the first thing done when a new area is opened up to settlement is to establish a school district, largely financed by the revenue from lands set apart for the purpose in every township in the early 'seventies, and in part by a special tax on land. Saskatchewan three times the number it possessed when established as a Province in 1905, and some sixty thousand school-children, and this year about two and a half million dollars will be spent on the schools alone. The province of Alberto is even more aggressive. Both of these young provinces have established state universities costing half a million each for buildings alone. Education in the prairie provinces is not compulsory, but there is a strong demand that it be made so. It is no uncommon thing for a school in the West to have pupils of twenty or thirty different nationalities, just over from Europe and hardly able to speak a word of English; but the task of making them Canadians is being carried on with astounding efficiency. Like Alberta, Saskatchewan has sixty thousand school children.

In Manitoba there is an even more strenuous fight going on for compulsory education than further West. While the schools there are doing excellent work, the cause of education in general has been greatly handicapped by constant conflicts regarding the rights of the Roman Catholics minority, who do not possess here the privilege of absolutely separate schools which enables them to go their own way in most of the other provinces.

In Quebec the Protestant minority carries on a separate school system of its own under religious control. Up to the last year or two the inadequate revenues of the Province allowed very little to be done by the Government for the schools of either section of the population, and Catholic education was promoted largely by the devotion of certain religious brotherhoods and the clergy, while the Protestant schools were either cruelly handicapped by poverty or maintained by generous self-taxation on the part of the people. One result of this system has been to induce private generosity on the part of the millionaires of the Province, such as that by which Sir William Macdonald established the Macdonald College, the model agricultural training school of the world and one of the finest institutions for training teachers on the American continent. In the last two years the Government has been able to make somewhat more generous grants to the poorer schools, but the state of Protestant education in many parts is still unsatisfactory especially as some of them are dominated, as it is the case in Montreal, by incapable men.

Public opinion, however, is being roused calling attention to this state of affairs, and it is expected that the Province will follow its sister provinces in putting education outside of politics, and provide educational facilities for all dominations of its population.

The Universities of Canada are famed the world over. Perhaps the best known is that of McGill in Montreal, which owes all its greatness to the generosity of a few wealthy citizens and to the wisdom of its directors in devoting their funds at an early period to scientific apparatus. Toronto University, always famous for its Arts teaching, has in the last few years been financed by the Ontario Government to a point where it can compete to some extent with McGill for science students, denominational colleges and universities, both for theology and Arts, flourish all over the country, chief among the Protestants being Queen's, the Presbyterian foundation at Kingston, and among the Catholics the University of Laval at Quebec with its branch at Montreal. Technical schools, Ontario at usual leading the way, have sprung up in every important centre under provincial direction, but there is at present a movement on foot to ascertain what the federal government can do for this branch of education, from which those who put a broad construction on the British North American Act, the constitution of Canada, claim that it is not excluded.

I have noticed that merchants who live over their store usually do well.

TOM LONGBOAT IN POLICE COURT

Up on Charge of Drunkenness But Got Off

Toronto, July 24.—To think that the once famous Indian, Thomas Longboat, should ever have his name read from the police court roster! But it was so.

"Thomas Longboat!" called the court attache this morning.

Tom strolled in and when the charge was read to him he remarked with his world-famous smile that he was guilty of being drunk.

"Ever been here before?" asked Magistrate Ellis.

Tom opined that he had not.

"Remanded till called on. You may go, but after this keep your head clear," was the magistrate's advice.

Tom smiled.

REV. WHITESIDE IS AT MONTREAL

Conducting Special Evangelistic Campaign With Success

The Montreal Witness has the following to say of the work of Rev. R. H. Whiteside, who was here some time ago at St. James' Methodist church for special services;

An evangelistic campaign is being conducted this week in a large tent on the grounds of St. James' Methodist church by the Rev. R. H. Whiteside, of Kemptville. The meetings, which have been organized by the evangelical committee appointed by the Ministerial Association of the Methodist church, will be held every night except Saturday, when it will take place in front of Dominion Square Methodist church, Dorchester street.

Afternoon meetings will also be held in the tent on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, from three to four o'clock, and a cordial invitation is given to all, irrespective of denomination, to be present.

A large union choir, consisting of from 40 to 50 voices, will lead the singing at the various meetings, and the Salvation Army band is expected to be present on two or three of the evenings to render sacred selections.

Last night's meeting was so large that many could not get into the tent, but the solos of Mr. Ritchie, Bell, a lady friend, and the orchestra music was very much appreciated by all who were present.

SENIOR Y.M.C.A. BOYS IN CAMP

Are Having a Big Time at Stoney Lake Points

A report from Y.M.C.A. senior camp at Sandy Point states that the boys are enjoying themselves all the time. The following is a short diary as kept by one of the boys;

Saturday, July 15.

The "Water Lily" left the Wolfe street wharf at 8.05 a.m. with "Sandy" Hall, "Dong" Loomis and "Bill" Hamilton on board, arriving at Sandy Point at 11.45 a.m. and the Lakefield train took Wind Jammer Taite, Indian Irvine, Tooth-pick Hagerman, Silent Sanderson and Fitz. Fitzgerald, who paddled to Sandy Point, arriving before the Water Lily. After dinner everybody paddled to Juniper Island, coming back late in the afternoon. "Whiffen" Darling blew in on the Rob Roy about six o'clock and C. Nicholls came in on the evening boat. We played football, baseball and quoits before retiring.

Sunday, July 16.

We went to church at Juniper in the morning and at night attended service at Brown's.

Monday, July 17.

We played basketball all morning in the rain. In the afternoon we moved to Juniper, Hamilton and Darling reaching there by sailing and swimming and Nicholls and Fitzgerald by towing a scow load of tent poles via the back channel. We lighted a camp fire at the point at night and a Coon arrived in camp.

Tuesday, July 18.

We were all up at six o'clock and left for White Lake and the cave at eight o'clock. We shot the rapids at Indian River, landing at a farm house about a mile down. We walked four miles to Warminster cheese factory where "Whiffen" got his fill of curd and cheese. The cave was about two hundred yards from the factory and its mouth was well hidden by a cluster of cedar trees. We went down about 99 feet 11 inches (we wouldn't tell a lie for an inch) and were appalled by the frightful structure below. Then we looked for the potash kettle and started for camp.

Leaving our stopping place at Indian River we proceeded to swim, wade and paddle to White Lake again. At 7.30 p.m. arrived in camp and didn't do a thing but eat and dress our wounds. Hamilton, sr., was snoring like a bear in about five minutes and the rest of us were not long in following suit.

Wednesday, July 19.

We woke up feeling like a bunch of invalids and on popular vote we stayed in camp that day and wrote our love letters, etc. Bruce Hamilton arrived—an addition to the kindergarten. We went to Fairy Lake about 5 p.m. After supper you should have seen the guys tog up. Eight of the bunch paddled to Sherin's cottage where there were some girls to entertain them. Windjammer Irvine got in alright and Doug. Loomis was so excited that he fell through the wharf. The kindergarten, of course, received special attention.

Thursday, July 30.

We proceeded to make the course to Jack's Lake and visited Blue Mountain on the way, our progress being impeded by the presence of so many huckleberries. After supper we had a fire and some of the fellows beat it to Crow's Landing. Bruce Hamilton in trying a fancy stunt on the deck of the canoe took a swim. Whiffen got "tied" over at the hotel. We all slept on the ground after filling up with taffy. Irvine and Coon were the star fishermen of the day.

Friday, July 21.—This a.m. we struck for Eel's Creek. "Sandy" Hall actually landed a big lunge about the size of his jackknife, and Fitz and Nicholls repeated the trick. At the mouth of the creek we had dinner. A party from the camp gave chase to a porcupine and were human enough to let it go. After supper half the campers went to Juniper Island store and pavilion and tried to cut out the Lakefield band, which came up on a moonlight.

Saturday, July 22.—We left for McCracken's for provisions about 11 a.m. The bunch went to Mt. Julian in the afternoon to play ball with the Americans. When we reached Mount Julian we found that the Americans had stopped playing ball and had gone out fishing, so we had a game amongst ourselves. We visited the shooting gallery before returning to camp. McCarrell came up on the late boat. We had another fire on the point that night.

Sunday, July 23.—We went to church at 11 a.m., and at 7.30 p.m. we held song service by the light of a camp fire.

ON BOARD A LINER

A Captain Dilates on How the Passengers as a Rule Pass the Time

"I suppose that celebrities crossing the Atlantic are subjected to a good deal of impertinent scrutiny and lionizing," said a man to the captain of an Atlantic liner recently during the course of a conversation concerning life aboard the huge greyhounds which carry thousands of passengers to and from North America every year.

"Not necessarily," was the reply. "As a matter of fact, the first-class passengers may be as exclusive in regard to other folk as if he or she were at home. In the old days, of course, the cabins and saloons on liners were so small and stuffy that passengers spent a lot of their time on deck, with the result that most of them became acquainted with each other on the voyage. Nowadays, however, deck suites of rooms, which include a parlor and a bath-room, are so airy that one can get along very comfortably without goin gon deck at all."

"But isn't it usual for passengers to sit about in deck-chairs to enjoy the fresh air?"

"Well, the habit is not quite so popular as many people imagine. There is plenty of ozone in any of the deck cabins, and, as I heard a passenger say on one occasion, the spectacle of men and women spread out asleep with their mouths open is not exactly picturesque. After dinner in the evening passengers will promenade the deck for a while, but fashionable folk seldom show themselves on deck except for this walk. They amuse themselves in their own cabins or play bridge in the private rooms."

THE "SILENT ADMIRAL"

Sir Arthur Wilson Has Entered the Navy Controversy

For the first time in his life Sir Arthur K. Wilson, First Sea Lord and chief expert adviser to the Admiralty, has entered into the public controversy regarding the strength of the Navy. A man who prefers deeds to words, "Tug" Wilson, as he is popularly termed in the Service, is recognized as being without equal as a strategist and tactician. He is one of the very few naval officers who have earned the coveted V.C. This was at the Battle of El Teb in 1884, when the Arabs broke the square formed by the Naval Brigade, and he sprang into the breach and engaged the enemy with his bare fists, having broken his sword. Sir Redvers Buller described the act as "one of the most courageous he had ever witnessed." Sir Arthur is known in the Navy as "the man who never takes a holiday," for he rarely goes ashore, even when his fleet or flagship visits any port. He regards every moment spent away from the Service as wasted.

LONDON GIRLS WERE PRETTIEST

Sir Francis Galton, the last of the great Victorian scientists, who died recently, had a curious bent of mind at times. For instance, he made an instrument for carrying in the pocket by which he could tick off, as he passed in the street, the number of girls who were "good," "medium," or "bad" in regard to looks. "I found," he said, "London to rank highest for beauty and Aberdeen lowest." On another occasion, when he had his portrait painted, he beguiled the tedium of sitting by counting the strokes of the brush that went to make his picture, and the total, to his great surprise, amounted to 20,000.

INDIVIDUALITY

The lady or gentleman who thinks, accentuates their individuality of character and personal appearance.

When Eye Glasses are required there is individuality in the facial features, which requires special shapes, styles of lenses and mountings.

Eye Glasses which enhance the appearance of one face would be unbecoming to another. Eye Glasses, like artificial teeth, must be built to fit the features.

Patrons of the Optical Institute frequently remark that there is individuality in our Eye Glasses because they "grace the face," "fit the features," and "please the wearer."

LILLIAN GRAHAM IS NOW MISSING

Ethel Conrad Thinks She Has Been Kidnapped

New York, July 25—The police have sent out the customary "general alarm" for a missing person when Mrs. John Singleton complained that her sister, Lillian Graham, who is under indictment, charged with shooting, W. E. D. Stokes, had disappeared. Ethel Conrad, who is also charged with shooting the millionaire Stokes when he appeared at their apartment to recover letters he had written Miss Graham, believes that Lillian has been kidnapped. Both girls are out on $10,000 bail, pending the trial set for next fall.

Miss Graham has not been heard from since she went out to buy some sugar for an after theatre luncheon at her up-town apartment, Saturday midnight.

MEMBER OF SOUTH YORK SPRINGS SURPRISE ON LAURIER

A Produced Copy of London Times With Minutes of Conference, About Which Sir Wilfrid Was so Secretive.

Ottawa, July 26.—After the excitement of Monday the sitting of the House of Commons yesterday was quiet in contrast, although crowded galleries suggested another outbreak of hostilities. A cessation of cheers and jeers brought good results, and F. D. Monk (Jacques Cartier) introduced a discussion on the Imperial Conference offering an amendment to the motion to go into committee of ways and means, calling upon the Government to lay on the table a complete report of the proceedings of the conference.

Sir Wilfrid's defence was that Canada was dependent on the Colonial Office for a copy of the report, and that it had not been received by the Government.

A surprise was then sprung upon the House by W. F. Maclean (South York), who produced a copy of The London Times containing a summary of the minutes of the conference.

"It is the precis," said the Prime Minister.

But not so. The designation of the document was plain, and Sir Wilfrid promised to enquire at the Governor-General's office. Mr. Maclean was able to point out that matters of imperial consequence whose tendency was to draw the Empire closer together had been dealt with, and it was important that the information should be laid before the House. This had been brought out in the Postmaster-General's intimation that cable rates would soon be reduced between Canada and Great Britain.

The reciprocity discussion was resumed after Mr. Monk's amendment had been declared lost on a division.

W. R. Smythe (East Algoma) continued the animadversion against the pact and the lack of information at the possession of the Ministers in not protecting Canada against the importation of cheap southern lumber.

Major S. Sharpe (North Ontario) made a careful analysis of the negotiations and said there was a fallacy in one Minister telling the farmers that reciprocity would give them higher prices for their products, and another Minister saying to the manufacturers that their market would be increased and prices enhanced.

On the motion by the Premier for morning sessions Dr. Sproule made inquiry as to the time to be devoted to the consideration of private bills in committee and the House.

"It is the intention of the Government to go on with the measure which is before the House," said Sir Wilfrid, "that is, with the reciprocity agreement. Everything else depends upon that," was Sir Wilfrid's ultimatum.

Hon. Sydney Fisher, in reply to a question by Mr Borden, said that the resignation of Dr J. G. Rutherford, chief Dominion veterinary, was in his hands.

Mr. R. L. Borden asked the Secretary of State for a detailed report showing what progress has been made with the preparation of the voters' lists.

Hon. Charles Murphy promised to have a report prepared.

Col. Talbot of Bellechasse took exception to an article in The Montreal Gazette, in which it was stated that the French-Canadian members are in a state of revolt and object to having to remain at Ottawa now that their sessional indemnity has expired. He said the story was both contemptible and malicious, and that a sense of duty would keep the French-Canadian members at Ottawa just as long without pay as it would other members.

Mr. Lapointe of Kamouraska said about the same thing in French and was loudly cheered.

Mr. Arthurs, Parry Sound, read a report in the press saying that the elections in Northern Ontario would be deferred because it would not be possible to prepare the lists in time.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that the elections would be held according to law.

Major Currie was not satisfied with this reply, and Sir Wilfrid explained that under the statutes the polling could be postponed in certain constituencies, but that these did not include any constituencies in Northern Ontario.

Claude Macdonnel (South Toronto) asked if an order-in-council had been passed removing restrictions on American laborers, so as to facilitate their entry into Canada during the harvest period.

Mr. Oliver explained that there are no restrictions imposed on farm laborers except such as are imposed by statute, and these could not be removed by order-in-council. He explained that farm laborers are not required to possess a certain sum of money.

URGES PARTY NOT TO SPLIT

Balfour Wants Unionists to Stay With Lansdowne

Will Swim or Sink With the Leader, He Says

London, July 26.—Another exciting day of political conferences, party caucuses and Ministerial visits to the King left the crisis no better solved than on Monday. There was renewed flinging of epithets in the House of Commons yesterday. The only significant incident of the session was that F. E. Smith, one of the leaders in Monday's turmoil, quit his accustomed seat among the adherents of Balfour and ranged himself with Lord Hugh Cecil and other insurgent unionists.

The most important event of the day was the publication of a letter which Mr. Balfour wrote to Lord Newton in reply to a request for his opinion on the situation. As was expected he fully supports Lord Lansdowne in bowing to the inevitable and avoiding the creation of peers. Thus the rupture in the Unionist party is definite and open.

In part the leader of the Opposition in the House of Commons says:

"I never conceived it to be part of my duty actively to intervene in the affairs of a House to which I do not belong, nor have I on the present occasion taken any share in the propaganda, which, I understand, is being vigorously conducted by some of its members. This is not because I have any doubts as to the advice which I ought to give those who seek it. On the contrary, my views are clear.

"I think that the majority in the House of Lords should support its leader. I agree with the advice Lord Lansdowne has given his friends. With Lord Lansdowne I stand, with Lord Lansdowne I am ready, if need be, to fall."

The present crisis has been seized upon by Mr. Balfour. This time the attempt is more likely to succeed because it has the assistance of a similar movement in the House of Lords to dethrone Lansdowne in favor of the Earl Halsbury. But Mr. Balfour has weathered similar storms before.

The "no surrender" party is practically identical with the extreme protectionist party of recent times, which was equally dissatisfied with Mr. Balfour's leadership in the fiscal controversy and the chief point of interest to-day is not the fate of the veto bill, which already is known, but whether Mr. Balfour will be able to reunite his party.

EARL GREY IS BACK IN OTTAWA

Has Been on Pleasure Jaunt With Party

Montreal, July 26.—The Canadian Government steamship Earl Grey arrived in port yesterday, bringing His Excellency the Governor-General and Lady Grey, accompanied by Major Bingham, A.D.C., who have been spending a few weeks salmon fishing on the preserves of Mr. J. J. Hill, at River St. Jean. Almost immediately after his arrival here His Excellency left by train for Ottawa.

HAMILTON PASSES BY-LAW IN FAVOR OF PUBLIC POWER

End of Bitter Struggle With Cataract Company Meeting Defeat—Majority Was 439.

Hamilton, July 26.—The greatest fight ever made against Hydro-Electric power came to an unsuccessful conclusion here yesterday when the Hydro bylaw carried by a majority of 439.

The campaign put up by the Cataract Power Co. in opposition to the measure was perfectly organized and must have cost considerable. On the other hand, the Hydro forces had practically no organization and a campaign fund of only $400.

Every carriage, auto or buggy in Hamilton capable of bringing votes to the polls was secured by the Cataract Company two months ago. Long lines of empty rigs hired by the Cataract Company stood in front of the polling booths, while the Hydro voters were forced to walk to the voting places.

At every polling place there were at least three scrutineers for the Cataract, while at many of them the Hydro had none at all.

Two or three autos that came from Toronto and the rigs of a few local sympathizers who had refused to "sell out" were the only resources of the Hydro party.

For the last six weeks Cataract canvassers have called upon every voter. A tremendous increase in taxes was of course the chief argument of the canvassers. It was also threatened that the necessary car line extensions would not be made.

During the last few days of the fight the Cataract Company covered the town with placards and notices, all attempting to persuade the citizens away from the bylaw.

Under these circumstances the Hydro victory was an important one.

PTE CLIFFORD TO GET BIG RECEPTION

Winner of King's Prize Coming Home August 5

Toronto, July 26.—A cablegram received yesterday afternoon by the wife King's Prize at Bisley, shows that King'se Prize at Bisley, shows that he has recovered from his indisposition, which was thought to have been appendicitis.

The probable time of the arrival of Private Clifford in Toronto is Saturday, August 12. He is coming on the Allan liner Victoria, which leaves Liverpool on August 4 and is due to arrive in Montreal on August 11.

The time of his arrival may, however, be delayed by receptions in Quebec and Montreal. So far, no word of any preparations to receive him in these cities has been received, but it is altogether likely that they will entertain him in each place for a while. It may be that his arrival here will be delayed until Monday, August 14.

Arrangements for his reception in Toronto have not yet been completed. He is not coming with the rest of the Canadian Bisley team, for they sail on Aug. 3. Then there is little possibility of their being held up by welcomes en route.

FIRE VICTIM IS HOME AGAIN

Mr. Arthur Tompkinson Lost Heavily at Porcupine

Galt, July 26.—Mr. Arthur Tompkinson, of Porcupine, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Tompkinson, Forest Road, has arrived in town on a visit to his parents. Mr. Tompkinson, jr., was at South Porcupine at the time of the disastrous fire, and in talking to the Reformer this morning, he described the awful catastrophe.

Mr. Tompkinson, who is a professional photographer, was in business at South Porcupine. He had built a two-storey building, the lower floor being occupied by the Bank of Montreal and on the second floor he had his shop. The fire came at such a rapid rate that all he could save was three cameras, with which he afterwards took pictures of the fire. His building and stock were all destroyed.

To save his life Mr. Tompkinson was forced to wade out into Porcupine Lake till the fire had passed. His brother, Harry, had been with him but he returned home immediately after the fire, while the former remained to fix up some insurance he had on his building.

When asked if he intended going back, Mr. Tompkinson said he would leave shortly, and would start work at putting up another building and getting back to business. He has great faith in the future of the northern mining towns and says it will not be long before Porcupine will be a bigger and better town than be-

WINDY WEATHER CAUSES DAMAGE

Apple Crop and Shipping Industry are Sufferers

Ontario Fortunate in Only Getting Part of Storm

Toronto, July 26.—We have been very fortunate here in Ontario in just escaping a severe gale, the observatory officials state. Yesterday's storms were nothing more than the tail end of the wind storm that was passing through Ontario. On the south side of the lake the gale was felt in its real strength — the wind whistling through the trees at 50 miles per hour in many places not far from Buffalo and Rochester.

"The disturbance is passing in a northeasterly direction across Ontario and Quebec," said the weatherman last night. "It wasn't at all severe in this part of the province, and it's all over anyhow."

The officials state that many people are still enquiring about what is regarded as abnormally low temperature at the present time.

"The temperature is not exceptionally low," said the weatherman, "but in reality it is a point or two ahead of the average, as far as minimum temperatures are concerned anyhow. In thirteen different years the minimum temperature for the month of July has been 50 degrees, and during the present month it is 52 degrees. In one instance the minimum temperature for July registered at the local observatory was 39 degrees. It's just a contrast with the previous siege of hot weather we have been having. That's all."

Storm Hurts Apples.

Woodstock, July 26.—What promised to be a good crop of apples in Oxford County was sadly depleted by a severe wind storm which visited this district on Monday night. Although there are few reports of trees being blown down, from all districts come stories of the apples themselves being shaken off in great quantities. Pear, plum and other fruit trees also suffered, but these are scarce in comparison with apples, so the loss is not so serious. It is too soon to make an estimate of the value of the apples lost, but it will be heavy.

River Traffic Stopped.

Brockville, July 26.—At noon yesterday there subsided a terrific gale, which had prevailed for 24 hours, tieing up traffic on this section of the River St. Lawrence. Only boats of large dimensions ventured out, and these navigated under difficulties.

From the rural district come reports of widespread damage to trees and fences. Orchards and small fruit suffered to the extent of several thousonds of dollars throughout this district. Grain also was leveled in all directions.

Typhoon In Japan.

Tokio, July 26.—A typhoon centering over Tokio and Yokhoama reached its height at 3 o'clock this morning. Widespread damage has been done in the lower districts of the city, which are flooded, and from fifty to a hundred persons are missing It is feared that a great number of fishing and other vessels have been lost.

MORE CARPENTERS OUT AT MONTREAL

Men on Grain Elevator Want Nine Hour Day

Montreal, July 26.—Called out by the union, forty carpenters employed in the construction of the harbor commissioners' new grain elevator, near the Victoria pier, joined the carpenters' movement yesterday morning, demanding a minimum rate of 35 cents per hour and a nine hour day.

The strike, it was stated by the foreman, is not delaying the progress of work on the elevator as there are upwards of 200 carpenters still on the job. Many of these are non-union men, while others, although members, refused to obey the order to strike. The carpenters engaged on the new elevator are drawing from 27 1-2 to 32 cents an hour, each man being paid according to his worth.

BOBBY LEACH COURTS DEATH; DEFIES RAPIDS IN HIS BARREL

Goes Over Horseshoe Falls and Duplicates Feat of Mrs. Taylor — Not Likely to Try it Again.

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 26.—In his steel barrel Bobby Leach successfully made the trip over the Horseshoe Falls yesterday afternoon. Beyond a number of bruises and a severe shaking up he was uninjured by the drop of 158 feet. He is in bed at his home here to-day.

This was the second time the falls trip has been successfully made. Mrs. Anna Edson Taylor accomplished the feat on Oct. 24, 1901. Mrs. Taylor witnessed Leach's trip, and as the barrel made its frightful plunge she remarked to a friend that she feared the intrepid little Englishman would never come out of the craft alive.

It was just 2.55 o'clock when the barrel was cut adrift off Navy Island. It was towed into position by a rowboat and started on its perilous journey down the tossing waters of the upper rapids to the cataract by cutting the towline. A strong wind was blowing and the river level was several feet above normal. Navigating the upper river in a rowboat in such a mood was extremely dangerous work.

When the barrel was cut adrift it was in the middle channel, but it had not gone a hundred yards on its journey before it took a course nearer the Canadian shore. It was within fifty feet of the mainland when it passed the plant of the Electrical Development Co. Less than a mile above the cataract the barrel was caught by currents and swung away from the Canadian shore. When it took the plunge over the falls at 3.13 o'clock, it was fully 100 feet from shore.

Striking great billows at the brink of the cataract, the barrel was lost to view for a moment as it started on its plunge. Then watchers on the shore saw it reappear between rifts in the spray. When it struck the water its sharp nose burrowed into the lower river and for a twinkling the craft remained unde water, only to leap from the water with the force of the rebound.

The barrel remained in the lower river 22 minutes before the manhole was opened and Leach stuck his head to the shoulders through the opening. He waved his hat to the spectators. When the barrel was caught in an eddy near the Canadian shore Frank Bender of Chippawa, swam out and grasped it. Within two minutes men in a rowboat began towing it ashore.

"That was hell, boys!" were Leach's first words as he shook hands with Bender, after the towline had been attached.

When Leach was removed from the barrel it was thought that he had sustained a broken leg and he was removed to his home on a stretcher. Dr. F. W. Wilson made an examination and declared that Leach's left leg was severely strained and cut on the knee almost to the bone, which made the injury very painful.

Leach was accompanied on his trip home by his wife, who had witnessed the plunge over the falls at Table Rock. Before he was carried to his room he fondled his three-year-old daughter Pearl, the child crying with joy at the sight of her father. In spite of her youth, Pearl has twice before taken a keen interest in Bobby's perilous adventures, having twice seen her father make the trip through the whirlpool rapids in a barrel.

Police Waiting.

Toronto, July 26.—The question of whether Bobby Leach left the Canadian side of the Falls or the American side on his barrel trip will likely be an important matter for him to answer one of these days. The whole proceedingse looks to the coldly disapproving eye of J. E. Rogers, superintendent of provincial police, like attempted suicide.

"We can't countenance such a thing as a man deliberately wanting to take his own life," said Mr. Rogers last night. "If he left the American side he has committed no offence in Canada, but if he left from the Canadian side, we will take whatever action the Attorney-General sees fit to order."

Woodstock, Ont., July 26.—The first annual Woodstock conference of the Young People's Missionary Movement of the United States and Canada opened in Woodstock College with a goodly representation of delegates present. Monday night's meeting was in charge of Rev. Dr. MacKay, D.D., general secretary of Presbyterian Missions, and moderator of the general assembly, who gave the opening address. Brooklands, Eng., July 26.—Andre Beaumont won the Daily Mail aeroplane race, covering the one thousand and ten mile circuit of England and Scotland in twenty-two hours and twenty-eight minutes, and for which he receives a prize of $50,000. Jules Vedrine also completed the course. It was nip and tuck between the two all the way, but Vedrine lost onsiderable time through losing his bearings on different occasions. Both men flew with unsurpessed daring and rushed through the air like meteors. Experts declared no such contest had been witnessed in the history of aviation. Beaumont was the winner of the Paris to Madrid race.

Will Spend Six Millions.

Minneapolis, July 26.—The Soo line and Baltimore & Ohio roads will come into close relationship in the Chicago traffic field in a plan by which the Soo will spend $6,000,000 for a direct entrance into and terminals in Chicago. Soo line or Wisconsin Central passenger trains will no longer use the Illinois Central passenger station on the lake front in Chicago when the plan is complete, but will enter instead the Grand Central passenger station owned by the Baltimore & Ohio. Freight terminals of the Soo will adjoin the Baltimore & Ohio freight terminals.

Announcement yesterday of Chicago terminal plans of the Soo are believed to account for the recent protracted visit of President Fred D. Underwood, of the Erie road, to Montreal, where he had repeated long conferences with Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, president of the Canadian Pacific. It is suggested in railway circles here that the program of the Soo sent the Erie's president to Montreal to head off, through Canadian Pacific influence or in some manner modify, if possible, the proposed Soo plan, and that he failed to accomplish his purpose.

Accepted Sentence.

New York, July 26.—The Federal Government yesterday scored heavily in its effort to break up the alleged "wire trust," when thirty-seven of the eighty-three men indicted June 29 withdrew the plea of "not guilty" and accepted sentence without trial on pleas of "nolo contendere."

Upon this passive admission of guilt, Judge Archibald, in the U. S. District Court, imposed fines of from $1,000 to $1,700 and costs in each case.

William P. Palmer, president of the American Steel & Wire Co.; Herbert L. Satterlee, son-in-law of J. P. Morgan; Frank J. Gould and Charles F. Brooker, Republican national committeemen from Connecticut, are among the forty-six other alleged members of the party.

A Harrowing Trip.

Chatham, Ont., July 26.—The three Labadie brothers and party of Detroit arrived at the Thames River lighthouse yesterday morning with a harrowing tale of experience on Lake St. Clair. They were tossed about in a disabled motor boat from early Sunday night till late Monday night. They had cruised to the Log Cabin Inn on Sunday, and had finished the biggest part of the return trip to Detroit when the motor stalled within sight of the Detroit River lights. They were pitched about in a rough sea and drifted clear across the lake to Mitchell's Bay in the storm.

"I have had a long experience in treating horses, and I can safely say that I know of no liniment for strains, sprains, and swelling that is so useful around the stable as Nerviline." Thus writes Mr. Joshua E. Murchison, from his home, Crofts Hill P. O. I had a fine young mare that wrenched her right fore leg, and from the shoulder down she was stiff, sore, and swollen. I applied Nerviline, and it worked like a charm; in fact, that mare was in shape to work a day after I used Nerviline.

HILL ON RECIPROCITY

James J. Hill, one of the chief advocates of reciprocity in the United States, and whose opinion on matters of trade and commerce, receive close attention, says that the passage of reciprocity by the United States senate is the last of imperial trade.

"It is not what we have gained by the reciprocity treaty that is most important, but what we have prevented," says Mr. Hill. "What would have happened if we had not passed the treaty? That is the big question. There would have been a revival of a move for imperial federation and if we had refused to trade with our good neighbor, our second best customer, and for our manufacturers, the best customer we have, we should have been sorry for it in years to come, for the opportunity was before us to make a favorable agreement with Canada, and it would not have been with us again for many years if we had refused it this time."

Mr. Hill is apparently assuming that all the United States has to do is to pass the reciprocity bill, and it becomes of immediate effect. But the Canadian people have something to say on the question—or will when Mr. Borden gets through—and it may surprise some people to learn what the voice will utter.

The last hasn't been heard of imperial trade preference. Britain may not tax her food supplies for the sake of benefiting the food producers of Canada—she might be foolish to do so, since food is the prime necessity of life but there are assuredly other preferences which can be instituted, at the will of the British people. At the last British election, forty-eight per cent. of the voters were in favor of tariff reform. Is it too much to expect, a conversion of three or four more per cent to the ranks of the tariff reformers, in the next decade or two?

In any event, Canada is much better off without a measure of free trade with the United States that is regarded as the fore-runner of complete commercial union. The fight over reciprocity has developed into a repetition of the 1891 struggle and if the sentiment of the country rings true as it did then, the victory achieved for the British connection by Sir John Macdonald will be repeated by R. L. Borden.

PUNISHING PORT HOPE

The Port Hope harbor is being sadly neglected by the government. Why? Because East Durham elects a Conservative to parliament.

If the East Durhamites would return a government supporter, it might get a dollar or two of the appropriation that now goes in blocks of $10,000,000 to Pugsley's ridings.

This sort of perversion of the rights of Canadian people, who do not happen to see eye to eye with the government, has been too noticeable of late. Only last year Lethbridge wanted a new post-office. Now Lethbridge returns a Conservative member, and E. M. Macdonald, of Pictou, N. S., a prospective cabinet member, told the Lethbridge people that if they wanted a post-office they must be prepared to pay for it in votes to the government by supporting a Laurier supporter.

Is this the sort of government the people of Canada will stand for? The barnacles at Ottawa are notorious. It is time to Rossify them.

AS TO OBSTRUCTION

As to obstruction, what should the opposition do? If it believes that reciprocity is going to hurt the country, is it not the duty of the opposition to oppose the pact to the finish? All the opposition is trying to do is to make the government submit the big question to the people at the polls, and then abide by the verdict. The opposition would be derelict in its duty, if it did otherwise. And the government should have submitted reciprocity to the people without having to be forced to it by Mr. Borden and his followers.

If the business of the country is being obstructed, as the Liberal newspapers claim—and which it is not, as reciprocity is the only thing the government wants to put on for discussion—the government is to blame, because it could easily have arranged for a submission of the pact to the people. Government by the majority is good constitutional principle, but even the majority may exceed common sense privileges. A minority of 49 per cent. of the people of Canada behind Mr. Borden is to be considered even by a majority.

By August permission we shall soon be saying good-bye to July.

Won't someone please look up Bobby Leach in his steel barrel, and leave him to think it over. These trips of his through the Niagara rapids are becoming a bore.

The victory of Private Clifford in winning the King's prize is a notable victory, and he should get a fitting welcome on his return home. Canadian enterprise should be first recognised by the Canadian people.

With Fielding suffering from facial trouble, Brodeur about to retire to the bench, Sir Fred Borden to go to London, Aylesworth looking for a chance to retire, and almost incapacitated through deafness, and Oliver under direct investigation in campaign fund charges, the Laurier cabinet presents a battle-scarred front that doesn't promise at all well for its success. The passing of Laurier will see the end of the Liberal regime, and signs of disintegration are already visible on every hand. Every dog has his day, and the LIBERAL dog has had his.

Inquest Adjourned.

St. Catharines, July 25—The inquest into the death of Edna Comfort and her three-year-old child, found dead in Beamsville reservoir a month ago, was resumed yesterday, but immediately adjourned for a month, to allow officers of the crown to investigate the many rumors prevalent. The immense crowd of farmers and others present were disappointed at the adjournment. The fruit growers of the surounding district had evidently taken a holiday to attend, although this is their busiest time.

Novelized From Eugene Walter's Great Play....

—BY—

John W. Harding

Copyright, 1908, by G. W. Dillingham Co.

Brooks sat down in the only other armchair, on the same side of the table. On entering he had been very nervous. His customary aplomb revived as he found that Smith was apparently the same old Jimsy.

"Oh, fine," he replied. "Thought I'd just drop in on you and see how things were."

"Thanks. Have a cigar."

Smith pushed the box toward him, and he helped himself to one and lit it.

"I feel like I owe an apology for keeping out of the way so long. I suppose you wondered what had become of me."

"I have often wondered."

"Well, you see, I was sort of cut up after the way Emma left me. It was enough to make me feel sore. There was no excuse for it. Then I've been awfully busy. I got a job in a bank as assistant receiving teller at a real living salary. A fellow isn't ground down there, and there's a chance to get on. They treat you like a gentleman, not like a lascar cabin boy. I ought to have quit the Latin-American line long ago. I suppose old Williams is still slave driving."

"Williams is still president of the company."

"Well, he'll get what's coming to him from somebody one of these days."

Smith made no comment.

"Say, Jimsy, you don't give one the impression that the world disagrees with you. You look immense."

"There's never much the matter with me, Brooks."

"'Brooks!' Why 'Brooks?' What's the matter with 'Joe?' You needn't be so darned ceremonious. You haven't got a grudge against me because I stayed away so long, have you?"

"No grudge whatever."

"Oh, well, let it go. How's the old woman?"

"You mean Mrs. Harris?"

"Who else would I mean except my saintly mother-in-law?"

"She was well at last reports."

There was another pause in the conversation, and Brooks stared hard at the ceiling.

"I guess you're a fixture here. You wouldn't be happy in any other lodgings," he went on, looking at Jimsy, who was eying him with his usual calm expression that was neither cold nor kind, yet partook, if anything, of kindness. "You ought to see the cute little quarters I have. They're in a bachelor apartment house. I want you to come around one of these evenings. You'll come, won't you?"

"Maybe, one of these odd evenings. We've got to provide accommodations for more boats, and I'm a busy man, so you mustn't bank on me for awhile."

"All right. If that ain't a refusal any evening you can dispose of will suit me. Just let me know you're coming; that's all."

For the hundredth time his eyes wandered to portraits of himself and his wife in a silver stand on the table. They had presented photographs and stand to Smith soon after their marriage.

"You've still got that, I see," he said, indicating it with a nod of the head.

"Of course."

"How is she, by the bye?"

At last he had brought the conversation round to where he wanted it.

"Emma? Oh, she was all right when I last heard about her."

"Heard about her? She's living with her mother, isn't she?"

"Certainly. I haven't seen them for some time. All the family's out of town."

Brooks could not conceal his disappointment.

"Where are they staying? Is it far from the city?"

"Quite some distance."

"Well, where is it? At the seaside? In the country?" he demanded, exasperated. "Why don't you come out with a straight answer instead of dodging? What do you think I am? What do you think I came here for?"

"You said you came to see how I was getting along."

Brooks could have kicked himself for having been betrayed into losing his temper. It was a bad break for a man having a favor to ask.

"Of course I came for that, Jimsy," he said, the anger gone from his voice. "But it's only natural I should ask for news of my family. You don't seem to think I have any rights or feelings. I am still Emma's husband, and it ain't because we've had a tiff that we're to be at cat and dog for the rest of our lives, I suppose."

"I haven't forgotten that you're Emma's husband, Joe, but the matter of your 'rights' is open to a difference of construction, and I'm entitled to my own opinion. I do consider it perfectly natural, however, that you should be curious about your family, and I've answered every question you've put to me except the last. I'm under promise not to disclose their whereabouts to anybody. That's why."

"Yes, you've answered my questions, but you've confined yourself to 'Yes' and 'No' as if you were a witness under cross examination."

He passed his hand over his eyes and sighed.

"It ain't like you, Jimsy," he continued. "It ain't like you a bit. I thought you at least wouldn't turn against me. He's a good man who never does anything wrong."

"That's right. I guess there are more men who do wrong and aren't found out than there are men who do wrong and are discovered, and I ain't in the business of heaving rocks at any man—certainly not at you."

"I'm glad to hear you say that. I've been living on the level ever since. You can believe me, Jimsy—ask the bank if my accounts ain't in order—and I'm going to keep straight too. What more can I do, except say I'm sorry? What more does anybody want me to do?"

"Nothing, I should think."

"You believe me, Jimsy?"

"Joe, I believe you're speaking the truth, and I hope with all my heart and soul you'll keep right on the way you're going. And, now you know how I feel about it, come right out and tell me what brought you here."

"I will, then. I want to know about Emma. It's a year now since she—since we separated, and I won't stand it any longer. I want her to come back to me. I simply can't do without her."

He looked at Smith expectantly, but the phlegmatic Jimsy made no remark.

"You see them often. Do they ever speak about me?"

"They have never mentioned you in my presence since the night Emma left you."

"I never believed Emma would sulk so long. I'll bet she's as sick and tired of this business as I am. If she ain't had enough of the old woman and that stuckup little chit of a Beth by this time I'm no good as a guesser. I know Emma. They must have baited her to death."

"Maybe, but if they have she hasn't told me about it, and she doesn't carry it writ on her countenance so's you'd notice it."

"Jimsy, I must see her. Tell me where she is."

"You can't find out from me. I'd tell you willingly enough, but she served an injunction on me ages before you came here, and I'm not going to put myself in contempt of court."

Brooks jumped up and nervously knocked the ash from his cigar on to a tray.

"You've known Emma and me for over six years, Jimsy," he said. "And you know all about us and how happy we were together—how I tried to make her happy, risked everything for her. You were always a good friend to both of us. That's why I'm here—that's why I'm going to ask you to do me a favor. Will you?"

"Joe, I'll do anything within the bounds of reason."

"I knew you wouldn't refuse. I want you to see Emma alone—not with her mother and Beth around; they'd queer everything. I want you to ask her to let bygones be bygones and come back to me. We'll begin all over again, and this time we'll begin right. Tell her I'm well fixed. I'm ahead of the game. I've got money by—earned and saved it—and a good place. There'll be no more hard pulling like there was in the old time. Tell her I'm more sorry than I can express for our little misunderstanding—sorry and miserable. Tell her I love her more than ever and that if she will see me she will understand."

Smith nodded assent.

"And, Jimsy, put in a good word for me—plead for me—do it as if it was for yourself. Emma will listen to you when she won't to any one else. You know she thinks a whole lot of you. Will you do this for me?"

"Yes, I'll do it, Joe."

"Soon?"

"Let's see; this is Tuesday. I'll see her Sunday—go on purpose."

Brooks went to him and seized his hand with both his own.

"Jimsy, you are the best ever!" he exclaimed fervently. "I knew I could count on you. I'll never forget this turn you're doing me—never! And Emma will appreciate it too. Good night and God bless you."

He wrung Smith's hand again.

At the door he turned with this recommendation:

"Don't forget, Jimsy. Plead with her as if it was for yourself."

CHAPTER XX.

Up in the Catskills the sun had the whole sky to itself. Everything presaged a hot day. Early though the hour was—the clock had not yet struck 6—Emma was out on the piazza, dressed for walking. She wore a cool, clinging costume of pale straw colored tussah so short that it descended little below the tops of her high buttoned light tan shoes. A soft felt hat, such as men travelers roll up and carry in their pockets, was secured to her fair hair by a hatpin, and its limp border hung down and shaded her eyes. These, of a blue that rivaled the heavens, were sparkling with admiration of the scene, and her cheeks glowed with health. She made a lovely picture as she stood gazing out into the valley. Jimsy Smith, who had stopped on the road above on his way from the hotel, where he had put up the night before and of whose presence there at that moment she was quite unconscious, thought he had never seen any picture so beautiful in all his life. But, then, Jimsy's judgment was biased. He had always considered Emma pretty and found something to admire in her even when, with grimy hands and in soiled cotton dress, she was engaged in the unpoetical occupation of polishing the kitchen stove.

DOCTOR ADVISED HOSPITAL

But Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Cured Her.

Upper Sandusky, Ohio.—"Three years ago I was married and went to housekeeping. I was not feeling well and could hardly drag myself along. I had such tired feelings, my back hurt, my sides ached, I had bladder trouble awfully bad, and I could not eat or sleep. I had headaches too, and became almost a nervous wreck. My doctor told me to go to a hospital. I did not like that idea very well, so, when I saw your advertisement in a paper, I wrote to you for advice. I have done as you told me.

THE "DANGER" CART

Special Vehicle for the Conveying of Bombs, Alleged or Real

Few members of the general public are aware of the method adopted by the Home Office when a bomb, alleged or real, comes into the possession of the London, England, police.

It is generally known that the article under suspicion is at once put into a pail of water, but the after proceedings have, so far, been left to the imagination. Here is what actually happens after a thorough soaking of the object under suspicion is assured.

What is known as the "danger" cart is sent from the Magazine in Hyde Park, where it is kept, to the point where the "bomb" may be, and not many who might chance to see a small hand-cart, painted a brilliant red, being drawn along the street would imagine that it possibly contained an instrument of destruction, which had been intended to blow up some public place or other.

The cart itself is built on two finely balanced springs, and has suspended underneath it a smaller, box-shaped receptacle in which the suspected article is placed.

The cart and the suspended box are built with the greatest care, so that, no matter how great the jolting may be, the contents of the lower chamber will be in no way disturbed.

The "danger" cart is generally drawn along by two men in plain clothes, whose duty it is to see the cart and its contents safely housed in the laboratory of the Magazine. There the examination by experts takes place.

SURPRISED THE GERMAN

Story Showing the Energy of a British Soldier

General Sir Reginald Pole-Carew relates the following story showing the energy of the British soldier. A German attache in the South African War was amazed at the spectacle of the British soldiers after a fight staggering into camp, but rushing instantly after a football which was thrown on the veldt. The German attache said to the General, "Well, you are the most extraordinary people in the whole civilized world. I have been with your men all day. I know what they have done. I know they have had nothing to eat or drink, and I know of no other troops in the world that would not have been lying down asleep. If we could do this we could conquer the world."

Don't tell a good story, even though you know one; its narration will remind your hearers of a bad one.

A Municipal Workhouse.

Montreal, July 25.—At a caucus of aldermen yesterday the question was taken up of establishing a municipal workhouse. The city is now contributing money to maintain a number of charitable institutions, and the council is to decide if it would be well to abolish most of these grants and have a general institution controlled and operated by the city. # MR. E. CONROY GETS SIX DAYS TO PROCEED WITH SEWER WORK

Mr. Jas. Bogue Has Quit and According to Agreement Mr. Conroy is Liable for Work Being Completed.

For the purpose of settling the trouble over the sewer construction work at the south end of the city, a meeting of the Board of Works was held last evening for nearly two hours.

Mr. Willis Chipman, of Toronto, the contracting engineer of the work, was present.

It will be remembered that Mr. Ed. Conroy, who was originally awarded the contract, asked to be relieved of it, owing to illness, after a considerable part of the work had been done, and it was turned over to Mr. Bogue. The latter has been carrying on the work for some time, but has lately thrown up the job, having come upon some snags, he says, in the shape of quicksand. This being the case, Mr. Conroy has become liable, having originally signed a contract agreeing to have the work completed, and, as City Solicitor Hall remarked, "It was now up to Mr. Conroy to go ahead and finish the job." The latter, however, who was present, said that he was not liable, as the contract, he understood, had been awarded to Mr. Bogue. The city now looks to Mr. Conroy to go ahead within six days and finish the work, and in the event of him not doing this the city will go ahead and have it performed, and Mr. Conroy will be compelled to bear the expense. As there appeared to be no alternative to this, a resolution to that effect was moved and carried.

Quite a bit of discussion was aroused over the question.

Mr. Chipman stated that it was by no means impossible to have the work completed satisfactorily, miles of sewer having been laid under similar adverse conditions.

He also stated that he felt satisfied that if the proper methods had been adopted in the first place the work would have been much further on than it was at present.

Knox Church Society Provided Good Time

The Ladies Aid of Knox Church held an enjoyable lawn social on the lawn of Rev. H. J. Keith, 278 Reid Street last night. The grounds were decorated for the occasion with lanterns and the effect was very pleasing. Tables were laid at which ice cream and cake were served.

A short program was given as follows—

Vocal Solo—Miss M. Penrose.
Vocal Solo—R. Dixon.
Chorus—O. Canada.

The Brotherhood orchestra was in attendance during the evening and supplied suitable music.

BOY SCOUTS GOING TO CAMP

The camp will be arranged in up-to-date order, and will be wired for telegraphy, the Morse code being used. Medicine will be taken along for those who become invalids, as a result of the cooking manoeuvres. The Scouts will be in camp two weeks, and will return on Monday, 14th. They will have two visiting days, the first on Thursday, 3rd, and the second on Saturday the 12th. On the first day, the time will be spent with the boys' parents, and the second day the Scouts will be put on display. The manoeuvres will consist of building rope bridges, cutting down trees, etc. It promises to be a very interesting trip for the boys.

In addition to their regular equipment, the following list will be required of each Scout. The following are to be carried in a haversack:—Soap and towel, knife and fork, tooth brush and cup, hank of cord, change of socks, handkerchiefs, two scout suits, shorts and kharki, one bowl and spoon, one comb and brush, one bathing suit, one hatchet and scout knife, and one scout book. ## OBITUARY

The Late Willie Sullivan

A bright young life was brought to a close yesterday afternoon when William Albert Sullivan, aged 11 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Sullivan, 47 Crescent street, passed away after an illness extending over four months.

William was a bright child and made many friends both in his school mates and others with whom he came in contact. He attended the Lake street school and his studies had been pursued as far as the second book when he was stricken with a severe attack of the whooping-cough, never recovering.

Besides his parents there are four sisters and one brother.

The funeral will take place at nine o'clock Thursday morning from the family residence, 47 Crescent street, to Sacred Heart church and St. Peter's cemetery.

CHILD KNOCKED DOWN BY HORSE

Dorothy Graham Painfully Injured on Aylmer Street

Bone of Right Leg Fractured—Was Playing Game

Little Dorothy Graham, the four-year-old child of Mr. Edward Graham, steward at the Oriental hotel, ran in front of Ald. Kerneghan's delivery wagon last evening and being knocked down sustained a fracture of the right leg and some other minor injuries.

Dorothy with other children, was playing hide-and-seek on the west sidewalk of Aylmer street, north of Murray street, across the lawns. She hid behind a telegraph pole north of the alleyway leading to Ald. Kernehan's stable and as Ross McColl was going over the crossing with the horse and wagon she attempted to run in front of the outfit in order to reach her goal. The horse became frightened and jumped on her, breaking her right leg above the knee and cutting and bruising her face and body.

Drs. Greer and McNulty were called and the child was removed to St. Joseph's Hospital in the Dan Spence amubulance where the bone was set and the wounds dressed.

There is absolutely no blame attached to the driver. It was impossible for him to pull the horse up, as the child did not give him any chance, running immediately in front of the animal. He pulled the horse on to the lawn of Mrs. Kirk, and leaving it, went to the assistance of the child, carrying her to her home in the terrace, nearby. The horse started off and there might have been a runaway to record if Mrs. Kirk had not caught

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Review does not hold itself responsible for opinions expressed by its correspondents

THE PROPOSED BY-LAWS.

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—It is to be regretted that citizens do not feel more responsibility in regard to exercising their franchise at the polls and so helping to determine what is best for the city and its inhabitants, including themselves. Let us have a large turn-out of voters on Friday. As to the question before us I do not know enough of the merits of the two factory schemes, except that our council seems to expect us to support their action. Peterborough is a factory town and factories should receive all reasonable consideration and encouragement. But merely as one citizen I beg to express the hope that voters will not rashly allow this proposed expenditure for new parks. If there is one thing with which we are well supplied in Peterborough, surely it is parks. This is the comment of every visitor, amazed at their extent, and surely it is not to be expected that these parks are to be brought to every man's door. As a matter of fact, we have two centrally situated, and easy means of access to the others from all parts of the city. I have heard considerable surprise expressed that the council has allowed such a question to come forward at all. We see our tax-bills climbing up and feel difficulty of meeting them. There is going to be a great deal more difficulty before long if we don't put some check on the lavish expenditure of public funds. Here is an opportunity for expressing public sentiment on this important point. Are we not in danger of making Peterborough too expensive to live in? This is not a setting of one part of the city against another. The welfare of the whole city is concerned.

Peterborough, July 26th.

Yours,
OBSERVER.

ALL SIDEWALKS TO BE UNIFORM

Board of Works Decides on This for The Future

At the meeting of the Board of Works last evening, a letter was read from the Peterborough Light and Power Company asking permission to erect eleven electric light poles on Hunter street, east of Concession. The company has been given the contract of lighting the lift lock. The request was granted.

The Bell Telephone Company was also allowed permission to lay conduits on Aylmer, Charlotte and George streets, they guaranteeing to be responsible for all the work in connection with it, and to leave the streets in good condition.

Some discussion arose about the laying of sidewalks, and it future it was decided to have all sidewalks uniform, whether they be outside or inside the tree line.

Ald. Duncan asked to have a catch basin put in at the corner of King street and Pearl avenue. A motion to that effect carried.

Ald. Duncan moved, seconded by Ald. Brown, that the water pools which lie at the south end of Aylmer street and at Townsend, between Rubidge and Stewart, be filled with gravel.

NEGLECT TO TIE THEIR HORSES

Prosecution to Follow Where By-law is Not Obeyed

So many runaway accidents have occurred lately that the fact has been revealed that owners of delivery horses fail to see that their horses are tied when left standing outside their places of business. There is a by-law compelling this to be done and Chief Thompson wishes those who have neglected doing so to take notice and act accordingly, ere prosecution commences.

THE CITY'S POWER QUESTION

Rumours have been circulated in Peterborough that Mr. Henry Holgate, the well-known bridge engineer, has become a member of the Seymour Power Company.

This is not true. He has, however, joined a large power company just outside of Montreal.

The Dickson dam proposition, like many others on the river, might be very well handled by the Dominion Government, which could take over the river and sell the power to municipalities. This would save Peterborough and possibly Lakefield a vast expenditure and a great risk; a risk that they are not prepared to run in view of the low rates for electric power, light and so forth, that are now being quoted, or will shortly come into operation.

It is a strange thing that the government has been so willing to tie up its water privileges to private corporations and Peterborough is surely an industrial centre worthy of the plan suggested.

Suppose the Dickson dam and the Lakefield dam, which has got to be rebuilt in a year or two, were both taken over by the Dominion Government and developed far enough to allow Peterborough to get its power at a reasonable rental? At any rate the idea that Peterborough should go into private speculation of its own, when so much power is developed already, either here, or that can be brought here and delivered at a low rate, would be like advocating that a municipal saw mill should be built, when sawn lumber is piled all round us and can be had at a reasonable rate.

It is possible that the Borden Government may take this into consideration and it would be well for the people of Peterborough to urge it upon him. Outside of this proposition no matter what may be said, there is nothing for Peterborough to get. Talk about dam No. 8, down the Trent is merely bluff for political purposes, because everybody knows that all land about No. 8 belongs to the Seymour Power Company, including dam No. 8 itself; and if there is one dam on the river that is out of reach it is dam No. 8.

The immense power being developed at Healey's Falls with its 58 foot fall, will have to find a customer if it is to pay, and now is the time for Peterborough to make contracts and not when power is being parcelled out so that the market is against the city.

McGRAW IN THE O'TOOLE DEAL

Is Going to Make Dreyfuss Fight for Star Twirler

Cincinnati, O., July 25.—A statement issued here by John J. McGraw, manager of the New York National League team, to the effect that the Pitsburg Club would not obtain the services of Pitcher Marty O'Toole of St. Paul without a fight, has been backed up by a certified cheque from the New York club for $15,000, made out to the secretary of the National Baseball Commission.

Accompanying the cheque was a letter from President John T. Brush, of the New York club, explaining that President Lennon of the St. Paul club had entered into a verbal agreement with New York for the sale of O'Toole for $15,000, and that he desired to lay claim to the player.

Though O'Toole was sold to the Pittsburg club Saturday for $22,500, up to last night the National Commission had not been informed of the sale.

Rinks from Whitby, Oshawa, Bowmanville, Newcastle, Port Hope, Cobourg, Belleville, Millbrook, Lindsay, Fairmount, Barrie, Toronto, London and Galt are expected to take part, and it looks like a splendid program of sport for the two days. ## K. O. BROWN WON IN THE FOURTH

Kelly Was Easy For Ad. Wolgast's Mark

Toronto, July 26—Nearly 1,200 members of the Olympic Boxing Club attended the bouts last night at the Island Stadium, and incidentally had their first glimpse of Knockout Brown of New York, of which so much has been circulated within the past year. Brown met Fighting Jack Kelly, of Baltimore, in what was the feature exhibition, but, as usual, the one with the reputation won, Brown knocking out Kelly in the fourth round. Brown, who is a regular wildcat at the fighting game, was head and shoulders over his opponent in every angle of the fighting game.

What claim Kelly ever had of meeting a man of Brown's calibre does not come from what he showed last night. He lacked everything a good fighter has, and in fact, did not even know how to cover up before the vicious onslaught of Brown, who floored him to the mat in every one of the first three rounds for a count of eight before he put him away in the fourth. Brown literally made a chopping block out of his opponent with his choppy punches around the head and ears, while his body punches had Kelly groggy at the finish of every round. An amusing incident happened in the third round with a minute to go, when both fighters went to the ropes and descended to the ground when the posts gave way.

SPORT TALK

The Peterborough footballers are busy getting into the best of condition for the first game for the Ontario finals, which will be played here on Saturday, August 12th. Baracas, of Toronto, are drawn against the locals, whose line-up will be composed of the pick of the C.G.E. champions and the church football league.

The Peterborough ball tossers go to Cobourg this Saturday to meet the lake shore crew, and it is said Leo Downs, who is twirling in the Toronto City League, will be on hand to do the twirling stunts for Cobourg. He ought to bring eight other men with him.

The St. Paul Club now wants $12,000 for Kelly, the receiving partner of O'Toole, for whom the Pittsburg club paid $22,500.

WARSAW NEWS

Three Deaths Which are Greatly Regretted Throughout Community

Warsaw, July 26.—The funeral of the late Mr. Brown was held on Wednesday, July 19th, and was very largely attended. Mr. Brown passed away at his home on the 4th line of Dummer, where he has resided ever since coming to this country, and was hale and hearty until a few months ago, when he was afflicted with cancer. ## BENSFORT ITEMS

Special Correspondence.

Bensfort, July 25.—A correspondent begs to differ with the item in our last week's issue, in which we dealt with the grievance of cattle pasturing on our roads at night. His contradiction is rather contradictory in itself, in that while he disputes our statement as to the existence of a by-law prohibiting the pasturing of animals on our roads between sunset and sunrise, he tells us that our highway is not a pasture field and the owners will be liable for damages in case of accident. Our council controls our roads, and if they pass a by-law prohibiting pasturing on our roads between sunset and sunrise, as we have already stated, and in which we are borne out by the statement of our worthy contemporary, in which he advises the writer and all concerned that our highways are not a pasture field for the farmers, we feel that there is no need for any dispute over the question. The most reckless drivers are the ones most affected over the aforesaid grievance and are the ones to commence a controversy on this subject. We have been fortunate enough, however, to have never had any serious damage from this cause, but having a remedy for the grievance we might just as well apply the remedy and have have it removed. We need not wait until someone is injured before enforcing a by-law which might have prevented the same. He further disputes our statement in regard to a defective local option by-law, wherein we stated that drunkenness and carousing of a most disgraceful nature were being carried on in certain sections of our community. We are sorry to say that the facts do not bear him out in this instance also. We would like to give the writer credit in his work, but he contradicts his own contradictions. We do not wish to have any further controversy on the above subjects. Our worthy friend will likely contradict our quotations of his remarks, but we are willing to abide by the decision of the public as to the meaning in any statement quoted.

Mr. Joseph Perrin, of St. Mary's, Ont., was the guest of his brother-in-law, Mr. Joseph Byers, during the past week.

Mr. Charles Hollinbeck was the guest of Mr. George Wood on Sunday.

Mr. J. W. Wood, Phm. B., of Toronto, and his wife were the guests of MMr. Wood's father, Mr. Thos. Wood, on Sunday.

We are glad to report that Mr. Harry Finnie, whose health has been so impaired as to make medical assistance necessary, was able to accompany his friend, Mr. Richmond Morrison, to Mr. Walter Finnie's on Sunday evening.

Mr. Jeffrey Jewison was renewing acquaintances at Mr. Richard Nurse's on Sunday evening.

Miss Howson, of Otonabee, spent the past week at Mr. Wm. Montrief's.

We are pleased to see that Miss Annie Kerr has returned after spending a week visiting friends in Lindsay.

Mr. Louis Fry was the guest of Mr. William Jewison on Sunday evening.

NORWOOD ITEMS ON CURRENT EVENTS

New Restaurant and Ice Cream Parlor Opened

Water for Fair Grounds Found at 150 Feet

Special Correspondence

Norwood, July 25.—Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Finlay and family left on Monday to spend a few weeks at their delightful summer cottage at Stony Lake.

Miss White of Asphodel has leased the store lately occupied by Mr. G.E. Mills from Miss M.P. Williams and has started a restaurant and ice cream parlor. It is the intention of Miss White to add a stock of groceries in the near future. Miss White should receive the hearty support of the general public as is opening up a store of the above description, she is filling a long felt want.

AN ACCIDENT

While driving in the vic'ntyi of Norwood on Monday evening, Mr. Daniel Kelly of Asphodel met with an accident as the result of his horse taking fright at an automobile. At the present time we have been unable to ascertain the extent of Mr. Kelly's injuries but we trust they are but slight.

WATER FOR FAIR

The directors of the East Peterboro Agricultural Society have had the Marmora well drillers at work on the fair grounds sinking a well for the use of the patrons of the Fall Fair. It has been necessary to drill quite deep before procuring sufficient water to supply the demand for the fair, but after a depth of over 150 ft. had been reached a strong spring was struck, which it is considered will be quite adequate to supply all demands. Several wells of the above description have been sunk in Norwood during the past few months, which are all thoroughly satisfactory.

NEW FLAG POLE

The village council has had a 50ft. flag pole erected in front of the town hall and in public holidays and other days of public rejoicing, or mourning the Union Jack may be seen floating in an official place in our village.

Among those who are enjoying a holiday at Stony Lake are Mr. C. E. Pakenham and family, the family of Mr. Geo. Duffield, Mr. and Mrs. C.W. Waters and family, Miss P.W. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. I. N. Ackerman, Mr. and Mrs. A. Davidson, Mr. Matthew Nicol and family, Mr. and Mrs. J.E. Roxburgh.

Mrs. McCleary and family are enjoying a three weeks outing at Trent Bridge.

Mrs. Sid Hunter, Miss Marjorie Laing, and Miss Alice Johnston of Lakefield are spending a few days in Norwood and vicinity visiting freinds. In Norwood they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. E J. Laing.

Mr. T.E. Dineen of Havelock put on moving pictures in the town hall, Tuesday night. Among the pictures were two films of the coronation.

Mr. Isaac Puffer of Norwood recently purchased from Mr. Hoar of Asphodel, a beautiful black team of horses. The team will be used by Mr. Puffer on the hearse belonging to his son Mr. C. I. Puffer.

Notwithstanding the very uncertain condition of the weather during the past two or three weeks, the farmers of this vicinity are getting along nicely with their harvest. Several have already finished their hay, and most of the fall wheat and rye are cut. Barley is ripe and some fields of spring wheat and oats are ready for the binder. The crops generally are looking exceptionally well. The oat crop looks as if 50 bushels to the acre would be a very common yield.

Norwood has now three happy possessors of fine autos, Messrs. J. Ald. Finlay and E.P. Cuffe each having handsome two seated cars and Mr. Chas. Tucker, a runabout with only one seat with just room enough for two.

The raspberry harvest is now in full swing. The wild berries are very plentiful and pickers are reporting unheard of result. Two local men went out a day or two ago, and in two hours and a half, picked forty pounds. Pretty good work. The berries must have been waiting for them. Another man said he would have filled a wash tub the other day, with black raspberries, if he had wanted to. Evidently he did not want to. Whether these reports are just exactly correct or not does not alter the fact that the berries are an exceptionally good crop and it is no trouble to get enough to satisfy almost any one.

The garden varieties are only a fair crop and prices are a little higher than usual. Crates of two dozen boxes are selling from $2.40 to $2.60 with a good demand.

A shade of gloom was cast over this vicinity on Saturday when word reached here of the death of Leonard Armstrong. The deceased, who was only seventeen years of age was an ex-student of the high school here, and was very highly esteemed by all who knew him. Several months he was obliged to give up school, owing to his health The funeral took place on Sunday afternoon from the home of his father Mr. S. Armstrong in Otonabee, and the remains were interred in Little Lake cemetery at Peterboro. His father and mother and one brother Preston, of home, are left to mourn his loss.

Mr. Arthur Searight attended the funeral of the late Leonard Armstrong in Otonabee on Sunday.

THIEF MEETS WITH MISHAP

Mr. Cliff Scott's fast boat, "The Thief," of Fenelon Falls, met with a serious accident Sunday afternoon, when returning from a trip up the river. The Thief was making fast time, being one of the speediest boats on the water, and was passing Mayor Beal's tannery when the propeller came in violent contact with a log, and propeller and shaft were torn completely out of the boat and left sticking in the floating log. A large hole in the boat was temporarily stuffed and the Thief was towed to land by a passing yacht. — Lindsay Warder.

BELLS ON MY TOES COMING

New York, July 25.—Mrs. Louise Winterfeldt, wife of the banker, who has an apartment at the Ritz-Carlton, created a mild sensation in the hotel by going out about eight o'clock wearing a diamond anklet over a black silk stocking. Judging by the size and brilliancy of the gems, those who saw the anklet estimated its value to be from $25,000 to $50,000.

LAURIER'S LITTLE GAME

Mail and Empire

In a letter from Ottawa Mr. E.W. Thomson, Canadian correspondent of the Boston Transcript, favors his newspaper with some speculations as to the "little game" as he calls it, that may yet be played by the Laurier Government for the carrying out of its engagements in the Knox-Fielding pact. He is careful to mention that the day before his letter was written he was privileged to have a talk with Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Whatever inspiration he may have obtained from this interview, he seems to have left it with fresh hopes that the Government would find a way out, and the way that struck him as the simplest is that of treating the tariff concessions to the United States, not as a part of an international agreement, but as a scheme of Canadian tariff revision. As he points out, the moment Mr. Fielding were to introduce them as tariff changes, pure and simple, they would come into effect. Thus would be obviated the necessity of keeping the United States waiting until the terms of the pact were approved by Parliament and proclaimed by the Governor-in-Council. Thus would the Opposition be outmanoeuvred, at least temporarily, and the ordeal of a general election would for a time be averted by the Government. Of course, the Opposition would have to be reckoned with before the tariff resolutions in question could be turned into a Tariff Act, and the Opposition might in the end succeed in having the matter referred to the people. But the arrangement would be very agreeable to the United States, and for that [illegible] might commend itself to [illegible] Government. It would instantly give that country the benefit of the concessions to which Mr. Fielding committed Canada in the pact, whereas the Washington Government would withold the concessions on its side until Canada's tariff legislation was completed.

MATRIMONIAL HOAX

Would-be Husbands and Wives in a Paris Cafe Who all Wore White Roses

A well-planned hoax had an amusing result at a Paris cafe. A few days ago two advertisements appeared in the newspapers. One of them was supposed to be from a rich woman who was looking for a young husband who need not necessarily have any money; the other from a rich man who was looking for a young wife. In this case also there was no need for the woman to have means of her own.

Answers to these advertisements came in by hundreds. Both had been written by the same person. To each one of them a reply was sent, asking the man or woman, as the case might be, to meet the "advertiser" at the cafe. It was also requested of each man and woman that a white rose should be worn for identification purposes.

Having made these plans, the advertiser then wrote to the police saying that there was to be a big demonstration of Royalists at a certain cafe. Thirty detectives were accordingly on the scene.

Soon large numbers of young men and young women began to assemble at the cafe. At first the white rose that each one wore was regarded as a coincidence, but it soon became evident that they were the victims of a hoax, and after a little embarrassment, followed by hearty laughter, the crowd dispersed.

I have often been severely criticised because of failure to appreciate a song as much as the girl who sang it.

When you go on a journey and expect someone to meet you at the station, and no one does, ever notice how funny you feel?

One of the greatest accomplishments in the world is to be able to back up the minute you find yourself going wrong.

More people seem to be reaching that desperate frame of mind where they don't care if the neighbors do know what they do on Sunday.

ERLE WELLER WAS DROWNED THROUGH CANOE UPSETTING

His Companion Was Rescued in Unconscious Condition.

An Edmonton exchange has the following to say of the drowning of Erle Weller:

A drowning accident took place this afternoon at Lake Wabamum, forty miles west of here, whereby Erle Weller, aged 23, of this city, lost his life. He had gone to the lake to spend the week-end with W. C. Bradburn, of the Bradburn Stationery Company, and both had gone for a sail on the lake. The canoe upset and both clung to the bottom. Weller finally was exhausted and dropped off. Bradburn was rescued in an unconscious condition. The body has not yet been recovered. Weller is a native of Peterborough and a son of the late Judge Weller. Bradburn is also a former Peterborough boy.

MAY HAVE TO GO OUTSIDE FOR LABORING MEN

Not Sufficient Help Available in This City

Operations of the Auburn Power Company for their new power house are progressing as rapidly as labor conditions will permit. Considerable trouble is being experienced in securing sufficient help. The company proposes to go ahead with such work on the new power dam, during the winter, as can advantageously be done. It will be built some distance south of the present dam, but this work will not hold back the operations of the power house in any way.

Asked as to how the work of installing gas main extensions was proceeding, Mr. W. H. Munro told the Review to-day that the company was being held back because men could not be secured.

"We are thinking seriously of bringing outside men here", said Mr. Munro.

The street car extensions, Mr. Munro intimated, would be commenced just as soon as the company was in a position to do so. The bodies of the new cars have not yet arrived, although they were ordered to be here by the first of this month. The motors and other electrical works to be installed by the Canadian

BOOSTING PETERBORO

To the Editor of the Review.

BOOSTING PETERBOROUGH.

Sir,—Do you consider it fair that a man should be fined for his industry—provided of course that his industry is for the well-being of the town? I shall illustrate what I have in mind by two examples of actual fact, and would like to have an expression of opinion from you editorially and also from an many of your readers as may care to reply through your columns.

Our city assessors have made their rounds. They have done their work as per orders. Let us consider if these orders, or the work resulting from the orders, are fair.

FINED FOR IMPROVEMENT.

A year ago a certain house and lot in this beautiful city of Peterborough was in a run-down state and in need of repair. It changed hands and the new owner installed some improvements—amongst others a coat of paint. On the strength of these improvements his assessment is raised $200 this year. Can you tell me where the justice is in this proceeding? The improvements that have been made add greatly to the general appearance of the city. Can we expect him to make further improvements when treated thus to an increased assessment?

ASSESSMENT RAISED—IS IT JUST?

Another case: This same party had a vacant lot. It was assessed at $350. He built a house on it. The assessor has come along and increased the assessment by $1,650. What do you think about that?

The assessor only did his duty! Certainly. On the other hand are we ratepayers of Peterborough doing ours? Shall we continue to allow this iniquitous system to continue?

VACANT LOTS VS. HOUSES.

Is it better for the town that this lot in question should be built upon? Or would it be better for everyone if it had been kept vacant? Can we expect people to invest money in new houses simply to be taxed heavily and forthwith, for the improvement and benefit they contribute to the city?

THE REMEDY.

For all this evil, which we are heaping upon ourselves, there is remedy. It is to place all taxes upon the land—upon the land values. Then the man who builds will pay taxes, no more, no less, than his neighbor, who owns that vacant lot beside his new building, and which lot is being increased in value by that new building to which the owner of that vacant lot has contributed not the slightest.

HOW IT WORKS ELSEWHERE.

Two of the most progressive and rapidly growing cities of Canada today have done away with this old-time injustice of taxing improvements—of "fining" industry. These cities are Vancouver and Edmonton. All of the taxes in these cities are collected from the land values only. The holder of a vacant lot pays the same taxes as his neighbor beside that lot on whose lot a house or other structure has been erected. What is the result? your readers may ask. It results in a great number of houses being built and very few vacant lots being held for very long for speculative purposes. It means rapid growth and good times for everybody in those cities.

LET US HAVE IT IN PETERBOROUGH.

Our ratepayers and city fathers will do well to consider this matter and adopt the idea of land values at the earliest possible date. We in Peterborough do not want to lag behind. We want our town to grow and to be the best city in Canada—which it can be made by the introduction of a few reforms amongst which the greatest and the most needed is that of this fair and just means of taxation to replace the barbarous and town-killing method now in vogue within our city.

NEW LIFE FOR PETERBOROUGH.

Adopt the idea of taxation of land values only, leave improvements free in Peterborough and we will enter on a new lease of life and a period of unprecedented prosperity. Vacant lots, like the one at the corner of Charlotte and George, will be built up, much to our mutal advantage. Owners of such lots wil then soon tire of paying what will be their rightful tax upon vacant property. They will build and progress, or give way to others who will. Our citizens can then build houses and they can improve their old houses without being made to pay taxes for another.

Let us encourage—not discourage—industry within our bounds; let us bring about this much needed reformation in our system of taxation, and then watch us grow! Others will then come to grow with us.

"BOOSTER".

FESTIVAL OF EMPIRE AT TORONTO FAIR

Just picture to yourself the lawn in front of Windsor Castle with a dozen bands playing into line detachments of uniformed men from every arm of England's Army, Navy and Colonies. And when this mass of music and color is in position 500 men with lanterns moving through the varied figures of a fancy drill, while the chimes come clear and mellow from the tower of the castle. Hear the twelve massed bands in the grand national Fantasia and McKenzie Rogan's Festival of Empire. See the assembled troops reviewed by Lord Kitchener, and then as they fade away, out into the night, a great living Union Jack of fire and color and graceful feminity breaks out from the darkness, and you will have some idea of the music and beauty that combine to make "The Festival of Empire."

WILL HAVE A REPRESENTATIVE IN PETERBOROUGH

Mr. W. J. Kent, druggist, at the corner of George and Hunter streets, has made arrangements with the celebrated International College of Ophthalmology, Toronto, by which a representative of that famous firm will be in Peterborough the week of July 22 to 29 prepared to test eyes and fit persons needing them with proper glasses. The firm is so well known throughout Canada that little need be said in their praise. When it is stated that last year in Canada they fitted no less than ten thousand people some idea of the immensity of the operations carried on by them may be had. In Peterborough alone last year five hundred people were fitted with glasses, and their work has been pronounced eminently satisfactory in every case. No better endorsation of the merits of their work could be given than the fact that the International College of Opthalmology has fitted nearly all the representatives of Canada shooting in the rifle matches at Bisley and Wimbledon. Surely no person has to be more careful about his eyes than a crack shot, and the fact that the greater number of Canada's team have patronized the International College speaks well for the efficiency of their work and the merit of their products.

PAINTERS ARE UP IN THE AIR

Tower of Town Clock Putting on New Clothes

The repairs to the market clock which was damaged by lightning, are still under way. The carpentry work has been completed, and the painters, in charge of Mr. Urial Hawley, are at present engaged in making it look greatly improved. The task at which they are engaged is one that calls for a fairly good share of nerve, and yesterday the high wind whirled around the tower with tornado strength.

The wooden posts supporting the cupola were badly rotted and three new ones were put in, with two brackets each. One coat of paint has been applied and when completed, the tower will be vastly improved.

DIVISION OF UNIONISTS IN ENGLAND IS ON THE ISSUE OF CREATION OF PEERS

So Earl of Selborne Declares at Banquet in London—Disturbers in Commons Make Speeches—Asquith's Name Greeted With Cries of "Traitor."

London, July 27.—The banner of revolt against the party leaders was raised last night at a dinner given in honor of the Earl of Halsbury, which the extremists among the Unionists intended should be a demonstration of their strength. Several hundred Unionist peers, members of the House of Commons and party workers filled the largest dining hall in London and cheered the policy of resistance.

The Earl of Selborne, who is credited with being a candidate for Lord Lansdowne's place as leader of the Opposition in the House of Lords, presided, and conspicuous among the diners were the Duke of Bedford, the Duke of Northumberland, the Duke of Westminster, Baron Ampthill, Lord Hugh Cecil, Austen Chamberlain, Fred. E. Smith, M.P. for the Waltham division of Liverpool, and the Rt. Hon. George Wyndham, who was Chief Secretary for Ireland in 1900-05, with a seat in the Cabinet in Mr. Balfour's Ministry, 1902.

The younger Unionists and tariff reformers composed the bulk of the company. A letter from Rt. Hon. Joseph Chamberlain was read, in which he said, "I heartily support the object of the meeting. The country owes a great debt to Lord Halsbury, since in this crisis of its history he has refused to surrender his principles."

The Earl of Selborne said that the House of Lords were trustees to the people for their powers and rights under the constitution. He concluded amid cheers, "In this crisis each peer has an individual constitutional responsibility, which is above all party ties. If his conception of his duty differs from that of his leaders, he must obey his own, not theirs. Our duty is to stand by the amendments unless and until we are outvoted.

"The division in our party," continued Lord Selborne, "is on the single issue of the creation of peers. When that issue is past the party will close its ranks and fight for the restoration of the constitution and repeal the Parliament act."

Lord Halsbury was given a great ovation. He spoke with his customary vigor. He said that Lord Lansdowne had declared in the House of Lords that if the bill passed no institution, nor the crown, nor the union, nor the church, nor political liberties would be safe.

"If that is the effect, and I solemnly believe it will be, are we justified in standing aside when we might vote against the bill?" asked the speaker. "Ought we to evade the responsibility? If it is right to do it, we ought to vote for the bill. If it is not right, we ought to do the most in our power to resist it. If one of the authors of this outrage on the constitution were to be impeached, and the impeachment was properly presented, what could be said of those who, knowing what was to be done, did not vote against it?"

Austen Chamberlain made a stirring speech. When he had finished there were cries of "the future Prime Minister." A hard reference to Premier Asquith was greeted with shouts of "traitor."

Mr. Chamberlain said it was unthinkable that a great historic assembly like the House of Lords, with its fine traditions behind it, should acquiesce in the surrender of its constitutional rights and national duty.

Mr. Wyndham, the Duke of Northumberland, the Marquis of Salisbury, Lord Milner, Sir Edward Carson, Mr. Smith and Lord Hugh Cecil spoke. All referred to the leaders in friendly terms, but insisted that the question of voting was one for individual consciences.

The final solution of the political crisis is uncertain, but it may now safely be assumed that Balfour and Lansdowne will remain in the saddle as leaders of the Unionist party.

Mr. Balfour, at one of the most serious crises in his career, has again proved himself to be an astute party leader. No sooner was his letter affirming his intention to stand or fall by Lord Lansdowne published than the insipient mutiny collapsed. The organizers of the Halsbury banquet tumbled over each other in their hasty repudiation of disloyalty to Mr. Balfour. A list of more than 230 peers is published this morning who, by letter, declared themselves to be supporters of Lord Lansdowne's policy, and that they will allow the Parliament bill to pass under protest.

The exact number of peers adhering to the Earl of Halsbury is not known, but it is believed that the number will not exceed 130. As, however, Lord Lansdowne's present intention is merely to abstain, and not to vote for the bill when it is returned to the House of Lords, the insurgents could still defeat the bill unless the Government decides upon the creation of sufficient peers, or Lord Lansdowne decides to vote for the bill—a course which is considered exceedingly improbable.

Several days are likely to elapse before the results of the numerous conferences the political leaders have had with the King and each other are seen, and it is probable that the Government will be obliged further to postpone consideration of the Parliament bill in the House of Commons beyond that.

Great enthusiasm was displayed at the Halsbury banquet last night, but all the speakers emphasized the view that they could exercise individual judgment without necessarily causing a breach in the party or implying disloyalty to the leaders.

Orgy of Ruffianism.

Northampton, England, July 27.—Augustine Birrell, Chief Secretary for Ireland, making reference here last night to the recent crying down of Premier Asquith in the House of Commons, said: "The language hurled at the Premier's head in the House of Commons would have disgraced a gambling hell or a thieves' kitchen. It was a cold-blooded, as well as an organized orgy of stupidity and ruffianism.

PASS THE THREE BY-LAWS

The vote on the by-laws to-morrow, Friday, 27th, should be full and complete. The interests of the city demand that these be passed.

It is little use to propose to encourage new industries if we do not take care of those we have. As much is lost by indifference as is gained by enterprise. We know the value of those now with us, the value of those to come is conjectured.

The Ackerman Co. by-law asks a reasonable fixing of the rate of taxation, and the extension of the business is guaranteed. From the men employed in the factory we get one set of taxes. It is hardly possible to get two sets, one from the employer, who provides the work, and another from the workman who executes it. If we get one-and-one half sets we are about even. No factory in the city is on a more solid, substantial basis and offers a more permanent employment than that of the Ackerman Co. This should be recognized by a favorable vote for the by-law.

The Lock Co. by-law should be passed, and the reasons are similar to those advanced for the Ackerman by-law. The company is making a fight for the Canadian market, and has had uphill work for years. In spite of this it has steadily furnished employment, from year to year, and has added to the gross amount of manufactured goods exported from the city. In no sense does it offer competition to local industries. The factory should receive the support implied in the passing of the by-law.

The Parks by-law should be passed. It is due parts of the city that it have park privileges. The older sections are well supplied, but there are others. Parks are a mighty good thing for the future, and now is the time to secure them. The lands are really more of an investment than anything else. They are always worth the money put into them, and can be turned into money at any time. The by-law should have the hearty endorsation of the electorate who vote on it.

Vote for the by-laws.

RIGHT LUNG WAS PIERCED

Altercation Between Italians Brought About Fight.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., July 27.—As the result of a serious stabbing affray in vicinity of Tagone Station, Frank Dini and George Galton, Italians, are at the General Hospital, and in the case of the latter scant hope of his recovery is entertained, as his right lung is pierced, and he is continually spitting blood.

According to his story, Dini, who is less injured than Galton, called at his house on James street, at 7 o'clock Monday night and the pair went for a walk. They had not proceeded far when an altercation ensued and hard words passed between the pair. Dini states that Galton demanded money from him, but this excuse is scouted by those who know Galton best. They state he is known as an honest man.

Young Heroes.

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 27.—Gratification is felt here over the announcement that Scout George Scott of this city, and Scout Victor Graham of Tillsonburg, have been nominated for the silver heroism medal for rescuing George Baxter from drowning in the Welland River on Victoria Day.

Electrocuted.

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 27.—The body of Peter McKinnon, 40 years old, was last night brought here for burial in the family plot in Fairview Cemetery to-morrow. McKinnon was electrocuted in the Lockport cold storage plant. He was a life-long resident of this city.

Taken to Hospital.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., July 27.—Mrs. Neopolitana, recently committed for life imprisonment for the murder of her husband, was removed to the hospital here at midnight, for the delivery of her child, after which she will be taken to Kingston penitentiary.

Ecclesiastical Changes.

Montreal, July 27.—A change in the Redemptorist Order came into effect yesterday whereby the order in Canada, which had been a vice-province of Belgium, was raised to the dignity of a province of Canada. The provincial is Father Lemieux of Beaupre.

The change means the taking over of three houses formerly under American jurisdiction — those at Toronto, Quebec and St. John, N.B., and their union in one province with six Canadian houses, Montreal, Beaupre, Ottawa, Brandon, Hochelaga, and Yorkton.

ARE CUTTING THE FIRST OAT CROP

Morden Farmer Will Average 50 Bushels to Acre.

Morden, Man., July 27.—J. W. Shaver, a farmer, living one mile south of Morden, is busy cutting the first oat crop to be harvested here. The field, which was sown early, is well filled and should easily average 50 bushels to the acre. The crops to the south and southwest of Morden are the best ever seen in that district and the wheat fields should average 25 bushels to the acre. A hot dry wind from the south has been blowing all day, but outside of stopping haying while it continues, will not injure the grain crop, which is filling and ripening rapidly.

BIG EMPRESS ON THE ROCKS

All Passengers Were Taken to Land in Safety.

Special to the Review.

Yokohama, July 27.—C.P.R. steamer Empress of China is on the rocks near Yokohama and may be a total loss. She is already badly damaged. All the passengers were safely landed.

Score Burned by Lightning.

Monticello, N.Y., July 27.—Twenty New Yorkers, at a large boarding house here, were injured yesterday, when the house, which is run by Charles Garetsky, was struck by a bolt of lightning. One woman, Sarah Grabner, will probably die.

The bolt entered the house at the roof, passed through several rooms, and went out through the hall, where they sat. The freakish part of the accident was that every one of the twenty was burned on the top of the head.

May Elect Canadian.

Chatham, Ont., July 27.—Word was received here yesterday of the death of Congressman George W. Knipp of Towanda, Pa., president of the Chatham, Wallaceburg and Lake Erie Railway, in Vancouver, B.C. It is rumored that D. A. Gordon, M.P., of Wallaceburg, the present vice-president of the road, will be elected president in Mr. Knipp's place.

Goes to Montreal.

Montreal, July 27.—At a meeting of the Montreal presbytery in Knox Presbyterian Church, the principal business dealt with was a call from Livingstone Church, Montreal, to Rev John Pate of Lancaster, Ont. In view of his acceptance arrangements were made for his induction on August 17.

BONES OF CHILD WERE DISCOVERED

Skeleton Found in Lot During Excavation Work.

St. Catharines, July 27.—Residents of the northern portion of the city were thrown into very great excitement yesterday afternoon by the finding of the skeleton of a child, apparently two or three years old, in a lot on Wiley street, on which work had been started for the erection of a new house. No one can remember a dwelling ever having been on the lot, and, as remains were found close to the present sidewalk, it is thought the child must have been buried a considerable length of time.

Chief of Police Green has taken charge of the bones [illegible]

FOR CLOSER RELATIONS

General Garcia, of Cuba, Makes Overtures for Reciprocity.

Amity Would be Assisted by Reduced Postal Rate.

Toronto, July 27.—Intimate trade relations between Cuba and Canada were advocated by Gen. Carlos Garcia, the famous Cuban soldier and diplomat, who achieved great prominence in the Cuban war for independence, before the Toronto Board of Trade yesterday afternoon. Gen. Garcia declared that reciprocity between Canada and Cuba would be of considerable benefit to the tables and pockets of both countries. It would, he said, be the pleasantest kind of an agreement, because the products of both countries were of such a nature that in no way would they come into competition with each other. Also, he thought, a postal treaty between the two countries would be of much benefit.

"What I would like to emphasize to your Government is the necessity for getting into closer amicable and commercial relations with Cuba. Perhaps in the near future—five or six months—it would honor me greatly to come back to you and then public opinion might be prepared, and we could make representations to the Government at Ottawa as to the advantages that would be given to both countries by a compact," he said.

The Board of Trade, which was very well represented, applauded Gen. Garcia's sentiments, and those members who spoke after the general averred that they were in accord with him in wishing for an exchange on a satisfactory basis of the products of the two countries.

"If we could get a line of steamships plying between Cuban and Canadian ports—after the consummation of trade treaties — Canadians would be able to purchase pineapples two for five cents, grape fruit five cents apiece, tomatoes at $1.25 per crate, and other fruit at as agreeable prices, all in the depth of winter, when your lakes were frozen, your hills are in the grip of winter and your thermometers register the awful temperature of 20 below zero."

GERMAN PRESS IS WARLIKE

Tells Great Britain She Must Keep Hands Off

Special to the Review.

Berlin, July 27.—Unmistakably belligerent is the tone of the German press to-day on the Moroccan situation. Great Britain is bluntly told to keep her hands off. This is believed to be the attitude of the government.

WILL SHE ?

London, July 27.—Leave of absence on all warships has been stopped, and it is said that orders have been issued for the second division of the home fleet to coal up immediately.

Stays In Asylum Awhile.

Montreal, July 27.—Alma Vecera, now Mrs. George Osborne Hayne, has dropped the action to release Justin B. McDougall from Benoit, St. Joseph Asylum, and the case was dismissed with costs. The young people have decided to bow to the father's will. McDougall will stay in the asylum for the time being, but may leave any day. They met at the court yesterday.

"We will soon get married," she said to Justin, "won't we, dear?"

"Yes, as soon as you get your divorce I will marry you, and we will be very happy," was the reply.

"We will go to Vienna," she went on, "and there we will move among counts and barons and dukes. It will be lovely."

The Austrian consul says of the claim to royal blood, that it is not impossible, but it is improbable.

Ottawa Candidates.

Ottawa, July 27.—The approach of a general election is arousing a great interest as to who will be in the field locally. There is little doubt that H. B. McGiverin will again be the candidate of the English-speaking Liberals. For the French Liberal candidature, however, A. A. Allard, M.P., will probably have opposition. Dr. Chevrier, Oscar Forest and Alderman Pinard are known to be out for the honor. Among the candidates mentioned for the Conservative nominations are: A. E. Fripp, M.P.P.; J. A. Ellis, Thomas Birkett, ex-M.P., and P. D. Ross, for the English-speaking, and Dr. Chabot and A. A. Taillon for the French. Dr. Chabot is the man whom Sir Wilfrid Laurier defeated here in the last general election.

TORONTO MAN BREAKS RECORD

Special to the Review.

Mineola, N.Y., July 27.—St. Croix Johnstone, an aviator, who is a native of Toronto, was successful in breaking the American endurance record to-day by remaining in the air two minutes over four hours.

PUGSLEY WHITEWASHED; VOTE OF CENSURE TURNED DOWN

Motorboat Missing.

New York, July 27.—No word has been received regarding the whereabouts of the motorboat Snapshot III., at the National Yacht Club, from whose wharf in Gravesend Bay the boat departed last Saturday with three other contestants in the Reciprocity race to Halifax.

The Snapshot III. was owned and sailed by J. B. Lindemann of this city, a wealthy dealer in optical goods. With him were his wife, who was the only woman aboard any of the racers, and a crew of three.

Two Arbitration Treaties.

Washington, July 27.—It is believed here that both the Anglo-American and Franco-American general arbitration treaties can be made ready for signature by Saturday or Monday.

A few technical adjustments remain to be made in the text of the French treaty and these are now being wrought out at the State Department, which is in constant cable communication with Paris.

Leach Resting Easily.

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 27.—Bobby Leach is resting as easily as can be expected at his home last night after his sensational barrel trip over the Horseshoe Falls on Tuesday. Dr. Wilson said last night that Leach's most serious injury was the bruise on his head. The cut on the left knee is very painful. Leach will be about in several days.

HEAVY LOSS BY FIRE AT MILL

Seventy Five Thousand Dollars Goes up in Smoke

Special to the Review.

Cayuga, July 27.—Fire last night completely burned the gypsum mill of the Crown Plaster Company, which was situated at Lythmore on M.C. The loss will be seventy-five thousand dollars, and it is believed that one employe, a foreigner, who slept in the office and is missing, was burned to death.

Fisher Not Disloyal.

London, July 27.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Premier Murray, speaking at a dinner last night, said his opinion of Andrew Fisher's remarks had been misunderstood by his interviewer. He had no brief for Fisher, but knew that statesman too well to credit him with the slightest disloyalty to the Mother Country in the matter of treaties. Fisher must be judged, he says, by his public utterances in England, in which not a breath of anything could be turned into disloyalty.

Says It's All a Mistake.

Kingston, July 27.—Walter Mitchell, a convict, applied to the American consul here as an American citizen to straighten out his identity. He claims he is denied clemency because he is mistaken for another man. His case had been previously looked into and his claims were found to be unfounded. Mitchell will likely be deported when he is released, and it is said he fears arrest on reaching the other side.

Personalities Mark Debate on York, N.B., Man's Resolution Regarding Wasted Expenditure of $33,000 on Dredging Contract at Gasperaux.

Ottawa, July 27.—Hon. Wm. Pugsley, Minister of Public Works, who might otherwise be known as the darling of the gods, was sustained by the House of Commons last night on a strict party division on a vote of censure preferred by S. O. Crockett (York, N.B.) in respect of a wasted expenditure of $33,000 for dredging at Gasperaux. The attack on the Minister began during the morning sitting of the House, continued all afternoon, and a vote was not reached until 11 o'clock in the evening. The contract of the dredging, if there was one, was awarded to the Maritime Dredging Co., composed of John E. Moore and George McAvity, "cronies of the Minister of Public Works," and business associates as well, said Mr. Crockett. The work was done just prior to the election of 1908, was later abandoned by the contractors as unprofitable, the excavation has been filled in, and it is now proposed to continue the work.

H. R. Emmerson defended Dr. Pugsley vigorously.

Other speakers were Dr. Reid (Grenville), Samuel Barker (Hamilton), and Arthur Meighen (Portage la Prairie).

Arthur Gilbert (Drummond and Arthabaska) voted with the Opposition, amid Liberal cheers and taunts of "you can have him. He won't be here long." Sir Wilfrid Laurier, for the first time in many session, did not vote. Mr. Crockett received an ovation from the Conservatives when he registered his vote, Mr. Pugsley was loudly cheered by the Liberals when he rose, and until the noise subsided cast ominious glances oppositionwards.

In making his reply, Hon. Dr. Pugsley said he had never heard so many base insinuations and charges in his long public career. They did not worry him very much. It was a habit of men of small minds to seek to tear down the reputations of those held in higher esteem than they, and more successful in life.

"As I walk down the street," he added, "I do not think it desirable to turn at every cur that barks at my heels." His answer was that the dredging company, so far from having a soft job, had lost money on that part of the work that they had done, and threw up the contract as unprofitable. The money which was paid them for the work done had been certified as reasonable by the chief engineer of the department and other engineers.

Samuel Barker (Hamilton) said that, under the circumstances disclosed by the evidence before the public accounts committee, a fair inference would be that the Minister of Public Works said to Mr. Moore, one of the contractors, "Bring in your tender, and whatever it is it will be accepted. No other tender was received, and before the expiration of the advertised date the Maritime Dredging Co. was at work. "There was no formal contract other than the word of the Minister," said Mr. Barker.

FRANCE AND SPAIN BOTH ANXIOUS TO AVOID TROUBLE

Victimized American Consul.

Kingston, July 27.—U. S. Consul Johnson has been victimized by a fellow-countryman, a commercial traveler who borrowed money until his check arrived. Both man and check are missing. The same man got money from a merchant to pay freight charges, but he has not turned up since.

Eastern Ontario Stock Show.

Ottawa, July 27.—The executive of the Eastern Ontario Live Stock and Poultry Show, has fixed January 16th to 19th, 1912, as the date of its next exhibition here. The prize lists have been increased to $12,000 heavy additions being made in the horse department.

The Pope Better.

Rome, July 27.—The Pope was better last night, his temperature being nearly normal. The doctors, however, refused to set any date upon which he might resume his audiences.

VIOLENCE USED IN PEDDLERS' STRIKE

One Man Struck With Hatchet and May Die.

Chicago, July 27.—Violence was renewed yesterday in the peddlers' strike. Wagons were overturned and vegetables destroyed in various parts of the city, the persons suffering being chiefly hucksters who had declined to quit, attempting to make sales while the strike was on.

The peddlers are seeking to compel the repeal of an ordinance which prohibts yelling and similar noises in the street. The police responded to several calls before noon. Sam Goldberg, a peddler, was perhaps fatally injured when he was attacked by a mob of 100 men and women and struck with a hatchet on the head. Four policemen were injured in quelling this disturbance.

Draw up Modus Vivendi to Prevent Repetition of Incidents Such as Have Come to Pass in Morocco.

Madrid, July 27.—The main lines of a Franco-Spanish modus vivendi to prevent a repetition of incidents such as have occurred recently at Alcazar, Morocco, have been drawn up. It is expected that the agreement will be signed before the end of the week.

Paris, July 27.—A closer understanding between France and Spain appears a probability, both countries being anxious to avoid difficulties growing out of clashes between the respective authorities in Northern Morocco. Definite arrangements are likely to be published within a few days.

Le Temps, pointing out that the Germans seem to be astonished at the clearness and vivacity of French public opinion, remarks that, as usual, the Germans are incapable of understanding that their proceedings are offensive to France and directly harmful to the end they seek.

"Germany thought that the despatch of a warship to Agadir was all that was necessary to bring about the arrangement they had in mind," says Le Temps. "By a singular error they are finding they have spoiled everything.

The Journal Des Debates considers the existing tension inevitable, and says that it need cause no surprise. When the opposing points of view have been made to stand out clearly, the solution will be easier.

"Germany asks as compensation," says the paper, "territory about equal to the whole of Morocco. If she makes a more reasonable claim France will be ready to listen."

Berlin, July 27.—The tone of the newspapers in discussing the Moroccan question is much calmer this morning. The Local Anzieger, however, says: "Germany is not inclined to permit such wanton and frivolous intervention as is preached in the English press," and warns meddlesome disturbers to keep their hands off.

Catarrhal Deafness

Successfully Treated By

Catarrhozone

Deafness is not so common as blindness, yet thousands are more or less afflicted by it, and their comfort seriously interfered with.

Catarrhal deafness manifests itself but slowly, yet it must be acknowledged that the great majority of those who become totally deaf might have averted this unfortunate condition if they had treated the catarrhal inflammation at its beginning.

The only remedy that can be safely employed for all forms of catarrhal deafness is Catarrhozone. You simply charge the air you breathe with this healing, soothing agent, and by forcing it gently through the ears destroy the germ life which keeps up the inflammation, and at the same time by the soothing, healing action it heals the inflamed surfaces of the middle ear.

CATARRHOZONE, to those who are just a little deaf, and are growing increasingly deaf, is an agent capable of affording the utmost satisfaction, and its use is attended without danger, and as the treatment can be carried on at home no person threatened with the affliction of deafness should postpone one moment in beginning its use.

From every part of the Dominion glowing accounts of the beneficial action it exerts upon catarrhal conditions of the middle ear have been sent in, and you will be resorting to the only method of cure, and the simplest method too, if you try Catarrhozone. Dealers everywhere sell it, 25c, 50c, and $1.00, or by mail from The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Ont.

THURSDAY, JULY 27, 1911.

NAVAL CADETS

Admiral Kingsmill is positive and even vehement in his assurances that "Neither the Niobe nor Rainbow were bought or intended as fighting ships," and on this point we have the least intention in the world of taking issue with him. "There has never been any intention," he continues, "that these particular ships should be used for any purpose other than that of training naval cadets." Again we cannot but compliment the Admiral on the sailor-like frankness and simplicity of his statement. With it as a basis, some very illuminating investigations into the rather hazy purposes and accomplishments of the Department of Marine are made possible, says the Montreal Star.

According to a parliamentary return made during the present session of the House, it costs the people of Canada $1,726 a day for the "upkeep" of the Niobe, and $809 for that of the Rainbow, which figures out at the rate of $925,275 a year for the two warships. Our naval cadets at present number twenty, and their course of training, as naval cadets, lasts two years. By a very simple process of arithmetic, we arrive at the inevitable conclusion that it is costing us $46,263 a year to train each cadet. This, we take it, is an international record.

At the end of his second year, by which time we will have spent $920,527.50, on his naval training, our cadet ought to be of great value to Canada and the Empire. Measured by the scale of cost, each Canadian midshipman will be equivalent to half a submarine or a quarter of a new torpedo-boat destroyer. On the same basis, he ought to know between thirty and forty times as much as the cadet who graduates at the same time from Osborne, though we hesitate, for obvious reasons, to over-elaborate this fact.

Taken any way you please, these are amazing statistics which will well repay study and reflection.

POWER CORPORATIONS

Hamilton could not stand for Cataract methods of squeezing the people for power and lighting, and although $500,000 looked good to the citizens, they decided to spend it on a municipal power and light system, just to have a municipal check on the operations of the big private corporation. In these days of anti-corporation sentiment—in the matter of public utilities, he is a wise manager who does not unnecessarily antagonize the public. The utilities of the people must be reasonably and judiciously handled, for the squeezing process is a game at which two parties can play.

During the recent power campaign in Hamilton, one business man told of asking for power from the Cataract Co. He wanted 200 h.p. continuous power, and was quoted 1-2 cent per horse power hour, or a rate of $42.50 per horse power. Such a rate is unheard of in many small municipalities that cannot boast of being electrical centres like Hamilton. The truth of the situation in Hamilton—and which is of interest to Peterborough, indirectly—is that while the Cataract Company has given cost prices to some big manufacturers, it has pursued the policy of extorting whatever it has been able to get out of smaller consumers, and some small users are paying as high as $100 a horse-power.

The Cataract has sold power a most to its present capacity to develop; and it is so with every corporation which finds its product absorbed—it seeks to increase its profits by advancing the price. Peterborough is safe from extreme prices, or from the squeezing process, while there is still a large unsold surplus, but the city has no guarantee, except its franchise, that efforts would not be made to advance the price if the companies' production was all taken. This is an age, not of competition between private companies, but of combination, and co-operation. While as compared with most places, Peterborough is not being badly treated in the matter of power prices, every civic safegaurd possible should be provided that it will always remain so, or even be bettered as time goes on.

Cheap power is a magical phrase for municipalities, and the city should sift to the bottom the question of municipal development, and thus make sure of knowing that at least due consideration has been given to the possibilities of the richly endowed Trent Valley district.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Reciprocity will, according to the latest advices, sweep the country for Mr. Borden.

The majority of the House of Commons must rule, but when 49 per cent of the Canadian people are not represented by that majority, the opinions of the majority don't form the final substance of public opinion, after all.

If young Mr. Kerr tries to tell the farmers of East Peterborough about their wheat and barley and cheese and cattle, and such things, it will be in order to ask him where he qualifies as an expert. Mr. Sexsmith is an ideal farmer's representative, and no outsider, either!

Risky to Marry Money.

Apropos of a beautiful young wife, worth $40,000,000, who had just divorced her penniless husband in order to marry again, Henry E. Dixey, the comedian, said at a dinner:

"The young man who marries for money has none too easy a time of it. His rich wife is likely to tire of him and throw him out in a few years, or else she is likely to limit his allowance to 25 or 50 cents a day.

"'I married money,' a man once said to me.

"'Wasn't there a woman attached to it?' I asked.

"'Yes, you bet there was,' he exploded. 'So much attached to it that she never parted with a penny.'"

An Insect Gunner.

Many insects have some means of defense from their natural enemies, none of which is more curious than that of a small beetle, which, when closely pursued, discharges a puff of poisonous vapor with a distinct detonation. Undoubtedly in many instances this aids the diminutive gunner in his escape, mainly, in all probability, by startling his pursuer and causing him to abandon the chase. From this peculiar acquirement, this little fellow is kown as the bombardier beetle.

An Ignorance of Values.

"You shouldn't have said you could hire all the brains you need for $25 a week," said the politician's friend

"Why not?"

"Because it's merely an invitation to somebody with only six dollars' worth of brains to come along and cheat you."

Doing Things Regularly.

The Lady—I thought you said you were looking for work?

The Hobo—Well, I am, mum. But I don't want to get it right now. I'm a detective, you see, an' I'm just after clews, to-day.

"Are you at the head of your class in school?"

"Not exactly," answered the sturdy youngster, "but the boy that is at the head of my class in school isn't in my class in football."

Even the women who complains of her heart can run up a bill without getting out of breath about it.

The prices bid showed an advance of 1½c to 4½c per quarter, consequently sales of about 200,000 bushels were made and there were bids in the market for considerable more, but, owing to the scarcity of lake and ocean grain room for August, exporters could not accept them. There was also a better demand for oats for export account and sales of several loads were made. The local demand for American corn was good and sales of 125,000 bushels were made, prices ranging from 68½c to 69½c per bushel, ex-store, to arrive. The export trade in spring wheat flour was more active and sales of about 20,000 sacks were reported. The local demand continues fairly good and the undertone to the market is steady. MONTREAL, July 26.—At the Canadian Pacific Live Stock Market this morning the offerings of live stock were 500 cattle, 625 sheep and lambs, 1525 hogs and 500 calves. The demand was better and a fairly good trade was done, but really good to choice cattle were rather scarce. Choice steers sold at 6c to 6¼c; good, at 5½c to 5¾c; fairly good, at 5c to 5¼c; fair, at 4½c to 4¾c, and common at 4c to 4¼c per pound. There were a number of cows on the market, which brought from 3½c to 4¾c, and bulls, from 3c to 5c per lb., as to quality.

The tone of the market for small meats was very firm, but prices show no actual change. The demand was for good supplies. Sheep sold at $4.50 to $5; lambs, at $2.75 to $5, and calves, at $3 to $8 each, as to quality.

John W. Harding

Copyright, 1908, by G. W. Dillingham Co.

Beth, her hair twisted into little wave knots with queer pins and attired in a pink wrapper, joined her.

"Why don't you get your things on and come with us?" urged Emma. "Jimsy will be here at 6 o'clock."

"Me? North mountain? No, thank you! I had enough walking yesterday. I'm going to church; mother's coming too. We didn't go last Sunday, and the whole park will be gossiping if the family isn't represented sometimes by some one or other. They'll think we're all pagans. Besides, I'm going to wear the new gown Jimsy brought up for me from the dressmaker's. Wasn't it lucky he was coming? It wouldn't have been here till Tuesday or Wednesday. That man's always on hand just when he's wanted. Won't those Parsons girls stare!"

Jimsy walked down through the laurel bower.

"Beth," he said by way of salutation, "that's the most common sense mountain climbing outfit I ever saw."

"It's very rude to make remarks about people's clothing when they're not dressed to receive," she retorted "You're not privileged to express any opinion. It's too early. But it's quite impossible to stay abed with Emma carrying on as if it was the middle of the day. She's been humming all over the house since 5 o'clock, and all that because she's going for a climb."

"Why, she hasn't slept a wink thinking of her new dress," laughed Emma.

"Well, Beth, by the time you've got your halo out of curl and settle down in your pew," observed Smith, "we shall be several hundred feet nearer the other cherubs, listening to the solemn anthems of the whispering pines. Yes, I said 'the solemn anthems of the whispering pines.'"

"It's a treat to go walking with you. I know you love it."

"Jimsy, if I didn't know different I'd suspect you of being a poet. The next thing we know you'll be wearing your hair long and pouring out your soul in Sapphic strophes, like—like Emma, here."

"I don't know that I've sampled that particular brand of strophes, and I ain't quite sure that I know just what strophes are, but if Emma thinks they are all right I'll stand for 'em."

"Oh, come on, Jimsy; don't listen to her nonsense," laughed Emma.

They started out briskly, Emma showing the way.

"Do you know, it's a real treat to go walking with you," she said. "I know you love it. I've heard you say so. Beth can't bear long walks, and, as for mother, she rarely goes farther than her piazza rocking chair. But I've dragged Beth about and learned every path through the woods to the summits and plateaus. This is the second summer I've been here, you know."

Deserting the beaten path, they ascended through forests of trees of every description, but as they proceeded along the path, in places ankle deep in wet moss, and pushed through underbrush that kept Smith busy breaking a way for his dainty but hardy and seemingly tireless companion they came into the fir region, amid hoary giants that shot sheer to such a height that they seemed to form pillars for the canopy of the heavens. Emma regarded the great trees with awe, but Smith laughed. He told her they were as saplings compared with the mighty trees of the west. He tried to describe these and became filled with the fever of immensity. The long unfelt influence of the borderless prairies, the mammoth mountain chains far flung through the prodigious spaces of the sunset lands that diminished their proportions, was upon him. His soul strained to burst its tethers and soar upward into the infinite, where it could expand unrestrained. Burning words, never used, unimagined before in his unlettered mind, adequate to depict this liberated spirituality, surged tumultuously to his lips—to die there.

For the source of their inspiration, of this tremendous flight into the divine azure from his regulated role of the commonplace and coldly practical, was the woman at his side, the one being in the world who was dear to him and ever had been, whom he held in little less reverence than he did his Maker.

He broke off his description of the forest giants and vast freedoms of the west with a conclusion in his ordinary street surface language.

"But there—it's no use me trying to do any lecture platform stunts. I wasn't born with the gift of the gab, Emma, them things have got to be seen to be appreciated. There's no other way. You understand."

Yes, Emma understood.

She had listened to his brief, unsuspected eloquence and had read his soul in the light of the celestial flicker that had emanated from it; had seen the glory of it in his face—a glory transient as a beacon flash, that was gone from it, leaving only his habitual noncommittal smile, as he turned to her and said, "You understand."

They continued the climb in silence, Emma's bosom rising and falling rapidly upon the rush and swirl of the torrent that raged beneath it, almost sweeping her self control before it Jimsy indeed loved her! Why had this chance revelation of what her intuition had divined long before torn open the flood; [illegible] tions? Because [illegible] vibrating every chord of her being, and every chord of that being, as she had come to understand also, was attuned to his. Together they had beheld the mirage of heaven.

At the upper edge of the forest labyrinth they emerged on to a rocky plateau studded with dwarfed firs and balsam pines, but covered thickly with aromatic ferns and blueberry bushes.

Jimsy bared his head to the cool breeze that swept the clearing and watched Emma, who, with a little cry of delight, had stooped among the blueberry bushes and was gathering a handful of their ripe fruit. She was glad of the pretext to hide the upheaval in her heart that she felt must show in her eyes.

This upheaval, sudden and almost overpoweringly violent though it was, was not of the morning's forming. She had known the calm, sympathetic westerner—as he had reminded Captain Williams—ever since she was a girl in short frocks. She had soon come to look upon him as a big brother, with whom she shared her girlish troubles and in whom she confided freely, naturally, as a matter of course. When she had become a woman and he had sought her for his bride she had not been able, with all her liking for him, to bring herself to consider him in the light of a lover.

After the scales formed there by the blandishments and personal pulchritude of Brooks had fallen from her eyes and she saw that she had bowed down to an empty, painted fetich of plaster instead of to God in the flesh she had resigned herself to the lot destiny had brought her and sought to make the best of it like the pure woman she was. Household drudgery and the stern verities of her existence had vanquished and put to flight all her illusions. Love was a delusion. It was not what she had conceived it to be. It existed in perfect, ideal form only in the imaginings of the poets and litterateurs. Had any one suggested to her that Jimsy Smith was the depository of it, that his heart was the altar on which the sacred fire burned unquenchable, that under the crust of his unemotional manner was a quiescent volcano of passion that could be roused to stupendous eruption, she would have laughed.

CHAPTER XXI.

As she had grown wise and come to look upon Jimsy's visits as pleasant breaks in the monotony of her existence, however, she had obtained glimpses of his inner self, flashes of the profundity of his mind, an inkling of his elevation of sentiment that escaped him, in spite of himself, quite unconsciously. Her woman's keen perception had divined a spirituality that was buried purposely by speech and conduct. This had interested her and given her food for thought, but she could find no satisfactory explanation. The clew to the mystery, which, truth to tell, interested her but mildly, had come to her first on the evening of her husband's attack on Captain Williams in the little Harlem flat, when, after he had let fall and smashed the cup, he had remarked a little ruefully that he had let slip everything he had ever had in his life that was worth while. The confirmation of her deduction that his unrequited love for herself had been the death of ambition and accounted for his aimless, lonely existence, which she had been inclined to reject as absurd, was obtained on that momentous night just before her husband extinguished utterly and forever the few embers of love for him that still were live. After he had told her the story of his life in his quaint, everyday speech and her heart had gone out to him in that burst of irrepressible sympathy the consternation this had caused him had uncovered his secret as in a book, for in that moment she had seen beyond the mere start of timid modesty.

BRINGING SACCHARRISSA TO REASON.

By Mary Mathewson.

"What on earth does the girl want, do you suppose?" grumbled Saccharrissa's father. "Londale's a decent chap as you'll find in a day's march straight and well groomed, an'—an' all that, with a good income of his own, too. What does she expect?"

He glared indignantly at Saccharrissa's mother.

"She says she doesn't love him," said that lady placidly.

"Love! Bosh! Childish nonsense! Well, of course, I don't mean that exactly"—he had the grace to blush a little as he caught sight of his wife's face. Then he laughed rather consciously, as he bent forward and patted her hand, a hand as pretty and as white as Saccharrissa's own.

"I was six months younger when you persuaded me to marry you—without bridesmaids or anything," began his wife, and I chuckled to myself, for their runaway marriage had been the romance of the neighborhood in my early boyhood, and the glamor of it seemed to cling to them even yet.

"No," he asked in evident surprise, "were you really?"

"Do you mean," I struck in incredulously, "that you were six months younger than Saccharrissa is now when you ran away?"

"Shut up, Jim," said Sinnett, eyeing his wife's blushes with tender amusement "You don't understand. She had an old termagant of a father who wanted her to marry—"

"A very decent fellow with an income of his own, too," interrupted Mrs. Sinnett, with dignity.

"Quite so, only you preferred me."

"But six months younger than Saccharrissa?" I interrupted their reminiscences ruthlessly.

And they disappeared by one door as Saccharissa entered by another.

She stopped when she saw me, with a blush. Then she came forward with a saucy smile.

"Where's my marble-hearted parent gone?" she demanded, with a giggle.

"Don't be ridiculous, Saccharrissa," I answered sternly. "You know very well that your father only desires that you be happy, and—and all that. Marble-hearted, indeed. He's much too soft, I think—"

"Oh, oh!" in a would-be shocked voice. "I'll tell him you said so. To his own daughter, too. I'm surprised at you, Jim."

"Go on," she said. "Get it over. They've told you to give me a talking to, I know."

"Saccharrissa," I said impressively, "I want to bring you to reason. But I can't," I went on desperately, "while you sit looking at me like that."

"Then I'll get down," she responded amiably enough, as she did off the table and stood a little way off facing me. "Now, what is it you want to say?"

"What's — what's the matter with Londale?" I blurted out as awkwardly as any schoolboy, "that you can't—"

"Mr. Londale? Nothing that I know of. He was as right as a ninepiece when he left me just now," with the air of innocent surprise. "What should be the matter with him?"

"You know very well what I mean," I stammered miserably. "Why won't you—your father has asked me—don't you think—"

"I think," said Saccharrissa with most disconcerting dignity, "that my friendship with Mr. Londale is no business of yours, Mr. Fenton."

"I knew I should put my foot into it," I groaned dismally. "Only look here, girlie, I have known you since you were a baby almost, and—and I'm sure you'll believe that I am anxious for you to be happy and prosperous as if I were a relation—your uncle, say—"

"Why not say grandfather?" interrupted Saccharissa. "You are quite twelve years older than I am, I am sure."

"Never mind that. It isn't a matter of years. I've had centuries more experience, and you can take it from me that exceptionally good fellows like Londale are scarce. He's rich, you know, and—and your father and mother—"

Oh, why had I been such a fool as to undertake such a job of this kind? It was getting dusk, but I could see that her face had gone quite white.

"I had a letter from a man yesterday telling me what a good turn Londale had done him. I'll show it to you, shall I? It's a regular testimonial in its way.

I look it out of my pocket-book and turned over the contents hastily. My hands were shaking absurdly, and before I knew it the book had slipped to the floor and the contents were scattered in all directions.

There was a folded packet in that book that I valued more than anything else in the world.

"Have you got them all?" she asked presently, in tones of icy politeness.

"I'm afraid not," I answered, turning the papers this way and that on the floor. "There was a little folded packet—of no value to anyone but the owner." I laughed nervously. "It seems to have disappeared. Can you see it? You know what a short-sighted bat I am."

"I do," she said, meaningly.

Then she stooped and picked up something that was lying near her feet. It had fallen open, I could see. She bent and looked at it, and there fell a silence that seemed to me to last for a hundred years.

At last Saccharrissa turned, and said with sobbing intake of breath:

"Why—why don't you speak for yourself, Tim?"

After a minute's hard battling with my conscience, I held out my arms hungrily.

"You deserve to be shaken instead of kissed," she said.

But the words were muffled from the fact that I was holding the dear head so close to my heart, I suppose.

"Pretending you wanted me to marry Londale, indeed."

"I didn't. I didn't. I should have drowned myself if you had. But how could I dream you'd care for me? I'm so much older and I haven't half his money." I answered in the delicious delirium that comes only once in a lifetime. "Tell me, darling." I said presently, "how did you guess so quickly from that?"

For "that" was just a plain piece of paper, containing the words, "Burnley Woods, June 18th," and a tiny piece of heatherbloom withered.

"Because"—"because—well, look at this."

There was a little tug at a gold chain around her neck, and a silken bag was brought to view, warm and fragrant.

She opened it and showed me a folded piece of paper. "Burnley Woods, June 18th. He loves me," were the words it contained, and a tiny sprig of withered heather.

Of course, we had exchanged the little tokens, I knew; but it had been done laughingly and carelessly on her part, "for luck," and I had deemed it lost long ago.

"Well, Fenton, what luck have you had?" said Saccharrissa's marble-hearted parent from behind us.

"A million times better than I expected," I answered. But I'm afraid you won't think I've brought her to reason, sir. I've only—"

"Brought her to happiness," answered Saccharrissa.

"And that's the best thing in the world," said her mother, folding her in her arms, and looking at me with shining eyes over her daughter's head.

Advise a man to submit to a dangerous and unnecessary surgical operation, and he will probably do it. But advise him to exercise in the open air, and look to his diet, and he won't do it.

Dear Sir,—The results, to hand on my policy in your Company, No. 31787 are so eminently satisfactory, that I consider it a duty I owe both to your Company and the public to say so.

The fact that I have received all the money I paid, during the past twenty years into your Company back, except $617.20 and receive in addition a fully paid up policy of $2,000.00 on my life, still drawing profits EVERY YEAR hereafter, besides having had $2,000.00 of protection for the past twenty years, is too good a thing to hide under a bushel. I therefore desire to let my light shine and reflect a ray of satisfaction and pleasure from the great Sun Life Assurance Company.

I desire to thank you most sincerely, and to heartily congratulate your Company on such a splendid result.

I am,
Very respectfully yours,

MONARCH OF THE WAVES

Mr. W. McIlroy Was One of Visiting Party on the Olympic

The mammoth White Star liner "Olympic," which sailed for Europe yesterday morning, was visited a few days ago at her moorings in New York harbor, by some six hundred passenger agents of steamship lines throughout the United States and Canada, who were much impressed with the whole proportions and magnificent equipment of the great ship.

Mr. W. McIlroy, local passanger agent, was amongst the guests who went over the leviathian and afterwards partook of the banquet provided by the White Star line for the visitors.

Mr. McIlroy states that the few hours spent on board the "Olympic" were entirely inadequate to make a thorough inspection of the vessel, and he could only give, he said, a few of the features which had particularly impressed him. One of these was the size of the staterooms, which were as large as rooms in most well-appointed houses. So great is the ship's bulk that rolling is practically unknown, and none of the chairs on board require to be permanently fixed to the deck. Three large elevators give a continuous service to each deck. Berths are not found on the ship, which has double and single beds instead, while wardrobes have been fitted into many of the ladies' rooms.

A thirty-foot swimming pond, into which a constant stream of sea water is kept running, a squash racquet court, a well-equipped gymnasium, and a real Turkish bath are amongst the conveniences for health and exercise provided. The promenade deck has an unbroken sweep of 171 yards.

The health of the captain and his ship was proposed by Mr. Hone, one of the Canadian agents at the banquet, which was held on board in the evening.

COUNTY COURT CASES ENLARGED

Will Come up for Hearing This Afternoon

The two cases concerning non-payment of wages which came up before County Magistrate Edmison at eleven o'clock this morning, were enlarged till 3 p.m. to-day. The complainant, Edward Fountain, was not present, hence the enlargement.

The charges were laid by Fountain against William Whitfield and George McGowan, with whom he and his wife hired.

G. N. Gordon is acting for Whitfield. From a statement in court this morning it appears that the complainant and his wife were afraid of the turkeys on the farm while they were engaged at Whitfield's.

FOOLHARDY TRICK OF TWO YOUTHS

Were Racing With Fire Team on Their Bicycles

While the fire-brigade were annihilating space this morning on the run to extinguish the blaze on Concession street, two small lads mounted on bicycles took the notion to see if they could race the fire team. They plugged away for all their worth, but could not keep ahead and the driver of the truck, fearful lest the boys should be run down, was forced to slacken speed. The boys with considerable foolhardiness persisted in keeping in front of the horses and were almost run over. Chief Howard caught the two lads, and after the fire was extinguished, he brought them to the police station where they were given a lecture that they will remember for some time by both the Chief of Police and Chief Howard, of the brigade, and allowed to go home and looked greatly subdued.

BAD ODORS FROM THIS BONE YARD

Charlotte Street Resident Brings Complaint to Court

A rag and bones deal was sifted out in police court this morning. It appears that Dr. Amys, on Charlotte street, objects to the unpleasant odors that drift into his house from the old bones and rags in Abraham Low's junk yard at the rear of his residence. When the winds blow in certain directions the stench is decidedly repellant, according to the medical man's evidence. Under some conditions the odor is almost unbearable.

Dr. Amys said that the green bones stored there caused the smell, but Abraham stated that he had no green bones there now. The practitioner also said it was a detriment to the health of the neighbors. He had frequently communicated with Dr. McPherson, medical health officer, in reference to the nuisance.

Dr. McPherson, who was in court, testified to having had Low up to his office in connection with keeping such quarters without permission. He wanted Low to select a site in another place to continue the work, and when he had selected one to let him know.

Chief Thompson said that other complaints received about the same thing, all referred to Low's place.

His Worship enlarged the case for two weeks to allow G. N. Gordon, who appeared for the defendant, and the medical health officer and Low, to try and arrange matters to the satisfaction of the disputants.

TEN DAYS TO PAY REGULAR FINE

Blacklister Admits Offence and Suffers Accordingly

A black-lister was arrested in an intoxicated condition yesterday in a public place and appeared before Magistrate Dumble this morning, when the charge was read, he admitted that it was true, and pleaded guilty.

"Well there is nothing for it but $10 remarked His Worship.

"Will you give me time," prisoner asked.

"Yes, I'll give you ten days to pay it in, and in default of payment ten days in jail."

OBITUARY

Deceased had only been a resident of North Monaghan for the past three years, having spent a considerable time in western Canada. His wife, the late Ellen Fowler, predeceased him eighteen years.

The late Mr. White was a consistent member of the Charlotte street Methodist church, and was well and favorably known by a large circle of friends.

Those left to mourn his loss are two sons, Everett, Minneapolis; Wm., North Monaghan; three daughters, Miss Annie, Lindsay; Miss Agnes, Milton, Ont.; Miss Ellen, North Monaghan, and two sisters, Mrs. Stinson and Mrs. Lillico, North Monaghan.

G. H. Howson, Esq.,
Peterborough.

Dear Sir,—Miss Might, cook, aged 24, fine strong girl, wants to get out to Canada. Six years, good character, cannot raise enough money. Do you know anyone willing to forward £6 towards her fare. Quite willing to work it out. An early reply will oblige,

Yours truly,

Played in Omemee

A section of the 57th regimental band, under the direction of Mr. Rupert Gliddon, went to Omemee last evening at 6 o'clock, to play at a largely attended garden party held there under the auspices of the Omemee Methodist church.

Their playing was much appreciated. The band returned home about twelve o'clock at night.

Bright Pupils

Five Indian pupils of the Mohawk Institute wrote in the recent entrance examinations and all were successful. Principal Ashton and teachers at the Institute are justly proud at the outcome, which is all the more meritorious when it is remembered that the pupils are not familiar with English when they commence their studies.—Brantford Courier.

MR. BOGUE SAYS HE DID NOT THROW UP WORK ON SEWER

He Claims He Stopped Operations at the Request of Mr. Chipman.

Mr. James Bogue takes exception to several statements made about him in connection with the sewer work in the south end of the city. To the Review this morning Mr. Bogue said that he did not quit the job, on his own accord but was asked to stop work by Mr. Chipman.

The trouble he says was that a sink hole was encountered and the pipes could not be connected properly. Then at the request of Mr. Chipman he ceased work, to allow of another level being made if possible.

At the present time, Mr. Bogue says his men, tools and machinery have been given over by him to be under the direct supervision of Mr. Chipman.

He further states that he had been blocked in his work, by the machinery having been placed in the pumping station, this having stopped him from using the station, as was his intention, to pump the water from the sewer.

If with Mr. Chipman in charge, the work is completed satisfactorily, he will stand for the cost of the work, but should failure be met with, the city will have to stand good.

Mr. Bogue would like to have it understood that he did not throw up the job.

FATHER SPRATT OF TRENTON ARCHBISHOP OF KINGSTON

Semi-Official Report That He is Gauthier's Successor.

Ottawa, Ont., July 26.—That Rev. Father Michael Spratt, of Trenton, Ont., has been appointed Archbishop of Kingston has been learned from semi-official sources here.

Rev. Father Spratt, who has been parish priest of Trenton for some years, and is a man of middle age, was in Ottawa yesterday to see Archbishop Gauthier, but has left for his home.

The See of Kingston has been vacant since Mgr. Gauthier, its former occupant, was appointed Archbishop of Ottawa. At the time of the appointments rumors were circulated of the division of the local archdiocese and the reduction of Kingston to a bishopric. It now develops, however, that this will not be done. Father Spratt, it is said, is to be appointed archbishop of that archdiocese.

Official announcement of the appointment will probably be made in the course of a few days.

EDDIE MANN BURNED OUT IN GRAND FORKS FIRE

Most of His Drug Store Stock Was Saved and His Loss is Light.

Grand Forks, B.C., July 26.—A disastrous fire swept over the main business portion of Grand Forks yesterday. At 4.10 a.m. when, the fire was discovered, it was burning so rapidly that at 6 o'clock an entire block was a mass of burning cinders. Owners of various stores saved nothing, owing to the intense heat. The total loss cannot be estimated at present, but is figured roughly at $1100,000.

Mr. Robert Mann has received word that his son Eddie, who is in the drug business at Grand Forks, lost his store, but was able to save the greater portion of his stock and is in a position to continue business at once. What stock was burned is covered with insurance.

Eddie's many friends will be glad to learn that the misfortune which visited the town, did not fall very heavily upon him. The premises which he occupied were only rented by him.

MR. PAT KILLEN RETURNS FROM PORCUPINE DISTRICT

Car of Dynamite Exploded Near Him and His Companions.

Mr. Patrick Killen, a former Ennismore resident, returned last night from the scene of the late fires in the Porcupine district and has some interesting accounts to relate.

He was employed in a mill which was destroyed by the fire and with some others he was compelled to seek the Lake as a means of protection. Once while on the edge of the water, a car of dynamite exploded.

For four nights Mr. Killen slept in the open and later got a tent. When he left South Bend there were as many as three hundred and fifty tents in the course of erection.

When asked about the distribution of the provisions which were sent to the relief of the sufferers, Mr. Killen stated that a tent could be had by applying at the office where the distribution was being carried on.

Mr. Killen left this afternoon for his home in Ennismore. He intends taking a trip to Western Canada before returning to the Porcupine District.

INCREASE IN PRICE OF COAL ON THE WAY

Local Dealers Get Notice of Change in Freight

Local coal dealers have been notified that on September 1 freight rates on coal will be advanced 10 cents per ton on Canadian railways. It is also announced that after September 1 anthracite coal will cost dealers 30 cents per ton more, due to the advance on Aug. 1 of 10 cents a ton, the usual advance of 10 cents a ton on September 1, and the extra 10 cents now demanded by railways on freight rates. Price of coal, it was stated, would consequently go up to consumers.

LEAFS BEAT ORIOLES AGAIN; TIGER PITCHERS HIT HARD

Delahanty Hit for Circuit With Two On—Athletics Won From Naps.

Toronto, July 27.—The Kelleyites made it eleven in a row yesterday by trimming the Orioles, but, unlike the two previous exhibitions, the game was a battle all the way, owing to the shaky disposition of two of the Leaf twirlers—Mueller and Tesreau, and it was not until the third had been introduced in the person of Lester Bachman, was the game anyway sure. Seven to six was the score, with Joe Delahanty the bright and shining star with the hickory. It was Joe who tripled in the first inning and sent in the initial run for the locals, and a minute later came home himself on a passed ball. Joe's single scored another run in the second, but his best effort and the one which came at a most opportune time was in the seventh, when, with two on the bases, two men out, and the Birds two runs to the good, he picked one right down to the left field bleachers. Walsh made a vain effort to nail the ball, and the chances are if it had struck his glove it would have went into the bleachers, but, instead, it rolled down the side, and before the relay came to the plate three runs had crossed the platter, and the Leafs were one to the good, which margin they held to the finish.

Washington, July 26.—All pitchers looked alike to the Nationals to-day, and the Detroit Tigers were easy picking, 13 to 5. Jennings used up four twirlers in an attempt to stop the slaughter. Dixie Walker was hit freely, but was effective in the pinches. Milan contributed a sensational catch in centre, which saved a couple of tallies.

Philadelphia, July 26.—By reason of James' wildness in the first inning of to-day's game with Cleveland, the Athletics scored 4 runs, which gave them the lead and start enough to win 6 to 5. Morgan was relieved by Plank in the third inning.

Harriman Told Him.

Harriman had an almost supernatural instinct for knowing what was going on and who was doing it in the mysteries of stock manipulation. Once when Southern Pacific had been going up fast, Harriman and various banking houses buying in concert, he called up on the telephone one of his private brokers. "Somebody is selling," he said. "Yes, sir," was the answer. "Well, hand the market 25,000 for me." Immediately he called up the head of a banking firm much interested in the market. "Who's selling Southern Pacific?" he asked. "I don't know; we haven't been able to find out," was the answer. "I'll tell you," snapped Harriman; "it's your house." And he cut off the connection before any reply to him could be made.—Exchange.

LOADED BUCKET FELL ON MEN

Cable Snapped and One Man May Die

Toronto, July 27.—One man was seriously, probably fatally injured and another had his right leg broken, when the cable hoisting a muck bucket from the trunk sewer excavation at Front and York streets snapped, and allowed the heavy bucket loaded with earth to fall upon them.

They are Benjamin Jefferies, English, 512 West Front street, who had his right leg broken, and George Tourkare, an Austrian, 52 1-2 Teraulay street, who was crushed about the hips, probably having his spine broken. Both are in St. Michael's Hospital, where the Austrian is not expected to recover.

The heavy bucket was being hoisted from the excavation and the two men stood at the top of the shaft to swing it to a wagon on which the earth was being loaded for removal. Just as they had swung it clear of the opening the cable by which it was drawn up, snapped, for some cause unknown, and the great bucket, heavily loaded with earth from the excavation, dropped upon the men. Tourkare was crushed against the wagon and considerable difficulty was experienced in extricating him. Both were hurried to St. Michael's hospital in the police ambulance. Had the cable snapped a moment before it did both men would have been carried with it to the bottom of the shaft.

COMPANY BLAMED FOR HIS DEATH

Live Wire of Electric Light Co. Killed Wm. Spence

Toronto, July 27.—Coroner Dr. Wigham yesterday afternoon concluded the inquest into the death of William Spence, who, on the 18th of July was electrocuted at the corner of Bloor and Christie streets. The man was a lineman in the employ of the Bell Telephone Company, and while working at the wires was killed.

The verdict of the jury was that Spence came to his death by coming in contact with a live wire, the property of the Toronto Electric Light Company. A rider was also added to the effect that at that spot the wires of the Toronto Electric Light Company were not properly insulated.

Evidence was given by men who cut the wires and the wires with the insulation as they were found were produced as evidence. This showed clearly that the lines had been rendered dangerous by the insulation wearing off.

THIRTY PEOPLE IN ONE HOUSE

Unsanitary Discovery Made at Ottawa, in Foreign Section

Ottawa, July 27.—Investigation by the civic sanitary inspectors has revealed grossly unsanitary conditions and congestion among the foreign residents of the western section of the city, and Dr. Sherriff, M.H.O., declared to-day that he was taking action to make these people assume a healthier mode of living.

In some small houses the M.H.O. declares, as many as 30 persons are cooped up, several people living and sleeping in each room. Ottawa may have no slum district, but these conditions certainly resemble the state of affairs that exist in slums, and the M.H.O. is now carrying on a personal investigation. He will give orders wherever he finds undesirable conditions, and he maintains that the health department is vested with authority to have these conditions remedied.

Various nationalities are represented in the throng living in the congested section described by Dr. Sherriff.

BRIDEGROOM WAS PLUCKY

Went for License With Bullets in His Body

New York, July 27—William Murray, who is widely known in Yonkers as a Democrat politician, former pugilist, and keeper of a saloon, was shot three times to-day at 226 West Forty Sixth Street by Miss Ray Mitchell, because he had announced that he had come to New York to be married, and this afternoon, with two bullets still in his body, he went to the City Hall with Miss Helen Combes, of 120 Ashburton Avenue, Yonkers, and got a license to marry her. At about the same time Miss Mitchell, was admitted to $2,000 bail in the West Side Court for examination on a charge of attempted murder.

She shot him in her house. She fired five shots, and of the three that took effect, one struck him in the right shoulder, another in the left cheek and the third in the right hand. Murray went directly to Flower Hospital, after making a complaint against the woman at the West Forty-seventh street station, but he remained only long enough to have the bullet removed from his face. The surgeons wanted to take the other two out, but he said he had to hurry down and get a license because he intended to be married to-night. It was pretty tough for a fellow to be shot up on the day of his wedding, he thought.

You have all remarked the difference between the circus bill and the performance. Possibly you have abused the circus man for exaggeration but the circus men are not much worse than other men in making their bills greater than their performance.

THAW'S MOTHER STILL FIGHTING

Has Not Given up Hope of Seeing Son Freed

Fishkill Landing, N.Y., July 27—Determined to make another effort to secure the release of her son, Harry, Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw, of Pittsburg, mother of Stanford White's slayer, has resumed her residence here. Another superintendent of the Matteawan Asylum for the criminal insane to replace Dr. Lamb, resigned, is to be named during next week. As soon as he assumes his duties, Mrs. Thaw, will ask for the examination of her son, as she believes he is now sane.

She will offer, if he is released in her custody, to engage a guard to accompany him at all times.

Mrs. Thaw insisted this evening that she had given up everything but her charitable work to make one last desperate fight for Harry's freedom.

"Harry is patient, and is displaying splendid courage," she said, "and we are both hopeful that the change of administration of this prison, for prison it is, will work out for his benefit Our plans are being completed now but premature publicity might defeat us."

When she was asked whether Harry and his wife, Evelyn, who saved him from the chair by her terrible self condemning story on the witness stand had patched up their differences, Mrs. Thaw said:

"When she testified at White Plains that she feared if Harry secured his freedom he might kill her. So she is dead to the entire family. We hold no communication with her."

How to be a Hero

A man named Leach proved yesterday that given a strong barrel and a vast quantity of luck it was possible for a human being to go over Niagara Falls and not be killed. Ten years ago a woman made the same demonstration but science apparently failed to either appreciate or take advantage of it. Leach doubtless hopes for better success and it is easily possible that he may attain it. Ever since one "Steve" Brodie proved that it was possible to become a hero, and a money-making hero, by jumping from the old Brooklyn Bridge, there has been no dearth of those who have been willing to adapt his recipe for living without working to local conditions. It is probably no more senseless to go over Niagara Falls in a barrel than it is to fly under the suspension bridge in an aeroplane, or to race around a half-mile track in an automobile, or to do any one of a dozen other spectacular and popular "stunts" which have, as their basis in human interest, the probability of fatal results. We regard with amazed horror the brutal and degraded Spaniards who still maintain bull-fights in spite of the protests of worthy people in Great Britain, Canada and the United States, and yet the mortality of the bull-ring is not half that of the ordinary automobile race and there is a certain skill and activity required in a successful toreador which would be quite useless to a local hero who achieves fame by shooting Niagara Falls in a barrel.—Montreal Star.

THE CURSE OF THE NATION IS CONSTIPATION

"Fruit-a-tives" Alone Cures This Disease

A famous scientist states that Constipation, or non-action of the bowels, causes more deaths than all other diseases combined. Constipation inflames the Kidneys, ruins digestion, is the foundation of Rheumatism, poisons the blood, causes Headaches, Neuralgia, Nervousness and Insomnia.

Constipation is caused by a weak or sluggish liver. Bile, the only purgative of the body, is secreted by the liver, which in turn should pour out into the intestines sufficient bile to move the bowels. Unless the liver is active, there cannot be enough bile to move the bowels regularly, and Constipation is the result.

"Fruit-a-tives", the famous fruit medicine, will always cure Constipation because it acts directly on the liver—relieves the congestion—increases the quantity of bile—and strengthens the bowel muscles.

50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial size, 25c. At all dealers, or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

Country Town Sayings

By Ed. Howe

Men never remember details of dress. When I was a reporter there was a marriage of general interest. I appealed to the preacher who officiated, and asked him to discribe the dress of the bride and groom. "All I remember," he replied ,"is that the woman wore a dress, and the man pants."

Unless he is her husband, a woman is usually good natured and polite with a man.

I sometimes fear it is necessary for a man to be rude occasionally, in order to get his rights.

I have known nearly all varieties, and have concluded that the meanest man is the man who becomes impudent because of ill treatment; and most of us do it.

After a man passes fifty it is impossible for him to get up any enthusiasm about anything except his troubles.

When you are tempted to do wrong this is the thing you should think about; It isn't what the neighbors will say: it isn't what your friends will say; the important thing is, you can't afford it.

Washington and Lincoln were so good that I am tired hearing of them.

There is always a good deal of wrangling when a pretty girl's looks are mentioned.

What is there about simple truth and common sense that is so repugnant to people.

I have heard women say they didn't object to smoking, but I have never heard a woman say she didn't object to chewing.

MOUNT JULIAN

Special Correspondence.

Mount Julian, July 24.—A particularly sad death occurred on Tuesday last, which has cast a deep gloom over this community, when William R. Spence was instantly killed in Toronto by a live wire. Mr. Spence was a teacher by profession, but went to Toronto last spring and started to work for the Bell Telephone Company. On Tuesday last he was stringing a cable suspended in a sling attached to a wire above him, and was being pulled along from point to point by a fellow-workman, when by some means the wire sagged, coming in contact with an electric light wire, which immediately fused, the ends flying apart. Mr. Spence threw out his left hand ,trying to guard himself, but being fastened in the sling he was helpless and unable to avoid touching the wire. He immediately doubled up. It was some time before the body could be lowered to the ground, and then water had to be thrown over the still smoking clothes. An inquest was held on Wednesday evening in the morgue, and on Thursday the body was conveyed to his wife's home at Mount Julian.

The late Mr. Spence was 35 years of age. He was born and educated at Norwood. He came to Burleigh in January, 1902, to teach, and was very successful in his work. He taught here three successive years, then going to Apsley school. He was married to Miss Lily Reid, daughter of Mr. L. Reid, eight years ago. He was a member of the I.O.F., and a Conservative in politics, but took no active part. His was an enterprising straightforward and useful life. He was well known and highly respected and his death will be much regretted.

Besides his sorrowing widow and two small children, he leaves a father, two brothers and three sisters to mourn his loss. The bereaved friends have the entire sympathy of the whole community.

The funeral ,which was largely attended, took place on Friday morning from his father-in-law's home, to Warsaw cemetery, the pall bearers being his five brothers-in-law ,and one cousin. Service was held at the house and at the grave by Mr. Mutton, student in charge of the Apsley circuit.

SIR WILFRID LAURIER.

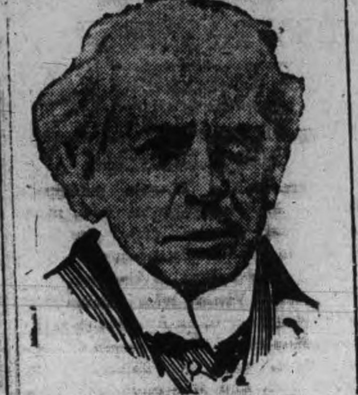
Sir Wilfrid Laurier has been 39 years in Parliaments. He first entered the Quebec Legislature in 1871, being returned from the constituency of Arthabasca. He was there reelected in 1874. Three years later he entered the Cabinet, with the Portfolio of Inland Revenue, but was defeated by a small majority, upon presenting himself for re-election. Quebec East then returned him. This constituency has been Sir Wilfrid's ever since.

Upon the successive retirements of Mr. McKenzie and Mr. Edward Blake, in 1887, our present Premier, became leader of the Liberal and then Opposition Party. When it came into power in 1896, he naturally became Prime Minister, which position he has so honorably held for such a long period.



SIR WILFRID LAURIER.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier was born on Nov. 20 at St. Lin in the county of Assomption. Here his father practiced his profession of land surveyer. His mother's maiden name was Marcelle Martineau, Sir Wilfrid being the only child. She died soon after his birth. In 1868 the Premier was married to Miss Zoe Lafontaine of Montreal.

As a man is the product of his education, let us consider what has aided in producing Sir Wilfrid Laurier The motherless boy attended school in his native parish till the age of twelve. He was then sent to the Protestant School at New Glasgow for a year. Here he imbibed the first draughts of his splendid broadmindedness. From this school he went to L'Assomption College, remaining seven years. In 1861 he matriculated into McGill and graduated in law, being the valedictorian of his class.

No man in Canadian public life has received more attention at the hands of political caluminators. In forty years, however, no opponent has been so base as to utter a slander which touched his personal honor, the purity of his private life, or the righteousness of his character.

Since the Governor-General instituted dramatic and musical competitions in this country, culture of the two great arts has made great strides and there is no doubt but that in the near future stars will arise to do credit to Canada, but our great actress, Margaret Anglin, was born before the days of inducement. This great exponent of the drama was born in that centre of political strife—the House of Commons—when her father was speaker in 1876. After a good education in Toronto and Montreal she entered the School of Dramatic Acting, of New York, making her professional debut at the early age of eighteen. Since then she has had many triumphs taking leading parts with E. H. Southern, Richard Mansfield and Henry Miller.

Farmers' Bank Sponsor

Mail & Empire

Mr. Fielding's course in the matter of allowing the Farmers Bank to break into the business of the country is in much need of defence, but it will lose rather than gain by such championship as the principal organ of his party brings to it. The organ lays about it in such a way as to do more damage than service to the Minister. It rails at the Provincial Treasurer of Ontario for trusting any of the public money to the keeping of the bank. The province suffered no loss in consequence of the Treasurer's confidence in an institution for whose license to carry on a banking business the Treasury Board of the Dominion is responsible. Colonel Matheson took it for granted that the bank had fulfilled every requirement of the Dominion law providing for the incorporation and licensing of chartered banks. Why should he have had any doubt as to the original soundness of the institution, and as to the recitude of the Dominion Government in the matter of authorizing it to open its doors and take the people's money? It had never been hinted that a bank holding a Dominion charter had obtained it irregularly, or had got its certificate upon statements that would not stand criticism. There was never a suspicion that bank promoters could evade any of the strict requirements of the law through "pull" or favor of any kind whatever. Colonel Matheson like all the people who deposited their money in the Farmers Bank, took it for granted that the same conscientiousness, the same precautions, ruled at the official ushering in of the institution as at that of other banks. But the organ would have its readers believe that the Provincial Treasurer ought to have had suspicion of the crookedness that Mr. Fielding and his colleagues of the Treasury Board allowed to pass unchecked. Such a defence of the Finance Minister only deepens the reproach that he has brought upon himself by his failure to protect the public in this case. It is a serious reflection on the Dominion Government to say that at the time of its greatest activity a bank whose certificate it issued was one that the Provincial Treasurer of Ontario ought to have considered unfit to be trusted with the relatively small sum of $35,000. In its zeal to help, the organ has hurt the Finance Minister, and in its desperate efforts to turn censure on the Provincial Treasurer it adds insult to the deep injury that all the unfortunate depositors of the Farmers Bank have suffered. If the Provincial Treasurer is to be attacked because he showed faith in the Dominion Government's handling of the banking business of the country, then all the depositors of the Farmers Bank are targets for the organ's abuse. From other sources they get nothing but sympathy. If Col. Matheson ought not to have trusted the bank, why did Mr. Fielding allow it to come into existence, and why did he allow it to continue?

We all promise more than we can perform.

NO MORE TRIPS FOR BOBBY; TELLS OF JOURNEY IN BARREL

Has Realized His Ambition and is Willing to Quit Taking Chances.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., July 27—Though badly battered in his barrel trip over the Horseshoe Falls yesterday afternoon, Bobby Leach of Niagara Falls, Ont., was suffering no serious effects from the thrilling adventure. No bones were broken. However, he will be confined to his bed for some days to come.

Asked this morning if he would again attempt to navigate the cataract, Leach said:

"Let me tell you, once is enough for any man; no more for Bobby. It may be, though, that I will some time try a parachute drop over the bloomin' big tumble."

Leach is through too, with barrel trips through the whirlpool rapids and the whirlpool, which he has navigated four times. His doctor said to-day that it would be at least a week before Leach would be able to get about for his legs were badly hurt.

This is how Leach describes the trip:

"When I left home yesterday I told my wife I'd never again put my foot on Canadian soil unless I came over in my barrel. I made good. I want to say right here that I'm through with taking chances on my life. I've done a good many things that make insurance companies unwilling to take me as a risk. When I came here fourteen years ago. I made up my mind to go over the Falls sometime. I realized that ambition to-day.

"When I made my start from Navy Island I was afraid the police would try to stop me. They had made threats. The Canadians wouldn't let me start from Chippawa, the American authorities also thought I was attempting suicide. In fear that the police would interfere, I ordered the men in the rowboat that towed me out into the river to cut tow line before I fastened manhole cover fastening, which I had placed on inside of barrel in case I wanted to go out before the men below the Falls could reach me.

"After I had screwed down the cover, I secured it, fastened my harness and lay on the canvas hammock that stretched from end to end of the barrel.

"It seemed to me that the barrel was rolled over a million times in the rapids above the Falls. The trip through the rapids was worse than the plunge. I've gone through the Whirlpool Rapids more times than anyone else, but I never had such tossing as I got to-day. It was a tough trip, tough enough to shake the life out of a man.

"The farther down the river I came the more the barrel rolled. Once when I struck a great wave my barrel was tossed upon a rock and I thought it was stove in. About two quarts of water rushed in, but I afterwards found that the water came through air holes. The rock put a great dinge in the barrel and squeezed my left leg frightfully.

"After that experience I didn't know what to expect next, but I grabbed the steel brace above my head with both hands. That saved me from having my legs driven right up through my body by force of the drop over the falls.

"For the past three weeks I certainly have been up against it. In experimenting with the barrel I made the whirlpool rapids trips in, I lost my old craft in an eddy below the falls. Then I had a new barrel made. Canadian customs officials handed me a lemon when they made me pay duty on it to bring it here. The Canadian police squeezed out the juice when they threatened to arrest me if I started from the Canadian shore. When I had to take the barrel back to God's Country, the police there sent up a howl and started after me. I had my barrel, and not a soul but myself knew where it was last night. It was hidden on the shore of Navy Island Thank God I put it over on them all and made the greatest trip of my life.

My barrel has been brought safely to the upper river bank and is on its way here, they tell me."

PITIFUL CONDITION OF MOTHER AND SIX CHILDREN

Husband is in Jail—Were Were Sent to Toronto From Here.

Toronto, July 26.—There was a pathetic scene in the police court corridors this morning when Mrs. Charles Wilder arrived with her six small children from Peterborough.

Her husband had been sent down for six months and Mrs. Wilder was sent on to Toronto when it was found her husband culd not support her in Peterborough.

She was weeping in the corridors when Jacob Cohen, J.P., appeared on the scene. He could do nothing to get the husband back, but he promised the woman she and her family should be looked after till Wilder came out. The elder children are to be sent to the Children's Shelter, where the Jewish Benevolent Society and the Salvation Army will look after the mother and younger children.

Mrs Wilder and children were sent to Toronto from this city by some of her friends. She had been dependent on charity for some time and was being looked after here by Hebrew friends.

AFTER PROMOTER OF LIBRARY VOTING CONTEST SCHEME

Secretary of Retail Merchants' Association Prosecuting George Green Under the Trading Stamp Act—Has Contest in This City.

Picton, July 26.—Friday, Aug. 4th, a prosecution will be instituted against the promoter of the library voting contest, a scheme that has been worked out, it is understood, in many places throughout the province, and which is now going the rounds in eastern Ontario towns, including Picton, Belleville and Napanee. E. M. Trowern, of Toronto, Secretary of the Dominion Retailers' Association, has laid a charge against a man calling himself George Green. The charge is based on the law, regarding trading stamps, to which this proposition is declared akin. The scheme is to give away a library by vote, the votes being obtained with every ten cent cash purchase from the merchants who are in the scheme. Thirteen merchants here have taken up the idea. It is said that Green collected $455 from the Picton stores on the contest. He put up the library, which has been valued in the neighborhood of $50.

The authorities here are endeavoring to locate George Green, whose address is said to be 18 Toronto street, Toronto.

---

The voting contest is in progress in this city. Some time ago when Mr. Trowern was here, in the interests of the local Association, he intimated that steps would be taken against the promoter of the contest, and apparently he has made good his intentions.

EDMONTON AND THE SINGLE TAX

Does Not Want to go Back to Old System

Edmonton, July 26.—Edmonton may be called the home of the single tax. Though the name of Edmonton has been on the map for more than 100 years, the period of its larger growth may conveniently be dated from 1904, the year the city charter was granted. In the charter the principle of the single tax was adopted as the basis of assessment and taxation, that is, taxation on land values only, with no tax on improvements, and this being now the sixth year of its operation it is of interest to inquire how it works out and how the people like it.

The single tax idea was modified by the addition of business and income taxes but the trend of opinion here is towards taxation of land values pure and simple, and it is probable that in a few years' time the business and income taxes will be discarded.

The people like the system. One hears no sentiment at all in favor of going back to assessment of buildings or improvement values. It is simple and easy of administration and equitable in results. It prevents or at least tends to prevent the holding of land vacant for speculative purposes. Two pieces of land equally well located, one vacant and the other with a million dollar building on it, would contribute outside of the business tax exactly the same amount to the city funds; so that one can see that the holding of land vacant or with cheap light, revenue producing buildings is not apt to be a profitable venture for any great length of time, and in the long run it will not pay to hold on to unimproved town sites. Outside the business centre it costs no more taxation to carry improved revenue producing property than it does vacant land similarly situated, and that fact alone must in the long run result in a compact, well built up city; and it is as well a factor to be taken into consideration in the purchase of outlying lands in the corporation.

Paris Reporter is Attempting Great Journey

Paris, July 26.—Andre Jagerschmidt, the Paris reporter, who is trying to make a circutit of the globe in 42 adays, telegraphs the following to the Excelsior:

Krasnoia, Russian Siberia, July 24, 7.41 a.m.—My round the world trip continues on time. In a few minutes we leave for Irkutsk. Tomorrow night I expect to be on the shore of Lake Baikal. I shall welcome the relief from the monotony of the Siberian steppes, which are frightfully warm.

SAW TWENTY FIVE PRESIDENTS

Aged Daughter of American Revolution Found in Cabin

Atlanta, Ga., July 26— Mrs. Mary Trawick Proctor, aged 111 years, a real daughter of the American Revolution has been discovered in a humble one-room cabin in Bartow county Georgia. Her only companions are her daughter, Miss Mary Proctor, aged ninety, and two great-great grandchildren, descendants of another daughter. Mrs. Proctor has lived under the administration of twenty-five Presidents.

On a bedding of straw, consisting of a mattress so thin that the rough plank slats can be seen, this daughter of the Revolution lies, her form emaciated, skin wrinkled and almost a skeleton.

Her aged daughter administers to the wants of the little household and sometimes tills the soil in a small cotton and garden patch nearby. The meagre profits derived from this labor she adds to the $12 a month pension Mrs. Proctor receives for the services her husband rendered in the war of 1812.

A movement has been started in Atlanta to raise funds sufficient to provide for the two aged women for the rest of their lives.

DOCTOR SAYS HE CAN WEIGH SOULS

Detroit, Mich., July 27.—Dr. Duncan MacDougall, of Haverhill, Mass., who has long been a student of psychical phenomena, declared his belief, in an interview here yesterday, that the human soul weighs from one half ounce to nearly an ounce and a quarter, and further, that the soul substance is blended with the protoplasm of the brain and spinal cord in life.

Dr. MacDougall says it has been his experience in a dozen instances to watch a dying man or woman stretched on a bed that was part of a delicately adjusted scale, and to hear, as the patient's last breath leaves the body, the noise of the dropping out of the weight.

Again, sitting in a darkened room, he has watched a strong ray of pure white light rest along the body of a dying man, covering him like a silver bar from feet to head, and over the face. Dr. MacDougall believes that this ray of light is the soul substance.

LILLIAN GRAHAM GETS THE BOUNCE

Phoney Story Refused by Manager of Snow

New York, July 27.—Lillian Graham's statement to attract publicity to bolster up a failing theatrical act has failed. When she showed up today at the local theatre, where she, with her shooting companion, Ethel Conrad, has been appearing, she was greeted with complaints of "coarse work," and told her engagement terminated Saturday night. She told a story of being held up by a dark man with a bag, who kidnapped her in an auto, and of coming to her senses in a hotel. The clerk of the hotel says she was all right when she came there, and spent her time in her room, meanwhile getting a corps of bellboys busy running errands.

COBOURG MAN IN INTERESTING CASE

George Haynes Married Woman Now in Limelight

Montreal, July 27.—The principals in the McDougald-Hayne love, marriage and divorce affair are well known in several Canadian centres.

The young woman in the case, formerly Alma Vicera, who it is claimed is the daughter of an Australian archduke, who married a baroness of lower degree, came to Toronto as a young girl, and was educated in a convent there.

At sixteen, when in New York, she met George Hayne, a Canadian graduate of the military college at Kingston. He came from Cobourg. They married and came to Montreal. He represented R. M. Baurer, the financial firm of London and New York.

Justin McDougall met them and when Hayne got into difficulties and went to New York, he went to New York with Mrs. Hayne and baby Hayne. Later divorce proceedings were instituted there by her, and when Justin McDougall came to Montreal, his father, A. W. McDougall, former Ontario lawyer and one of the original holders of La Rose mine, had him put in St Joseph's Asylum.

He takes a kinder view of the case to-day, and may allow his son out without court action going further.

Two attempts were made to release McDougall. The first was when Mrs. Hayne went to the asylum in an auto, and when refused her mission to see him, left chocolates for him. In the box were a file and a message that an auto would wait next night. The guards heard of the file and saved the situation. The second attempt was at night when guns were fired to drive away the rescuers.

Toronto Restauranteur Fails in His Appeal

Toronto July 27.—Judge Morson heard the argument in the appeal of Emil Brooker against his conviction for selling cigarettes on Sunday, and he upheld Magistrate Kingsford's decision.

Arguing for Brooker, James Haverson, K.C., claimed that cigarettes were part of the business of a restaurant, as much as cigars were part of the business of a hotel.

"The primary object of a restaurant," said Judge Morson, "is to supply food, and I cannot hold that cigarettes are either a food or a refreshment. A person might, although I don't hold that he could, sell cigars or cigarettes, as incident to a meal, even if that meal only consisted of a sandwich or a piece of cake."

The appeal was dismissed without costs to the appellant.

When a man is punished for wrongdoing he usually claims he was an innocent bystander.
